HEALY TO CONTEST NORTH LOUTH

DUBLIN, Feb. 11.— Following the decision of the court declaring the seat held by Mr. Richard Hazelton vacant under the corrupt practices act, Mr. T. M. Healy, K. C., announced his intention of contesting North Louth division, which, previously to the last election, he had represented for eighteen years.

Mr. Healey's chief opponents are the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, who now practically control the United-Irish League, branches of the order being established all over the country. It is against the sectarian character of the Hibernian movement that Mr. Wm. O'Brien and Mr. T. Healy have mainly grounded their opposition to the Irish party in recent years. The most exciting contests in Ireland in recent years have been those in North Louth, and the coming election promises to be one of the most bitterly contested fights of modern times. The Irish party claim to have a majority on the new register against "Tim" and every effort will be put forward to secure his defeat.

The late Mr. W. E. Gladstone regarded Mr. Healey as the most brilliant speaker on the Irish side during the famous home rule debates, following the conversion of the Grand Old Man to the side of the Irish self-government.

Mr. T. Healy will have the powerful support of Mr. Wm. O'Breen during the impending campaign.

DEER HAD FIGHT WITH AN EAGLE

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Adrift in the middle of the Hudson river on a floe of ice which was being carried down the stream by the tide, a wild deer, late yesterday engaged in battle for more than an hour with an eagle which hovered over the animal.

Hundreds of passengers on New York Central trains witnessed the strange sight. Residents of Tarrytown who have lived along the Hudon river for decades could not recall having witnessed such a spectacle.

Unless the ice floe breaks up or is carried out of the open channel, the deer should reach New York before Monday. Scores of photographs were taken by those gathered along the river. Boatmen believe the deer will be captured alive by some party further down the river.

BALDHEADED MEN

Getting Scarcer Every Year.

Ninety-nine times in one hundred baldness is caused by dandruff germs which dig down deep into the roots of the hair, destroy its vitality and cause it to fall out.

If you have dandruff, the little invisible, persistent devils called dandruff germs are at work. Destroy them at once, or sooner or later they will cause your hair to fall out and you will be compelled to take your place in the baldheaded class.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by J. V. Doyle to stop falling hair and itching scalp and to drive out dandruff and kill the germs, or money back. It is the most delightful hair dressing in the world not sticky or greasy. Large bottle 50 cents.

Restores Prince to Favor.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans, who incurred the displeasure of King Alfonso of Spain, his cousin, by marrying Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg in July, 1909, has recently been fully restored to royal favor at Madrid.

The princess remains a Protestant, but Prince Alfonso is now again in full enjoyment of all his titles and privileges at the Spanish court. His official residence, however, is still Coburg. The prince is 25 years of age and his wife is 27. Their marriage took place secretly, with the consent of the bride's mother. The prince and princess have since spent much time in England. Princess Beatrice is first cousin to King George.

No New C.P.R. Stock.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Although rumors have been floating about St. Francois Xavier street to the effect that a new issue of C.P.R. stock is at hand, it is believed that there will be no new issue in the near future. The rise in the stock is partly due to short interests in London, and also to the splendid outlook generally. In fact, there is no need of an issue just now, as the company has already sixty millions in the bank, or quite enough to provide for any new expenditure that may be contemplated this year.

No Advance In Tourist Rates.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—The Grand Trunk Railway has given definite notice to the other eastern roads of its intention to stand pat on the reduced summer tourist rates, which have been in force during the last two years. In the opinion of many eastern passenger officials, the action effectually puts a stop to the plans of some of the roads to advance the rates this year.

St. Catharines, Feb. 13.—For assisting an alien to enter Canada, Paul Mungarten, a Toronto merchant, was fined $50 by Magistrate Rathbun at Bridgeburg. Mungarten brought Samuel Goldman of Buffalo across the river, it is understood, in order to have him work at tailoring in Toronto. Goldman was let off with a $5 fine.

OUR MONTREAL SPECIAL LETTER IMMIGRATION RUSH COMMENCES EARLY

St. Lawrence Route in Danger—Church Insurance—Barber Before Royal Commission—Women to the Rescue

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—The immigration rush to Canada for 1911 is on. The advance guard from England will arrive some time this week. Scouts have alredy put in an appearance to look over the ground. The Grand Trunk, the C. P. R., and the C. N. R. have all carried on an unprecedented campaign this winter to secure immigrants in Great Britain for their respective territories in Canada, and this is already showing its effect in the tremendous rush of bookings for all boats coming to Canada this Spring.

The starting of the rush of immigrants the first week in February is eloquent of the popular feeling in for Canada as a land of opportunities for the immigration agents discourage as much as possible the coming of settlers to this country before March.

DAMMING OF THE ST. LAWRENCE.

Shipping interests in Montreal, both going and inland navigation, are very much upset just now for two reasons, and, if one may judge from casual observation, their alarm is just for the causes of their worry is of national importance. One is the attempt of the Aluminum Company of America, a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil, to obtain permission to dam the Long Sault rapids near Cornwall. Permission in the shape of the passing of what is known as the Malthy Bill through the Harbor and Rivers Committee of Congress has already been obtained in the United States, and it is understood that any amount of lobbying is being carried on at Ottawa to prevent any move on the part of Canada's Parliament to delay the scheme. Shipping interests contend that if the dam were built the St. Lawrence would be ruined as a navigable waterway from the head of the lakes to the sea. There is one consolation, however. Sir Wilfrid has promised that before the Government would agree to the damming of the St. Lawrence from shore to shore there would be a full investigation of the project.

Then there is another proposition on the tapis which also affects the St. Lawrence, and, which, so far, has been kept mighty quiet by those who are anxious to have the work done. It is the building of a dam on Lake St. Francois, which will give a larger flow of water into the Beauharnois power canal. The Canadian Light and Power interests who have the water rights at Beauharnois have found that they require more water.

The navigation interests claim that if the plan they have in view is carried out, the water in Lake St. Francois, the Lachine Rapids, and even further down the river, will be lowered by at least twelve inches. This project will also be investigated by the Government before any further work is allowed.

As may be seen, both are of great interest to the whole of the Dominion as anything which may affect the St. Lawrence route will affect practically every city, town and village in the Dominion, in one way or another.

DIOCESAN SYNOD OPENS.

Clergymen from all over the country turned to Montreal this week, when the annual meeting of the diocese opened its fifty-second session. In the routine of the business which was discussed, there is one of particular importance to all churches of the English faith, although, if carried out, it will be somewhat of a blow to the business community. It is a motion presented to the Synod by Mr. J. M. Fisk, suggesting that the church undertake its own fire insurance. The motion reads: "That this synod, recognizing the advantage that would accrue to the various parishes of the Church of England, in Canada, by forming a mutual fire insurance union to co-operate in carrying the risk on all church property, such as cathedrals, churches, rectories, parsonages and their outbuildings, colleges, church-schools, halls, etc., throughout the various dioceses of the Dominion of Canada (or such dioceses as may desire such union) recommend and authorizes its delegates to the General Synod to bring the subject before that body at their next meeting, with the view of forming such a union."

BARBER'S TESTIMONY.

That the familiar "hair cut and shave, sir?" is not the only qualification required by the modern barber, was brought out at the Royal Commission on Industrial Training, when one of the witnesses reminded the commission of the period when the barbers and the surgeons' profession were one honorable guild, this witness declaring his intention to follow his practice of remedying skin complaints in cutomers whether the medical profession objected or not. The Comission, which has been touring Canada, with a view of getting information on industries and commercial pursuits of one sort or another, has been sitting her for the past two weeks. Most of their enquiries in this city have been directed towards the child labor laws, and their enforcement in the factories of the east. The Commissioners leave shortly to continue their investigations abroad Professor J. W. Robinson, the chairman, says that the report to the Government will be a voluminous one.

WOMEN TO THE RESCUE.

Women in Montreal have organized a movement for the betterment of the people and the observance of laws. The women state that the men are too busy with their commercial business to attend to this movement, and they intend to go ahead unaided. Ten women who have started this movement, all of whom are good house keepers, met at the home of Mrs J. Clark Murray, 20 McTavish St., and after discussing the many nuisances they are subjected to throughout the year, by the unnecessary ringing of door bells, decided to form themselves into a band and start a war upon the shopkeepers, and others who intrude their business into private homes, by bringing the sample printed slips or other things, which the housekeepers claim are unnecessary.

Children Injured

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a life lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Two sizes of packages, 10 cents and 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Belleville only at our store. —The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown's.

There are times when the average man would like to write a little un written law for himself.

Two Burned to Death.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—An overheated stovepipe caused a fire yesterday morning in the boarding-house kept by Joseph Phillips, aged 70, on Prince street, and Phillips, with one of his boarders, Michael McMahon, aged 47, lost their lives. John Quinlan, who had retired to rest fully dressed, was almost suffocated when he awoke to find the house in flames. The heat was so intense and the smoke so thick that Quinlan made a hurried escape through one of the windows on the stairway, and raised an alarm. Quinlan's face and hands were badly burned. When the brigade arrived the fire was quickly extinguished. Groping their way through the house, the firemen discovered the dead bodies of Phillips and McMahon, and also the body of Mrs. Phillips, aged 70, who was lying unconscious on the dining-room floor. She was taken to the General Hospital, where last night her condition was considered serious.

Roughly Handled.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—John H. Roberts, the secretary of the Dominion Alliance, had an exciting experience in the early hours of Sunday morning. While conducting a raid on a dance hall at the corner of Montcalm and St. Catherine streets, where liquor is alleged to have been sold, and city policemen in uniforms are said to have been seen drinking, Mr. Roberts and three private detectives, who were with him, were roughly handled. The liquor they had seized was taken from them, and in a row that ensued they were considerably outnumbered and handed some hard knocks. One of the private detectives received a cut from a flying bottle, another had a revolver taken from him, and Mr. Roberts was struck on the head two or three times.

The names and addresses of those implicated in the affair have been taken, and complaints will be laid and warrants issued for their arrest.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

RYAN PASSES AWAY.

Archbishop Dies After Plucky Struggle to Live.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—The gallant struggle of Archbishop P. J. Ryan for life has failed. The venerable prelate of the Roman Catholic diocese of Philadelphia passed away at the archiepiscopal residence at 4.08 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after an illness that became serious nearly two weeks ago.

Weeping relatives and priests surrounded the bed when the famous church leader breathed his last. They had been hastily summoned when the patient's heart began to fail at 11 o'clock. The physicians knew that death was near and the last rites for the dying were administered.

In the words of one of the attending physicians, the aged prelate's heart had "practically worn out."

An indefatigable worker, he never had spared himself, and the illness that prostrated him shortly after Christmas was the result of over-exertion. From the first his attendants recognized that the gravest danger lay in the probability of heart failure, and stimulants to keep that organ strong were almost constantly administered.

Had Archbishop Ryan lived until the 20th of this month he would have been 80 years old.

The funeral will be held on Thursday and it is expected to be attended by practically all the prominent clergy in the American hierarchy who can reach Philadelphia in time. The body will lie in state at the cathedral and will be entombed back of the altar of the great church, beside those of Bishop Egan, Bishop Conwell and Archbishop Wood, who were his predecessors in the diocese. This was his wish.

Until Archbishop Ryan's successor is appointed Rev. Prendergast, D.D., V.G., titular bishop of Scillio and auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia becomes administrator of the archdiocese.

Patrick John Ryan was born in Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, Feb. 20, 1834. His family was distinguished in Irish history, being descended from the O'Ryans, prince of Irdone. He came to America at the age of 21, and became a professor at Canondelet Seminary.

When the failing health of Archbishop Kenrick demanded a coadjutor's assistance, Ryan was appointed to that position in 1872.

In January, 1884, he was appointed archbishop of Salumis, and on Aug. 18 of the same year archbishop of Philadelphia. He was formally installed Aug. 20, 1884.

Oxford, Me., Feb. 13.—In fulfilment of a compact alleged to have been made with her husband during his lingering illness, which death ended Saturday, Mrs. Linwood S. C.N.R. ROUTE SETTLED

Location of Ontario Section of Road Is Announced.

It Will Leave Rideau Junction and Run Very Near to the Georgian Bay Canal — Follows Ottawa River on Quebec Side For Some Distance—Wealth of Farming, Timbering and Mining Country.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—The survey of the main line of the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, extending from Ottawa to Port Arthur, has been completed, and the exact location of the road, as decided upon by the company, was given the press on Saturday night. It is believed that the work of construction will be commenced this year, and that the road will be open for traffic at the end of three years.

The Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, which name is given to that portion of the C.N.R. transcontinental line running through the Province of Ontario, commences at Rideau Junction on the Toronto-Ottawa branch, now under construction, and crossing the Ottawa River at Fitzroy Harbor, will continue along the Ottawa Valley on the Quebec side, and runs through Pembroke and Petawawa to North Bay. Continuing, it will pass up the Vermillion Valley and great clay belt of the Algoma district to Lake Nipigon, and thence to Port Arthur, where it connects with the C.N.R. proper.

Taking the Ottawa Valley as its route, it will run in close proximity to the proposed Georgian Bay Canal at many points. At first it was believed these two highways would work in opposition to each other, but upon further consideration of the industries and utilities served by each, the C.N.R. decided that far from interfering with one another, they will be complementary, and both necessary to the full development of the district through which they pass.

The Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, although exploiting a new country, will make five crossings of other roads, and in every case overhead.

The new line will leave Rideau Junction some six miles southwest from the point of entry into Ottawa, and will run directly west through the Village of Bells Corners, through the rich and comparatively undeveloped country in March and Torbolton Townships, unserved by any existing road, and cross the Ottawa at Fitzroy Harbor to the Quebec side of the river. By taking this route the company hope to encourage manufacturing establishments at the magnificent water-power at Chats Falls, such as have been promoted by inferior powers on the Mississippi at Carleton Place, Almonte and Galletta, and on the Bonnechere at Renfrew.

At Portage du Port the railway will again cross the Ottawa at the foot of its greatest individual drop of one hundred feet, which means not less than 150,000 horse-power.

It then enters on the Ontario side the Township of Ross and a little further on, Westmeath. The latter especially has a reputation as one of the best grain producers in Ontario, and its emporium, Beachburg, is prosperous in spite of its nine-mile haul to the C.P.R. at Cobbden.

Crossing over to the Valley of Muskat River it enters Pembroke from the rear, the C.P.R. having taken up the whole waterfront. Twelve miles further it will pass Petewawa, and skirting the south edge of the military reserve plunge into the wilderness by the valley of the Petewawa. This is a singular depression lying almost parallel to the Ottawa for many miles. Unlike the valley of the latter, to which the C.P.R. adheres, it is not a rock canyon, except for shore distances, but expands into great basins at Grand Lake, Lac a Traverse, Trout Lake, and Cedar Lake, with large areas of arable land.

On the river are several very fine water powers, infinitely larger than those that have built up the thriving towns of Bracebridge and Burk's Falls on the Grand Trunk. To the south and west lies practically all that is left of the pine of older Ontario. The road wil pass through one of the most attractive portions of Algonquin Park, accessible at present only by canoe or over an extraordinary rough road of 24 miles from the C.P.R.

At Cedar Lake it leaves the main river and ascends a branch which drains Lake Cauchon, thence over a low divide to the collecting basin of the Amable du Fond, another river with a tremendous fall and great opportunity for power development. The railroad does not follow the river, but cuts across to the Wistiwasing, where it again emerges from the wilderness to settled country, settlment which has pushed its way from Powassan on the Grand Trunk. The land for the next twenty miles is excellent, but most of it too far away from the railway at Powassan to be successfully cultivated.

It here diverges from the line located to Key Inlet and passing Callendar on Lake Nipissing, runs through Nipissing Junction and into North Bay. The C.N.O. propose to pass in the rear of North Bay, and, leaving the C.P.R. as soon as the topography will allow, ascend the Sturgeon and its tributary, the Kapikotiwia, and crossing the Wahnapitae River, skirt the south side of the lake and join their own constructed line at Capreol.

This last hundred miles is a country of comparatively small streams, with numerous lakes and ponds, but at the Groundhog the C.N.O. will cross the first of the large rivers. Having crossed the great central plateau the road is well over the Hudson Bay slope, and the rivers are strong, swift, and numerous. The next is the Apishkanogama, and the next Kapuskasing, having fine water-powers and a good growth of timber along its banks. This kind of country extends for some two hundred miles, in which distance the C.N.O. will cross the Missinaibi, the Kabinakagami, the Morrison, the Nagami, the Pugatchewan and the Kenogami, all strong and rapid rivers. It will also pass within thirty-or-forty miles of the great fall of the Pic, one of the finest water-powers in the country and quite comparable with the Kakabeka.

Rounding the north end of Long Lake it heads southwest for Lake Nipigon, and for thirty miles or more the country is most attractive.

The road along Orient Bay will be the most difficult for construction, and will necessitate the excavating of a tunnel 1,200 feet in length. The scenery for the next twenty miles is very fine, and the fishing probably the finest in the world on fresh water. The railway will follow a curious gorge extending from the end of Orient Bay, an ancient glacier bed half-filled with gravel and drift, past a number of small lakes and surmounting a low divide come out in the Township of Ledger, sloping towards Nipigon Bay. Ouimet and Dorion show some fine farms and thrifty farmers all clamoring for a means of getting their crops to market.

McCall Bill Gets Majority of Five Votes.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The Canadian reciprocity agreement was reported favorably, 12 to 7, to the House on Saturday by the committee on ways and means.

The committee adopted an amendment proposed by Mr. Mann of Illinois providing that wood produced in Canada may be brought into the United States free, and that products of wood, as specified in the bill, up to valuation of 4 cents a pound, may be brought in free.

The committee in its final vote to report the bill stood: For—Payne (New York), McCall (Mass.), Hill (Conn.), Boutell (Ills.), Needham (Cal.), Longworth (Ohio) Republicans; Clark (Mo.), Underwood (Ala.), Pou (N.C.), Randell (Texas), Harrison (N.Y.), and Brantley (Ga.) Democrats—12.

Against—Dalzell (Penna.), Calderhead (Kans.), Fordney (Mich.), Gaines (W. Va.), Dwight (N.Y.), Ellis (Oregon); Republicans, and Broussard (La.) Democrats.—7.

Acting Chairman McCall was authorized to make the report immediately and bring it up in the most feasible and expeditious way. It is probable that a rule will be reported from the rules committee limiting debate and preventing the adoption of amendments, although as a measure of the highest privilege a rule is unnecessary. The present expectation is that the bill will be considered by the House early next week. All reference to wood pulp and paper was first taken out of the McCall bill and combined in the following:

"Pulp of wood mechanically ground, pulp of wood chemically bleached or unbleached, news print paper and other paper and paper board manufactured from mechanical wood pulp or from chemical wood pulp or of which such pulp is the component material of chief value, colored in the pulp or not colored, and valued at no more than four cents per pound, not including printed or decorated wall paper, being the products of Canada, when imported therefrom directly into the United States, shall be admitted free of duty on the condition precedent that no export duty, export license fee or other export charge of any kind whatsoever (whether in the form of additional charge or license fee or otherwise) or any prohibition or restriction in any way of the exportation (whether by law order, regulation, contractual relation, or otherwise directly or indirectly) shall have been imposed upon such paper, board, or wood pulp, or the wood pulp used in the manufacture of such paper or board."

The committee's action upholds in its entirety the agreement negotiated with Canada, but changes the phraseology of the McCall bill, which was drafted as an administration measure to put that agreement into legislative shape.

English Colonel Suicides.

Porcupine, Feb. 13.—Col. Charles Salkeld, formerly of Yorkshire, Eng., and known all over the Northern Ontario mining camps as an English cavalry officer, killed himself on a street of Golden City yesterday morning.

Col. Salkeld was one of the most popular men in the northern district, and none of those here who knew him can assign any reason for his suicide. He has been in this county seven years, and has been engaged as a mining broker in Cobalt and later in Porcupine, owning a fine house in the former place at Crossed Lake.

The deceased was a member of one of the finest English families, and a colonel in the Imperial cavalry, being in his 53rd year. He leaves behind him a son, aged 21.

Editor Renews Charge.

Paris, Feb. 13.—The Liberator made its appearance again yesterday. Editor E. H. James gives an eight-column review of the trial of Edward F. Mylius, The Liberator's London agent, for seditious libel. He also publishes anonymous letters averring that a Catholic priest performed the alleged morganatic marriage of King George.

No Abatement of Epidemic.

IS GOOD PROTECTION

Taft Says Republican Principles Are Not Upset.

A Reasonable Measure of Exchange of Natural Products Is For the Stability of the United States Declares President, Defending His Treaty at Springfield, Ill. — U.S. Will Control Wheat Trade Better.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—President Taft defended the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada in an address before the Illinois Legislature here Saturday as the "logical conclusion" of the protection plank in the last Republican national platform.

He defined the protection theory as one that should impose a tariff not exceeding the difference in the cost of production in the United States and abroad, and allowing a fair margin of profit for the home producer. He argued, therefore, that inasmuch as the conditions of production from the United States and Canada, "were substantially the same, the widest latitude was given Secretary Knox and the commissioners who represented the United States in offering to Canada a reduction of duties on goods, and products coming into this country from Canada, in consideration of the establishment of the same duty, or freedom from duty, on similar goods going into Canada."

The President explained that it was thought wiser on behalf of both Governments not to make a formal treaty, "but to make an agreement between the executives by which each, exercising his constitutional power in his Government, should submit the agreement in the form of a statute to be enacted and to go into force on condition that a similar statute was passed by the Legislature of the other country."

"It will give the United States much greater control of the wheat market than it has ever had before. It will enable its milling plants to turn Canadian wheat into flour and send abroad the finished product, and it will stimulate the sale of manufactures and other things that we have have to sell to Canada."

The President further asserted that in removing the artificial barriers between the northwestern part of the United States and the Canadian provinces, the agreement would result in the bringing over of live cattle to feed on the corn of the American farmer. He added that the rapid increase of population in the United States required "a source of food supply like Canada, right at our doors."

"We shall be blind indeed," said the President, "if we reject this golden opportunity to add to the strength and virility of our country by thus increasing our self-supporting capacity."

The President asserted that "no step could be taken more in the interest of a reasonable policy of protection than the approval of the treaty" and that insistance on too much protection would rouse an opposition in this country "that will know no moderation." He said that was his reason also for favoring the creation of "an expert tariff commission or board."

He suggested that the tariff board might re-examine and modify other schedules if necessary, "but that a reciprocity agreement with Canada is not a revision of the tariff, and in the nature of things cannot present the balance and the adjustment of all duties against foreign countries which a consideration of the tariff as a whole would involve."

"We have taken up those things that are involved in a Canadian reciprocity treaty because opportunity offered," declared President Taft, in conclusion. "Now is the accepted time. She is at the parting of the ways. Shall she be an isolated country, as much separated from us as if she were across the ocean, or shall her people and our people profit by the proximity that our geography furnishes and stimulate the trade across the border that nothing but a useless, illogical and unnecessary tariff wall creates?"

South Ontario Liberals.

Whitby, Feb. 13.—The Liberals of South Ontario at the annual meeting Saturday afternoon elected officers and turned over to the executive committee the question of holding a convention to bring out a candidate for the Ontario Legislature. At a meeting afterwards the executive decided upon holding a nominating convention in the music hall here on the last Saturday in May.

A resolution supporting the reciprocity agreement with the United States was carried without an opposing vote. Fred L. Fowke, M.P. for this riding, in an extended speech gave an elaborate exposition of the agreement. Organizer Inwood addressed the meeting on provincial prospects.

PREPARING FOR SHOW

Old England's Court Is Busy These Days.

The Functions Surrounding the Coronation of King George and Queen Victoria Mary Are Expected to Surpass Anything Ever Done Before In England—Two Million Visitors to the Metropolis Are Expected.

London, Feb. 13.—Since the beginning of the winter the chief functionaries of the British court have been busily absorbed with preparations for the coronation of George V., which will surpass in pagentry and in historical interest all former ceremonials of the character. While the ceremony of crowning the King and Queen in Westminster Abbey on June 22 will be almost identical in form with that of which has been followed in the investiture of British sovereigns since William IV. and Queen Adelaide, the auxiliary functions are expected to exceed in pagentry and magnificence anything that the nation has witnessed in the past.

These will include the progress of the court through London on the day after the coronation, and a visit to the Guildhall with a reception of the King and Queen by the city authorities, a great naval review, a gala performance at the opera with minor celebrations and pageants, among which will be a "festival of Empire" at the Crystal Palace.

Business men and transportation companies count on an influx of something approaching 2,000,000 visitors to London during the coronation season. A considerable proportion of these will be foreigners, Americans and colonials probably predominating. Hotels are receiving many orders for accommodations, but expect to be able to cope with the invasion. The best places are being reserved for the regular patrons, and managers say that prices for the coronation week will not be more than double the regular rates for the best hotels. Boarding housekeepers are likely to be less reasonable in charges to visitors who have not made arrangements for accommodations in advance.

There is every indication that the erection of the stands for witnessing the procession to the abbey, and the progress through London will be on a [illegible] than for the [illegible] of King Edward in 1902. Owners and tenants are asking the highest prices ever quoted for building sites and windows. Rates to the ordinary applicants for seats, which usually are held at the highest possible mark until a few days before the event, are apt to go down with a rush on the eve of the coronation when speculators find they have frightened away the public.

A lively insurance business has begun at Lloyds against the death of the King or any event necessitating postponement of the coronation and against bad weather.

Dr. Davidson, the present Archbishop of Canterbury, will officiate in the abbey, in succession to the aged Archbishop Temple, who crowned King Edward.

A Richibucto School Teacher

Once a Dyspeptic—Now Well, Thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 11.

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 17th 1909.

Father Morriscy Med. Co., Ltd.,

I have been teaching school for upwards of thirty years, during the last twenty-five of which I have suffered seriously with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia.

I have tried many remedies, and while I would get temporary relief from some of them, yet the old trouble would return, and with it the sufferings only known to the chronic dyspeptic.

Last year I had made up my mind to abandon my profession, feeling that in my condition I could neither do justice to myself or to the many pupils under my charge. A friend suggested to me that I try Father Morriscy's No. 11 Stomach Tablets; I did so, and have continued to use them with the result that my stomach trouble is cured—my indigestion and dyspepsia gone and I feel as well as I ever did.

I have, thanks to the Tablets, been able to continue in my profession, and feel that I am once more enjoying my work and am able to give justice to the fifty-four pupils under my care.

Yours Gratefully,

(Signed) MARY CHRYSTAL.

If you are you cannot do better than she did—take Father Morriscy's No. 11 Tablets.

Each No. 11 Tablet, when dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1½ pounds of food—a good, hearty meal—so that no matter how weak your stomach may be No. 11 Tablets will enable you to get the nourishment out of your food and build up your strength, while the stomach, thus relieved, recovers its vigor.

MR. J. W. JOHNSON REPLIES TO EX-MAYOR MARSH

He Never Sold or Purchased a Lot—Mr. Marsh's Figures Have No Personal Application to Him—Another Profitable Business Carried on by Mr Marsh With the City—His Boldness Has Ended His Opportunities

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:—

Sir :— The Real Estate Brokerage Firm of Marsh & Price has issued a circular, which is in part a repetition of the plea made by Mr. Marsh to the City Council some weeks ago, that no investigation be made before a judge respecting the alleged plot between ex-Mayor Marsh and Treasurer Price to profit, by way of their relatives, through the sale of City lots. The balance of the circular is taken up with an attack upon myself. The first thing I desire to say is, that when I was Mayor the disposal of land forfeited to the City through default in the payment of taxes was in the hands of the City Treasurer. I never sold a lot, no man ever applied to me for a lot. There was little demand then for land abandoned by the owners, and the policy pursued by the Treasurer was to get people to take such lots, even at a nominal figure so that the City might obtain the taxes upon them in the future. In my capacity as Mayor, I appointed Mr. J. W. London to attend at auction sales of lots to see that the City's interests were safeguarded. When the Treasurer notified me that he had disposed of a lot or lots, I in my capacity as head of the Corporation, signed the deeds conveying the land DIRECT FROM THE CITY TO THE PURCHASER. The table of figures in Mr Marsh's circular have no personal application to me. In the preparation and publication of these figures Messrs. Marsh & Price have apparently confederated to deceive the public, possibly hoping thereby to create an excuse for the breach of trust that has been alleged against themselves. They utter a falsehood when they state "that lots were sold by J. W. Johnson, Mayor," and they know the statement to be false. If there is any plainer language possible than that which I have used, Messrs. Marsh & Price may consider that I have used it.

APPARENTLY ANOTHER PROFITABLE BUSINESS CARRIED ON.

Evidence has reached me which forces one to the conclusion that Mr Marsh was running another business having dealings with the City besides the one with which he and Mr. Price are said to have been associated. On the 28th of September, 1906, (Mr Marsh being then a member of the City Council) a joint stock company "Standard Gasholder and Boiler Construction Company, Limited," with head office at the office of Marsh & Henthorn, Limited, Belleville, Ont. was incorporated. The nominal capital is stated in the Letters Patent to be $40,000 in 800 shares. In the return made to the Government by this Company (as required by law) on October, 1910, L. W. Marsh is described as President. One of the questions in the Government schedule required to be answered by a company is, "The number of shares subscribed for and allotted ?" To this question the answer given by Mr. Marsh's company is SEVEN. This number of shares would represent an actual capital of THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS, but it is not stated that even this sum was ever paid in cash Can anyone doubt what Mr Marsh's object was in obtaining the incorporation of this (the reader will fill in here the adjective he thinks appropriate) Company ? What his object was and the success he achieved may be considered apparent from the following :

In the first year of Mr. Marsh's mayoralty, 1909, this company, having a paid up capital of three hundred and fifty dollars, of which L. W. Marsh was president, J. A. Marsh treasurer, and E. S. Marsh a shareholder, sold to the City of Belleville, of which L. W. Marsh was mayor, work and material to the amount of nine hundred and forty-nine dollars In the second year of Mr. Marsh's mayoralty, 1910, this same company sold work and material to the City to the amount of five hundred and ninety-five dollars, the total for the two years being fifteen hundred and forty-four dollars.

I have wondered, as many others have done, whether the proposal to form the alleged pact by which Mr. Marsh's relatives and Mr. Price's relatives were enabled through the Mayor and Treasurer to take such a substantial toll before Belleville citizens, it is alleged, were given the opportunity to purchase City lots, came from Marsh to Mr. Price, or from Mr Price to Mr. Marsh. I am inclined to the opinion that the tempter was probably Mr. Marsh. He already had a company working fairly profitably in City business, and why not engage in another branch—say real estate ? Without the assistance of the Treasurer it would be impossible for Mayor Marsh to deal in City lots, nor could he form a company for that purpose. Mr. Marsh could not expect Mr. Price to risk his position and his fair name just to oblige Mr. Marsh. Did Mr. Price unfortunately yield ? The suggestive connection formed, systematic arrangements appear to have been made by some one to carry it on profitably. The relatives were brought in, lots were sold to them by the trusted officials of the City, and, with contemporaneous powers of attorney (registered) these lots were sold to Belleville citizens at enormous profits

It was inevitable that such conduct should be found out and exposed.

The City had proved so profitable to ex-Mayor Marsh that he seems to have become bold in his efforts to get more. His boldness has ended his opportunities. It is a public duty to expose men who use public office in this manner. Throughout the Province the conduct alleged in Belleville is regarded, if true, as a wrong to the public and of a type similar to that which has been exposed in other places. The Toronto Globe in its issue of January 16th, 1911, says editorially :

> "It looks very much as if Belleville's civic Government needs the same sort of probe that was so effective in the case of Oxford's graft scandal—an investigation under oath by a judge."

REPUBLICS IN GERMANY.

Three City States Whose Constitutions the Empire Respects.

Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck are theoretically three republics which have for the mutual convenience of themselves and the empire come under the rule of the kaiser in all but purely local affairs. As they had joined the north German confederation, which was formed after Prussia's victory in 1866, there was nothing left for them to do but to give their allegiance to its successor, the empire.

Each is represented in the bundesrath, or federal council, as well as in the reichstag, and each retains the republican principle in its local legislation. The Hamburg senate may have fallen from its highest estate, but it still lives and legislates concurrently with the house of burgesses. The burgomaster of Hamburg remains the great man in the estimate of the Hamburg people, the inheritor of the great traditions of the Hansa. Bremen and Lubeck have constitutions in cousinship with Hamburg.

A wise empire respects the constitutions of these city states and refrains from any action hinting of the application of the steam roller in pursuit of harmony. The survivors of the Hansa have been more fortunate than some other republics of continental Europe. They have outlived several that had hopes of being left ignored in their republicanism.

Cracow was once a republic, but, being surrounded by Austrian possessions, was finally swallowed up in 1846, Since that time it has been a city of Austrian Poland.—Boston Transcript.

DROWNED THE MUSIC.

The Audience Was Angry, and Theodore Thomas Was Obstinate.

Theodore Thomas once undertook to raise a subscription fund for a series of concerts in San Francisco, but only $10,000 had been raised, and the enterprise hung fire. Then he announced that Emma Thursby would sing at each concert, and the guarantee fund promptly went up to $50,000.

Thomas had a rule against encores for soloists. They were allowed to appear and bow in recognition of applause, but that was all. The San Franciscans held that as it was Miss Thursby's engagement which was responsible for the raising of the fund they were entitled to encore her if they chose. Thomas, however, insisted stubbornly on his rule.

On the last night a determined effort was made to encore her. She appeared again and again, bowing her thanks, and each time the applause increased instead of diminishing. At last the audience began to shout its demands instead of merely applauding, and Miss Thursby turned to Thomas and said, "What shall I do?"

"Keep on bowing if you have to bow all night," snapped Thomas grimly.

And she went out and bowed again. This time Thomas directed the orchestra to go ahead with the final number. The audience, thoroughly indignant, shouted down the music, but Thomas was inflexible. The orchestra went on playing, utterly unheard, in a pandemonium of shouted protests. And it was probably the only time that a Thomas number fell on deaf ears.—Ladies' Home Journal.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 31 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 50 stamps.

THOUSANDS OF DEMONS INFEST EARTH'S ATMOSPHERE

TRENTON, N.J., Feb. 12.—Brooklyn Academy of Music was crowded to-day to hear Pastor Russell on the above topic. He declared that, notwithstanding our modern inventions—the telegraph, the telephone, with wires and without—the masses find it difficult to believe what the Bible teaching respecting spirit phenomena. Yet, on the other hand, there is a class growingly large, which, under the name of spiritism and psychic phenomena, are being carried away, deceived by wicked spirits who personate the dead and who give, through spirit mediums, clairvoyants, etc., various demonstrations of intelligence and of acquaintance with human affairs. This class, within the last ten years, has gathered to its number the names of some prominent scientists, both in America and Great Britain These are telling the world that they are not spiritualists, but scientists, and that they are scientically demonstrating gradually, with more and more of satisfaction, that they are in touch with superhuman intelligence.

Giving these scientists and the spirit mediums whom they use full credit for all that they claim in the way of manifestation and full credit for sincerity, Pastor Russell holds that the Bible gives a better explanation of the phenomena—a more rational one and, in his opinion, the only satisfactory explanation of the findings of spiritualists and scientists along these lines.

In heathen lands magic and black art are practiced and, to considerable extent, the demons are worshipped. In China, for instance, our ordinary firecrackers are manufactured and used in great quantities in endeavor to rid themselves of intruding spirits, who harass their lives and even make some of them insane through obsession; many of the insane of civilized lands are likewise merely obsessed. St. Paul tells us that the gods whom the heathen worship are demons and not gods (I Corinthians x:20). Again he tells of "doctrines of demons" (I Timothy iv. 1). All over heathendom these false doctrines have been more or less established, taking one form or another to suit the conditions and prejudices of the people. And who will say that Christendom has not had its share of these doctrines of demons? Who will say that some of these false doctrines did not get worked into all of our creeds of the "dark ages," both Catholic and Protestant?

JESUS CAST OUT DEMONS.

The Scriptures tell us that not only Jesus cast out demons, but that as an evidence of their authority and his authority he gave this power to his Apostles when he sent them out to preach. Everyone is familiar with the Bible narratives respecting these demons—some of them very startling. For instance, our Lord's visit to the country of the Gadarenes, where he was met by a crazed man, obsessed of evil spirits. The Master addressed, not the man, but the demons of whom a legion had taken possession, crazing their victim by their various and contradictory suggestions and commands.

A legion of them were in him and they requested that if they must come out they be granted opportunity to go into the herd of swine nearby—so anxious were they for earthy, sensuous life. Jesus granted their request, because swine-owning was forbidden to the Jew under the Law. The effect of the demoniacal obsession of the swine was to craze the herd until they ran violently down a steep place and were choked in the sea. The object of the demons may have been a desire to reside in and obsess the swine, or, possibly, by destroying the swine, to arouse indignation against Jesus (Mark v, 1-14).

Another remarkable instance was the one when St. Paul commanded the evil spirits to come out of the obsessed woman, who was a soothsayer or fortune-teller and prophesied that Paul and Silas were servants of God. Although the message was an endorsement of them, St. Paul realized that an endorsement from a demoniac source was unworthy of his Master and of his Gospel (Acts xvi, 16-18).

Spirits to-day, including mediums, freely acknowledge that many of the spirits which communicate through them are "wicked spirits" and "seducing spirits," just as St. Paul said (I Timothy 4: 1). But believing the spirits, that they represent dead human beings, the mediums naturally suppose some them good. The Bible alone tells that they are all false, and that they are not human spirits at all; that dead men are dead and know nothing and can communicate nothing, so long as they are dead, and they will remain dead until the resurrection morning, when the sleeping hosts of humanity will hear the voice of the Son of Man.

DEMONS ONCE HOLY ANGELS.

Ot one time, said Pastor Russell, all the angels were holy, Satan being first to deflect. Early in man's experience as a sinner the holy angels were permitted to have fellowship with him for a two-fold purpose:

(1) To give them the opportunity to all in their power to lift up the fallen race, so that, subsequently, it might be seen that this was impossible and that the Plan devised by God is not only the best, but the only plan of salvation for mankind.

(2) Additionally, God wished to prove or test the holy angels in respect to their loyalty to him and the principles of his government, as they never had been tested previously, because everything was harmonious and sinless.

In ancient times the angels appeared as men, assuming human bodies and clothing, etc. Note, for instance those who came to Abraham at Mamre and who ate with him, and talked with him, but whom he knew not to be angels until the conclusion of their visit (Genesis xviii). And there are many other Scriptural accounts of similar import. Be it noted, however, that all the accounts of such materializations after the flood were by holy angels, because, from that time onward, the unholy angels, on account of sin, were deprived by the Almighty of the power of materialization. They were put under restraints of darkness, invisibility. As the Auostle says, those angels which kept not their first estate. He cast down to tartarus and reserved them in chains of darkness until the judgment of the great day (II Peter ii, 4; Jude. 6). Elsewhere they are referred to as having been disobedient in the days of Noah while the ark was preparing (1 Peter iii:20.)

The Apostle declares that their sin was in leaving their own habitation. By this was meant that they preferred to live in a materialized form as human beings, rather than to live on the spirit plane, which was God's will and provision for t[illegible]e.

The New Food.

That sharks are very good to eat
  The experts are declaring,
And soon mankind their juicy meat
  Will with himself be sharing.
And then upon the sandy shore
  The salty, sad eyed sinner
Will dip into the wave his oar
  And seize a shark for dinner.

List to the beef trust's doleful wail.
  This bully of the fishes
Will be yanked shoreward by the tail
  And served in dainty dishes.
The monster man, who have been living slim
  Since prices went the paces,
This monster's tail and fins will trim
  And feed their happy faces.

So like a fable or a screed story or a screed
  From those old ancient fables
Appears this tail that man indeed
  At last has turned the tables.
Instead of furnishing the meals
  When sharks would stay their hunger,
He serves them up himself and feels
  Thereby a few years younger.

This is what poets have declared
  The law of compensation.
The shark, who man has never spared,
  Will now be mankind's ration,
And won't it be revenge for fair
  With carving knife to strike it
And serve each hungry one his share
  If we can learn to like it?

Needed Protection.

"That pretty stenographer winked at me."

"What are you going to do about it?"

"What would you do?"

"Call the police."

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

The volcanic outburst in the Delhi district might have been paralleled farther north were not the Punjab fortunate in its rulers. Sir John Lawrence was Chief Commissioner at Lahore. When that fateful telegram from Delhi was received in the capital of the Punjab he was on his way to Murree, a charming and secluded hill station, for the benefit of his health. But, like most great men, Lawrence had the faculty of surrounding himself with able lieutenants.

His deputy, Robert Montgomery, whose singularly benevolent aspect concealed an iron will, saw at once that if the Punjab followed the lead of Meerut and Delhi, India would be lost. Lahore had a mixed population of a hundred thousand Sikhs and Mohammedans born soldiers every man, and ready to take any side that promised to settle disputes by cold steel rather than legal codes. If these hot heads, with their millions of co-religionists in the land of the Five Rivers, were allowed to gain the upper hand, they would sweep through the country from the mountains to the sea.

The troops British and native, were stationed in the cantonment of Mianmir, some five miles from Lahore. There were one native cavalry regiment and three native infantry battalions whose loyalty might be measured by minutes as soon as they learnt that the standard of Bahadur Shah was floating over the palace at Delhi. To quell them the authorities had the 81st Foot and two batteries of horse artillery, or, proportionately, far less a force than that at Meerut the Britons being outnumbered eight times by the natives.

Montgomery coolly drove to Mianmir on the morning of the 12th, took counsel with the Brigadier Setuart Corbett, and made his plans. A ball was fixed for that night. All society attended it, and men who knew that the morrow's sun might set on a scene of bloodshed and desolation danced gaily with the ladies of Lahore. Surely those few who were in the secret of the scheme arranged by Montgomery and Corbett must have thought of a more famous ball at Brussels on a June night in 1815.

Next morning the garrison fell in for a general parade of all arms. The artillery and 81st were on the right of the line, the native infantry in the centre, and the sowars on the left. A proclamation by Government announcing the disbandment of the 34th at Barrackpore was read, and may have given some inkling of coming events to the more thoughtful among the sepoys. But they had no time for secret murmurings. Manoeuvers began instantly. In a few minutes the native troops found themselves confronted by the 81st and the two batteries of artillery.

Riding between the opposing lines, the Brigadier told the would-be mutineers that he meant to save them from temptation by disarming them.

"Pile arms!" came the resolute command.

They hesitated. The intervening space was small. By sheer weight of numbers they could have borne down the British.

As the ears of the startled men caught the ring of the ramrods in the Enfield rifles their eyes saw the lighted port fires of the gunners. They were trapped, and they knew it. They threw down their weapons with sullen obedience and the first great step towards the re-conquest of India was taken.

Inspired by Montgomery the district officers at Umritsar, Mooltan, Phillour, and many another European centre in the midst of warlike and impetuous races, followed his example and precept. Brigadier Innes at Ferozpore hesitated. He tried half measures. He separated his two native regiments and thought to disarm them on the morrow. That night one of them endeavored to storm the magazine, burnt and plundered the station, and marched off towards Delhi. But Innes then made amends. He pursued and dispersed them. Only scattered remnants of the corps reached the Mogul capital.

Thus Robert Montgomery the even-tempered, suave, smooth-spoken Deputy Commissioner of Lahore! In the far north, at Peshawur, four other men of action gathered in conclave. The gay, imaginative, earnest-minded Herbert Edwardes, the hard-headed veteran, Sydney Cotton, the dashing soldier, Neville Chamberlain, and the lustrous-eyed, black-bearded, impetuous giant, John Nicholson—that genius who at thirty-five had already been deified by a brotherhood of Indian fakirs and placed by Mohammedans among the legendary heroes of their faith—these four sat in council and asked, "How best shall we serve England?"

They answered that question with their swords.

CHAPTER IV.

On the Way to Cawnpore

In Meerut reigned that blessed thing, Pax Britannica, otherwise known as the British bulldog. But the bulldog was kept on the chain and peace obtained only within his kennel. Malcolm, deprived of his regiment, gathered under his command a few young civilians who were eager to act as volunteer cavalry, and was given a grudging permission to ride out to the isolated bungalows of some indigo planters, on the chance that the occupants might have defended themselves successfully against the rioters.

In each case the tiny detachment discovered blackened walls and unburied corpses. The Meerut district abounded with Goojers, the hereditary thieves of India, and these untamed savages had lost none of their wild-beast ferocity under fifty years of British rule. They killed and robbed with an impartiality that was worthy of a better cause. When Europeans, native travelers and mails were swept out of existence they fought each other. Village boundaries which had been determined under Wellesley's strong government at the beginning of the century were re-arranged now with matchlock, spear and tulwar. Old feuds were settled in the old way and six inches of steel were more potent than the longest Order in Council. Yet these ghouls fled at the sight of the smallest white force, and Malcolm and his irregulars rode unopposed through a blood-stained and deserted land.

On the 21st of May, eleven days after the outbreak of the Mutiny, though never a dragoon or horse gunner had left Meerut cantonment since they marched back to their quarters from the ever-memorable bivouac, Malcolm led his light horsemen north, along the Grand Trunk Road in the direction of Mazuffernugger.

A native brought news that a collector and his wife were hiding in a swamp near the road. Happily, in this instance, the two were rescued, more dead than alive. The man, ruler of a territory as big as the North Riding of Yorkshire, his wife, a young and well-born Englishwoman, were in the last stage of misery. The unhappy lady, half demented, was nursing a dead baby When the child was taken from her she fell unconscious and had to be carried to Meerut on a rough litter.

The little cavalcade was returning slowly to the station when one of the troopers caught the hoof beats of a galloping horse behind them. Malcolm reined up, and soon a British officer appeared round a bend in the road. Mounted on a hardy country-bred, and wearing the semi-native uniform of the Company's regiments, the aspect of the stranger was sufficiently remarkable to attract attention apart from the fact that he came absolutely alone from a quarter where it was courting death to travel without an escort. He was tall and spare of build, with reddish brown hair and beard, blue eyes that gleamed with the cold fire of steel, close-set lips, firm chin, and the slightly-hooked nose with thin nostrils that seems to be one of nature's tokens of the man born to command his fellows when the strong arm and clear brain are needed in the battle-field.

He rode easily, with a loose rein, and he waved his disengaged hand the instant he caught sight of the white faces.

"Are you from Meerut?" he asked, his voice and manner conveying a curious blend of brusqueness and gentility, as his tired horse willingly pulled up alongside Nejdi.

"Yes. And you?" said Malcolm, trying to conceal his amazement at this apparition.

"I am Lieutenant Hodson of the 1st Bengal Fusiliers. I have ridden from Kurnaul, where the Commander-in-Chief is waiting until communication is opened with Meerut. Where is General Hewitt?"

"I will take you to him? From Kurnaul, did you say? When did you start?"

"About this hour yesterday."

Malcolm knew then that this curt-spoken cavalier had ridden nearly a hundred miles through an enemy's country in twenty-four hours.

"Is your horse equal to another hour's canter?" he inquired.

"He ought to be. I took him from a bunniah when my own fell dead in a village about ten miles in the rear."

Bidding a young bank manager take charge of the detachment, Frank led the newcomer rapidly to headquarters. Hodson asked a few questions and made his companion's blood boil by the unveiled contempt he displayed on hearing of the inaction at Meerut.

"You want Nicholson here," said he, laughing with grim mirth. "By all the gods, he would horsewhip your general into the saddle."

"Hewitt is an old man, and cautious, therefore," explained Frank, in loyal defense of his chief. "Perhaps he deems it right to await the orders you are now bringing."

"An old man! You mean an old woman, perhaps? I come from one. I had to go on my knees almost before I could persuade Anson to let me start."

"Nonsense! Why is one a soldier! I would cross the infernal regions if the need arose. If I had been in Meerut on that Sunday evening, no general that ever lived could have kept me out of Delhi before daybreak. The way to stop this mutiny was to capture that doddering old king and hold him as a hostage, and twenty determined men could have done it easily in the confusion."

That was William Hodson's way. Men who met him began by disliking his hectoring, supercilious bearing. They soon learnt to forget his gruffness and think only of his gallantry and good-comradeship.

At any rate his stirring advice and the dispatches he brought roused the military authorities at Meerut into activity. Carrying with him a letter to the Commander-in-Chief he quittd Meerut again that night, and dismounted outside Anson's tent at Kurnaul at dawn on the second day!

On the 27th, Archdale Wilson led the garrison towards the rendezvous fixed on by the force hurriedly collected in the Punjab for the relief of Delhi. On the afternoon of the 30th, cavalry vedettes reported the presence of a

FELL OFF PLANK: DIED IN RIVER

WINDSOR, Feb. 13.—Stricken with heart failure just as he was about to step on board the ferry steamer Promise, at the dock here this evening, Thomas Davidson staggered off the side of the gang plank and fell to his death in the river. The body did not sink and was plainly visible to the people as it floated down the river Mr. Davidson was returning home after spending the day in Windsor his companion, J. Thompson, holding him by the arm, but as the pair stepped on the gang plank Davidson staggered from his companion's hold and fell down the space between the boat and the dock. Thompson was on the point of plunging into the water after him, and would probably have done so had it not been for a passenger holding him back. A small boat was lowered by the crew of the Promise and followed the body down the stream to the Ferry street dock, where it was taken from the water. Although Davidson was in the water less than five minutes and did not sink, Dr. G R. Cruickshank worked over the body for half an hour without being able to resuscitate him. Death was due to heart failure. Davidson was about fifty years old.

GOOD NATURED TUG OF WAR ON IN FULL FORCE

If the Name of Your Favorite is Not in the List, Nominate Her Now. as the Nomination Blanks Will be Discontinued in the Near Future—Miss Gertrude Thompson by a Grand Spurt Takes Lead in District No. 1—Miss Ethel Mather Retains Lead in District No 2

All the contestants in The Intelligencer's big one thousand five hundred dollar popular voting contest are exerting every effort to win one of the twelve or more valuable prizes offered to the young ladies who receive the largest number of votes.

To-day finds many changes in the list; hundreds of votes have been cast since yesterday, and some new names have forged further to the front.

The vote to-day is heavy, considering the short time the contest has been running, and from now on it may be expected to increase daily. See your friends, tell them you are in the contest, out to win, and want their votes.

People help those who help themselves, and if you would like to win the beautiful $400 piano or one of the other valuable prizes, it will be well for you to start to collect your votes at once. See your friends and secure their subscriptions. They have to have The Intelligencer anyway, and you may as well have the votes which their subscriptions will give you. As soon as you have secured one subscription, don't stop, but go after another; then another. Don't let your friends forget that you are in the race and before a great while you will have them working for you just the same as if they, too, were in the race.

It should be understood that persons living in one district are not confined to voting for candidates in that particular district, but may vote for any candidate in the race.

If you will work in conjunction with the Contest Manager and be guided by his advice, you will have an excellent chance to win a prize.

If your want to win a prize, get busy by asking your friends to subscribe to The Intelligencer or have them renew their subscriptions, as vote certificates are issued on all back subscriptions when paid.

Do not allow the other girl to ask for a subscription before you do, as all you have to do to get a subscription is to ask for it. Your friends are ready to help you. Do not disappoint them—ask them to-day and see how easy it is to get votes.

Don't wait—do it now.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

GAS TOOK 7 LIVES

Accidental Loosening of Rubber Tube From Pipe Was the Cause

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—A family of seven pedsons, including the father, mother and five children, were killed by illuminating gas early to-day in their little home at No. 1. Pear Street. They were Herman Berkowitz and Mrs. Rose Berkowitz, and their five children.

The family was killed by the accidental loosening of a rubber gas tube from a gas pipe running across the main living-room, and the flooding of the house with illuminating gas. Not one of the family was able to get out of bed before being overcome by the fumes, although the three youngest children showed evidence of having tried in a feeble manner to escape the overpowering gas.

A particularly sad feature of the deaths was that the oldest child, Minnie, was to have been married within a few days. The girl's trouseau was all finished, and was found hanging on the second floor. The Berkowitz family, with the exception of the father, retired about ten o'clock. The father, who attended a celebration, did not return until after 1 o'clock, and is thought to have accidentally pulled the gas tube loose.

SMUGGLERS LOSE CARGO

$50,000 Worth of Opium, en Route for San Francisco, Burned

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 13.—Fifty thousand dollars' worth of opium, which smugglers expected to get in here, went up in smoke when the British steamship Kumsang, of the India-China Line, took fire at sea, on the voyage from Singapore to Hong Kong. The details of the fire were brought by passengers on the Pacific mail liner China, which arrived yesterday.

Rev. O. W. Hankins, a missionary, who has been stationed in Bengal, India, was a passenger on the Kumsang. He says the fire broke out in the forward hold of the steamer three days out from Singapore. To add to the terror of the situation, a storm prevailed and attempts to quell the blaze were ineffective. There were only two other European passengers on the Kumsang besides Mr. Hankins, but below deck were quartered 100 Chinese, who became panic-stricken. They had to be locked up by officers, and suffered from smoke. The fire broke out in the opium chests, stowed forward with a quantity of jute, and when the hatches were removed flames burst out in a great pillar, leaping skyward. The officers sealed up the hold and ran for the coast.

MADE RAID AND FOUND THREE POLICEMEN THERE

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—John H. Roberts, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, and three detectives were badly beaten up in conducting a raid on a dance hall in the East End o the city last night.

The merriment was going on full swing when Roberts and his assistants entered. Sitting at a table drinking were three city policemen, while two others were on guard to prevent any fighting among the dancers. Roberts seized a number of bottles of liquor and was leaving the place when the row broke loose. One of the detectives drew a revolver, but it was taken away from him, and all the raiders were beaten with bottles and clubs before one of them made his escape and called assistance from a near-by police station.

This morning Roberts laid a complaint against the place and notified Chief Campeau of the conduct of the members of the force he had seen there.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

To Mayor Ackerman—"You had better SPEAK NOW."

The next big function in the mother land will be the coronation, and preparations are already well-advanced It will be one of the greatest events of the kind that the world has ever witnessed.

The production of gold in the Transvaal last year amounted to 32,079,000 pounds, or about $160,000,000. This is a million pounds better than in the year before. The working profit last year, however, was 11,573,000 pounds compared with 12,074,000 in 1909 But inasmuch as last year's profits figure out to 36 per cent. of last year's output, the mine owners must admit that, on the whole, they are not doing so very badly.

COBALT MILKMAN'S TERRIBLE DEATH

COBALT, Feb. 13.—Charles Simonstein, a milkman, was killed at North Cobalt Saturday noon by the T. & N. O. local train No. 7. He was walking on the track on which a freight train was running, slightly ahead of a passenger train, and stepped off at a curve directly in front of another train.

He was picked up on the cow catcher with every bone in his body broken and a deep hole in the back of his head. Life was extinct when he was taken off the front of the engine. Simonstein was the father of six children.

POVERTY A GREATER EVIL THAN WEALTH

A debate took place in St. Michael's Academy, Sunday evening, where a large number of the members of the T. A. S. had assembled. The following subject was discussed: "Resolved, that wealth is a greater evil than poverty." Messrs. C. J. Peppin and M. Connell represented the affirmative and Messrs. J. C. Truaisch and J. E. Lalley the negative. The judges were the following gentlemen—Messrs. J. M. Hurley, ex-M. P., F. Dolan, sr. and Jno. S. McGurn.

After a very lively and interesting discussion the judges awarded the decision to Messrs. Truaisch and Lalley of the negative.

CHRIST CHURCH HALL FORMALLY OPENED

Rather Small Gathering But a Fine Programme—Rector Recites History of the Church—Bishop Sweeney of Toronto Gave an Able Address—Archdeacon Carey Spoke of Opportunities—Clergymen of Other Denominations Gave Congratulatory Addresses

The formal opening of the new parish hall of Christ Church took place last evening. The Rector, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, was the chairman for the evening and presided over the gathering in a highly acceptable manner.

The program commenced with a piano solo by Mrs. Col. Campbell, which was rendered in her own inimitable manner. The chairman then spoke a few words in reference to a history of Christ Church. He expresed his regret at the small attendance, but he concluded that this was due to the fact that a supper was to be served the following night.

BISHOP SWEENEY.

The building was formally opened by an address from the Right Rev. Bishop Sweeney of Toronto. The speaker was tendered quite an ovation as he rose to speak. He stated that he was very pleased to be present for a number of reasons, one of which was that he was an enthusiast in Sunday School work. He was pleased to see such a handsome building to be used for S. S. and other social purposes. He contended that it was as necessary for a church to be provided with proper facilities for the training of the children, as it was for a business man to have up-to-date facilities in his business. Every church, the speaer said, should have a S. S. hall as an auxiliary, as it was a splendid adjunct to be used for social gatherings, and was also a better place for the Rector to get really acquainted with his parishioners than in merely preaching from the pulpit. He concluded a very eloquent address by giving his hearers a motto: "Do all the good you can, to all the people you can, in all the ways you can. Song, Mr. Harry McKay.

ARCH-DEACON CAREY.

Arch-Deacon Carey was the next speaker. In commencing his address he congratulated the members of Christ Church on the completion of their handsome S. S. He stated that a large responsibility now rested on the parents in availing themselves of the opportunities afforded in having such a splendid hall for S. S. work. It was impossible for a church to prosper to any great extent if it was not fully equipped with facilities for training the children. The S. S., he said, was the nursery of the church. Piano solo, Mr. Robbin.

REV. MR. DRUMM.

Rev. A. H. Drumm of John St. Presbyterian Church gave an address in which he congratulated the people of Christ Church in having a Rector with a vision, and also that his vision had been realized in the splendid hall which which they now had for the training of the children. He had a warm feeling for the Church of England, and wished them every success.

REV. DR. BISHOP.

Rev Dr. Bishop of Bridge St. Methodist Church, said he was glad of the opportunity as the representative of Methodism in Belleville of offering his congratulations on their success; any success of one denomination has always had a tendency to uplift all other denominations. He was very pleased to speak upon the occasion of the opening and trusted that God's blessing would rest upon each and every meeting held in the building, both spiritual and social. The speaker stated that it was a good thing to develop the social side of the church.

REV. MR. SMITH.

Rev. C. G. Smith of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church was called upon to say a few words, and by way of introduction, stated that it was the second time he had heard a Bishop speak. He enjoyed the Bishop's address and took great pleasure in extending the greetings of his congregation. He stated that the greatest possible benefit was to be derived from a church having a S. S. in connection for the training of the children. There was little danger, he said, of being too loyal to the S. S. He exhorted his hearers to put every ounce of energy they were capable of into the S.S. work. Solo, Miss Anna Ponton.

DR. ABBOTT SMITH.

The chairman then called upon Dr. Abbott Smith for an address, and that gentleman in rising to speak, stated that he did not intend to make a speech. He congratulated the people of Christ Church on their energy and also for their good fortune in having Mr. Blagrave as their Rector. Song, Mr. Harry McKay.

MAYOR ACKERMAN.

Mayor Ackerman was also called upon for an address. He stated that as he was not a speech-maker he would not attempt an address. He expressed his thanks for the privilege of extending his congratulations.

The choir sang a chorus, after which the singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

All the musical artists were tendered a vote of thanks for their services. Mrs. Co. Campbell was accompanist and executed the accompaniments with exceedingly good taste.

LOVE NOTES ARE TO BE AIRED IN COURT

Miss Elliot, Middleton Girl, Suing for $50,000 Love Balm—Will Produce Letters—"You are Mine," "You are Mine Forever," are Two of the Gems in the Letters

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Love Notes, post cards and anxiously worded telegrams, as well as her own tale, will be used by Miss Mildred M. Elliott of Allston to establish her claim to $50,000 balm from Fay B. Kendall, for whom she worked as stenographer and who she claims has failed in his promises to marry her.

"You are mine," "You are mine forever," are two of the aft recurring sentences in the letters which Miss Elliott declares she received from the attorney for whom she worked.

"Baby" and "Sweetheart," and "The only woman I ever loved," are some of the burning expressions which the former stenographer declares her employer showered on her in the days when she thought he intended to marry her.

"Dear Millie," reads one of the letters which the plaintiff shows, it is dated The Arlington, Bethlehem, N.H., and signed "F..K." "What kind of a jolly are you giving me about five letters to Montpelier? "I sent up there and received one letter.

"My life here is very uneventful. Nothing to do but read. It is something awful tho when I start out to ride. If I meet a bevy of girls in the road they will exclaim: "'Ain't you awful lonesome?" Now, when I see any girls ahead of me in the road, I open up the cut-out and go past them at the rate of 30 miles an hour. I have a sign board painted and hung on the rear of the car, 'Oh! My wife won't let me.' "

The plaintiff shows a post card dated Sept. 25, 1910, addressed to Miss Mildred Elliott, 11A Linden St., Allston and signed F. B. K. It reads:

"Well, here I am at Suntaug Lake Inn
Enjoying its sights and cheer;
Chicken dinners are great, I'm feeling
first rate,
But don't I wish you were here."

Here are some telegrams she says she received from Mr. Kendall when he was in New York, and expected that she was going to visit friends there during his stay:

Sept. 14, 07—"Ain't you ever coming back?"

Sept. 16, 07—"Shall expect you ready Wednesday morning."

Sept. 16, 07—"What's delaying you?"

New York, Jan. 10—"Meet me at Back Bay Station, 8.30 this evening."

Mr. Kendall enters a sweeping denial to all of Miss Elliott's allegations. He says she was merely an acquaintance and that there wa snever any love between them.

HERMIT WITH $350,000 DIES IN NEW JERSEY

JAMAICA, N. Y., Feb. 13.—John Leahy, an eccentric hermit, is dead at his home in Lakeville, L.I. More than 70 years of age, he died on his $300,000 estate adjoining Deepdale, the home of Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

Leahy came to this country from Ireland when a boy and shrewdly purchased with his early earnings extensive plots of land in suburban Long Island.

Ten years ago he sold a part of his holdings for $350,000 and put the money into gilt-edged securities, the value of which has more than trebled since that time.

The old man could neither read nor write and was not able to sign his name. He singed hundreds of deeds and legal documents every year with his mark. Several sons will inherit his property

To Annex Canada

Senator Sherman said in the United States Senate:

"The way to union with Canada is not by hostile legislation; not by acts of retaliation, but by friendly overtures. This union is one of the events that must inevitably come in the future; it will come by the logic of the situation, and no politician or combination of politicians can prevent it. The true policy of this Government is to tender freedom in trade and intercourse, and to make this tender in such a fraternal way that it shall be an overture to the Canadian people to become a part of this Republic. . . . The settlement of the North-West territory, the Louisiana and Florida purchases, the annexation of Texas, and the acquisition from Mexico are examples of the adaptation of our form of government for expansion, to absorb and unite, to enrich and build up, to ingraft in our body politic adjacent coutries, and, while strengthening the older States, confer prosperity and development on the new States admitted into this brotherhood of Republican States. . . . With a firm conviction that this consummation most devoutly to be wished is within the womb of destiny, and believing that it is our duty to hasten its coming, I am not willing, for one, to vote for any measure not demanded by national honor that will tend to postpone the good time coming, when the American flag will be the signal and sign of the union of all the English-speaking peoples of the continent from the Rio Grande to the Arctic Ocean."

And that is the purpose which underlies the proposed tariff pact with the United States. The same purpose is evidenced in the message which President Taft transmitted to Congress in support of the pact, in which he said:

"We have on the north of us a country contiguous to ours for 3,000 miles, with natural resources of the same character as ours, which have not been drawn upon as ours have been, but in the development of which the conditions as to wages and character of the wage-earning and transportation to market differ but little from those prevailing with us. The difference is not greater than it is between different provinces of the Dominion of Canada.

"Ought we not, then, to arrange a commercial agreement with Canada, if we can, by which we shall have direct access to her great supply of natural products without an obstructing or prohibitory tariff?"

A Timely Suggestion

Canada might do worse than follow the decision to improve the conditions under which mail clerks pursue their somewhat hazardous calling. The House of Representatives has decided that by July 1, 1916, all wooden mail cars must be retired from service, and steel cars substituted for them. The steel cars are incomparably safer. They will not only guarantee the safety of the mails themselves, but of the men who have charge of them. Nearly every railway wreck demonstrates the superior safety of the heavier type of cars and many of these catastrophes also impress upon the public the dangers which are run by the civil servants in the mail cars. One of these was killed, and the other was badly injured in last week's wreck near Paris.

Because it is a high revenue producer, the Pullman car is now so strongly constructed that danger of injury among Pullman passengers is materially smaller than in a day coach. But the time will come when the public will insist upon the maximum safety for day coach passengers also. Certainly the postal clerk should be guaranteed more ample protection than at present. In a flimsily built car between the heavy engine and the heavy Pullman, he is the readiest victim when collisions occur.

IMPORTANT CASE BEFORE CO. JUDGE

Before Judge Deroche yesterday Clayton A. Crouk sued T. S. Carman for $250 commission alleged to be due for the sale of the Ontario Newspaper Plant. Plaintiff swore that he had secured on behalf of other parties an option on the plant at $12,000, he to receive $250 as commission on the sale; that before his option had expired Mr. Carman without notifying him, sold to Morton & Herity for $11,500 and that when he asked for his commission it was refused on the ground that the price for which the plant was to have been sold had not been realized. Much evidence was taken and the case occupied several hours. The judge awarded the plaintiff the full amount of his claim with costs. Porter & Carnew for the plaintiff, T. E. O'Flynn for the defendant.

IT TROVATORE AT GRIFFIN'S LAST NIGHT

A large audience gathered last night to witness the production by the Sheehan English Grand Opera Company of Verdi's beautiful opera, "Il Trovatore, which has held the stage for fifty or sixty years, and is still a favorite of the Italian people and is a delight to theatre goers generally. The high expectations were not disappointed, at least so far as the principals were concerned, it being a pleasure to listen once more to the luscious music, capably rendered by competent vocalists. The whole performance was of a highly meritorious character.

HOCKEY.

TRENTON IS OUT.

WHITBY, Feb. 13.—The most brilliant game of hockey played here in years, and, many think, the most brilliant game ever played on Whitby ice, was witnessed by a big crowd here to-night, when Whitby Intermediates added one more to their unbroken series of victories, defeating the Trenton team by a score of 13 to 5.

The first ten minutes of play and the whole of the second half was simply whirlwind hockey. The home team far outclassed the much bigger Trenton men in speed, stick handling, combination and shooting. The only thing that saved the visitors from a worse beating was the brilliant work in goal of McGiffen, who was superb. Waugh for the home team won the unstinted admiration and praise of the crowd by his rushes, while McCamus and Blanchard were as invincible as ever. The half-time score was 6 to 5, but in the second period the visitors were shut out entirely, while Whitby added seven more goals to their string.

FIVE GAMES DREW 32,000.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—Ottawa is the greatest hockey town in the world, if the attendance figures of the manager of the Arena can be taken as a critrion. Only five games in the National Hockey Association have been played to date, but the turnstiles show that over 32,000 paid admissions have been taken in at the Laurier Avenue Rink, with three more games yet to be play-

CANUCKS IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The management of St. Nicholas Rink has practically completed arrangements for a series of games between the crack professional teams of Canada. It is planned to have Ottawa, the Wanderers of Montreal, Les Canadiens of Montreal and Renfrew take part in the series. New Yorkers should see some phenomenally fast hockey when this series is staged at St. Nicholas in March. The probable dates will be March 14, 15, 17 and 18. On March 14 the Wanderers will probably play Ottawa; on March 15, Les Canadiens will play Renfrew, and on the 17th and 18th winners of these two games will play.

A WESTERN CHALLENGE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—Mr. William Foran, Stanley Cup trustee, announced this evening that he had received from the Prince Albert Hockey Club a formal challenge for the world's championship. The Prince Albert Club has won the honors in the Saskatchewan League. Mr. Foran knows nothing as to the calibre of the team, but it claims to be capable of giving the Ottawas a good stiff argument.

The trustees will not allow an all-star hand-picked aggregation to play for the silverware. The Prince Albert team is one of the few professional aggregations in the west. The Ottawas have one of their hardest games in store for Saturday next, when they pay their last visit of the season to Quebec.

HOCKEY NOTES.

They stayed there all day and until the seat sale opened at 6.30. All of the tickets except forty for each club and a few for the newspapers were placed on sale. Only two were allowed each buyer.

WORLD'S OLDEST JAIL

NEWGATE WAS A PRISON WHEN KING JOHN RULED.

Its Horrors Have Only Ceased In the Last Generation — Life Imprisonment Without Conviction Was Common and Many Men Stayed In Durance "During the King's Pleasure.

Older than any other prison in the world is Newgate in England. Its history is thought to go back as far as the building of the London tower. It was a prison house in the days of King John; it is a prison house today. It is not, of course, the identical building that was the Newgate of the time when the Great Charter was drawn up, but it has always been a penal establishment. It is only within the past hundred years or so that the horrors of this ancient jail and other jails in England have ceased to exist.

The saddest feature of the Newgate of the past is the great number of persons who are known to have been incarcerated therein for life in thorough defiance of the constitutional rights of arraignment and trial. There died in the prison in September, 1732, a man who had been an inmate about 40 years, who had never been convicted and who is supposed not to have been guilty of the offence that was made the basis of his detention. Macaulay mentions the case in his picturesque fashion as being that of a man whose long imprisonment at length shocked a generation which could not remember his crime.

The unfortunate was a soldier. He fought under James II. in Ireland and had risen to the rank of major. As he had previously served in the Dutch army under the Prince of Orange suspicion rested upon him in 1696, when arrests were made in connection with the plots on the life of William III. Eight persons were duly tried, convicted and executed for their share in the attempted assassination, but against this officer, Maj. John Bernardi by name, and five others there was an absence of evidence. It was thought, however, that evidence would be forthcoming and to give time for the Government to obtain this evidence the habeas corpus act was suspended for nine months.

When the nine months came to an end and evidence to secure a conviction was still unattainable the judges remanded for a fortnight and in the interval an act of Parliament was passed authorizing the imprisonment of the men for another year. The injustice thus begun was perpetrated. A second measure of like import was enacted and eventually a third bill passed into law authorizing the confinement of Bernardi and his companions during "his majesty's pleasure," which was tantamount to a sentence of imprisonment during the King's life, for it was not until the King died that these men were again heard from.

That was in 1703. The prisoners then applied to be tried or to be admitted to bail. It was an unfortunate application. Parliament fell back upon precedent and passed an act to confine Bernardi and his companions during the pleasure of Queen Anne. Anne was more merciful than William. She released one of the six, but when she died Parliament repeated the injustice, and successive acts condemned the unhappy men to remain in jail during the pleasure of George I. and again of George II. Then came orders of release, however, against which all human schemes were powerless. When George II. ascended the throne there were only Bernardi and two others alive and eventually Bernardi, now an octogenian, was left alone to petition for justice. For him, as for the others, the only release was death.

His long detention in Newgate, however, was not all gloom. Fortunately for him, prison discipline was much more lax then than it is now. Newgate became a roof tree to the prisoner. He courted and married within its walls and his wife was in every way a helpmeet to him. She bore him ten children. Bernardi was entitled to all the liberty the prison officials could allow him.

But there were some prisoners who were rogues of the deepest dye to whom privileges were accorded that seem almost incredible in these days. In not a few instances men convicted of capital offences were allowed to hold levees and to welcome any number of friends. Often enough, too, men "fit to do the King's service" had the doors opened to them and occasionally culprits would obtain their liberty on consenting to go abroad. Men enough to form a company of soldiers, with a woman to serve as a viviandiere, marched out of Newgate in 1629 "to the end that they be employed in the service of the King of Sweden." Money and influence would generally help a man out of most serious scrapes in those prison days.

Some curious sentences were carried out in this historic prison house and this was particularly the case in regard to penalties for adulteration and cheating. There was the pillory for the merchant whose sample was of better quality than his consignment and for the shopkeeper who sold unwholesome meat. But there was more than the pillory for the tavernkeeper whose supplies would not stand the test of good quality. He was compelled, in addition, to take a bath in his own liquor.

Much that was wrong in prison management has only been remedied in our time. The system of the present day is to pay the governor of a prison as other public officials are paid. The old style was to give the governorship of a jail to the highest bidder. At one time many jailers had obtained their appointments by the payment of huge sums. The poverty-stricken offender got little or nothing to eat and led worse than a dog's life in jail. The man who had money at his command fared better, but it was at a heavy cost.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's-Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

THEIR ENGAGEMENT.

He Told Her She Would Return to Him, and She Did.

She entered the room hastily.

He was awaiting her.

"I was afraid you would be thinking I had forgotten," she said.

"No," he responded calmly, in the tone of one who is master of himself. "An engagement is an engagement with me."

She was a beautiful girl. A wealth of chestnut hair rippled below the wide brim of her bonnet. Her close fitting tailored gown yielded to every movement of her supple form.

He was a bit above the average height, a clean cut, square chinned chap, whose every expression bespoke self reliance. As he looked at her his glance was deferential, yet not timid.

"It has been a long while since we saw each other," he remarked.

"Yes, nearly a year," she replied. "But do you remember when I left that time you said I would have to come back?"

"Yes. You should have come sooner than this."

"But I have been so busy—going and coming, dances, dinners, the theater and all."

"I know. And you were married too?

His voice did not tremble as he asked this, yet across her face there flashed a quick tinge of humiliation.

"I—I would rather not speak of that," she observed, almost coldly. "That is all over. We—we— It was to be expected. The truth is we were not meant for each other. So I—I got a divorce"

"It was better so, no doubt," he responded gently. "Won't you sit down?"

She took the chair he indicated, and as he looked down at her she flashed him a sudden smile.

"I was afraid of you the last time," she said merrily.

"But you are not afraid now?"

"No, indeed!"

He put his fingers beneath her dimpled chin and tilted her bonny head back, then gazed at her earnestly. Her limpid eyes looked up at him trustingly. The rose pink of her cheeks came and went fitfully. The white of her throat throbbed with each breath. He bent nearer to her, still with that fixed gaze. Her lips were parted.

He raised his head, and she looked out of the window silently.

There was a pause. At last she spoke.

"What are you studying about? What have you decided?"

"I think I'll have to fill two of your teeth," he said quietly. "The rest are all right. You have taken better care of them than most women do."—Life.

Grand, Gloomy and Peculiar.

There was a marked contrast between Lincoln's manner, which was always pleasant and even genial, and that of Stanton. The latter's stern, spectacled visage commanded instant respect and in many cases inspired fear. In receiving visitors, and they were legion, Stanton seldom or never sat down, but stood before a high desk as the crowd passed before him and one by one presented their requests or complaints, which were rapidly disposed of. He was haughty, severe, domineering and often rude. When I think of him in the daily routine of his public audiences the characterization of Napoleon by Charles Phillips, the Irish orator, comes to mind, "grand, gloomy and peculiar."—From "Lincoln In the Telegraph Office."

He is a friend who in dubious circumstances aids in deeds when deeds are necessary.—Plautus.

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

strong body of mutineers on the right bank of the river Hindun, near the village of Ghazi-ud-din Nuggur and at a place where a high ridge commanded an iron suspension bridge. It was found afterwards that the rebels meant to fight the two British forces in detail before they could effect a junction. The generalship of the idea was good, but the sepoys did not count on the pent-up wrath of the British soldiers, who were burning to avenge their murdered countrymen and dishonored countrywomen, for it was now becoming known that many a fair English lady had met a fate worse than death ere sword or bullet stilled her anguish.

A company of the 60th Rifles dashed forward to seize tne bridge, Lieutenant Light and his men took up the enemy's challenge with their heavy eighteen-pounders, and Colonel Mackenzie and Major Tombs, at the head of two batteries of horse artillery, crossed the river and turrned the left flank of the sepoy force. Then the Rifles extended and charged, the mutineers yielded, and Colonel Custance with his dragoons sabred them mercilessly for some miles.

Next morning, Whit-Sunday, while the chaplains were conducting the burial service over those who had fallen, the mutineers came out of Delhi again. A severe action began instantly. Tombs had two horses shot under him, and thirteen out of fifty men in his battery were killed or wounded. But the issue was never in doubt. After three hours' hard fighting the rebels broke and fled. So those men in Meerut could give a good account of themselves when permitted! Actually, they won the first two battles of the campaign.

Exhausted by two days' strenuous warfare in the burning sun, they could not take up the pursuit. The men were resting on the field when a battalion of Ghoorkahs, the little fighting men of Nepaul, arrived under the command of Colonel Reid They had marched by way of Bulandshahr, and Malcolm heard to his dismay that the native infantry detachment stationed there aided by the whole population of the district, had committed the wildest excesses.

Yet Winifred and her uncle had passed through that town on the road to Cawnpore. Aligarh, too, was in flames, said Reid, and there was no communication open with Agra, the seat of Government for the North-West Provinces. There was a bare possibility that the Maynes might have reached Agra, or that Nana Sahib had protected them for his own sake. Such slender hopes brought no comfort. Black despair sat in Malcolm's heart until the Brigadier sent for him and ordered him to take charge of the guard that would escort the records and treasure from Meerut to Agra. He hailed this dangerous mission with gloomy joy. Love had no place in a soldier's life, he told himself. Henceforth he must remember Winifred only when his sword was at the throat of some wretched mutineer appealing for mercy.

He went to his tent to supervise the packing of his few belongings. His bearer, a Punjabi Mohammedan, who cursed the sepoys fluently for disturbing the country during the hot weather, handed him a note which had been brought by a camp follower.

It was written in Persi-Arabic script, a sort of Arabic shorthand that demands the exercise of time and patience ere it can be deciphered by one not thoroughly acquainted with it. Thinking it was a request for employment which he could not offer, Malcolm stuffed it carelessly into a pocket. He rode to Meerut placed himself at the head of the 8th Irregular Cavalry, a detachment whose extraordinary fidelity has already been narrated, and set forth next morning with his train of bullock carts and their escort.

He called the first halt in the village where he had parted from Winifred. The headman professed himself unable to give any information, but the application of a stirrup leather to his bare back while his wrists were tied to a cart wheel soon loosened his tongue.

The king's hunting lodge was empty, he whined; and the Roshinara Begum had gone to Delhi. Nana Sahib's cavalcade went south soon after the Begum's departure, and a moullah had told him, the headman, that the Nana had hastened through Aligarh on his way to Cawnpore, not turning aside to visit Agra, which was fifty miles down the Bombay branch of the Grand Trunk Road.

Malcolm drew a negative comfort from the moullah's tale. That night he encamped near a fair-sized village which was ominously denuded of men. Approaching a native hut to ask for a piece of charcoal wherewith to light a cigar, he happened to look inside. To his very great surprise he saw, standing in a corner, a complete suit of European armor, made of tin, it is true, but a sufficiently bewildering "find" in a Goojer hovel.

A woman came running from a neighbor's house. While giving him the charcoal she hastily closed the rude door. She pretended not to understand him when he sought an explanation of the armor, whereupon he seized her, and led her, shrieking, among his own men. The commotion brought other villagers on the scene, as he guessed it wouuld. A few fierce threats, backed by a liberal display of naked steel, quickly evoked the curious fact that nearly all the able-bodied inhabitants "had gone to see the sahib-log dance."

Even Malcolm's native troops were puzzled by this story, but a further string of terrifying words and more saber flourishing led to a direct statement that the white people who were to "dance" had been captured near the village quite a week earlier and imprisoned in a ruined tomb about a mile from the road. It was risky work to leave the valuable convoy for an instant, but Malcolm felt that he must probe this mystery. Taking half a dozen men with him, and compelling the woman to act as guide, he went to the tomb in the dark.

The building a mosque-like structure of considerable size, was situated in the midst of a grove of mango trees. A clear space in front of the tomb was lighted with oil lamps and bonfires. It was packed with uproarious natives, and Malcolm's astonished gaze rested on three European acrobats doing some feats of balancing. A clown was cracking jokes in France, some nuns were singing dolefully, and a trio of girls, wearing the conventional gauze and spangles of circus riders, were standing near a couple of piebald ponies.

He and his men dashed in among the audience and the Goojers ran for dear life when they caught sight of a sahib at the head of an armed party. The performers and the nuns nearly died of fright, believing that their last hour had surely come. But they soon recovered from their fear only to collapse more completely from joy. A French circus, it appeared, had camped near a party of nuns in the village on the main road, and were captured there when the news came that the English were swept out of existence. Most fortunately for themselves the nuns were regarded as a part of the show, and the villagers, after robbing all of them, penned them in the mosque and made them give a nightly performance. There were five men and three women in th circus troupe, and among the four nuns was the grave reverend mother of a convent.

Malcolm brought them to the village and caused it to be made known that unless every article of value and every rupee in money stolen from these unfortunate people, together with a heavy fine, were brought to him by day break, he would not only fire each hut and destroy the standing crops, but he would also hang every adult male belonging to the place he could lay hands on.

These hereditary thieves could appreciate a man who spoke like that. They met him fairly and paid in full. When the convoy moved off, even that amazing suit of armor, which was used for the state entry of the circus into a town, was strapped on to the back of a trick pony.

The nuns, he ascertained, were coming from Fategarh to Umballa and they had met the great retinue of Nana Sahib below Aligarh. With him were two Europeans, a young lady and an elderly gentleman, but they were travelling so rapidly that it was impossible to learn who they were or whither they were going.

Here then, was really good news. Like every other Englishman in India Malcolm believed that the Mutiny was confined to a very small area of which his own station was the center. He thought that if Winifred and her uncle reached Cawnpore they would be quite safe.

He brightened up so thoroughly that he quite enjoyed a sharp fight next day when the budmashes of Bulandshahr regarded the straggling convoy as an easy prey.

There were three or four such affairs ere they reached Agra, and his Frenchmen proved themselves to be soldiers as well as acrobats. On the evening of the 2nd of June he marched his cavalcade into the splendid fortress immortalized by its marble memorials of the great days of the Mogul empire.

The fact that a young subaltern had brought a convoy from Meerut was seized on by the weak and amiable John Colvin, Lieutenant Governor of the North-West Provinces, as a convincing proof of his theory that the bulk of the native army might be trusted, and that order would soon be restored. Each day he was sending serenely confident telegrams to Calcutta and receiving equally reassuring ones from a fatuous Viceroy. It was with the utmost difficulty that his wiser subordinates got him to disarm the sepoy regiments in Afra itself. He vehemently assured the Viceroy that the worst days of the outbreak were over and issued a proclamation offering forgiveness to all mutineers who gave up their arms, "except those who had instigated others to revolt, or had taken part in the murder of Europeans."

Such a man was sure to regard Malcolm's bold journey from the wrong point of view. So delighted was he that he gave the sowars two months' pay, lauded Malcolm in the Gazette, and forthwith despatched him on a special mission to General Sir Hugh Wheeler at Cawnpore, to whom he recommended Frank for promotion and appointment as aide-de-camp.

This curious sequence of events led to Malcolm's following Winifred Maeyne along the road she had taken exactly three weeks earlier. The route to Cawnpore lay through Etawah, a place where revolt had already broken out, but which had been evacuated by the mutineers, who, like those at Aligarh, Bulandshahr, Mainpuri, Meerut, and a score of other towns, ran off to Delhi after butchering all the Europeans within range.

With a small escort of six troopers, his servant, and two pack-horses, he travelled fast. As night was falling on June 4th, he re-entered the Grand Trunk Road some three miles north of Bithoor, where, all unknown to him, Nana Sahib's splendid palace stood on the banks of the Ganges.

Eugenie's American Ancestry.

The Empress Eugenie was the granddaughter of Mr. Fitzpatrick, American consul at Malaga during the early years of the nineteenth century. Mr. Fitzpatrick's wife was of Scotch descent and claimed to be connected in some remote way with the Stuarts. They had one daughter, a very beautiful and accomplished girl, who made a brilliant marriage with the Marquis De Montijo, Comte De Teba. He died after a few years of married life, leaving her with two young daughters, one of whom subsequently married the Duke of Alba. The other, Eugenie, became empress of the French.—From the Memoirs of M. Claude.

Birds of a Feather.

Frederick Leveson-Gower in his reminiscences relates that when he visited Moscow in 1856 for the coronation of Alexander II. "opposite our house during the procession was drawn up a regiment called Paulovski, formed by the Emperor Paul, all the men having turned up noses and therefore resembling him. It seems it was the fashion to compose regiments of men all having the same features. The late emperor had recruits sent to him and told them off according to their looks. There is one regiment of men all marked with the smallpox."

Why the Statue Kept Mum.

The Venus of Milo refused to tell how she lost her arms.

"If I should say I broke them off while trying to button my dress up the back," she said, "you'd ask me what has become of the dress."

STAGE REALISM.

Clara Morris' Study of a Victim of Heart Disease.

No actress ever surpassed Clara Morris in the care with which she studied for a part. When she was studying the part of Cora in "Article 47" she visited an insane asylum in order to learn the signs of insanity. Cora was not only insane, but she was disfigured by a hideous scar as well. Miss Morris spent weeks in trying to secure a correct representation, and one day she saw in a street car a woman who had exactly that kind of disfigurement. She studied it and reproduced it, but her kindness of heart shrank from reproducing it in such fashion that the sufferer might recognize it if she ever saw the play. So she worked over it until she made enough alterations to feel certain that no one, not even the owner of the original scar, could ever suspect the imitation.

When she was studying the part of Miss Moulton, who was to die of heart disease, she visited a specialist who had a number of patients suffering from that trouble. He showed her one of his patients and then, to her surprise and horror, ran the sufferer up a flight of stairs that Miss Morris might see the symptoms as produced after an excitement of the heart. Miss Morris was filled with pain and pity. She made the poor patient a present of a bank bill as she was leaving. The woman accepted it and then as she was stuffing it into her glove caught sight of the figure on the note. The size was so large that it brought on a recurrence of all the symptoms—the starting eyes, the gasping breath, the widening nostrils. This time the heart excitement was caused by joy, not pain, but Miss Morris was so overcome with horror and sympathy that she hurriedly left the house.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Some people have little faith in the kind of charity that has a card attached to it.

MILITARY ACCURACY.

Exactness In Keeping Tab on the Movements of Soldiers.

We hear much of the perfection of military organization abroad, but it is doubtful whether any foreign war office follows with an accuracy greater than that displayed by our own war department the movements of its officers. The following is an interesting case in point:

A young army officer who has seen service in this country and in the east was once with a scouting party in Arizona. After two weeks in the desert his squad came to the railway near a small station. Within ten minutes a telegram from Washington was brought to him by the station agent. It asked if the officer wished to be transferred to one of the new artillery regiments then forming.

He answered by telegraph that he would be glad to enter either of them. Then with his squad he set off again across the desert.

It was six days later when they again struck the railway, this time eighty miles from the point at which they had previously crossed it, but the officer's reply from the war department was awaiting him. It had been telegraphed to every station within 200 miles.

A more striking instance of accuracy occurred after the same officer's transfer to the east. He was traveling home on leave, and, as the regulations require, he had notified the department of the day, hour and probable route of his journey. After he had been on the train for eight hours at a small station the porter entered with a telegram, asking if any one of his name was present. On opening the telegram the officer found that it ordered him to detached duty.

Exactness of detail could not be carried much further. The war department knew the whereabouts of an insignificant second lieutenant even when he was traveling on leave of absence.—New York Herald.

A SNAKE STORY.

The Reptiles Were Frozen Stiff, but That Didn't Harm Them.

A naturalist once told how in a thicket on a mountain side he saw a man kill a rattlesnake. He beat the life out of it with a club and continued the pounding till it was mangled beyond recognition. When the naturalist remonstrated the man said, "Boss, you can't kill a rattlesnake too dead."

On one occasion a boat bound for the United States from Rio de Janeiro touched at Pernambuco, where the mate drove a bargain with a snake dealer for a half dozen reptiles of various sizes.

The mate had them in a cage on deck and charged a sailor with the duty of washing it out with sea water every evening. All went well as long as the weather was mild, but on the night before the gulf stream was crossed the sailor left a quantity of water in the cage, and about thirty hours from port a biting gale struck the ship.

All hands were busy with the storm, and the snakes were forgotten. When the mate thought of them and went to look after their condition he found them frozen stiff and apparently as dead as the proverbial doornail.

The dealer for whom the mate had brought them came on board the following day. He professed great disappointment over the loss of his intended purchase, but offered to take the snakes away as a kindness to the mate. He gathered them in his arms like so much firewood and carried them home. But a rival dealer afterward told the officer that plenty of warm water had resuscitated the snakes and that they had been sold to various museums not a bit the worse for their "death" by freezing.—Harper's Weekly.

The Ambulant Barber.

Paris, like Peking, has its ambulant barber. Armed with a little box, containing the necessary apparatus, razor, badger brush, soap, scissors and serviette, he exercises his calling on the banks of the Seine. All the bargees, navvies and quay laborers are his clients. "Figaro" seats his patient on the pavement, covers his knees with a newspaper and for a sou shaves, cuts his hair and gives a human appearance to the tramps and others who intrust themselves to his care.

Odds and Ends.

Uncle Jim, an old negro driver in Richmond, Va., had some ladies to drive through the cemetery. He took them round and showed them the notable graves and monuments and then drove to that part of the cemetery where the derelicts were interred.

"Who are buried here?" asked a lady in the party. "I don't think I ever was here before."

"Oh," replied Uncle Jim, "odds and ends, missus, odds and ends!"—Pittsburg Press.

How She Knew.

"Will you have some fresh mushrooms?" asked the hostess sweetly.

"Yes," faltered the guest, "if you're quite sure they're mushrooms and not toadstools."

"Oh, I'm quite sure," replied the hostess. "I opened the can myself."—Detroit Free Press.

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

You see the statement every day that the one cause of baldness is dandruff. But is it?

True, dandruff often precedes the departure of the hair.

It is equally true that you know men with a shock of hair you can hardly pull a comb through, who have carried around a dandruff laden collar as long as you have known them.

You have also seen men whose scalp was kept as clean as a baby's whose hair was surely departing.

That dandruff talk sounds well and convinces a good many of us, but let us not fool ourselves.

Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an indication.

The same trouble that causes the hair to fall out usually causes dandruff, so if you get at the cause and arrest the loss of hair, you will stop dandruff too.

Those who use Nyal's Hirsutone find it the most satisfactory hair healer and hair dressing they have ever used.

It does stop the hair from falling out.

It will also stop dandruff.

A RICH WOMAN STARVED IN RAGS

DANBURY, Conn., Feb. 13.—Search of the dwelling of Miss Emma Williams, an eccentric and supposedly impoverished recluse, who died a few days ago near New Milford, has revealed a fortune in musty and decaying bank notes secreted in every nook and corner of the building. The searchers also found quantities of expensive clothing, little of which had been worn.

Miss Williams had lived alone for years, subsisting upon scanty fare and dressing so shabbily that her attire attracted attention. There was talk that she had saved money through her frugal habits, but little credence was given to the stories that she was a rich woman until her wealth was disclosed after her death.

The returns made to the New Milford probate court show that the cash and other property comprising the estate is worth at least $31,000. Five thousand dollars in bank notes discovered in hiding places about the house is so decayed through long concealment that it will have to be sent to the treasury department for redemption.

A Condition, Not a Theory.

A sociologist in conversation with a practical person from the middle west concerning the labor problem in her part of the country thereby learned the lesson of the situation.

"Are there many men out of work?" he asked.

The lady admitted that there were quite a number.

"What," said he then, "do the unemployed do?"

"Nothing," said the lady. "That's the trouble."—Youth's Companion.

WIRELESS LIGHT THE NEXT NOVELTY

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Wireless light is the latest possibility of the scientific world, according to Mr. Thorne Baker, the expert on wireless telegraphy and electrical science. He says:

"Recent experiments on the neon light—perhaps the chief illuminant in years to come—suggest enormous possibilities in the future lighting of the world.

"The neon light is simply a long vacuum tube into which is passed a little neon—a very rare, colorless gas. When an electric current of sufficiently high voltage is passed through this tube it at once becomes luminous emitting a rich red light.

"This red light, according to M. Georges Claude, the French scientist, assumes a warm golden color on the eyes becoming accustomed to it.

"A neon tube sufficient to light a room forty feet square should cost about $25. Moreover only half as much electricity is required to light it as an ordinary electric filament lamp of the same candle power.

"Now, Nikola Tesla, the eminent electrical scientist, has stated that the day will come when enormous wireless generating stations will be erected which will supply electric power for the whole world.

"At the present time such an enormous loss of electricity takes place in transmitting energy by wireless that such a scheme would be impracticable.

"When, however, the secret of transmitting electrical energy by wireless is discovered the neon lamp will probably be used for wireless lighting.

"A neon tube will glow quite brightly when placed within several yards of a wireless mast when messages are being sent.

"How simple the lighting of houses will become when lit by wireless may be imagined. For instance, around the walls of one's rooms may be little hooks simply connected by wires to the earth. When darkness comes one simply hangs up a neon light tube and the room is flooded with a soft red glow."

6,000 RATS WERE CAUGHT AT ONCE

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 13.—Since the Government pays a premium for every rat caught and destroyed, inventors got busy devising new traps. The most successful is operated by a man in Jutland, who baits the rodents in large masses by offal and springs the trap when a thousand or more are imprisoned. At his last catch he took six thousand. He often catches from three to four thousand in a night. So far he has collected premiums for one hundred thousand rats from the Government.

CHURCH AND STATE IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Feb. 13—The draft of the bill for the separation of Church and State has been completed. It guarantees liberty of conscience, education and propaganda, subject to simple control. The churches will be placed at the disposal of the clergy, the only stipulation being that the clergy shall show they are able to keep them up.

Bishop Joseph C Marshall, of the American Methodist Episcopal church during his recent visit to London, forwarded to President Taft an account of an interview he had with Dr. Alfonso Costa, Portugese minister of justice, on the subject of religion and education in Portugal and her colonies. A summary of this report follows. —"Dr. Costa asked the Bishop to explain to the people of the United States that the republican government of Portugal is not anti-religious, but anti-Jesuit, and anti-reactionary. 'Portugal.' he said, 'purposed to give perfect liberty to all sects—Catholics Protestants and Jews, and even to those of no faith whatever. The legislative assembly would be asked to pass a law granting this liberty to all religious organizations based on the general respect for individual liberty These organizatoins would be expected to furnish the Government with their rules and regulations, methods of work and information as to how funds would be raised, but in no case would they be allowed to levy a tax upon the people. All contributions would be voluntary, and there would be no subvention by the Government Concerning public education, Dr Costa stated that in schools established and maintained by the Government all religious instruction would be prohibited, on the ground that the Government did not wish to impose religious beliefs on any person. But great stress, he said, would be laid upon morality and patriotism. Private or church schools, however, such as the Wesleyan Methodist School at Oporto, would be authorised, the Government requiring them to report regularly their school regulations, exact plans for work, the time set apart for religious instruction, and proof that children were not forced to enter the schools, or that parents were not coerced to send their children there as against public schools. The same programme, the minister said, would be carried out in the colonies.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 86 carloads, consisting of 1593 cattle, 331 hogs, 1120 sheep and lambs and 2 calves.

Exporters.

Geo. B. Campbell bought for Morris & Co., 50 steers, 1350 lbs. each, at $6.33; 184 steers for Liverpool, 1250 lbs. each, at $6.10.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $6 to $6.25; loads of good, $5.75 to $6; medium, $5.50 to $5.70; common, $5 to $5.40; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5; canners, $2.75 to $3.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers found ready sale at $40 to $75 each.

Veal Calves.

Trade was strong for veal calves, at $3.50 to $8.50, and two choice, new, milk-fed brought $9.25 and $9.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn, who handled nearly all the sheep and lambs, reported prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4.25 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.60, and one choice bunch of 15 selects, $6.80 per cwt.

Hogs.

We asked three dealers the price of hogs, and each gave a different price. The first one gave $6.30, the second one gave $7, the third one gave $7.10 to $7.15, as the f.o.b. price of hogs, with 25c on top of these quotations for fed and watered.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 11 were 1700 cattle, 1175 sheep and lambs, 2850 hogs and 200 calves. The supply for sale on the market this morning consisted of 900 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 1300 hogs and 100 calves.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being firmly maintained at the advance noted a week ago, owing to the fact that supplies were no larger, and, as the quality of the stock was generally good, the demand was active, and a brisk trade was done, as butchers in most cases were pretty well cleaned out of beef. Choice steers sold at 6¾c; good at 6½c; fairly good at 6c to 6¼c; fair at 5½c to 5¾c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5¼c per lb. Extra choice bulls brought 6c to 6¼c, and from that down to 5c per lb. was paid for the lower grades.

Supplies of hogs were fair, for which the demand from packers was good, and in consequence the tone of the market was steady, with no change in prices to note. Selected lots sold at $8 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet on account of the small offerings, and prices were unchanged. The demand was good for what stock was on the market, and sales of sheep were made at 4½c to 4¾c, and lambs at 6¼c to 6½c per lb. Calves were very scarce, and prices have advanced, with sales of choice stock as high as 7½c to 8c per lb., and the commoner ones at 5c to 7c per lb.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 3625 head; market active and steady; prime steers, $6.50 to $6.75; butcher grades, $5.75 to $6.35; cows, $4.25 to $5.25.

Calves—Receipts, 1300 head; market fairly active, 50c lower; cull to choice, $5.75 to $10.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 28,000 head; market active; lambs 15c lower; choice lambs, $6 to $6.10; cull to fair, $4.75 to $5.75; yearlings, $5 to $5.25; sheep, $3 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,400; market slow to 10c lower; yorkers, $7.75 to $7.80; stags, $6 to $6.25; pigs, $8; mixed, $7.56 to $7.60; heavy, $7.45 to $7.50; roughs, $6.75 to $7.

It is always the chap with the short end of it who advocates equality.

Of course there are two sides to every story; but the trouble is the most of us only care to hear one.

McCall Bill Will Probably Pass Lower House To-day.

Test Vote Taken In House of Representatives Is In Favor of Immediate Consideration of Tariff Agreement—Split of Serious Proportions Exists In the Republic Party—Most Will Oppose Measure.

Washington, Feb. 14.—The McCall bill, carrying into effect the reciprocity agreement, reached the floor of the House yesterday, and probably will be passed by that body before adjournment to-night. Even the opponents of the measure admitted yesterday that there was no stopping it in the House.

A test vote came yesterday soon after the House was called to order by Speaker Cannon. Mr. McCall moved the immediate consideration of his bill. As finally corrected, the vote to take up the bill was 197 to 120. The bill will be passed, it is expected, by even a larger majority. Yesterday 101 Republicans voted against immediate consideration. This number will show a decided diminuation on the final roll-call. Sixty-three Republicans voted for immediate consideration.

The Democrats vote was divided, 134 in favor of immediate consideration and 19 against. As in the case of some of the opposing Republicans, a few of the Democrats voted against immediate consideration, because they are members of the District of Columbia committee. Democratic leaders say there will be but six or seven votes against the passage of the bill from their side.

The test vote taken yesterday and the general debate that followed, clearly demonstrated the serious split that exists among the Republicans of the House on reciprocity. It now appears that a majority of the Republicans will vote against the measure, although the President is likely to get more support from that side of the chamber than he at first anticipated. Like the "regulars" the "insurgent" ranks are torn wide open, and a majority of them will vote against the measure.

The Republican split is accentuated by the fact that one member of that party, Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts, is directing the debate in favor of the measure, and another Republican, Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania is directing the fight against it.

Pantchenko's Fate In Balance.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 14.—Arguments in the cases of Dr. Ivan Pantchenko and Count Patrick O'Brien de Lassy, charged with the murder of Count Vassili Bouturlin, were begun yesterday. A speedy verdict is expected.

Pantchenko, who is more than seventy years of age, is awaiting his fate cheerfully, but De Lassy is under the constant care of the prison physicians to prevent a collapse.

Legal opinion generally considers that the prosecution has not proved that Bouturlin, De Lassy's brother-in-law, was murdered.

The disreputable character of both prisoners was so thoroughly shown, however, that a verdict of guilty will not be surprising.

The Federals Retreat.

Marfa, Texas, Feb. 14.—Delayed advices received here yesterday clear up suspense over results of the fighting between Insurrectos and Federals around Mulata. The last word received during the middle of last week, told of Federal reverses in an assault on rebel lines at Mulata. News received here yesterday says the tide of battle remained the same with the result that the Federals retrated to Ojinaga, their base of supplies. The insurrectos were unable to check Luque's retreat. Their supply of ammunition was exhausted. The Federal loss was forty killed and wounded.

List of Peers to Pass Veto.

London, Feb. 14.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons yesterday that he would introduce the Government's veto bill next Monday.

As evidence of the Government's intention to force this measure through, John W. Gulland, the Scottish Liberal whip, stated in a speech at Edinburgh yesterday that he was busy just now compiling a list of men who would accept peerages with the object of passing the veto bill in the Upper Chamber, in the event that the Conservative peers proved recalcitrant.

Let It Come Soon.

New York, Feb. 14.—A Times' special from Baltimore says: Dr. Jacob H. Hollander, professor of economics of the Johns Hopkins University, predicted that a day would come when poverty would be as obsolete as slavery, in an address yesterday at the annual meeting of the Hebrew Benevolent Society. This opinion, he said, he based upon his historical studies and his personal investigations of charitable methods in vogue to-day.

RESTRICTED FARMERS

W. H. Hoyle Withdraws Bill at Whitney's Request.

Premier Said Line Fence Bill Curtailed the Liberties of the Farmer—Bill Regarding the Inspection of Scaffolding Is Wide In Its Scope—Windsor Cemetery Bill Is Reported Against by Commission.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Two Opposition, 23 Government private members and eight Cabinet Ministers worked like beavers at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. The ladies' gallery was empty, while the Speaker's gallery was graced by one lady visitor and an usher. Twenty-five attentive male auditors in the visitors' gallery essayed the task of following the proceedings. This was one of perplexity and difficulty, as the House largely worked in committee on statutory revision.

Sir James Whitney's bill for the protection of persons employed in the construction of buildings empowers the Government to appoint as many inspectors of scaffolding as may be necessary in cases where the municipality does not appoint a sufficient number of inspectors.

A clause is printed strictly prohibiting the erection of scaffolding which is "unsafe, unsuitable or improper," in not affording "proper protection to the life and limb."

Swinging scaffolding more than 20 feet from the ground, must have a safety rail.

The maximum penalty for an infraction of the act is placed at $500.

A number of regulations in seven additional clauses prescribe the regulations to govern different classes of buildings.

An interim report was presented to the House from two commissioners, Chief Justice Sir Charles Moss and Mr. Justice Garrow, on the Windsor Cemetery incorporation bill.

The commissioners reported that the bill should not be allowed to pass, as it in effect was a forfeiture of the property of the Windsor Improvement Co. The report said that "the mere lack of organization for many years does not cause a extinction of corporate existence." The commissioners did not return the bill, and after those having interests in the Windsor Improvement Co. have been heard from, may present the bill in a changed form with additions.

W. H. Hoyle, Conservative, North Ontario, brought up his bill respecting line fences. The object of the bill was to make the restrictions in regard to line fences more rigid.

Sir Jams Whitney asked for the bill's withdrawal on the ground that it curtailed to too great an extent the liberty of the farmers. "This bill," he said, "is an interference with a man's control of his own property."

The bill was withdrawn.

P. H. Bowyer's (East Kent) bill to amend the Public Schools Act was given a second reading.

Another contest to abolish exemptions in lands used in connection with churches, schools, and cemeteries was inaugurated by C. R. McKeown, Dufferin, Conservative, who moved his bill to amend the assessment act by repeating a series of exemption clauses, including three new exemptions.

The buildings and grounds of and attached to or otherwise bona fide used in connection with and for the purpose of every university, high school, public or separate school. The buildings and grounds of every seminary of learning, maintained for philanthropic, religious or educational purposes.

Considerable progress was made in committee with the statutory revision.

Loses a Fortune.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 14.—Executors of the estate of the late H. J. Lamar of Macon are defending the suit of Lamar Washington for an eighth interest in a half million dollars on the ground that when young Washington wedded Miss Lucille Graves Osborne of New York several years ago, he did not obtain the consent of his aunt, as stipulated in the Lamar will. When a youth, he was adopted by his uncle, the late H. J. Lamar, and in consideration of the lad's "transfer," the uncle paid Lamar's father, Col. W. H. Washington of Nashville, $10,000.

A New System.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Mr. A. A. Dion, general superintendent of the Ottawa Electric Co., is out with a new suggestion for the revision of the electric light rates in the city.

It is to base a flat charge for light on the rent or assessment of a house or business premises. It has, he says, been used to advantage extensively in England, and found to work satisfactorily. Thus, if a man is a tenant, he would pay for his light on the basis of his rent, or if he is an owner he would pay on the assessment value.

Vagrant Swindled Ministers.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 14.—Eugene P. McPherson, aged 23 years, of Connecticut avenue, Buffalo, was sent to the penitentiary yesterday for six months on a charge of vagrancy. He managed to elude the officer, taking him from the detention room, and made his escape. McPherson was arrested on the complaint of a score of ministers, who said he swindled them out of money with a hard luck story.

A Banana War.

New Orleans, Feb. 14.—A banana war similar to that of two years ago, is waging in Eastern Nicaragua, according to advices received here. Within the last sixty days the price of bananas has jumped from 32 cents gold to 48 cents, and other advances are expected. New Orleans, New York, Mobile, Houston and Galveston are interested in the market.

Father of Twenty-Two.

London, Ont., Feb. 14.—D. H. Flanagan, a wholesale butcher, well-known in Toronto and Montreal, who died here Saturday, was the father of a family of twenty-two children, fourteen of whom survive him.

NOTHING IN IT.

Torontonians Find Philadelphia Fortune a Bubble.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—To feel pretty well assured of an heirship to a considerable slice of over one hundred million dollars' worth of property in the heart of Philadelphia, and to be informed that all their fees for searches and trips to and from this place and Toronto, had gone for naught, is the disappointment that two residents of Toronto, Canada, carried home with them last week.

George Heise, 270 Huron street, and his son Clarence W., a clerk for the C.P.R., living in 23 Bellevue place, Toronto, are the victims. They claimed a portion of the estate of the late Col. Jacob Baker, who died over 100 years ago. Three daughters located in Ontario, and the Heises are descendants of one of these.

The Department of Internal Affairs informed young Heise and his lawyer that very many had come to Harrisburg on a similar quest, and the hint was dropped that he would be money in pocket should he decide to return to his desk and dismiss all thoughts of profiting by the demise of the late colonel.

At the City Hall, Heise and his lawyer were told that the Baker estate is non-existent. They were informed that about 1,500 letters covering the years that have intervened between 1876 and this time, requesting information as to the estate, are on file or heaped in a box. Some are said to be from other Ontario parties.

The trail of blighted hopes may be traced by means of the letters, many of them yellowed with age, from the rockbound coast of New England to the great lakes, to the Gulf and clear out to the Pacific slope, where it is summer all the year round.

Alderman Threatened.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—A woman answering to the name of Appeline Belland appeared in the police court yesterday on a normal charge of vagrancy. She is being held, however, pending a medical examination as to her sanity, for she is thought to have sent the following threatening letter to Ald. N. Heyd:

"Turn, you blood-sucker, you have murdered all my flesh and blood. Remember, brute, you shall not get out of my hands. You cannot do anything for me after your cutting the flesh of my bones; you have no heart anyhow. So come to a point of business with me. But I shall do my duty, and get a brute like you out of sight. Any time will suit me. I am your "Murderer,"

(Signed) "Miss Appeline Belland."

Ald. Heyd received but one letter, and this he turned over to the police. Miss Belland was arrested Saturday. She is thought to be mentally deranged.

Manitoba to Debate Tariff.

Winnipeg, Feb. 14.—The Manitoba Legislature will pronounce this week on the question of reciprocity. At the session last night T. C. Norris, leader of the Opposition, gave notice of a resolution which he will move on Thursday, approving of the reciprocity agreement, and asking the Dominion Government to give its immediate sanction. He also suggests that the Dominion Government give further consideration to the question of lower duties on agricultural implements. It is understood that the Government is likely to introduce an amendment regretting the tendency to break away from Imperial ties, and suggesting that at the next Imperial Conference preferential tariff be taken up, and also the question of free trade within the Empire.

Milkman Dies on Rounds.

Barrie, Feb. 14.—R. Reynolds, a man 67 years of age, died on the seat of his milk sleigh while on his rounds, just before noon yesterday. His nephew, who was with him, had left him only about five minutes previous to his death, to deliver milk about a block away. On returning he met the horse traveling the street at its leisure with the occupant dead on the seat of the rig.

The body was hurried to the office of Dr. Arnall, but nothing could be done, as life had become extinct. Coroner Wells was called in, and announced death as being due to heart failure. Deceased was a leading member of the local corps of the Salvation Army. A widow and five children survive.

Challenged Him to Duel.

Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 14.—When J. W. Arnold, eldest brother of missing Dorothy Arnold, visited Geo. S. Griscom, jr., in Florence, Italy, he challenged the lawyer's son to a duel, according to reports here to-day. When Griscom refused to accept the challenge, young Arnold used his fists on Griscom. It was also stated that the fight was based on visit made by the missing girl to Griscom several summers ago, while the latter was in Boston, and when Miss Arnold was staying with a young married girl friend there.

Cargo of Opium Destroyed.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14.—Details of a fire which destroyed the British steamer Kumsang, of the India-China line, and a cargo of $50,000 worth of opium, which smugglers expected to sneak in here, were brought by passengers on the steamers. The fire, they say, broke out in the opium chests in the forward hold of the steamer three days out from Singapore. All efforts to stop it were ineffective and the officers sealed up the hold and ran for the coast.

Hydro-Electric Rates.

Ingersoll, Ont., Feb. 14.—The power and light commission has adopted power rates for Hydro-Electric, which is now as far as Clearville, and expected in a few days. The commission has decided not to interfere in the matter of meters. Flat rates for residences will be done away with and meters installed.

Knights of Columbus.

Chatham, Feb. 14.—Local Knights of Columbus last night dedicated their new temple. Visiting brethren were present from western Ontario points. Bishop Fallon of London was kept away through a slight indisposition.

MUST HAVE WIRELESS

Canadian Passenger Vessels to Be Equipped.

Ships Carrying More Than Fifty Passengers and Running More Than 200 Miles on Each Trip Provided For — Dr. Schaffner's Elevator Resolution Is Defeated—Eight-Hour Bill Read a Third Time.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The Minister of Marine introduced in the House of Commons yesterday a bill to compel all passenger vessels to be equipped with a wireless telegraph system. The bill applies to all vessels carrying more than fifty passengers, except vessels plying between ports less than 200 miles apart. It is evident this would exempt vessels on the great lakes.

The bill was read a first time, as was also a bill by J. Stanfield (Colchester), to amend the Inspection and Sale Act so as to oblige millers and packers to mark the weight on each bag containing flour or meal.

During consideration of the amended bill respecting the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway Co., N. Nesbitt (North Oxford) moved the introduction of a clause providing that the company shall not enter upon or cross highways except with the consent of the municipalities affected.

Mr. Guthrie opposed the amendment, arguing that while such a clause was included in recent railway charters it was not necessary in the case of branch line charters of the C.P.R., G.T.R. and C.N.R., which were all under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission, and the latter might be depended upon to see justice done to the municipalities.

Mr. Nesbitt withdrew his objection, and the bill went through.

The amended bills to incorporate the Security Trusts Corporation, and respecting the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway Co. were also passed.

Mr. Macdonnel of Toronto was informed that last year the Government paid $1,808,533 in bounties on iron and steel, and $382,912 in drawbacks to manufacturers upon dutiable materials entering into manufactured goods exported.

The timely, if much discussed, topic of grain elevators was again debated at some length, on a resolution proposed by Dr. Schaffner (Souris, Man.), as follows: "The present system of operating terminal and transfer elevators is detrimental to the interests of the western grain producers, and that the Government should take immediate steps to operate terminal elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur and the transfer elevators between those terminals and the Atlantic seaboard."

Mr. Neely replied that the Government had already introduced in the Senate a measure dealing with the grain elevator business, placing its management in the hands of a commission.

He moved in amendment that the House take no action on Dr. Schaffner's resolution, pending consideration of the Government's bill.

Then the majority of the western members, as well as a number from the east, were heard from the Conservatives, supporting the motion, and the Liberals the amendment.

Hon. Frank Oliver thought the Government would not be justified in taking full responsibility for terminal and transfer elevators. It behooved any sane Government to move cautiously, and this Government could not undertake this huge responsibility without thorough enquiry into the matter.

Dr. Schaffner's resolution was voted down by 96 to 54.

Mr. Verville's eight-hour bill was given its third reading. Dr. Sproule, Dr. Edwards and Mr. Hodgins spoke against it.

Free Speech Will Live.

New York, Feb. 14.—"Free speech in America will live even if the United States Supreme Court does declare the boycott case against us," declared Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, as he left for Washington yesterday.

"The freedom of the press also shall continue," added the labor leader.

"Should the court declare against us, of course we shall have to go to jail and the battle will be fought out all over again, and the voices of myself and my associates, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison will not be stilled, even if we are behind iron bars."

Will Appeal Fraser Decision.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Not yet has the famous Michael Fraser case come to an end. Yesterday, Catherine McCormack, one of those who brought action to set aside the marriage, and who sought to show that Michael, the octogenarian, was not competent to manage his own business, gave notice of appeal to the Divisional Court, the argument of which will be heard to-day. Justice Britton tried the case, and, after visiting the old man, declared he was quite capable of marrying Miss Robertson or doing anything else without the direction his relatives.

Pronounced Their Vows.

Kingston, Feb. 14.—The following sisters pronounced their final vows yesterday: Miss K. O'Rourke, Brockville; in religion, Sister M. Winnifred, Miss C. Quinn, Ferguson Falls; Sister Hilda, Miss M. E. McCoy, Corkery; Sister Edmund, Miss M. E. Scott, Corkery; Sister Alacoque, Miss T. Lynett, Westport; Sister J. Baptist, Miss H. Honegan, Osceala; Sister Victoria, Miss K. Farrelly, Glenburnie; Sister Rita. Rev. C. J. Mea, dean of Regiopolis College, performed the ceremony.

Will Sue the Doctor.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—The fact that a man, named R. Hutt, was sent to the city on Friday by a doctor in Valleyfield, suffering from smallpox, is causing no little concern in the health department at the City Hall. The medical health officer stated yesterday that he would take legal proceedings against the Valleyfield physician for his action.

MEAT PACKING IN DANGER.

Heads of Big Firms Urge Danger of Tariff to Industry.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—An influential deputation of packers waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson yesterday afternoon, urging upon them the injurious effect the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States would have upon the meat-packing industry of Canada. Among them were: J. W. Flavelle and C. S. Blackwell, Toronto; Peter Land and Gun, Montreal; W. E. Mathews, Peterboro; C. W. Ingersoll, W. Irwin, Stratford; W. W. Walker and R. Freeman, Hamilton.

The meat packers of Ontario and Quebec have invested large sums of money on buildings and plants and have the courage to build and equip their houses in advance of the production of hogs necessary to their operation, said the deputation. They have to-day, as they have for the past years, an aggregate capacity greatly exceeding the aggregate supply of hogs. They are therefore greatly concerned, and have great anxiety as to the effect upon these investments if the proposed reciprocity trade relations are established between Canada and the United States.

Hon. Mr. Paterson spoke first in reply to the deputation, and argued that the margin of protection would not be interfered with.

Mr. Fielding said the manufacturers were not always the best judges of what is best to do for their industries. Previous tariff changes had worked out all right.

"We are hopeful that if this agreement goes through you gentlemen will be agreeably surprised," remarked the Minister of Finance.

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone In The Bladder

GIN PILLS PASSED IT

JOLIETTE, P.Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life". 46

Stiff Election Laws.

Quebec, Feb. 14.—Godfroi Langlois, the member for St. Louis, Montreal, is determined to make elections in Quebec clean, if it can be done by means of legislation. He has already introduced a bill prohibiting committee rooms, etc., and yesterday followed it up with another which renders a cabman who lets his rig on election day liable to a fine of $100.

Will Not Abolish Preference.

London, Feb. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable).—Gen. Louis Botha and Dr. Jamieson have cabled The London Daily Mail denying the story that it is the intention of the South African federation to abolish the British preference.

Unable to Land.

Halifax, Feb. 14.—The Government steamer Montmagny, returned from Flint Island yesterday unable to effect a landing on account of heavy ice, which completely blocked Cabot Strait.

The Stanley is fast in the ice off Low Point, C.B. When she gets clear she will go to the Straits of Canso to help clear the ice from the shipping pier of the Inverness Railway & Coal Co., and will afterwards attempt to reach Flint Island and find out the cause of the distress signals which have been flying for several days. The officers of the Montmagny say the people could easily walk to the main land over the ice if they were urgently in need of provisions or medical aid.

RELICS OF THE GRAND OLD CLAN CAMPBELL

Since the outbreak of the war between the South African Republics and Great Britain and her colonies there has been a great revival of interest in relics commemorative of deeds either by Britons or Anglo-Canadians Many of such relics are in possession of citizen of Toronto, and are now the subject of enquiry and renewed examination by their owners and friends

"CAMPBELL OF THE 52ND."

On the 31st of August, 1813, Lieutenant Col. Robert Campbell, of H. M. 52nd regiment, then on active service in the peninsula, volunteered to lead a forlorn hope, or storming party, against San Sebastian. His offer was accepted, and the Col. and his brave soldiers, in the face of a terrible storm of lead, accomplished this purpose. The fatalities were heavy, and the Col received four bullets in his body. He carried them with him until his death at Campbellford, Ont., in 1836, when they were extracted. These bullets are now in the possession of Lieut. Col. Graveley, of Toronto, and are preserved by him in a glass case, with many other relics of the late Col Campbell.

FIRST SETTLERS IN CAMPBELLFORD.

It is interesting to note that Col. Campbell and his brother, Major David Campbell, were the first settlers in Seymour, county of Northumberland, and founded what is now the thriving little town of Campbellford, Ont Lieut. Col. Graveley married the adopted daughter of Major David Campbell, and it was in consequence of this relationship that the mementoes of Colonel Campbells military exploits came into his possession.

INTERESTING RELICS.

Among the most interesting of the relics are several autograph letters One is from the Duke of Wellington to the Duke of Kent, dated July 11, 1819 acknowledging in warm terms of praise the services of the then Brevet Major Campbell, and adding that he has reason to be satisfied with the conduct of Col Campbell, and had recommended him for promotion.

Another autograph letter is from the Duke of Richmond, dated Goodwood June 26, 1827. (The Duke of Richmond died in this country at Sorel from the effects of a bite from a pet fox.) Several letters from the Duke of Kent signed "Edward," in which he expresses his appreciation of Colonel Campbell's services, and a desire to see him at Windsor.

An interesting letter is that from Lord Palmerston, dated, War Office. September 21, 1814 stating that he had submitted to the Prince Regent, Col Campbell's claims for a pension, in consideration for his having been wounded in His Majesty's service, and that His Rayol Highness had been graciously pleased to grant the Col £100 a year in addition to half pay.

SERVICES OF COL. CAMPBELL.

Another document is a statement of the services of Col. Robt. Campbell written by Major-General Luard from the historical records of the 52nd Regiment, (Oxfordshire Light Infantry.) It sets out that Robert Campbell served in the 52nd from 1800 to 1813, and was present at most of the battles in which the Regiment was engaged in the enin-sular War

GOLD MEDAL OF ST. SEBASTIAN.

A letter, dated Horse Guards, August 19th, 1814, signed "Frederick, Duke of York, Commander-in-Chief, informing Col. Campbell, that H. R. H., Prince Regent had been graciously pleased to order a medal to be struck commemorative of the siege and assault of San Sebastian, and his being wounded in the battle of Con, and to be conferred on him with authority to wear it. This gald medal is also in the possession of Lieut. Col. Graveley Only three such medals were issued for San Sebastian and were only given for special service. The other two medals were awarded to Sir Thomas Peton and General Burgoyne. The medal in question is a heavy piece of gold, beautifully engraved and set in srystal, made by the famous jewellers, Rundell, Bridge & Rundell, jewellers to H. R. H., the Prince Regent and containing in a satin lined morocco case with Peninsular ribbon and gold buckle attached. Among the collection is a silver snuff box, lined with gold, presented to Col. Robt Campbell by Col. Mein, 1832.

"MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES."

To return to the record, it also states that Robt. Campbell was mentioned in Lord Wellington's despatches of the 24th of April, 1811, in connection with the affair of Axava, that he was severely wounded at the storming of Badajoz and distinguished himself at the battle of Vittoria. The case in which these relics are shown also contain the sword, sash and epaulettes carried by Col. Campbell at San. Sebastian, the whole being tastefully arranged.

HOW THE RED CROSS DOGS WORK

We are told that in the monasteries on the mountains dogs are so trained by the brotherhood, that they will go out at their masters' command and search for hours upon hours to find some venturesome mountain climber who has succumbed to the terrible cold, or has fallen down a precipice.

And now we find them trained to appear as Red Cross messengers. The Kansas City Star quotes Dr. Derland who is training a squad of intellectual animals for this work in the French army as saying:

The Red Cross dogs recognize no authority except that of a uniformed doctor with a red cross on his arm They will not obey a command that is given by an officer in uniform if the red cross is not on his sleeve. A stranger can put on the doctor's uniform with the band, and instantly the dog greets him as master.

The dogs are trained in two different ways. One set is taught never to bark when a wounded soldier is discovered for fear of exciting the sick or attracting the attention of an enemy who might slaughter even the fallen. The dog will wrestle and pull until he gets the soldier's cap in his mouth. Then he rushes back to camp, giving up his capture as a sign that a soldier in distress has been found. Another set however, gives the alarm by short, but regular howls, which guide the medical sorps to the spot where the wounded lie.

On manoeuvres the "wounded" soldier hides in tall grass or deep down in a ravine for from the temporary camp. One of the dogs is brought out for the test of finding him. He sniffs the air, listens to the wind, and then suddenly he goes forward, first this way and then that,—swinging from side to side like an unsteady ship at sea—nostrils quivering and eyes dilated. After a moment's hesitation he is off, and after a short wait the astute animal is seen afar off bearing the red cap in his mouth. He singles out the doctor and places the cap at his feet. The doctor attaches a leash to him and the dog leads him to the hidden man.

The dogs are taught never to scent out the dead. It is their duty to find the living, but if a soldier is able to stand erect no amount of coaxing will bring the dog within reach for the purpose of securing the liquor that may be strapped on him. The soldier must lie flat on the ground, to all appearances, unable to rise, before the dog will pay any attention to him.

COBALT PIONEER CUT HIS THROAT

COBALT, Feb. 13.—Walking out of his office at Percupine at night, Charles Salkeld, a proneer of Cobalt Camp, took a razor and cut his throat from ear to ear. Though medical aid was quickly forthcoming, the self-inflicted injuries proved fatal. Salkeld first came into Cobalt camp in the spring of 1904, and had been hear ever since, with occasional absences. He staked the Cobalt Coalition on Cross Lake, and made money out of the sale. He went to Porcupine a few weeks ago and opened a mining office there. He was Sergeant-Major in the 16th Lancers in the Boer war, was about 50 years of age, has one son in Canada and a daughter in England.

traction of the internal muscles is effected by work or strain in the cells of the aqueduct of Sylvins. Sometimes the eyes are converged for a vesy near point and used for a long period in this position, as in sewing, reading, etc. Then they pull upon and establish a counterstrain in the external rectus muscles.

In view of the location of these centers there must be a terrific strain in the base of the brain at all times during continued near vision. When the eyes are looking off into the distance, these strains are relieved. This is what gives the brain and nervous system so much rest in the out-of-door or open-air life.

It is a normal and natural function to be able to exert these strains and use the eyes for near work, but it is unnatural and abnormal to exert these strains constantly, as is done in some in-

BED BUGS APPEAR IN A GERMAN COURT

WIESBADEN, Germany, Feb. 13—The County Court decided that a tenant may break his lease in case he finds his flat occupied by others—bedbugs, for instnce. The case involving the decision was a curious one, because the absconding tenant came into court with 12 pins, on which bedbug had been stuck, as a warning to others.

The landlord sued not only for the rent, but for injury to his feelings and reputation, on account of these lanced bed-fellows, but the court decided against him, stipulating that he pay not only the costs of himself, but also those of the accused tenant.

Then to get even the landlord summoned the tenant for cruelty to animals, maintaining that it isn't humane to spear even a bedbug, and that to stick a pin through him while alive is a grave offence. The tenant's reply is that he lanced the bedbugs while the animals were attacking his wife.

DEPLORABLE CASE NEAR PORT HOPE

Family of Six Were Living in Three Rooms in a Filthy Condition

Port Hope Guide :—The old saying "that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives" is very true, and was clearly demonstrated here yesterday. We had in our midst, yes, in the very centre of our town, one of the most deplorable cases that has come to our notice for years. It was through the work of our Children's Aid Society, and Mr W. A. Gunton, of the Department of Neglected Children, Toronto, that this state of affairs was brought to light, and steps have already been taken to remedy it.

It was with an English family, husband, wife, and four children, where the trouble existed. This family was housed in three rooms, and according to Mr. Gunton's report, was in a filthy condition. The children, ranging in age from 1 1-2 to 8 years, had not sufficient clothing to permit them leaving the house, and water was practically unknown to them. Their hair stood straight out, being a mass of grease and filth. There was only one bed in the place, and the only bed clothing found was one quilt, a blanket and a pillow.

Ashes were strewn all about the floor, and when asked if they were not afraid of setting fire to the place, the mother replied that she sprinkled the water on the floor before distributing them.

Mr. Gunton had the four children removed and the mother were brought before Magistrate White.

TOO MUCH REALISM IN THIS "HAMLET"

Florence, Feb. 13.—There has been an exciting and amusing result to the efforts of an Italian theatrical manager to put the utmost degree of realism into his productions on the stage.

Signor Antonio Buonvino is the managing director of the City of Naples Comedy Touring Company. Wishing to make "Hamlet" as realistic as possible, he persuaded the grave-digger at Biella to exhume a couple of skulls from the local cemetery.

When the spectre, weirdly illuminated, appeared on the stage to the Prince of Denmark, some of the audience began to scream, and fled terror-stricken from the theatre.

A public prosecution followed, and the "Comedy King" was fined $60 and sentenced to a month's imprisonment. The magistrate agreed to treat him as a first offender, but insisted that the grave-digger should go to prison for a similar period.

The digger left the dock complaining bitterly. He asserted that his reward for digging the skulls consisted of a paltry couple of francs and half a dozen tickets for the gallery.

WONDERFUL TOYS FOR ROYAL CHILDREN

The little Crown Prince of Russia recently sent to Pu Yi, the baby sovereign of China, a toy railroad that is perfect in every detail. Little engines carry beautifully fitted express, accommodation and freight trains over three-quarters of a mile of toy track Miniature stations, block signals switches, everything that goes to make up a complete modern railway are included in the little czar's Christmas gift.

The toy cost the Russian Government $25,000. In return for it, says the Christian Herald, the baby Pu Yi sent to the baby czarevitch, a trained dwarf elephant and a collection of curious Chinese playthings, among which queer little manikins, no bigger than the ordinary tin soldier, dance queer dances and act out Chinese fairy tales. Miniature ivory men of war sail about on a little glass sea that by some ingenious arrangement reflects shore lines and clouds, sky and trees, for all the world like a real harbor.

Apropos of these wonders there is in the possession of the czar a very remarkable watch. It was made by a Polish mechanic named Jules Curroe. The czar had heard some wonderful tales about the inventive ability of this man, and wishing personally to test his skill, he sent him a parcel containing a few copper nails, some wood chippings, a piece of broken glass, an old cracked china cup, some wire and a few cribbage board pegs. Accompanying this was a command to make them into a timepiece.

Within a remarkably short time the czar received them back in the shape of a watch. The case was made of china and the works of the other odds and ends. So pleased was the czar that he sent for the man and conferred several distinctions upon him.

THE MARVELLOUS POWER OF FRUIT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" IS THE ONLY REMEDY MADE OF FRUIT

Fruit is nature's physician. Fruit juices increase the action of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and form the greatest known blood purifier. Physicians know, however, that it is impossible to use fresh fruit in practice.

"Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—which contain all the medicinal or healing properties of all fruits.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts just like the fresh fruit juices—gently and mildly.

"Fruit-a-tives" is a true stomach tonic—a certain cure for Constipation and Biliousness—the best Kidney Regulator and Blood Purifying Medicine.

QUEER JAPANESE MARRIAGE COMEDY

TOKIO, Feb. 13.—An amusing matrimonial comedy, has been recounted by the "Japan Herald." Briefly put, the story is this: Tsune, a pretty girl of 21, took service in Tokio at the house of a peer. Her uncle, Bunzaburo, who got her the post, introduced her at the end of the service to Sentaro, a young merchant, who sought her hand. Tsune, or rather her uncle, gave it, and the wedding day was fixed. But Tsune had an elder brother, named Yokei, who did not know of these things, and promised Tsune in marriage to his friend Shojoro. He told Tsune he had arranged for the ceremony, and, hearing she was already engaged, ordered her to cancel the previous engagement. Bunzaburo at this stage took a hand in the game, and protested. On the wedding day of Sentaro and Tsune, Yokei arrived. He wished, he said, to congratulate his sister. He did not stop short at this formality. In addition he removed her in a rikashi to the house of Shojoro. Here everything, to a bridegroom, was in readiness for a wedding ceremony, and the ceremony began. Sentaro, with the aid of the police, at length discovered Shejoro and his bride. There was a much wrangling and a sensational struggle, but the police insisted that Tsune was Sentaro's, in virtue of the prior attachment and engagement. So Tsune went off to Sentaro's home, and was married all over again.

BOY SCOUTS HAD OUTING GAME

A scouting game was the feature of last Saturday's outing. Two scouts were given a letter each of, which they had to take to Cannifton and get signed. The rest of the scouts were sent out ahead and at the 20 minute mark spread out over the surrounding country to intercept the letter bearers. The two scouts were successful in geting their letters signed but were caught on the way home. These actual games which are played by the scouts are preparing the boys for their later life by making them more sturdy and strong with a keen sense of perception and judgment.

PRESENTATION TO MISS THOMPSON

On Wednesday evening last a surprise visit was paid to the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, in order to present to Miss Martha Thompson a handsome mahogany music cabinet, also an ornamental ink-stand. The surprise was quite complete, the young lady knowing nothing whatever of what was going to take place. A large gathering assembled, and the number present tested to the utmost the accommodation which was on hand. When all had arrived the chair was taken by Mr. Henry Mullett, who immediately called upon Mrs. Ben. Morton to read the following address :

To Miss Martha Thompson.

Dear Friend :— We, your neighbors and friends, have gathered in your father's house this evening to enjoy a social time, to express our high estimation of your services and to present you with a token of our appreciation of the way you have fulfilled your duties as organist of our church

We would like to record our admiration of your regularity and punctuality in the discharge of your duties as well as the kindly and affable manner you have always evinced towards those who are associated with you in the service of song.

We would convey to you and all members of the choir our sense of the important part you all bear in the public worship of our congregation We meet and follow your lead in our devotions and perhaps forget too often the sacrifice of time and effort our choir has made in preparation for the Sabbath services.

We ask you to accept this music cabinet and ink-stand as a slight token of our appreciation and good-will accompanied by our prayers and best wishes.

We trust that you all may feel the importance of the part you are called upon to perform, and that you may sing with the spirit and the understanding also, and that you may finally join the Heavenly choristers where songs of praise shall never cease.

Signed on behalf of the Moira Methodist congregation.—

George Clare,
Ben. H. Moore,

Moira, Feb. 8th, 1911.

Mr. Geo. Clare made the presentation, and Miss Thompson suitably replied. Appropriate addresses were made by a number of gentlemen present, after which refreshments were served. A musical programme followed, and after a most enjoyable evening the party broke up by the singing of the National Anthem.

HOW FAMOUS PICTURE CAME TO BE PAINTED

Reproductions of Benjamin West's celebrated picture, the Death of Nelson are so frequent as to be known to nearly all; but comparatively few people know how it came to be painted The artist revealed the secret to Ticknor, "a wondrous fellow for dramatic lore and antiquarian research, considering his country," as Scott wrote to Southey. West was showing the American his studio on June 23, 1815 and it was while they were before the painting that the artist told his story

West happened to sit next to Nelson at dinner just before he boarded the Victory for the last time. The admiral bemoaned the fact that he knew little about art, but confessed that there was "one picture whose power I do feel. I never pass a picture shop," he confessed to West, "where your Death of Wolfe is in the window without being stopped by it." Nelson then asked why he had painted no more like it, whereupon the artist said, "There are no more subjects." "I didn't think of that," the admiral replied. "But, my lord," answered West, "I fear your intrepidity will yet furnish me with another scene and if it should I will certainly avail myself of it." "Will you ?" replied Nelson; "will you, Mr. West ? Then I hope that I shall die in the next battle."

DIFFERENT IDEAS OF MORALITY

The Bracebridge Gazette says : As a rule, the man who will steal by getting goods on credit and not paying for them, will steal in any other manner. There can be only one title for a man who does not pay his debts. He is a thief. It is just as bad, morally to go to a tailor and order a suit of clothes and then when made tell him you can't pay him just now, and wind up by not paying him at all—this is just as bad as stealing those clothes off a clothesline. In fact it is worse, because such a thief cannot be sent to prison for it. The dead-beat is about the meanest, rottenest kind of a thief. Once a man came through the back window of my store and got away with an alarm clock. He was caught and got three years at Kingston. The clock was worth $2.50, and the broken window 50 cents. Another man came through the front door talked nicely, lied smoothly, and got away with many times as much. He cannot be sent to the penitentiary because the laws do not permit it. He is a thief, though, such men are low-down thieves.

tea is the result of care and experience in blending—must be the combination of fine flavor, smooth strength and richness. Because all these elements are so generously included in Red Rose Tea it well merits the term "good tea."

SOURCE OF THE RED CROSS

During the Italian War of 1859, young Jean Dunant was traveling in that country. After the battle of Selferina, he visited the field, and seeing the terrible sufferings of the wounded soldiers who lay around untended, he, with the assistance of several peasant women, formed an ambulance service, with its headquarters in a little church at Castiglione. He helped with his own hands to bind up the wounds of Frenchmen, Italians and Austrians alike. "They are all brothers," he said. "A wounded enemy is an enemy no longer." And he and his corps of helpers brought water and medicine and smoothed the pallets of straw, and cheered the unfortunates, and closed the eyes of the dead and performed the last kind offices for the dying. Dunant was regarded by the hundreds of wounded as a miracle of goodness—little less than an angel. "The gentleman in white," was the way in which the officers spoke of him, as he moved around among the sick, his light clothing making him conspicuous on the field.

His experiences at Solferino, where he saw that the willing hands of a few untrained helpers actually saved many lives and comforted hundreds of others, inspired him with the grand idea of an organization—the Red Cross.

WOMAN BEATEN IN RAID ON HOUSE

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.— Both eyes blackened and minus several of her teeth, Mrs. Goatman, of 28 Farm St., arrived at the Court House to-day to swear out a warrant for the arrest of three men, who, she claims, broke into her house Sunday morning, shortly after twelve o'clock, and beat her and pulled out her hair by handsful. She does not think the motive of the assault was robbery, as nothing was stolen, but an old axe, used for cutting kindling wood.

She was in bed with her two children, one a bay, when she was awakened by a noise at the front door. She went down stairs to see what the trouble was; just as she arrived the door was smashed open and three men entered. They hit her in the face knocking her down and kicked her Captain Coleman believes he can locate her midnight assailants. He says the neighborhood is the resort of bad characters. ALGONQUIN NATIONAL PARK.

Many people are unaware of the fact that in Algonquin National Park, 1,600 ft. above sea level, at Algonquin Park Station, a charming hotel known as the "Highland Inn" is open during the winter months for the reception of guests who desire to enjoy the pleasures of outdoor life. The purity of the air and the many amusements than can be enjoyed are just the thing to recuperate a run-down constitution and build the physical over-worked body.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

The manner in which Mr. Northrup roasted the Minister of Finance was almost pitiable to see.

Now is the time to get your popularity candidate ahead of the game. DOUBLE VOTES,— a five year's subscription gives your candidate 200,000 votes. A ten years' subscription, 600,000 votes. Get busy now. No double votes after Feb. 25th.

It is in order for the friends of the ladies who are engaged in The Intelligencer popularity contest to "come down handsomely" in the way of subscriptions.

A spinster in a Pittsburg court refused to tell her age when asked by the opposing counsel. The court ruled that she was old enough to be a competent witness and further questioning would be irrelevant and impertinent.

In view of Sir Wilfrid's answer to the requests of the fruit growers the question may be well asked, says the Guelph Herald, if Parliament has not become a mock debating club. If the Government arbitrarily settles matters like the tariff, and will tolerate no change, representation of the people has assuredly become a costly farce.

The women of London, England, marry when they are 21 to 25 years old. Of the 33,000 spinsters who last year took husbands in that city, 19,000 were between those ages, and only 103 were of the sweet sixteen class. Less than that were 15. The recent census gives 18 to 26 years as the age at which the majority of the women of the United States marry, and brides from 14 to 17 have declined 32 per cent. from the numbers given in the census of 1900. The bride in her 'teens in America is nearly always of foreign extraction, whereas the native American girl weds at the sober age preferred by her British cousin.

Buffalo, Detroit, Duluth, and other ports of the United States are rejoicing over the trade which they will draw from Canada by means of the proposed tariff pact. There are no rejoicings in Canadian ports or on Canadian railways or steamships,—quite the contrary.

Let the Americans make their own tariffs; let us make ours. No deals.—Toronto World.

"Let there be no east; let there be no west. There is altogether too much talk about the east and the west, and not enough about Canada as a whole" —The foregoing from the Winnipeg Free Press is termed by a contemporary "good Canadianism," and so it is. But the Free Press and the west do not live up to it. They have been considering the proposed tariff arrangement without reference to the interests of the east—solely with regard to their own advantage.

MR. NORTHRUP'S CRITICISM OF HON. MR. FIELDING

Member for East Hastings Scores the Minister of Finance—Mr. Fielding is Not the Watchdog of the Treasury—He Repudiates Responsibility for His Colleagues' Accounts—Accepted Them Without Question

A remarkable criticism of the Hon W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance was delivered recently in the House by Mr. W. B. Northrup, Hastings East, after Dr. Reid had appealed to Mr. Fielding for a general and complete investigation by Judge Cassels into the Public Works Department repeating a request he had previously made to Mr. Pugsley.

Mr. Fielding replied :—

"I was not present when my honorable friend made that request to the Minister of Public Works, and I did not hear the Minister's reply, but I think it was probably a wise and proper one."

In the subsequent discussion Mr. Northrup said :—

"This incident is an illustration of the old saying that the unexpected generally happens. The result of this discussion has been in my judgment, to give us in the fast fifteen minutes the most important announcement made on the floor of Parliament in the last fifteen years. Ever since 1896 we have been taught to look on the Minister of Finance, Mr. Fielding as the watchdog of the Treasury, the one man in the Cabinet whose honesty was to be depended upon to prevent the squandering of public money in the departments of colleagues less scrupulous than himself. To-night, however, the Minister of Finance repudiates the idea that at any time he was ever the guardian of the Treasury, and states that he is merely the receptable of the opinions of his colleagues. If any of his colleagues say 'Everything is all right in my department,' then, according to the Minister of Finance, his sole duty is to accept it..

"Now, I have either correctly or incorrectly given the statement made by my hon. friend. There is no member of this House who would be less willing than myself to misrepresent him in any way, and if I have in any degree misunderstood and consequently misrepresented his statement I shall with pleasure give way and allow him to correct the understanding I took from the statement he made on the floor of this House."

Mr. Fielding—"I am not quarrelling with the hon. gentleman's version of what I said. My statement will appear in Hansard, and will speak for itself, and I am willing to be judged by it."

Mr. Northrup—"Unfortunately it is impossible for us to have the Hansard report at this moment, but every hon. gentleman present who heard the statement made will judge the Finance Minister by it, no matter what Hansard may say. I say that the statement he made when appealed to by my hon. friend from Grenville (Dr Reid,) to consent to an investigation into certain departments on the grounds alleged by my hon. friend, namely, that the conditions, the transactions, and the figures of these departments justify an investigation— when that appeal was made, the Minister had but one answer. That answer was this : "I have been told by my colleagues that these figures are correct." Am I right or wrong in this statement ?"

Mr. Fielding—"The hon. gentleman says he does not care what Hansard may say. I do. Hansard will report what happened, and I am content to be judged by Hansard to-morrow."

Mr. Northrup—"I agree with every word that Hansard says to-morrow; but, I am speaking of the present, of to-night, and I am speaking in the presence of hon. members who heard the statement made by the Minister of Finance, and what do we in this House care for what Hansard may say to-morrow ? Does the hon. gentleman expect that the unrevised version of Hansard will give a different statement from that which rang in the ears of every member of this House a few moments ago ? What about this reference to Hansard ? Either Hansard will be correct or it will not. If it be correct it will bear out the statement I have made. If it does not, I say it will be incorrect and I speak in the hearing of those who heard the hon. gentleman."

"I say that the hon. gentleman, when appealed to as the "watchdog of the treasury," repudiated responsibility, as a watch dog. He is not even an alarm clock; it is for him merely to accept the accounts handed in by his colleagues. Hansard, I hope, will report my words as well as those of the Minister of Finance. But, the crucial matter is that this House has, for the first time in its history, heard a Minister of Finance deliberately state on the floor of this House that he practically has no responsibility whatever for the accounts of his colleagues, so long as they tell him those accounts are correct. And think of a Miniter of Finance, who is the only man out of two hundred and twenty members of this House who does not know that the accounts have not been correct for years gone by ?"

"Can any man possibly have attended the meetings of the Public Accounts Committee year after year — and I have seen the Minister of Finance there— when accounts were investigated, and not know that the accounts brought before this House were not correct ? Yet the Minister of Finance, knowing that these accounts are not correct, is prepared in the face of this House and before Heaven, to say that he has no further responsibility to this House and the people of Canada than to accept any statement made to him by any of his colleagues.

"The question before the House is understand and remember—that since the year 1896 there has not been anybody in charge of the Department of Finance, and that the Minister had no responsibility to anybody in this country except his colleagues. We understand now why the Farmers' Bank was chartered."

Gifts To Ministers

There was a remarkable scene in the House of Commons during the debate upon the resolution offered by Mr. Boyce (West Algoma) condemning the reception of gifts by ministers of the crown, especially where secrecy surrounds the transaction. The resolution, as presented, was couched in language used by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the House of Commons twenty years ago and affirmed the resolution moved at that time by Sir Richard Cartwright and unanimously adopted by the House of Commons. It was charged at that time that the Minister of Public Works was in receipt of a testimonial to which contractors had contributed. This, of course, was denied, but full information was not furnished as to where the money came from. Sir Richard Cartwright, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, then in opposition, were eloquent in denouncing the whole affair. Sir Richard offered a resolution which the Government accepted and the House adopted unanimously. Sir Wilfrid (then plain Mr. Laurier), in opposition, went further and demanded that all such gifts, if made at all, should be made with the greatest publicity, so that the public could judge whether or no persons had contributed to the same from whom contributions should not have been accepted.

It was urged upon that occasion that Sir Hector Langevin did not know from whom the money came. This excuse, in Mr. Laurier's opinion, only aggravated the offence, or, as he put it, made the crime more heinous. His words are well worth repeating; they are as follows:

> "The Minister of Justice said a moment ago, in reference to the testimonial offered to the honorable Minister of Public Works, the member for Three Rivers, that that honorable gentleman did not know who were the subscribers. Sir, if he did not know, why did he not look at the list? If the hon. gentleman did not know, it was because he chose to remain ignorant of who were the names on the list, and if he choose to be ignorant of the names which are on the list, is it not because his moral sense told him that he might find there names of persons giving contributions which could not be accepted at all? Is it not simply because his conscience told him that if he were to look at that list he would find there the names of men who were every day supplicants in his office for favors? That is the reason why the honorable Minister of Public Works did not choose to have a look at that list. If that is not the reason, why did he choose to be blind on that matter? Then, I call upon honorable gentlemen opposite to tell what is the reason, if there could be any good reason for it. Certainly there could be nothing wrong in the admirers of a man in public life coming to his help and rescuing him; but it seems to me that the recipient of such favors would be naturally too glad to know who are the persons to whom he owes gratitude, and if he does not choose to know who are those to whom he owes gratitude, it must be because his moral sense tells him that he would find there names which would be a condemnation of his accepting such a testimonial."

What Laurier said about Sir Hector Langevin in 1891 applied with striking force to Mr. Fielding in 1914. Mr. Boyce used it unsparingly. He pressed home the point that if the list was innocent there was no reason for keeping it secret. Secrecy is a badge of fraud the world over.

Fielding made a pitiable appearance when he arose to reply. He seemed to feel deeply his embarrassing situation. He said he had several times refused a testimonial, but had finally yielded to the blandishments of Senator Jaffray of the Toronto Globe. Jaffray had agreed to collect the money and to keep the names of the contributors secret. Even Mr. Fielding was not to know who were his benefactors. He did not know and he does not know of his personal knowledge to-day whether the list included the notorious Sheldon, of Montreal, or Travers, who wrecked the Farmers' Bank.

Still a certain amount of sympathy went out to Mr. Fielding, who, unlike some others, has not become a millionaire since he came to Ottawa. Things would have gone better with him had he kept H. H. Miller, of South Grey, and Mr. Sinclair, of Nova Scotia, in the background. These two gentlemen insisted upon speaking and succeeded in making the Minister appear ridiculous. Mr. Fielding had gotten out of the chamber and was, therefore, spared the mortification of hearing his friend from South Grey. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is said to have looked as if he could bite a nail in two while Miller made himself and the Minister alike ridiculous. Both Miller and Sinclair nauseated the House by their fulsome laudation of Mr. Fielding. They put a halo around his head and called upon all to worship.

Mr. Lennox, the Conservative member for South Simcoe, knocked off the halo. He recalled a few plain facts about Mr. Fielding, who was unseated for corrupt practices of his agents and who had, Mr. Lennox said, debauched his constituency. He showed that the Finance Minister, instead of guarding the treasury, had lavishly expended the money of the public for political gain. Hon. Geo. E. Foster followed in a characteristic speech, which added to the discomfort of the Liberal majority. The majority, however, at the nod of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, voted down Mr. Boyce's resolution, but they cannot do away with the effect which the discussion will have upon the country.

PLEASING FUNCTION

Enjoyable Entertainment Provided for Bodies and Minds of a Large Audience

The people of Christ Church held another successful event in their new parish hall last evening. An excellent supper was served from 6 to 8 p. m., which much enjoyed by the large crowd present

After the tables were cleared away the gathering was called to order by the Rector, who gave a short address. He was pleased, he said, to see such a large number present In the course of his remarks he referred to the excellent services rendered by the different members of the building committee, which was composed of Messrs Walter Alford, J. L. Tickell, Dr. MacColl, John Newton and Thos. Marshall. Mr. Blagrave also announced a donation from Mayor Ackerman of $25, and several smaller sums from others.

After addresses were given by the members of the building committee the cantata—"A Day in Flowerdom" was put on by the members of the choir. The cantata was under the direction of Mrs. Dr. MacColl, and was accompanied throughout by an orchestra of ten pieces. This orchestra was especially organized for this concert and did very creditable werk. All the solo parts were well taken by the different artists. Mr. Frank Robinson rendered a violin solo and was obliged to give an encore.

At the close of the program, just before the curtain went down, Mrs. MacColl was presented with a magnificent bouquet, in appreciation of her services. The entire concert was presented in a very pleasing manner which was evidenced by the very hearty rounds of applause that greeted each performer. The chorus work was especially fine.

Her Secret

Why She Always Looked So Young

Everyone refers to her as one of the most attractive women in town. It wasn't her features, for while regular, they were not unusual. But the charm lay in the head of splendid, vigorous hair that made a veritable crown. It had that peculiar lustre and the sun gave it an added brilliance—you couldn't look at her without unconsciously commenting on the beauty of her hair.

When asked how she kept it so beautiful she replied that it was no secret, simply proper shampooing, regular combing and the conscientious use of Hirsutone. She admitted it had not always been in that condition, but that she found Hirsutone the best thing she ever got for the hair. It gave the scalp such a cool, refreshed feeling, and the hair was so much easier to dress after its use.

There are plenty of heads that would be just as attractive for Hirsutone soon brings the hair and scalp into good condition.

Your Nyal Drug Store will cheerfully guarantee Hirsutone to do all that is claimed for it, and every woman owes it to herself to try it.

VICTIMS OF THE BAKER ESTATE LURE

PHILADELHIA, Feb. 14.— To feel pretty sure of an heirship to a considerable slice of over a million dollars' worth of property in the heart of Philadelphia, and to be informed that all their fees for searches and trips to and from this place and Toronto, had gone for naught, is the disappointment that two residents of Toronto, Canada, carried home with them last week.

George Heise, 270 Huron street, and his son Clarence, a clerk for the C. P. R., living in 23 Bellevue place, Toronto, are the victime. They claimed a portion of the estate of the late Col. Baker, who died over a hundred years ago. Three daughters located in Ontario and the Heises are descendants of one of these.

The department of internal affairs informed young Heise and his lawyer that very many had come to Harrisburg on a similar quest, and the hint was dropped that he would be money in pocket should he decide to return to his desk and dismiss all thoughts of profiting by the demise of the late Col. Baker.

At the city hall, Heise and his lawyer were told that the Baker estate is non-existent. They were informed that about fifteen hundred letters covering the years that have intervened between 1876 and this time, requesting information as to the estate, are on file, or heaped in a box. Some are said to be from other Ontario parties.

The trail of blighted hopes may be traced by means of the letters, many of them yellow with age, from the rockbound coast of New England to the great lakes, to the gulf, and clear out to the Pacific coast, where it is summer all the year round.

An excellent recitation, "Bernardo Del Carpo," was given by Mrs. Lowery, and the humorous readings by Rev. J. W. Forster were much appreciated, as was the recitation by Gladys Ayerst, "A Day at School." Two duets were admirably rendered by Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Bertram. The glees, "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," and "The Broken Pitcher," were very good. Mr. D. McGregor, accompanied by Mrs. P. Ritchie, gave some of his delightful violin solos. THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Depressed by impending reciprocity and by rain in the drought-stricken southwest, miscellaneous holders of wheat sold out to-day with little or no reserve. Much evening up of open interests on the part of shorts caused a rally, but the close, tho firm, was at a net loss of ⅜c to ½c. The day's trade left corn from ⅛c to ⅜c higher than Saturday night. Oats unchanged to ⅛c up; provisions, less expensive by a shade to 20c.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 14.—The market at opening to-day and during yesterday's session showed steadiness on the decrease in local stocks here and improved demand for spot. At the opening to-day values were ⅛d lower to ⅛d higher than Saturday, with the principal strength in March. Following the opening, there developed an easy undertone. Pressure resulted from the liberal world's shipments, increase on passage, heavy Russian shipments, and continued free offers of Plata and Australian wheat.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—The foreign demand for wheat to-day was quiet, and consequently only a few loads were worked on the break in the Winnipeg prices. Oats were quiet and prices easy in sympathy with the weakness in the west. On increased arrivals of American potatoes an easier feeling has developed in the market, and prices have declined five cents per bag, with sales of car lots at 92½c to 95c.

Owing to larger receipts of eggs, prices of new-laid have declined 2c per dozen, but cold storage stock is steady. Cheese is stronger.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

WILL HAVE TO HURRY

Friday Is the Last Day Deputations Will Be Heard.

Valentine Stock Criticizes Government For Scarcity of Teachers In Ontario—D. Racine Brings Up Subject of Bi-lingual Schools—J. Thompson Shows How Reciprocity Is Bound to Hurt the Farmers.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Bilingual schools, reciprocity and the presentation for the Opposition's acceptance or rejection of a big progressive new platform, featured an animated, strenuous and somewhat prolonged sitting of the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Dr. Reaume was given a round of applause on making his first appearance since his return from England.

W. H. Hoyle, chairman of the standing orders committee, gave emphatic notice that Friday would be the last day for the reception of petitions. (Hear, hear, from Sir James Whitney). Under no circumstances did the committee intend to ask for any further extension of time. Feb. 24 would be the last day for the introduction of private bills.

Valentine Stock, South Perth, resumed the budget debate, speaking chiefly in relation to education. The chief inspector of Toronto reported, he said, a great scarcity of teachers. It was evident that what was troubling the country was beginning also to trouble the cities. This could have been avoided if the Government had not changed the model school policy of the Department.

The projected industrial schools for city boys would be a further temptation to rural population to draw them away from the land. This should be offset by an extensive system of agricultural education in rural schools.

J. Thompson, East Peterboro (Con.), declared that in North Peterboro, owing to the niggardly policy of the Liberal Government there were scarcely any schools at all six years ago, but the generous grants of the present administration had provided plenty of schools.

Reciprocity would be a blow to the farmers in more ways than one. Taking eggs, for instance, the average price per dozen was higher in Canada than in the United States, and an equalization would mean millions of dollars' loss to the farmers here. Last year there were 120,000,000 dozens of eggs marketed in Ontario, at an average of 20 cents a dozen. The farmers' revenue was, therefore, $24,000,000.

D. Racine, French Liberal member from Russell, said his people wanted to learn the English language, and have their children learn it in the schools; "but," he added, "we want to keep our mother tongue."

It was a hard thing for the French children to pass examination that were printed and required to be answered in English. If this must maintain, they should be tried both ways.

"We are not getting our share of the grant for our separate schools," he continued. "The old Government gave us more, and the present Minister of Education is not treating us fairly. The public schools of the east, with all their assistance, are not being properly looked after. The results are not as good in them as in our separate schools."

Mr. Racine would be glad to see Ontario and Quebec get closer together—"get mixed," is the way he put it. He was glad to see the vote of $100,000 towards the tercentenary fund last year. It would go a long way in this direction. But, he prophesied, that his honorable friend, G. H. Ferguson from Grenville, would live to regret the motion he had introduced regarding bi-lingual schools.

Sir James Whitney rose to protest that it was clearly contrary to the elementary rules of procedure to refer to a subject which was already on the order paper. It should not be discussed till that order of business was reached.

A. A. Aubin, French Conservative member from Sturgeon Falls, contrasted the treatment accorded to the north country under Liberal and Conservative rule.

The present Government was getting as much revenue from small areas of timber to-day as the old Government did for immensely large areas. The present Government had kept its word to the people in every particular—free grants to settlers, colonization carried on, no timber given away, license law enforced, and education advanced.

Allan Studholme, Hamilton East (Labor), said that from the speeches one would think there was nobody in this province but farmers. Their one cry had been "More for the poor farmer." While the farmers were admittedly prosperous, the conditions of labor called for amelioration. The prosperous Ontario farmer was aided by the Government last year to the extent of $700,000. He regarded the immigration grants as worse than wasted.

Hon. A. G. MacKay moved the adjournment of the debate.

At the instance of Toronto Council, W. D. Macpherson gave notice that he would introduce a bill giving reels, engines and vehicles of fire departments the right of way over streets and highways while proceeding to a fire or answering a fire alarm call.

Spectacular Suicide.

New York, Feb. 15.—The most spectacular suicide that New York has ever known took place at Washington avenue and Montgomery street, Brooklyn, yesterday, when a well-dressed man coolly climbed twenty feet above the pavement, drove a nail to a sign which hung over the street, placed one end of a rope about his neck and tied the other about the nail and then dropped. He was found dead shortly afterward by a policeman.

The man had climbed up one of the poles supporting the sign. The dead man was about sixty years old, and there was nothing in his possession by which he could be identified.

Interesting Hague Trial.

The Hague, Feb. 15.—The permanent court of arbitration assembled yesterday to determine the case of the Indian law student, Savarkar, in dispute between Great Britain and France. After preliminaries of opening, the session was adjourned until Thursday, when arguments will be made.

Savarkar, an Indian subject of Great Britain, was arrested on his arrival in London, March 13, 1910, charged with sedition, and ordered extradited to India for trial. When the vessel upon which he was being taken home stopped in Marseilles harbor, Savarkar crawled through a porthole and swam ashore. He was captured in Marseilles by the French police, while running through the streets and calling out that he be taken before a magistrate. He was turned over to British detectives and taken on to Bombay for trial. The French Socialists raised the question of whether the student was properly surrendered to the British officers after he had set foot on French soil, and appealed for refuge as a political prisoner.

The case excited so much controversy that the Governments of Great Britain and France exchanged notes on the subject, and last fall agreed to submit to The Hague tribunal this question:

"Ought Vinayak Damodar Savarkar, in conformity with the rules of international law, to be or not be surrendered by the Government of his Britannic majesty to the Government of the French Republic?"

The action of the labor associations followed a conference here on Monday at which T. V. O'Connor, Buffalo, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, was chairman. At this meeting were representatives of the dredge workers, engineers, and cranemen, licensed tugmen, tug firemen and the submarine and rock drill workers. The organization last named already has an eight-hour day. The other four want a similar limit to their hours of labor.

J. J. Warren's Home-Coming.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—J. J. Warren, manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., who was summoned to answer in the Police Court on Friday, a charge of conspiring, with Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, C. S. Smith and J. R. Stratton, to obtain a charter for the Farmers' Bank by fraud. On Monday his two-months-old son died, and he knew nothing of it till he arrived home.

Not as Bad as Painted.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—There are objections in connection with the recent address of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst in Toronto, where she stated that some of the female employes of Hull, Que., received only $1.80 per week as wages. No one can be found accepting anything less than $3 a week, and those very young girls.

IS A DANGEROUS STEP

Hon. George E. Foster Warns Government of Outcome.

In Brilliant Speech on the Tariff Question, He Declares That Sir Wilfrid Has Broken His Pledge to Appoint a Commission—Cry of "Too Late" Spoken to Fruit Growers Shows Utter Helplessness.

Ottawa,, Feb. 15.—Hon. George E. Foster presented the Conservative case against reciprocity with the United States in the House of Commons yesterday, concluding the partially delivered speech of Thursday last. He dealt with the question open-handedly, commencing at a few minutes past three, and did not conclude until a quarter of six. The House was at times apathetic, sympathetic, and finally enthusiastic. Mr. Foster obtained a patient hearing throughout, receiving many congratulations at the conclusion of his address.

Mr. Foster's arraignment of the Government was bitter. His chief argument was that acceptance of the reciprocity proposals means abandonment of the confederation ideal, developed since 1867. The object of the United States was political, not economical, in short, it spelt continental union. The United States, he declared, coveted Canadian natural resources, and in five years the trusts would have gobbled everything that was lying loose. It involved a breach of faith with British investors, and the instability of the arrangement would deter the incoming of both capital and labor.

He charged Sir Wilfrid Laurier with breaking his pledge not to revise the tariff until a commission had been appointed, and charged the Government with helplessness in the face of the fruit growers' demands, replying that it was "too late." This was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that a telegram expressing satisfaction with prevailing conditions had been received from the Fruit Growers' Convention on Dec. 15. He challenged the statement that the preference had been scrupulously maintained, and argued that profitable reciprocity would have been with the West Indies and Great Britain. He asked if Canada was through with responsible government, and said that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson had crept into Washington with fear and trembling and had brought back a mortgage. If Canada had abandoned reciprocity 25 years before she did, the country would have been that much farther ahead to-day.

In a dramatic peroration he exclaimed: "This land of ours, we have made it, we and our fathers, we have wrought so in order to bestow a great gift upon a rich nation." The United States was engaged in a conquest of Canada, to unify the continent, where the power of the republic would be supreme. "This proposal cuts square across the national ideal, challenges it at every point, will endanger it undoubtedly, may destroy it entirely."

Dr. Neely (Humbolt, Sask.), who followed, said the proposal had the endorsement of every farmer in the west. It would bring prosperity as Canada never had it before, and those who opposed it would have to answer to the people.

Hon. Clifford Sifton was in the House during the entire debate and was a silent but interested spectator from his seat in the front row.

"The Flaneur" Is Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Mr. H. H. Wiltshire, who was one of the oldest newspapermen in the city, died at the General Hospital last night. He had been ailing for about two months through a gradual breaking down of his constitution. He remained at his residence, 359 Givens street, till about a week ago, when he was removed to the hospital.

Mr. Henry Horace Wiltshire was born in London, England, about 75 years ago. When a lad he was apprenticed to the printing trade, which, in those days, was the first step to reporting, and later he was for over twenty years connected with The London Times. He came to Canada about twenty-seven years ago and took a position with The Mail, where he started editing of the page which is widely known as that of "The Flaneur."

Exclude Dynamite.

New York, Feb. 15.—It is announced that the Municipal Explosives Commission of Greater New York which has been informally investigating the recent Communipaw explosion and several other less serious accidents with dynamite and other explosives in the vicinity of the city, is considering the advisability of prohibiting entirely the use of dynamite within the city limits.

The commission's contemplated action would not only shut out dynamite for the purposes of blasting, but would also prevent its transportation or shipment from or to piers or terminals within the corporate limits.

Bad Wreck In France.

Courville, France, Feb. 15.—A bad collision occurred near here last evening on the western section of the State Railroad, when the expresses for Paris and Brest dashed simultaneously into a freight train which was being sidetracked. The wreckage immediately caught fire.

Nine bodies were taken from the wreck up to midnight, and one of the eight injured recovered died, making the total number of fatalities ten. It was apparent, also to the searching parties that other bodies are still uncovered, as charred flesh was visible under the debris, which was still blazing at that hour.

A Case of Hold-Up.

Kingston, Feb. 15.—Magistrate Farrell committed Patrick Burns for trial on a charge of holding up and assaulting John Hickey last Tuesday night. James Rigney, who shadowed two men from the scene identified Burns as the man who was implicated.

DEMOCRATS PASS BILL

McCall Measure Now Goes to the U. S. Senate.

With a Solid Majority of Democrats In Its Favor the Ratification of the Tariff Agreement Goes Through the Lower Chamber In Congress—Debate One of the Bitterest In Years—Democrat Put In Chair.

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada was ratified in the House of Representatives last night, through the support of an almost solid Democratic vote. The McCall bill, carrying the agreement into effect, was passed by 221 to 92. A majority of the Republicans present voted against the measure, the division being 78 ayes and 87 noes. The Democratic vote was 143 ayes and only 5 noes. A majority of the Republican insurgents voted for the bill.

The McCall bill now goes to the Senate. What its fate will be in that body is problematical at this time. President Taft believes that if a filibuster can be avoided and a vote taken, the bill will pass.

The passage of the bill in the House came at the end of a long debate, which at times was as bitter as has been heard on the floor of that chamber in years. The fight was confined almost wholly to the Republican side. Democratic members joined in from time to time, and taunted the majority members for their lack of unity. The Democratic leaders also put in the claim that the reciprocity agreement was good Democratic doctrine, and declared that they were glad to welcome President Taft and many of the House Republicans into the Democratic fold. The suggestion came from the Republican side that Mr. Taft and Champ Clark might be rivals for the next Democratic Presidential nomination. Mr. Clark claimed that in case of a contest of that sort, he would win "hands down."

A final vote was reached last night only through the application of a closure rule, which shut off all amendments, and even dispensed with the reading of the bill. The procedure was decided upon only after Mr. McCall had failed to get unanimous consent to do away with the calendar of Wednesday. If that had been secure, he said he would have been glad to let the debate continue for another legislative day.

The Republicans opposed to the bill fought till the very last, denouncing it in caustic language. They directed their fire especially against the Democrats, and accused them, on the eve of going into power in the House of enforcing a "gag" rule as drastic as anything against which they had so eloquently inveighed in the past.

It has been apparent for several days that the reciprocity measure would have an overwhelming majority in the House. This seemed to make its opponents all the more bitter. Some of the old guard Republican leaders, like Dalziell of Pennsylvania and Fordney of Michigan, gave it as their predictions that the Republican party would be defeated by reason of what they characterized a departure from the principal of protection and the espousal of free trade. Mr. Dalziell proposed to stand where he had stood for forty years, and to "go down" with his party. Mr. Fordney said he feared that Democratic times were coming, and that made him "sweat blood" to contemplate the melancholy fact.

Speaker Cannon took no part in the debate either Monday or yesterday. He was in the chamber constantly, however, and followed the arguments on both sides with the keenest interest. There was loud applause and cheering in the House last night when on the first record vote that was ordered the Speaker called Representative Ollie James of Kentucky, one of the leaders of the Democratic side, to the chair. Mr. James sat there all through the roll call, and when he announced the vote the cheering was renewed. This is said to be the only time a Democrat has been called to preside over the House since the Republicans gained control.

Society Girl a Heroine.

Boston, Feb. 15.—Three firemen were injured and the lives of eighteen other persons were imperilled by fire in the Hotel Dartmouth at Roxbury early yesterday.

Two aged women, who were nearly suffocated by smoke, were carried from the third floor to the street.

A Roxbury society girl and a Conservatory of Music student proved a heroine. She assisted the police and firemen in getting the people out of the building, and refused to leave until she was sure that everybody had reached the street in safety.

Col. Balfour Dead.

London, Feb. 15.—Col. Eustace J. A. Balfour, brother of the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P., died yesterday. He was formerly an officer of the Scottish Guards and subsequently aide-de-camp to King Edward and King George. He was the fifth son of the late James Balfour, M.P., and in 1879 married Lady Frances Campbell, fifth daughter of the eighth Duke of Argyll.

No Change In Policy.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—L. J. Tarte of La Patrie, gave out last evening a statement that there is absolutely no truth in the report that Mr. Thomas Cote will join the staff of La Patrie in order to conduct a pro-reciprocity campaign. He has accepted a position on the staff like any other writer, and will be subject to the policy of the paper.

Sir A. P. Pelletier Resigns.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—It is understood here that the resignation of Sir A. P. Pelletier as Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec has been received and that Sir Francis Langlier, acting chief justice of the Superior Court of the province, will be appointed in his stead.

COL. M'GILLIVRAY IS DEAD.

Was a Prominent Figure In Fraternal Circles.

Guelph, Feb. 15.—The death occurred here yesterday, after an illness of several years, of Lieut.-Col. John Alexander McGillivray, eldest son of the late George McGillivray of Whitby.

The deceased was born in Whitby on July 19, 1852, and was prepared for matriculation to the Toronto University at the collegiate institute of that town.

He studied law in Oshawa, and on being called to the Bar started practice in Port Perry. He subsequently removed to Uxbridge, where he soon enjoyed an extensive and lucrative practice. He early became prominent in political circles, and unsuccessfully contested North Ontario against Isaac J. Gould for a seat in the local House. Nothing daunted, he turned his attention to Dominion affairs, and was returned in a bye-election to support the administration of Sir John Thompson.

In fraternal societies, the late Col. McGillivray was quite prominent. In the Masonic craft he rose to the rank of D.D.G.M. of Toronto district. In the Foresters he occupied the position of supreme secretary for many years and until failing health compelled him to resign. Although busily engaged in the practice of law while at Uxbridge, he found time to administer at least two farms and to encourage agriculture in its various branches. He was among the first, if not the first, to import the horned Dorset sheep into Canada, and for many years his services were sought after by the Industrial Exhibition Board as a director. He was elected president in 1906, but in a short time he was overtaken by illness that rendered his discharge of his important duties more than he could bear, and his resignation followed. He early sought to serve his country through the medium of the Canadian militia by joining Uxbridge company of the 34th Regiment as a lieutenant. He remained with the regiment until he became its commanding officer in 1902. He leaves a widow and one son, Gordon. The funeral will be held at Uxbridge on Thursday at 2.30 p.m.

Wishart Goes to Ireland.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The warrant of surrender of Abraham Wishart, a former sergeant in the Royal Irish Constabulary, has been signed by the Governor-General, and he will start back to-day with Sergt. MacNeise, who came across the sea after him. Wishart is only charged with theft of about $15 from a fellow constable, which illustrates the strictness of discipline in the organization. Wishart was arrested three months ago, and has been kept in jail on remand since. He pleads innocence.

Canadian Doctors Prescribe and Recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The good results derived from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the great tonic stimulant, among leading doctors have been so marvelous that they feel it their duty to express themselves publicly for the benefit of the profession as well as the public health.

Known It Twenty Years

"I might say that I have known Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for twenty years, and am happy to tell you that I consider it the purest and very best product on the market." Dr. J. J. A. Asselin, Ste. Rose, Quebec.

I Often Prescribe It

"I do not advocate indiscriminate use of alcohol, but I often prescribe it in moderate doses, especially for elderly people suffering from senile changes and debility. I order it to be taken during the principal meal of the day and well diluted. An important matter is to find a safe and reliable liquor. While I practised my profession in Boston, Mass., which I did for twenty-five years, I had frequent occasion to order Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey among my elderly patients, and I must say the result was to their advantage." Prosper Bender, M. D., Quebec, Que.

Beneficial Results

"I have employed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey where indicated for a great many years with great success. I would not be without it, as it is a pure and palatable beverage. Have had the best results after lingering illness and in children and the old. Its low proof and delicate flavor make it most acceptable and beneficial, hastening convalescence." J. P. Sivewright, M. D., Chatham, Ont.

These are a few of the letters received from practising physicians throughout Canada, who, like their brothers in the United States, realize that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the greatest remedial agent and the most nutritious tonic stimulant for building up the weak, aiding digestion and prolonging life.

All grocers and liquor dealers or direct $1.25 a large bottle. Refuse substitutes and imitations; they are injurious. Send for free medical booklet and doctor's advice.

traction of the internal muscles is effected by work or strain in the cells of the aqueduct of Sylvius. Sometimes the eyes are converged for a very near point and used for a long period in this position, as in sewing, reading, etc. Then they pull upon and establish a counter-strain in the external rectus muscles.

In view of the location of these centers there must be a terrific strain in the base of the brain at all times during continued near vision. When the eyes are looking off into the distance, these strains are relieved. This is what gives the brain and nervous system so much rest in the out-of-door or open-air life.

It is a normal and natural function to be able to exert these strains and use the eyes for near work, but it is unnatural and abnormal to exert these strains constantly, as is done in some in-

C. P. R. IS TO BUILD ALONG THE FRONT

New Charter Granted by the Railway Committee—The Old Route is Included—The C. P. R. Gets Its Way, and Northumberland County Can Whistle For Its Wants—G. P. Graham's "Solution"—Railway Wins the Battle of the Routes

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. have won the battle of the routes and will build their Toronto-Ottawa line through Belleville via the lake front route, as anticipated by The Intelligencer.

The Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Ry. Co. bill occasioned another long discussion in the Commons Railway Committee yesterday morning. The objection to it is that the C. P. R., which has the charter, proposes to avoid running through the rear of Northumberland Co. and to run along the lake front instead. A delegation from Northumberland opposed the change of route.

Hon. Mr. Graham said he did not want to see the old route taken out of the charter. He thought the better plan was to have the new route included also. Col. Thompson, for the C.P.R., said he would accept this.

Sam Clarke, M.P.P., demanded that the old charter be kept as it was. Mr. Graham said it was one thing or the other. They must accept the amendment, as he suggested it, or lose the charter altogether. If the old charter became dead, they would not be in a position to negotiate with the C.P.R.

C. L. Owen, M.P., was prepared to accept Mr. Graham's suggestion, but E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., said the arrangement was a farce. It might as well wipe out the old charter, for the C.P.R. did not intend to build.

The bill was reported as amended, maintaining the old charter and granting the new.

MRS. CLARKE'S FUNERAL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Angelina Clarke took place this afternoon from the residence of Mr. S. A Moore, Grove street. The services were conducted by the Rev. H. B. Kenny, of the Tabernacle church. Interment took place at the Belleville cemetery. The bearers were frinds of the family.

The Grand Trunk Pacific's General Passenger Department has been advised by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa that there are approximately 10,800 quarter sections surveyed in the Grande Prairie, Peace River District, which are now open for homestead entry. In addition to this, it is the intention to subdivide 27 more townships, nearly 4,000 quarter sections during the present season, making in all about 15,000 quarter sections for free homestead entry in 1911 in the far famed Peace River Country.

A new wagon road has been constructed, partly by the government and partly by the merchants of Edson, Alta., through to the Grande Prairie Country, a distance of 165 miles from Edson, which is all practically completed and is reported to be remarkably level, with no heavy hills, and over which heavy loads may be drawn with ease. Road houses have also been established along this wagon road and the settler will be able to travel in comparative ease and at slight expense from Edson on the Grand Trunk Pacific this year in the course of a week where the former routes via Edmonton and Lesser Slave Lake occupied several months and very great cost. The whole distance to be traversed being over four times as long as the new route.

It is reported that there are thousands of prospective homesteaders, especially in the northwestern United States who have been waiting eagerly for the opening of the Peace River Country to homesteading, and when the announcement reaches them there will be the greatest land rush into the Peace River and Grande Prairie Country that has ever taken place to any section of Canada. The Grand Trunk Pacific is accordingly taking means to have adequate transportation facilities between Winnipeg Edmonton and Edson to provide for the very large traffic expected.

BRIDGE STREET EPWORTH LEAGUE

The Missionary Committee had charge of the meeting on Monday evening and gave a very interesting and instructive programme. Several stirring hymns were sung and earnest prayers offered; then four of the members told of some missionaries who were true heroes, showing that the world's battle-field is not the only place where great things are done and courage of a high order displayed. These papers and addresses were listened to with great pleasure and profit and showed that the subjects were well prepared.

Millions of Lives

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths

If people could only understand that systemic catarrh is an internal disease that external applications cannot cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this malady, which, when neglected, paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made catarrh a specialty, and whose record was a patient restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will completely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails or for reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendations and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Very often the taking of one 50-cent bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1.00 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Belleville only at our store— The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM---it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, In Plain English; or, Medicine Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised up-to-date Edition, paper-bound, sent for 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

PIONEER DAYS AT THE CARRYING PLACE

Mrs. Charlotte Bull, Aged 100 Years, Tells an Interesting Story—State of Affairs in Early Days—A Block House at the Carrying Place—British Government Provided for the Immigrants—Mrs. Bull Was One of First Passengers on the Grand Trunk

Mrs. Charlotte Bull, widow of the late George F. Bull, celebrated her 100th birthday at the home of her son-in-law, J. A. Robson, Brighton, Sunday, Feb. 5. Still vigorous, physically and mentally, she reminisces interestingly over pioneer days in Prince Edward County. She spent her girlhood at the Carrying Place.

As an evidence of the unceasing ambition and youthfulness of mind and body, in the last few years, Mrs. Bull has pieced over forty quilts as a pastime. To-day she practically waits on herself.

Mrs. Bull was born in Plymouth, Eng., Feb. 5, 1811. Her father, a ship carpenter, emigrated to Canada about 1874, landing on the Bay of Quinte shore near Trenton, at what is known as the Carrying Place, so named because at this point years ago the Indians carried their canoes from Presqu 'Isle to the Bay of Quinte, and it was the scene of every phase of the red man's life when he was master of forests and streams. Mrs. Bull said there were many Indians in that neighborhood when they arrived, and for many years afterward, but they were always peaceable and the settlers had no fear of them. The Indians said they liked the English, but they did not like the Americans.

Mrs. Bull relates that the British Government sent her father and family out to Canada with other well-known families of this district, among them being such names as Page, Evans (two families), Bullock, Corbett, Melville, Cowan, Bell, Smith, Powers, Brown, Potts and Kelly (two families).

At the Carrying Place the British Government had erected a large blockhouse to shelter the immigrants until they could build their own houses on the farms allotted to them in what is now known as the English Settlement, and furnished them with provisions and blankets for one year, and also supplied them with everything to build their houses, except the lumber, which they got out of the timber growing on the land. The Government also supplied them with farm implements and tools, including a grindstone, and everything to carry on farming operations.

Two families were furnished with a yoke of oxen. She can well remember that the British Government had stored at the Carrying Place a quantity of flour, blankets, glass, putty, which, instead of being given to the settlers, was for some reason which she cannot recall thrown into the bay or destroyed. She remembers that the flour had been kept until spoiled and the blankets were eaten by rats and mice.

Mrs. Bull's mother died and left her as her father's housekeeper at the age of thirteen.

At twenty-three, Mrs. Bull, whose maiden name was Charlotte Potts, was married at the Carrying Place, and shortly afterward went with her husband to reside in the Township of Cramahe, near Warkworth. Subsequently their abode was in Smithfield where they kept a Temperance House sixty-nine years ago. It was one of the regular stopping places of the old stage coach, where horses were changed for a fresh start on the long journey through the country.

Among the number on the first G. T.R. passenger car were Mr. and Mrs. Bull travelling to Alton, Ont., during which journey they were storm bound for a week at Cheltenham near Toronto. Alton was their home for a number of years.

Mrs. Bull is the mother of nine children, six daughters and three sons, only three of whom are living: Mrs. Rowcliffe, Melvin, Ill.; Mrs. A. E. Lee, Toronto Junction, and Manlius Bull, Winnipeg.

An interesting fact is that Mrs. Bull has lived during the reign of six British sovereigns: King George III.; George IV.; William IV.; Queen Victoria; King Edward VII. and King George V.

TETRAZLINI IN GRAND OPERA

Wherever this queen of song appears she electrifies her audience. Nothing else is to be expected, says one, from that voice of "Liquified and rarefield gold." This was the effect on the large audience that assembled in the Vancouver Opera House, a week ago, when the famous diva appeared in grand opera. At the Vancouver concert, as will be the case everywhere else in Canada where Tetrazzini appears, a piano of the old firm of Heintzman & Co., Ltd. was used. This famous Canadian piano is sold in this district only by Mr. W. B. Riggs Belleville, Ont.

HOCKEY.

At the Arena last evening the Trenton Junior O. H. A. team and the Junior T. A. S. team of this city played a friendly game with the result that the Trenton team was defeated by a score of 4 to 2. This is the second defeat administered to the Trenton team by the T. A. S. Juniors. Mr. Leo Barrett was referee, and a goodly number of spectators witnessed the game.

The Midland club will play at Whitby on Friday night in the O. H. A intermediate semi-finals. The return game will be played in Midland the following Tuesday night.

The Orillia youngsters who beat the University of Toronto Juniors last night and put the students out of the running are one of the youngest teams in the series. Five of them played lacrosse in the C. L. A., junior series last season, and are less than seventeen years of age.

Peterboro, Feb. 14.—Kingston Frontenacs won here again to-night by a score of 9 to 3, after being behind at half time by 3 to 2. The locals outplayed the champions in the first half Kingstonians ran away in the second period, scoring 7 goals, while the Grillers were unable to find the nets at all. Williams, who replaced March and in goal, blocked steadily. Peterboro had numerous chances to score in the second period, but poor shooting offset their work in mid-ice.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

It was his prudent habit to halt in small villages only. Towns might be traversed quickly without much risk, as even the tiniest display of force insured safety, but it was wise not to permit the size of his escort to be noted at leisure, when a surprise attack might be made in the darkness.

Therefore, expecting to arrive at Cawnpore early next day, he elected not to push on to Bithoor, and proposed to pass the night under the branches of a great pipal tree. Chumru, his Mohammedan bearer, was a good cook, in addition to his many other acquirements. Having purchased or made his master pay for, which is not always the same thing in India, a small kid (by which please understand a young goat) in the village, he lit a fire, slew the kid, to the accompaniment of an appropriate verse in the Koran and compounded an excellent stew.

A native woman brought some chupatties and milk, and Malcolm, being sharp set with hunger, ate as a man can only eat when he is young and in all day.

He had a cigar left, too, and he was searching his pockets for a piece of paper to light it when he brought forth that Persi-Arabic letter which reached him at the close of the second battle of Ghazi-ud-din Nuggur.

He was on the point of rolling it into a spill, but some subtle influence stopped him. He rose, walked to Chumru's fire, and lit the cigar with a burning stick. Then summoning a smart young jemadar with whom he had talked a good deal during the journey, he asked him to read the chit. The woman who supplied the chupatties fetched a tiny lamp. She held it while the trooper bent over the strange scrawl, and ran his eyes along it to learn the context.

And this is what he read:

"To all whom it may concern—Be it known that Malcolm-sahib, late of the Company's 3rd Regiment of Horse, is a friend of the heaven-born princess Roshinara Begum, and, provided he comes to the palace at Delhi within three days from the date hereof he is to be given safe conduct by all who owe allegiance to the Light of the World, the renowned King of Kings and lord of all India, Bahadur Shah, Fuzl-Ilahi Panah-i-din."

The trooper scowled. Those concluding words—"By the grace of God, Defender of the Faith"—perhaps touched a sore place, for he, too, was a true believer.

"You are a long way from Delhi, sahib, and the chit is a week old. I suppose you did not pay the expected visit to her Highness the Begum?" he said.

"If you are talking of the Begum Roshinara, daughter of the King of Delhi," put in the woman, who was ready enough to indulge in a gossip with these good-looking soldiers, "she passed through this place to-day."

"Surely you are telling some idle tale of the bazaar," said Malcolm.

"No, sahib. My brother is a grasscutter in the Nana's stables. While I was at the well this morning a carriage came down the road. It was a rajah's carriage, and there were men riding before and behind. I asked my brother if he had seen it, and he said that it brought the Begum to Bithoor, where she is to wed the Nana."

"What! A Mohammedan princess marry a Brahmin!"

"It may be so, sahib. They say these great people do not consider such things when there is aught to be gained."

"But what good purpose can this marriage serve?"

The woman looked up at Malcolm under her long eyelashes.

"Where have you been, sahib, that you have not heard that the sepoys have proclaimed the Nana as King?" she asked timidly.

"King! Is he going to fight the Begum's father?"

"I know not, sahib, but Delhi is far off, and Cawnpore is near. Perchance they may both be kings."

A man's voice called from the darkness, and the woman hurried away. Malcolm, of course, was in a position to appraise the accuracy of her story. He knew that the Nana, a native dignitary with a grievance against the Government, was a guest of Bahadur Shah a month before the Mutiny broke out, and was at the Meerut hunting lodge on the very night of its inception. Judging by Princess Roshinara's words, her relations with the Brahmin leader were far from loverlike. What, then, did this sudden journey to Cawnpore portend? Was Sir Hugh Wheeler aware of the proposed marriage, with all the terrible consequences that it heralded? At any rate, his line of action was clear.

"Get the men together, Akbab Khan," he said to the jemadar. "We march at once."

Within five minutes they were on the road. There was no moon, and the trees bordering both sides of the way made the darkness intense. The still atmosphere, too, was almost overpowering. The dry earth, sunbaked to a depth of many feet, was giving off its store of heat accumulated during the day. The air seemed to be quivering as though it were laden with the fumes of a furnace. It was a night when men might die or go mad under the mere strain of existence. Its very languor was intoxicating. Nature seemed to brood over some wild revel. A fearsome thunderstorm or howling tornado of dust might reveal her fickleness of mood at any moment.

It was man, not the elements, that was detined to war that night. The small party of horsemen were riding through the scattered houses of Bithoor, and had passed a brilliantly-lighted palace which Malcolm took to be the residence of Nana Sahib, when they were suddenly ordered to halt. Some native soldiers, not wearing the Company's uniform, formed a line across the road. Malcolm, drawing his sword, advanced towards them.

"Whose troops are you?" he shouted.

There was no direct answer, but a score of men, armed with muskets and bayonets, and carrying a number of lanterns, came nearer. It must be remembered that Malcolm, a subaltern of the 3rd Cavalry, wore a turban and sash. He spoke Urdu exceedingly well, and it was difficult in the gloom to recognize him as a European.

"We have orders to stop and examine all wayfarers—" began some man in authority; but a lifted lantern revealed Frank's white face; instantly several guns were pointed at him.

"Follow me!" he cried to the escort.

A touch of the spurs sent Nejdi with a mighty bound into the midst of the rabble who held the road. Malcolm bent low in the saddle and a scattered volley revealed the tree-shrouded houses in a series of bright flashes. Fortunately, under such conditions, there is more room to miss than to hit. None of the bullets harmed horse or man, and the sowards were not quite near enough to be in the line of fire. After a quick sweep or two with his sword, Malcolm saw that his men were laying aboutt hem heartily. A pack-horse, however, had stumbled, bringing down the animal ridden by Chumru, the bearer. To save his faithful servant Frank wheeled Nejdi, and cut down a native who was lunging at Chumru with a bayonet.

More shots were fired and a sowar was wounded. He fell, shouting to his comrades for help. A general melee ensued. The troopers slashed att hte men on foot and the sepoys fired indiscriminately at any one on horseback. The uproar was so great and the fighting so strenuous that Malcolm did not hear the approach of a body of cavalry until a loud voice bawled:

"Why should brothers slay brothers? Cease your quarreling, in the name of the faith! Are there not plenty of accursed Ferinhis on whom to try your blades?"

Then the young officer saw, too late, that he was surrounded by a ring of steel. Yet he strove to rally his escort, got four of the men to obey his command, and, placing himself in front, led them at the vague forms that blocked the road to Cawnpore. In the confusion, he might have cut his way through had not Nejdi unfortunately jumped over a wounded man at the instant Frank was aiming a blow at a sowar. His sword swished harmlessly in the air, and his adversary, hitting out wildly, struck the Englishman's head with the forte of his saber. The violent shock dazed Malcolm for a second, but all might yet have been well were it not for an unavoidable accident. A sepoy's bayonet became entangled in the reins. In the effort to free his weapon the man gave such a tug to the bit on the near side that the Arab crossed his fore-legs and fell, throwing his rider violently. Frank landed fairly on his head. His turban saved his neck, but could not prevent a momentary concussion. For a while he lay as one dead.

When he came to his senses he found that his arms were tied behind his back, that he had been carried under a big tree, and that a tall native, in the uniform of a subadar of the 2nd Bengal Cavalry, was holding a lantern close to his face.

"I am an officer of the 3rd Cavalry," he said, trying to rise. "Why do you, a man in my own service, suffer me to be bound?"

"You are no officer of mine, Feringhi," was the scornful reply. "You are safely trussed because we thought it better sport to dangle you from a bough than to stab you where you dropped. Quick, there, with that heel-rope, Abdul Huq. We have occupation. Let us hang this crow here to show other Nazarenes what they may expect. And we have no time to lose. The Nana may appear at any moment."

CHAPTER V.

A Woman Intervenes

That ominous order filled Malcolm's soul with a fierce rage. He was not afraid of death. The wine of life ran too strongly in his veins that craven fear should so suddenly quell the excitement of the combat that had ended thus disastrously. But his complete helplessness—the fact that he was to be hanged like some wretched felon by men wearing the uniform of which he had been so proud—these things stirred him to the verge of frenzy.

Oddly enough, in that moment of anguish he thought of Hodson, the man who rode alone from Kurnaul to Meerut. Why had Hodson succeeded? Would Hodson, knowing the exceeding importance of his mission, have turned to rescue a servant or raise a fallen horse? Would he not rather have dashed on like a thunderbolt trusting to the superior speed of his charger to carry him clear of his assailants? And Nejdi! What had become of that trusted friend? Never before, Arab though he was, had he been guilty of a stumble. Perhaps he was shot, and sobbing out his gallant life on the road, almost at the foot of the tree which would be his master's gallows.

A doomed man indulges in strange reveries. Malcolm was almost as greatly concerned with Nejdi's imagined fate as with his own desperate plight when the trooper who answered to the name of Abdul Huq brought the heel-rope that was to serve as a halter.

The man was a Paythan, swarthy, lean, and sinewy, with the nose and

A REAL DUEL FOR MONTREAL

Montreal Star, Feb. 15.— Scornful words exchanged during an encounter outside the Recorders' Court, resulted in a challege to fight a duel being issued to Assistant Superintendent Quinn, of the Health Department.

Coming out of the Recorders' Court yesterday, Dr. Roch Leonard, of St Henri, walked up to Mr. Quinn, who was standing near the door.

"I would like to speak to you," said the doctor, dramatically.

"Sir," said the Assistant-Superintendent, drawing his trim uniformed figure up to its full height.

"It is that I would like to slap your face," said the doctor, waving his hand near Mr. Quinn's countenance.

"Very well, doctor, my face is here," replied Mr. Quinn.

"Ah. but this is not going to be a vulgar fight," replied the doctor.

"Oh, I understand," said the Assistant-Superintendent, "this is a challenge."

The doctor bowed haughtily and, waving his arm, said: "You shall hear from me," then walked out of the City Hall.

Then Mr. Quinn went to Mr. Flynn his confrere in the Health Department and asked him if he would act as second. Mr. Flynn consented to act but there arose the question of the choice of weapons. Mr. Quinn told Mr. Flynn that he was a pretty good revolver shot. They thought however they would obtain the advice of Mr Ryan, of the Recorder's Court office Messrs. Quinn, Flynn and Ryan held a conference, and on the advice of Mr. Ryan decided to secure blackthorns.

RACE FOR THE SPECIAL PRIZES STARTS WITH A RUSH

Candidates Working for Special prizes Show Determination to do Their Best, and Indications are That Race Will be Very Exciting Before End of Week—Remember Double Votes on all Subscriptions of One Year or More—An Offer as Large Will Never be Repeated—Act Now

The race for the special prizes, the beautiful $35.00 Suit or Gown or merchandise order for that amount purchased from Sinclair & Co., started yesterday, and all candidates will, no doubt, be very active in making a great effort to win the first special prizes to be offered in this great contest. This week is expected to be the busiest since the race began. The most exasperating and tantalizing feature of the contest to the young women is the fact that no one knows how the other candidates stand. The fear of some that a single subscription not secured may cause the loss of the Heintzman & Co. piano is excelled only by the zeal with which they go after the help of their friends. Many of the girls are learning, as never before, the difference between a good newspaper and a poor one, and they are not hesitating to show that difference to the people whose patronage they solicit. Every day many of the candidates report one or possibly a number who seemed only to be waiting for some one to ask them to subscribe to The Intelligencer. From now until the finish there will be sharp competition among the contestants and each will try to reach the top place and hold her position. The reports the girls give of their work bubble over with enthusiasm as they tell how they won their last thousand or ten thousand votes. One contestant thought she had to hold the amount of money on the different subscriptions until she wishes to have credit for votes due her on same published. THIS IS WRONG! She should bring the money here at once and she will receive a certificate for votes due her. She can then vote this certificate any time she wishes during the contest. This saves you the responsibility of keeping the cash in your possession. Competition and work is the foundation of all successes. So you cannot expect to win one of the handsome prizes without an effort. The work is easy, the prizes well worth the effort, and besides the world loves a winner. Do not wait until the leader is out of sight, catch her now and give her a race she will remember.

SOCIETY BURGLAR

Pays Back Money and Confesses Also--Says He Was Un balanced Mentally

MONTREAL, Feb. 16.—On May first of last year the house belonging to Mr. Augustin Doucet, at Maskinonge, was broken into while the occupants were away. From a bureau drawer the sum of $2,058 together with a promissory note for $200 were stolen, but the thief left no trace of his passage and a complaint made at the time before the Criminal Courts at Three Rivers remained without effect.

The matter was much discussed in a small centre like Maskinonge especially when, two days after the complaint was laid, a sum of money representing part of what had been stolen was sent anonymously to Mr. Doucet with a note stating that the balance would be forwarded soon.

True to the promise made, the thief or thieves continued to send money until the whole amount had been refunded together with the stolen note.

However, Mr. Doucet was curious to know how the money was stolen and his enquiries have been successful in locating the burglar, who proved to be a young man belonging to one of the best local families, and who was living in Maskinonge at the time. Mr. Doucet kept his information to himself, but the amateur burglar did not.

Yesterday afternoon, the young man entered Judge Lanctot's room and confessed to the robbery. He stated that he did not know what he was doing at the time the robbery took place and he had squandered the money right and left. His parents learning of the affair through his own confession refunded the money and consulted a doctor about the young man's condition. It was found that he was slightly unbalanced mentally, and he was sent to a sanitarium for some time. Now he has come out and occupies a good position in a Notre Dame St. wholesale store, he wants to clear himself from the charge of a crime committed in a moment when he was not "compos mentis."

Judge Lanctot, after hearing the young man's story, let him go back to his home on bail and will inquire into the matter in order to obtain a withdrawal of the charge formely made.

FREE WHEAT NO BENEFIT TO US

Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern said in an interview at London, England:

"I do not think free wheat is in the best interests of Canada. I do not think it will improve the prices which farmers can charge, and I do think it will take a good deal of business from the transportation companies. It is a short haul southwards to the United States, but a long haul eastwards to the Canadian ports, and I am afraid the tendency will now be to send grain southwards to the big mills at Minneapolis, whence it will be exported as flour the Canadian transport companies losing on the deal.

PRICES OF GRAIN.

"The reason why I say that farmers will get no higher price for their grain is because the price of wheat is regulated by the British market. As grain is one of the largest lines of traffic, in Canada. We are hardly at the beginning of that development yet. To the north of the Saskatchewan there are fifty million acres of good arable land, and that section of the country is practically without railways yet.

DEAR FOOD IN CANADA.

"Will the prospective changes increase the price of food in Canada? I do not see how that can be avoided. In the United States the general complaint is of the high cost of living". It is lower in Canada. The farmers of Eastern Canada do very well with their dairy produce, their bacon, and their ham, and it is now said that they will get better prices for their goods. If they do it is inevitable that the cost of living must go up, and if they do not, where is the advantage for the farmers?"

PREFERRED DEATH TO THE AYSLUM

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 11.—Daniel A. Pound, a carpenter, formerly of the township of Malahide, drank a quantity of carbolic acid early to-day with suicidal intent and died almost immediately He had been showing symptoms of insanity, and a warrant was issued last evening for his detention in the local jail, but the police department failed to execute it. This morning when Pound saw an officer approaching he grabbed the bottle and swallowed the contents. The authorities claim the act prohibits the confinement of a person of unsound mind in the lock-up pending his removal to safer quarters unless he becomes dangerous and unmanageable, and that the municipality is bound to furnish a proper place for the temporary keep of such persons. Acting on the latter construction of the section the arrest of the man was postponed until to late. Pound was a married man with a family. There will be an inquest.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

The Federal Government of Australia has had what is probably a unique experience in financial administration. The treasury is choked with cash, consequent on the State Note issues. Instead of this cash going to the market, the State of Victoria has borrowed a million sterling, and the other States are seeking loans, altogether amounting to three millions.

Another native rising is expected in German South Africa. The Germans will never govern barbaric peoples successfully until they learn and practice British methods.

Now that the coming to Belleville of the C.P.R. is assured, it will be wisdom on the part of the aldermen and others to inform themselves as to the proposals of the company before pronouncing on them. Blindfold opposition as in the case of the C. N. O. R. ought to be avoided.

What more could any country ask? Prosperous farmers, prosperous industries, growing population, plenty of work, increasing wages, these alone would bring cheer to the blackest pessimist. But in addition our tariff has compelled numerous American industrial concerns to establish branch factories in Canada, so that they might get a share of our business. Over $200,000,000 represents this investment of foreign capital. Our material prosperity has been reflected in the business of the transportation companies and in the improvements of our ports.

"We've got them on the list," the girls who are doing the hustling, and they are maing high flights and fast time.

Mr. Hary Weymark, an employee on the C. P. R., who met his death on Tuesday night, at Guelph Junction by a snow plow colliding with an engine, was well-known in this city and vicinity. For years Harry lived on Herchmer Av. just east of the city limits, and for some time worked in the city. He was a quiet, industrious man and respected by all who knew him. He had been living in London, Ont. of late and on Tuesday with a fellow employee was sent out on a snow plow which proved to be a fatal trip for both men. Mr. Weymark was married and his widow and 3 children survive, also relatives adjacent to the city. The remains will be taken to Havelock on Saturday for interment, that being the home of Mr. Neymark.

Herrington claims that he was first attacked by Mason with whom he was working. The accused was this morning before Judge Deroche and elected to be tried by His Honor without a jury. Owing to the illness of Mason the date of trial was not fixed but will be within a few days. Mr. Carnew has been retained to defend the accused.

THREE RAILWAYS FROM TORONTO TO BELLEVILLE

The C. P. R., C. N. R. and an Electric Road all Pushing Ahead to Help the G. T. R. to Do the Business —Belleville Sure to Become a Great Railway Centre

Things are getting lively in regard to railways east of Toronto, says the Toronto World. For fifty years and more the Grand Trunk has had a monopoly of the territory and towns along the lake front, the Canadian Pacific in the rear. The only point of any account where both systems touched was Peterboro, and that by the Midland, running north from the front.

For a year back the Canadian Northern has been building a line from Toronto to Ottawa, between the G. T. R. and the C. P. R. and it will have it running to Belleville by Christmas. Now comes the announcement that the C. P. R. will start construction almost immediately on a line from Toronto to Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville and then northeasterly to its main line at Bathurst, some ten miles this side of Smith's Falls. Its line is double tracked from Smith's Falls to Montreal. From Smith's Falls to Bathurst this double track will be extended.

The C. N. R. propose to supplement their steam line from Cobourg to Toronto by an electric line running on the Kingston road from Cobourg through Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby, Pickering, to the county line between Ontario and York, whence it will run to Toronto over the steam line now being built. The C. N. R. will be electrified from Toronto to Pickering to do this.

As to lines and the towns: The G. T. R. is a long way from the centres of Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Cobourg; the C. N. R. will be still more distant from Whitby, Oshawa and Bowmanville, but proposes to go through them with an electric road; the C. P. R. proposes to go right into them all direct, from Whitby to Belleville, and to give a fast service.

An official of the C. P. R. announced yesterday that their line would be built as soon as legislation authorizing a change in the route is obtained. The railway committee at Ottawa approved the change. The original charter proposed that the new line should leave the existing line near Tweed, and run south westerly through Campbellford, an inward town in Northumberland. The railway has since found out that this involved a heavy grade and consequent loss of time and money. The line as now authorized runs from Bathurst to Belleville and along the Grand Trunk to Whitby. Campbellford, which is thus ignored, fought the change, but unsuccessfully.

This approval of the change in route will allow the C. P. R. to start immediately to construct the new line which more or less parallels the G. T. R. from Whitby to Belleville. It will be of standard construction and will enable the C. P. R. to run faster trains to Montreal and give a better service to Ottawa. The World understands that the money is already in hand for the work, and by reason of early competition of the C. N. R. in the same territory, there is every incentive that the C. P. R. build the road at once.

The new line will leave the present main line of the C. P. R., east of Toronto, some place between Agincourt and Leaside; and from this junction wherever it is, there will be a double track from it westerly into the new station of North Toronto.

The World was told yesterday that contracts for the construction of this line would be let at a very early date and pushed to completion with great rapidity.

The C. N. R. is pushing forward construction of its line in the same territory. The rails are laid in many places, the grading is well down as far as Trenton. Some of the bridgewood has to be placed in position and all the ballasting. It will be seen from the above that the towns east of Toronto on the lake shore which have only had the G. T. R. and that for fifty years asked for competition, are now to suddenly get two steam roads and an electric road from Bowmanville along the Kingston road and through Oshawa, Whitby and Pickering to a point on the Ontario and York county line whence the electric line will run into Toronto over the C. N. R's. Toronto-Ottawa line now under construction. This part of the C. N. R's. Toronto-Ottwa line will be electrified and will probably come into Toronto by a new line from Dawes road between Scarboro and York townships) over the plains, through Todmorden, across the Don and Belt line ravine, and north of the C. P. right of way to North Toronto and Yonge street.

In a word, it looks like the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. both reaching for the Grand Trunk's eastern preserve by lines starting from North Toronto instead of the Union Station.

NELSON THOMPSON DIED FROM INJURIES

Was Thrown From Rig a Year Ago and Succumbed After Long Suffering

A well-known citizen passed away yesterday afternoon in the person of Mr. Nelson Thompson, who resided on Ann St. Deceased about a year ago was driving along Albion St. in this city when he was thrown from his vehicle and sustained such injuries that he had not been well since. Mr. Thompson, who was 54 years of age had lived in Belleville about 40 years. For many years he was an employee of Tickell & Sons and lately was engaged in carting. Deceased who had been for years a member of Belleville Lodge I. O. O. F. always took an active interest in matters appertaining to Oddfellowship. He was a member of the Encampment. In religion the deceased was a Methodist being a member of Bridge St. Curch. In politics he was a Conservative. Mr. Thompson had many friends in this city who will regret to learn of his demise. A widow and one son, Henry, electrician at Point Ann survive, also two brothers and four sisters. The brothers are George of this city and Blake of Shannonville. The sisters are Mrs. Lloyd, Meaford; Mrs. DeShane, Toronto; Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Hunt of Prince Edward County.

VANDERBILT WAS SENT TO PRISON

LONDON, Feb. 15.— The man who calls himself Frederick Denneher Vanderbilt, and who was tried for swindling under the name of William Lacerstein Joachim, was convicted to-day and sentenced to three years penal servitude.

The prisoner posed as a son of the late William H. Vanderbilt, and by this means induced the Misses Taylor the proprietresses of the Ladies' Club to execute bills of exchange to the amount of $25,000 in his favor. In the Central Criminal Court to-day Joachim testified in his own behalf and swore that he was a member of the Vanderbilt family as he had represented, but he was unable to produce any documentary proof establishing his claim.

THE Y'S HAD FINE PARLOR MEETING

Another very interesting parlor meeting of the "Y's" was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Alexander Rae, William St. The young ladies of this organization are certainly original in their programs, and do not hesitate to expend considerable work in their preparation as a consequence their meetings are always worth attending.

Besides being hostess, Mrs. Rae, occupied the chair for the evening, she being vice-pres. of the "Y's"; Mrs. Gibson gave a bible reading, which contained many suggestive ideas on "Unconscious influence" and "brotherly love" as related to the temperance question. Miss Gladys Vermilyea and Mrs. Dr. Goldsmith gave recitations, which were much appreciated. The superintendent of the Medal Contests reported that the first Silver Medal Contest of the series would be held in the Salvation Army Hall on the evening of Wed., Feb. 22 and that a second contest would follow on Fri., Feb. 24 in Bridge St. Sunday School Rooms. Still other contests are in course of preparation, and it is hoped that one, and perhaps two, Gold Medal Contests will be held before the summer. A meeting of all who wish to compete for these silver medals, and who are not already in training in other classes, will be held in Bridge St. S.S. Rooms, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The main part of the program, however, was a series of round-the-table discussions on various important temperance topics, which discussions were subsequently summed up by the captains in clever impromtu addresses.

Refreshments were served by the young ladies at the close of the meeting. It was announced that Friday the 17th had been set apart as a day of prayer by women for the campaign in Belleville, meetings to be held in St. Andrew's Church.

Now is the time to get your popularity candidate ahead of the game. DOUBLE VOTES.—a five years' subscription gives your candidate 200,0000 votes. A ten years' subscription, 600,000 votes. Get busy now. No double votes after Feb. 25th.

People Should Pronounce

Is Canada to be governed in accordance with the opinions of a majority of its people, or is it to be lorded over by a tyrannical power at Ottawa whose decrees are registered in the House of Commons by a majority of members who do anything that they are bid at the crack of the party whip, and in the Senate by a certain number of gentlemen who are not responsible to the people and are mere creatures of the powers that be?

Such is the question that has arisen in connection with the tariff arrangement which is proposed to be entered into with the United States.

This arrangement, we are told by the Laurier Government, must be accepted holus bolus at the dictation of our rulers, while the other parties to the pact have power to amend it. And this one-sided arrangement is to be forced through Parliament by the mechanical majority of the Government, who have not been given by the people a mandate to deal with a subject of such vast and far-reaching importance.

It has been forcibly brought to the attention of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Ministers and followers that the proposed arrangement will work incalculable injury to many of the industries of the country—and particularly to the great transportation interests, such as the St. Lawrence waterway, the canals, the Government railways, on which the country has spent many millions and is preparing to expend many millions more, by the diversion of traffic from Canadian channels to American lines and seaports.

The Government know very well that, once traffic has been diverted from a certain line, it is almost impossible to win it back.

They have been besieged by deputations which pleaded for mercy on behalf of industries which will be ruined by the pact.

They have been brought face to face with the fact that the agreement is the entering of the thin edge of the wedge which is intended to rive us apart from the mother country. They know that this is the fact, because American politicians have openly avowed it—even President Taft himself has spoken, if somewhat cautiously, to that effect. As was forcibly said by one of the speakers in the Canadian Parliament during the debate on the subject:

> "The sentiment in the United States, which is pushing reciprocity, is not based on economic grounds but on political, and it has for its object the conquest of Canada by peaceful means."

The Government have been pleaded with to take the verdict of the people on the question by the constitutional means of a general election. But our tyrants, who have not been commissioned to enter into an arrangement so weighty as to involve our allegiance to the British Empire, refuse to listen or consult the people, and not only turn a deaf ear to all representations, but call upon their supporters to follow them in going "the whole hog."

Under somewhat similar circumstances in 1891, Sir John A. Macdonald took the constitutional course of submitting the annexation project of the day, which was engineered by Erastus Wiman, a renegade Canadian, as is that of to-day by James J. Hill, another renegade Canadian, to the popular vote and staked his political fortunes on the issue. Why does not Sir Wilfrid Laurier follow so worthy an example? If his tariff project is of the beneficial character which he claims for it, he has nothing to fear, and he will have the satisfaction of having at least governed in a constitutional manner, no matter what the result may be. That he has refused to do so shows that he is afraid of the verdict of the electors ;and well may he be, for in Ontario and Quebec his following would be so greatly diminished that he would probably be driven from office.

MASONRY IN CANADA A HUNDRED YEARS AGO

How It Was Introduced Into the Bay Country—Prince Edward Lodge Was Started at the Carrying Place—Royal Edward Lodge Founded in Edwardsburg Grenville County—Interesting History of Masonry and Masons in the Peninsular County

Apropos of the forthcoming celebration of its centennial, the following historical account of Prince Edward lodge No. 18, A. F. and A. M., will be of much interest. It was written by Dr. J. W. Wright of Picton.

The historic birch-bark canoe had in the summer of 1783, skimmed the placed waters of the Bay Beautiful, bearing the stout-hearted pioneer and his brave son to the old Indian landing at the foot of a hillock on whose summit stands a huge Latin cross. The "Carrying Place" for centuries the highway of the savage, had at last felt the pressure of an Anglo-Saxon foot as the little ship continued its journey overland to the head of "Little Lake." On the north shore of this fascinating sheet of water the first log cabin had arisen meekly in the towering forest to shelter the son Daniel in stoic solitude during the winter, while the father, Col. Henry Young, should return to prepare the other members of the family for migration to the newly-found territory in the spring. From this beginning the colony rapidly grew and in due course Guy Henry Young, a son of the tearless Daniel, born on Prince Edward soil became one of the early initiates of Prince Edward Lodge.

"A confusion of tongue could not be more successful than the perplexing MSS, which have involved the identification of the two lodges, Royal Edward No. 5 in the township of Edwardsburg warranted by the Grand Lodge of Lower Canada and Prince Edward Lodge in the township of Hallowell." This is the conviction forced upon Mr. W. J. Ross Robertson after many a protracted encounter with the question. I would beg to suggest that not a little of that confusion arises from the fact that the Edwardsburg lodge me at a village named Johnstown, three miles northeast of Prescott, and a well-founded tradition of Prince Edward Lodge points out as its first place of meeting. Hallowell Mills known half-jocularly about that period as "Johnstown" from a singular prevalence of the most common of all Christian prenomens among its inhabitants. M.W. Bro. Robertson shows that on application by Ebenezer Washburn and eight others recommended in proper form by St. James Lodge No. 7, Fredericksburg a dispensation was granted Prince Edward Lodge by R. W. Bro. Wm. Jarvis early in 1811. Application for a warrant was made by the lodge Feb. 21st. 1812 in the quaintly irregular manner mentioned by the same authority but though it is evident that a warrant was issued during that year, its exact date is not forthcoming. The lodge sent representatives to the Kingston Conventions of 1820, 1821 and 1822, and also to the Provincial Grand Lodge at York in July, 1823. The old By-laws are interesting as conforming to the model used by early lodges from 1721 to 1820; identical in most respects with those of No. 10 Barton and No. 8 Kingston. Rule 1, "That a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons aforesaid shall be held at a house built for that purpose near Hallowell Bridge" (the second place of meeting of Prince Edward Lodge.) "on every Thursday preceding the full moon of each calendar month," proves that the lodge has clung to her night of meeting as tenaciously as to her title "Seven pence halfpenny shall be paid every stated lodge night" sounds oddly to us until we recall the difficulties incident to pioneer times, the almost entire absence of postal service, the scarcity and the fact that distance must be covered, frequently on foot, at best in the saddle. It surely required unbounded enthusiasm and indomitable spirit to keep an organization alive in those days and the names of Young, Hubbs, and Johnson succeed each other in the story of the early struggle. Prince Edward Lodge was affiliated with the Provincial Grand Lodge of 1822 when it was organized by R. W. Bro. Simon McGillivray, as No. 772, E.R., and appears on the Provincial minutes as having been represented in July 1823, but according to the Grand Lodge Historian "probably became dormant about 1830." So practically did all the others for reasons given in the succeeding paragraph.

There is no difficulty in establishing on the testimony of members of Prince Edward Lodge initiated in 1857 and 1858 that the lodge was in a flourishing condition during the 1840 decade though M. W. Bro. Robertson asserts that she was not represented at the formation of the third Provincial Grand Lodge under Sir Allan Napier Macnab in 1845. For some years prior to that time the Craft had been without a Grand East so sweeping was the tide of anti-masonic sentiment arising out of the Morgan affair. Under Sir Allan Macnab from 1845 the torrent began to subside and we find Prince Edward Lodge reckoned among the subordinates of the Third Provincial Grand Lodge in the returns of lodges from Nov. 1, 1846 to Dec. 31, 1847 as No. 505 English register and No. 8 Provincial register. She figures in the list of fourteen lodges making returns in 1848 and from that on remains in evidence.

The memorable convention of Oct. 10, 1855, in the Masonic Hall at Hamilton marks the point at which for the Craft in Canada "mediaeval" history ends and "modern" history begins, and on that honor-roll of forty-one lodges aroused to the best interests of the Order in this part of the Empire whose earnest and unselfish endeavors on that occasion dispelled all envy and scored a peaceful victory in the establishment of an independent Grand Lodge of Canada, stands emblazoned the name of Prince Edward Lodge No. 18.

PET DOG SAVED LIFE OF GIRL

Montreal Star :— A pet dog saved the life of a young woman last night when she was attacked by Dexter Wolfe in a house on St. Lawrence street. She was sitting in her room when the door was suddenly opened and Wolfe flourishing a razor, rushed in and demanded that she give him money.

She refused and he struck at her with a razor, but just as his arm was descending her little terrier fastened it's teeth in Wolfe's leg. The girl made her escape and telephoned to Captain Beleager, of the City Hall avenue station. Constables Bowman and Dagenais found Wolfe in the street. A sharp whack on the knuckles from the club of Contsable Dagenais forced him to drop the weapon

This morning he was fined $10 or one month in jail on a charge of threatening the constables with the razor.

TROUBLE IS NOW OVER

Federal General Now Has Command of the Situation In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—The officials of the National Railways announced to-day that they expect to have through train service between this city and ElPaso restored not later than the day after to-morrow.

During his march north General Navarro has proceeded with the greatest caution, so as not to give the insurrectos any advantage. He especially guarded against ambuscades and sent a pilot engine ahead of his troop trains for the purpose of avoiding any dynamite that may have been placed on the road. Reports from Chihuahua, indicate that General Orozco with his force of insurrectos, is not giving the Federal troops any trouble at the present time. Some reports say that he has retreated to the mountains while others assert that he is awaiting a favorable opportunity to give clever tiers last night.

That ship of yours that is coming in—can't you communicate with it by wireless?

THE QUEUE MUST GO

Progressive Men Throughout The Old EmpireCut Off Pigtails

PEKIN, Feb. 13.—A surious agitation, significant of the times, is going on throughout China with regard to the queue. The pigtail is ridiculed by all progressives as an indication of backwardness, distinguishing the Chinese from all other peoples. Cartoons appear regularly in the news papers showing the advantage of the queue to the assistant of the heads-criminal, or depicting the various other animals that wear a tail, the dog and the pig being in the foreground.

Editorials denounce the custom, and new groups of men and associations are daily falling into the line of reform. Progressive military officers newspaper men or employees of foreigners meet and agree to sacrifice their queues, and then hold a fire-cracker festival to celebrate the performance publicly.

The movement indicates the change of ideas that has come over the nation's advanced men. It has been followed by hundreds in the treaty ports, but in the conservative capital where the official spirit prevails, the movement has received slight checks. For instance, the movement among students of the Imperial University was speedily suppressed by the faculty giving to the first students appearing without their appendage one-third the number of merits necessary for dismissal. On the other hand, a news paper which printed the statement that the Empress Dowager was against the change was suppressed for a week

THEY ARE HEIRS TO LARGE ESTATE

Mrs. William Marshall and Mrs. William Brown, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Eva Hurd, of Burlington, are heirs to an estate reported to be valued at $250,000, left by William P. Mallory, who died at Stamford, Connecticut, one week ago. The deceased resided in Hamilton many years ago when he was in the Hub factory.

Leaving her several years ago, Mr. Mallory went to the United States and entered into the real estate business and the sun of fortune shone brilliantly upon him. He went into business in Stamford, where he met with much success and his business increased to such an extent that when he died he wa reputed to be worth $250,000. His death in Stamford came rather unexpectedly, and he did not leave a will as is the usual custom with men of his wealth, and by the law his estate will be equally divided among the three sisters mentioned above, they bieng the next of kin.

Mallory was unmarried, and according to despatches had been twice disappointed in love. Papers in his collection bore out that fact. The funeral took place about a week ago, interment taking place in Stamford.

Mrs. William Marshall, when spoken to about the death of her brother said he left Hamilton about twenty years ago, and went into business for himself in the United States. She said the amount of the estate which he left, in her estimation, was exaggerated, but the matter was now in the hands of a solicitor who was winding up the estate.

Another one of the heirs, when spoken to abcut the matter, was not very anxious to discuss it, and would give few details, but admitted that she had information to the effect that the estate was valued at $250,000, and with the other heirs had arrived at an agreement as to the division.

Mrs. William Marshall, who is one of the heirs, is the wife of William Marshall, of the Hamilton distillery.

WHAT THE C. P. R. PLANS FOR TORONTO

A large office building of handsome appearance will be erected by the Dominion Express Company on the Government House site at the corner of King and Simcoe streets.

Inside of the King street walls of the freight yards will be a driveway thirty feet wide, and lighted from the street.

A park will extend from the western end of the Government House property on King street.

The proposed viaduct from Summerhill avenue to Poplar Plains road and the new station just east of Yonge street, North Toronto, will cost from $500,000 to $630,000.

Plans for the new ticket offices at the corner of King and Yonge streets are not completed but the building will be a sky-scraper of from 13 to 15 stories.

The company has not purchased Loretto Abbey, nor the property between Yonge and Church streets on Carlton street.

A new Union Station will be built whether a viaduct is built or not.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Many harness horsemen are of the opinion that Pop Geers has one of the best and most promising strings he ever trained for this year's campaign and that in Eva Cord, the Memphis turfman has a formidable candidate for the M. & M. stake at the Blue Ribbon meeting in August. Eva Cord (2.23 1-2) in a 4 year old trial last year, travelled a half in 1.02 1-2, and the mile in 2.10 1-4. She was the first horse sold from Senator Bailey's consignment last week and has been shipped back to Pop Geers' stables at Billings Pack track in Memphis as the property of Frank G. Jones, the noted Tennessee horseman.

Josh Billings said of Niagara Falls, that the reason people liked it was "Becaws nobody kin make wun jest like it." For the same reason people like Four T's, that great guaranteed cough cure. It is the only lung remedy made that cures coughs and colds in two days with perfect safety. Children like it and it cures croup and whooping cough. At all drug stores. Price 25c. A WORD IN SEASON TO OUR FARMERS

Mr. Farmer, you will have to take pretty close stock of the proposal that is being submitted—or, rather, that is not being submitted to you, but which is being forced upon you— of reciprocity with the United Staets. Did you read yesterday that lambs were cheaper in Buffalo than they were in the Toronto market? That more is paid for beef cattle on the Toronto market than is paid in the States? And did you read the statement of the Ontario pork-packers, made to the government at Ottawa yesterday, that the whole of their business would be absolutely destroyed by the free entrance of American meats? In other words, Ontario farmers will have no reason for raising hogs other than for their own use, and the splendid market for pork that has existed for years and now exists in this country, will go absolutely to the western corn-fed hogs and to Chicago packing houses; and perhaps also you will have read what the market gardeners and the fruit growers have to say about the competition that will reduce, if not entirely wipe out, their business. Even the Canadian hen is to be put out of business by eggs from the United States, where climatic conditions are better than ours.

Read these things all over, Mr. Farmer, and ask your member of parliament to explain it all to you before you find your country committed to a secretly negotiated treaty, negotiated, we believe, some months ago, but only floated in the last three or four moths. The more we see of it the more we think that somebody knew all about this deal effected between Fielding and Taft, knew it long before the western farmers made their descent on Ottawa some weeks ago in regard to the tariff.—Toronto World.

A Good Idea in Hair Treatment.

The trouble with most women's hair is that they won't take the time to give it proper treatment. If you want your hair to have that look of lustre and vitality, you must take care of it.

You cannot expect to have splendid hair if you simply run a comb through it in the morning—give it a dab on the outer edge with a brush—throw it into a braid—switch it around the head—jab in a few hair pins—and let it go at that.

Hair is like any other growing thing—it needs attention—it needs care—it needs thorough grooming regularly—not only the hair but the scalp.

If you have the time and patience you won't need any hair tonic—but most women haven't. The next best thing is Nyal's Hirsutone. It is the best thing offered to take the place of hours of combing and brushing.

It tones up the roots, brightens the color, improves the texture and makes it stay gracefully where it is put.

Hirsutone literally revitalizes the neglected hair.

Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends Hirsutone because he knows. In artistic bottles $1.00 and 50c.

'TERRIBLE TEDDY' AND MORAN TALK FIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Owen Moran, the English ligthweight champion pugilist, and Theodore Roosevelt, clasped hands and exchanged good wishes in the dining car of a New York Central train which brought the Colonel and the game little British boxer on to this city from Michigan to-day.

Moran had never seen the former president, but picked out the colonel among a party which entered the dining car of the Wolverine as the train was speeding through the Niagara Peninsula last night. When a friend who noted Moran's presence asked Col. Roosevelt if he would like to meet the English lightweight the colonel immediately turned away from his companions and walked over to Moran's table.

"I've been a little out of line on boxing matters for the last year or so," said the colonel, after greetings were exchanged. He was speedily enlightened as to Moran's record, and on kindred pugilistic events among the lightweights.

"So you knocked Nelson out, did you? Fine, magnificent," exclaimed the colonel, who looked the little fighter over appreciatively and examined closely a peculiarity of one of Moran's hands. For some time they exchanged reminiscences of fighting. When Moran remarked on the readiness wit which Col. Roosevelt had consented to talk to him and the contrast which the fighter found with the exclusiveness of eminent men abroad the colonel straightened up and clenched his hands. "Well, there's no king that I can't talk to and no honest man that can't talk to me," the colonel declared with characteristic emphasis. Boxer and former president wished each other

ANARCHIST PLOT TO KILL KINGS

ROME, Feb. 14.—An anarchist plot that had for its aim the assassination of King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy and King Peter, of Servia, has been discovered by the Italian and Austrian police. Two men arrested as priests are held in close confinement here while a close search is being made throughout anarchist dens in Italian cities for other members of the gang.

The police believe that the plot was hatched in London and New York. The first steps were taken in London, but the crusade following the battle of Stepney so disturbed the plotters that they fled to America to complete them, according to the Italian police.

The conspiracy was to have been consumated in Rome when King Peter visits here. Lots had been drawn for the work of death, the police declare, and a Russian who is still at large had been chosen to throw the bomb which was to kill the two rulers. He was to be aided in his work by an Italian anarchist named Danielo, who is now being sought.

Is J. J. Hill's Dream To Be Realized?

For many years Mr. J. J. Hill has been patiently planning and working to get his railway system into a state of preparedness for the traffic to come to it when there should be reciprocity between Canada and the United States. He has clung steadily to the faith that a large part of the freight business for Canada's North-West would one day be drained into his system. The advent of the Laurier Government to office and its labors for reciprocity with the United States were regarded by him as opportunities to be taken advantage of, and he has never ceased to exert himself for the influencing of opinion in his own country in favor of reciprocity with Canada.

He has now branch lines running into several great areas of production in Canada, and proposes to build more. Hill roads penetrate into Canada at the Pacific coast, the Boundary District, the Crow's Nest coal-field, and into Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba at several points. Mr. Hill realizes that the sale of the Northern Pacific lines of Manitoba to the government of that province was a huge blunder, and had he been so potent in the affairs of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. then as he is now, the Manitoba lines would never have been parted with. It is announced from St. Paul that upon the adoption of the reciprocity agreement now before Parliament and Congress he will at once proceed to extend another line into Manitoba, and will add new branches into other western provinces. The Wall St. Journal of Friday last says that Mr. Hill's Great Northern "has ben developing with a view to geting more Canadian business. Its branches into Alberta and British Columbia promise to gather a rich tonnage with the possible removal of the tariff on Canadian wheat, and further branches crossing the border will undoubtedly be built." Mr. Hill is having his troubles from competitors in his proper zone of United States traffic. The St. Paul has added more than 2,000 miles of new line within a short time. For the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, known as the Harriman roads, has just been announced a very large programme of improvements and extensions that threaten the trade of the Hill roads in Washington and Oregon. The invasion of Hill territory in the Pacific States turns the Hill enterprise more strongly towards Canada, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific being the United States trunk roads near est the Canadian border. Mr. Hill's policy to make them intercepting lines into which traffic from Canada shall be pumped through branches built for the purpose will prove a very profitable one if this reciprocity scheme is carried out.

St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, the principal cities on the Great Northern are enthusiastic for the agreement. Minneapolis expects to capture for its mills a great part of the business of grinding Canadian wheat into flour. Duluth hopes to become the gateway through which the superior hard wheat of Canada will largely be shipped. — Niagara Falls, N. Y., Review.

THE MARKETS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 15.—The market at opening was influenced by the steadiness in Chicago yesterday, and values were about unchanged to ¼d higher, with the principal strength in May, and shorts covered. Following opening, there was realizing on a limited scale. The market was extremely full, with liberal Australian and Argentine offers. Spot markets were ½d lower, with some pressure, and European crop advices continue generally favorable with good crop accounts from Russia and lower Buenos Ayres market at the close.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Wheat to-day made a new low record for the season, anticipation and reciprocity were twin bugaboos. A decidedly nervous tone prevailed at the close, which was ⅜c to 1⅛c under last night. Other grain suffered less severely, corn finishing at a net decline of ⅛c to ⅜c, and oats off ¼c to ½c. Latest sales of hog products varied from 2½c cheaper to a nickel advance.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 550 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 550 hogs and 500 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being well maintained under a good demand and small supplies. The trade was fairly active throuout, and a clearance was made.

A feature of the market was the sale of one extra choice heifer, weighing 1250 lbs., at 7½c per lb., which is the highest figure which has been paid here since Christmas. Choice steers sold at 6½c; good at 6¼c; fairly good at 5¾c to 6c; fair at 5⅛c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per lb. A few choice cows and bulls brought 5½c, and the commoner grades sold at from that down to 3½c per lb.

The market for sheep and lambs was quiet on account of the limited supplies coming forward, and prices ruled steady. Sheep sold at 4c to 4½c, and lambs at 6c to 6c per lb. A weaker feeling developed in the market for calves on account of the increased receipts, and prices ruled lower, with sales at from $2.50 to $12 each, as to size and quality.

The market for hogs was weaker, and prices declined 25c to 40c per 100 lbs., owing to the supplies being much larger than were generally expected. At the reduction the demand was good, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts were 300 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 400 calves. The feature of the trade was the weaker feeling in the market for hogs, and prices were lower, at $7.60 to $7.75 per 100 lbs. for selected lots, weighed off cars. The demand for cattle, sheep, lambs and calves was good, and the prices realised were much the same as those quoted above.

U. S. Judges' Salaries Raised.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The House yesterday voted to increase the salary of the Chief Justice of the United States from $13,500 to $15,000 a year, and the salaries of associate justices from $12,500 to $14,000.

It is always the chap with the short end of it who advocates equality.

Of course there are two sides to every story; but the trouble is the most of us only care to hear one.

Tremendous Demand for Hair Tonic

PARISIAN SAGE IS GUARANTEED TO GROW HAIR.

Since its introduction into Canada Parisian Sage has been so honestly advertised that its tremendous sales have surprised and even astonished dealers everywhere.

The idea that advertising copy must exaggerate the merits of the goods it aims to sell, is false, and the sales of Parisian Sage prove it.

But if your hair is thin; if it is falling out or splitting at the ends, if your scalp itches andyou are bothered with dandruff then J. V. Doyle and the makers of Parisian Sage do guarantee it to put an end to these troubles or money back.

Parisian Sage makes hair grow if used before the hair root is dead. It kills the dandruff germ and stops itching of the scalp. It nourishes the hair roots and falling hair ceases. It puts vitality into the hair and gives it a radiant lustre.

Sold for only 50 cents a large bottle at J. V. Doyle's and druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

Senator Wood Stricken.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Senator Josiah Wood of Sackville, N.B., was stricken with paralysis while taking breakfast yesterday morning in his down town apartments. Members of his family have been telegraphed for.

Senator Wood, who is a Conservative, was appointed to the Senate in 1895. He was born in 1843.

M. E. Nichols, managing director of The Winnipeg Telegram, and a former member of the Parliamentary press gallery, is a son-in-law of the afflicted Senator.

Bad Fire at Farnham, Que.

Farnham, Que., Feb. 16.—Mid flying bullets, the firemen fought a $35,000 fire here yesterday.

It began at 8 a.m. in the hardware store of L. Elms in the Laurette Block, where there was a store of ammunition, burned the Hochelaga bank, the Dyprant building and the Nursery Bureau. The Eastern Townships Bank was threatened.

St. Johns, Que., sent a fire engine and men on a request for help.

DODGING THE DEBATE

Ministers Trying to Steer Clear of the Commons.

Martin Burrell Resumes His Speech on Reciprocity and Members of Cabinet Desert the House, But Are Called Back—Tariff, If It Passes, Will Be Hard on Infant Fruit Industry of British Columbia.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The total disregard by the Government of any argument or discussion upon the reciprocity proposals was evidenced most strongly in the House yesterday. During the speech of Martin Burrell of Yale-Cariboo nearly all the Ministers deserted their desks and the two who remained affected to be very busy. Under Mr. Burrell's twitting, however, they returned reluctantly to their seats.

Mr. Burrell continued his remarks on the reciprocity arrangement. He said there were one million peach trees on ten thousand acres in western Ontario, and there was no doubt that this industry would be injured by the reciprocity agreement. They had five million fruit trees in the orchards of British Columbia, and in no other part of Canada would the industry be hit with equal force. They were still at the beginning of things. Thousands of men had spent their all on the fruit lands, and the proposals of the Government were deplorably cruel.

With regard to the remark of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the recent fruit growers' delegation that they were too late, Mr. Burrell pointed out that the Niagara fruit growers at St. Catherines, Ont., on Dec. 15, had sent a resolution to Hon. Wm. Paterson asking that nothing be done until their case had been heard.

Mr. Paterson had acknowledged this before the western farmers were heard. Did the Government think these subterfuges were creditable? Was it ever too late to do justice?

Hugh Guthrie (South Wellington), who followed Mr. Burrell, said it was almost a waste of time to reply to the argument that there had been in Canada no demand for better trade relations with the United States. As a matter of fact there had been no period since the abrogation of the old reciprocity agreement of 1854 when there had not been a positive and active demand for freer trade with our neighbors to the south.

Mr. Guthrie said that the best feature of the agreement was that it was not in the form of a binding treaty. It was simply a bargain based on the good faith of the two nations.

It had been argued that Canada should wait till another Colonial Conference has been held, but the best answer was that we had not bound our hands, and that if anything better developed at the Colonial Conference, Canada was still free to take advantage of it. Proceeding, Mr. Guthrie said that he believed that the agreement contained advantages for both countries. If it was a one-sided bargain it would not last for twelve months, nevertheless he believed that the preponderating advantage was on the side of the Dominion.

In the Senate yesterday the question of a better distribution of work between the Commons and the Upper House was discussed, and a resolution moved by Senator David adopted inviting the Lower Chamber to join in the formation of a joint committee to report on a plan. The Senate representatives on the committee will be Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Messrs. Lougheed, Beique, Power, Belcourt and David.

Senator Macdonald said there should be more young and active men in the Senate, and the membership of both that branch of the Legislature and the Commons itself should be cut in half.

In committee on a bill to prohibit the improper use of opium and other drugs Senator Lougheed expressed the opinion that this measure did not go far enough. Deadly patent medicines were being freely sold and it was time they should be inspected and approved or forbidden by the Government before being put on sale. Sir Richard Cartwright said he would be glad to consider any amendment which was proposed.

Senator Power thought there was a question of provincial jurisdiction to be considered.

Senator Cloran said the bill was within Federal jurisdiction as it made certain offences a crime.

Senator Kirchoffer, chairman of the divorce committee, reported in favor of granting the application of Dr. L. F. Robertson for divorce from his wife Elizabeth Louise Robertson, now of London, England, and in favor of granting the application of Maggie Florence Sadlier of Toronto, from her husband, W. A. Sadlier, barrister, formerly of Toronto.

Casgrain, Not Langelier.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—The report sent out from this city Tuesday night that Sir Francois Langelier would succeed Sir Alphonse Pelletier as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec is without foundation.

Senator Casgrain is in line for the appointment, and as he has previously had the offer of this post, it is considered as practically certain that he will succeed Sir Alphonse Pelletier. The latter's resignation, however, has not yet been received by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Approved at the Hub.

Boston, Feb. 16.—Declaring the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada a measure of the utmost value to both countries, the Boston Boot and Shoe Club, at its annual banquet last night, passed resolutions favoring the measure, and will forward them to the President and Congress.

Miss Anna Oliver's Engagement.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The engagement is announced of Miss Anna Oliver, fourth daughter of the Minister of the Interior, Hon. Frank Oliver and Mrs. Oliver, to Horace A. Dickey, of Edmonton, son of the late Hon. Arthur Dickey of Amherst, N.S.

BUDGET DEBATE ENDS

Sir James Whitney and A. G. McKay in Grand Finale.

Premier In Fighting Speech Points Out the Failure of the Opposition Speakers to Decide on the Amount of the Alleged Deficit—Significant Statement Made Regarding Plans of T. & N. O. Railway.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Crowded galleries and members present, all but six, was the tribute paid by public and Legislature alike to the oratorical prowess of the talented leader of the Opposition, and the redoubtable Premier, who were carded to bring the budget debate to a stirring conclusion yesterday. The finale included the first division of the session.

Hon. A. G. MacKay said the figures in the annual financial statement should not be juggled with. If the classification advocated by the honorable Provincial Treasurer, in 1905, were adopted instead of that used by him now instead of a bogey surplus of $2,406 there would be shown a deficit of over half a million dollars.

There was a reason for the manner of statements that the Provincial Treasurer had made. The curse of the party system was responsible. It was necessary to cover up the ruthless disposal of natural resources. The curse of the party system had been exampled in the United States, where the forests had become annihilated.

A board of directors who would attempt to hoodwink its shareholders in the way the Provincial Treasurer had would mighty soon be driven off the board. It was not the part of any public man to so arrange his receipts as to make a deficit appear as a surplus.

Members of the Government had contrasted the price the Liberals had received for its land in the mineral areas as compared with what it was now bringing. "The inference is that because we sold land for $3 an acre in the early days of New Ontario, we would still be selling it at the same figure. When we sold it for $3 an acre that was all it was worth. The wealth of the territory was not dreamed of."

The Government had paid the Opposition a compliment in adopting their suggestion of placing the mines on a royalty basis, but they had not gone far enough. He had advised that the rich mines should be taxed a greater percentage than the smaller ones. The heaviest load should be saddled on the strongest horse.

The succession duties act could also be enlarged upon. Large estates of millions should be made to cough up a larger percentage than estates of $50,000, and nobody would be hurt.

The great revenues, of which the present Government boasted, were flowing in as a result of laws made by the old Government. It had been stated that the Government employed too many civil servants. It might be so. He would not argue either way, but if civil servants were to be retained the province should be big enough to pay them fair, living wages.

Mr. MacKay noted that the cost of civil government had increased 65 per cent. under the present Government; the expenditure on crown lands had increased 98 per cent., while the cost for agriculture had only increased 35 per cent. The Government was not doing its duty by agriculture.

In view of the fact that our current expenditure on forests was $500,000, more than the receipts, there should be some systematic mode of conservation.

He then moved an amendment to the adoption of the budget deploring the nature of the financial statement, the condition of the schools, the state of colonization of the northern districts, and the introduction of the reciprocity question into the debates.

Sir James Whitney made a slashing one-hour fighting speech, in which he poked fun at the Opposition leader and hammered back at his arguments to the enthusiastic delight of his followers.

Great applause was evoked by the Premier's significant declaration that members of the Opposition may shortly hear "an announcement respecting the T. & N.O. Railway that will prevent any member making such a statement again as that the railway is little pettifogging line as long as he lives."

Vieing in significance was also the intimation that the Legislature would be likely to consider a resolution of protest with respect to reciprocity, or a memorial against it to the Dominion Government.

Sir James considered it amusing that not one of Col. Matheson's critics agreed with another as to how much of a deficit there was. They varied from a half to three millions. If there was anything wrong with that financial statement he could safely say that none of those men were the proper persons to rectify it. There had never been a clearer or more concise accounting of the Government's affairs given on the floor of the House.

The Premier would have the honorable, the leader of the Opposition remember when he charged the Government with giving away pine lands, that when the Conservatives came into power, they found all the desks and drawers swept clean, and the papers had been burned so that no trace could be got of what the Liberals had done.

"When a prospective purchaser offered us $72,000 for a piece of it, we found that the Minister of Crown Lands had, with his own hand, marked an extension of the limit in lead pencil upon the map, and we had to forego the sale. The records, being destroyed, we could not get at the actual state of affairs. So that $72,000 represents one instance, at least, where the province was robbed of cold cash by the old Government."

"We are told by a foreigner that we are at the parting of the ways with England. Are we willing to abandon that tie that has for fifty years inured to our peace and prosperity? Are we prepared to let the American millionaires swamp us out?"

The amendment was negatived on a division, the ayes being 16 and nays 80.

Faces Water Famine.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—"We are doing our best to relieve the situation," said Deputy City Engineer Fellowes during a brief rest at the shore crib this morning. "We hope to have sufficient pressure to supply all points south of College and Carlton streets by daybreak. Owing to the water being out of the reservoir, it will be difficult to get pressure enough to supply the district north of that until later in the day with the full capacity of the mains, even if we do succeed in removing all of the obstruction by that time."

This was the official statement given out this morning on the worst water famine with which the city of Toronto has ever been confronted. It is but a repetition in a more aggravated form of the trouble with the choking of the intake pipe which cut off the city's water supply on Dec. 31 last. It was caused by the east wind churning up the ice and creating a current which drove a large quantity of floe ice, sand and brush into the intake, causing a stoppage of the water supply and necessitated the tapping of the old wooden intake unused for the last twenty years, in order to get enough water to keep two 10,000,000 gallon per day pumps running to half capacity in order to prevent the entire water supply being cut off.

Fallon Must Not Attend.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The French-Canadians of Ottawa will not present an address of welcome or participate in the ceremonies at the installation of Archbishop Gauthier, if Bishop Fallon of London or Bishop Scollard of North Bay have any part in the proceedings. This stand is taken owing to their position on the bi-lingual question.

Chairman J. U. Viencent, president of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, made the announcement yesterday in strong terms: "We refer particularly to Bishop Fallon. We have written, asking him not to come, but if he persists the French people will not participate. Bishop Fallon has shown himself to be a man who does not respect the truth."

New York, Feb. 16.—As a manifestation of the desire of this nation to promote peace throughout the world, the United States should refuse to fortify the Panama Canal. This assertion is made by Dr. H. He says the question is not one of right, but one of large public policy, and that the only danger existing belongs to those "indeterminate causes" against which no country is called upon to arm itself.

TRYING TO SNEAK OUT

Champ Clark's Remarks Were Intended All Right.

Democratic Leader Said U. S. Would Soon Annex the Dominion, and Now the Washington Cohorts Disclaim Any Serious Intent — Secretary Knox In Chicago Says U. S. Will Control the Wheat.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Certain remarks of Champ Clark, the Democrat leader, to the effect that the Stars and Stripes were soon to wave over Canada did not appear in the Associated Press report Tuesday night, who suppressed them is open to conjecture. The following is the Associated's effort to get out of the difficulty:

Washington, Feb. 16.—The semi-jocular remarks of Champ Clark, the Democratic Speaker-to-be, made in the House on Tuesday during the debate on the Canadian reciprocity agreement to the effect that he believed the Stars and Stripes would one day float over the entire western hemisphere, stirred up most unexpected trouble yesterday. President Taft took occasion to write to Representative McCall a letter disclaiming and deprecating the annexation talk, and to follow it up with personal remarks even more emphatic to his visitors.

The news that Mr. Clark's allusions had created excitement in Canada and in England occasioned great surprise and considerable amusement at the capitol. The man most surprised of all was Mr. Clark himself.

Mr. Clark's entire speech on reciprocity Tuesday was delivered in a half humorous, half taunting vein. The House was in a gale of laughter most of the time. In return for the laughs he was creating at their expense, some of the Republicans tried to turn the tables on Mr. Clark by chiding him with the fact that he might have President Taft as an opponent for the Democratic nomination. The humorous exchange reflected the spirit of the debate during the entire time Mr. Clark was on his feet, and no one gave serious consideration to his remarks regarding the possible annexation of Canada at some distant time. They regarded his statements in the nature of a compliment to the Canadian people, in that he would be glad to see the friendship that exists at present between the Canadians and the people of the United States so great in the future that all might some day be under one flag.

Knox Sees No Danger.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Though the people of the United States and Canada as "a substantially homogeneous people," with "deep moral and racial reciprocities," the benefits of the proposed commercial reciprocity with Canada "ought not to be obscured by the fear of relations too cordial and conceivably dangerous to the great Canadian loyalty to England," is the opinion of the Secretary of State, Philander C. Knox, who addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce here last night.

Mr. Knox declared that while migrations proceeded as constantly and as freely between Canada and the United States, as between two states of this country, and while the two peoples have been welding together for two centuries, "there is not the slightest probability that this racial and moral union will involve any political change or annexation or absorption."

"If there should be any great world movement, involving this continent, Canada and the United States would, as a matter of course, act in the most perfect concert in defence of the common rights of a common blood and civilization."

Speaking of the provision for free wheat, Mr. Knox pointed out that the transportation facilities of the United States for handling the surplus Canadan crop must be taken into account, thus preventing "the demoralization of prices which results through the dumping of larger quantities upon the European markets, where the world's supply is fixed." He declared that the free admission of grain from Canada would meet the present situation and place the control in the hands of the American growers.

Greatest Opportunity In Years.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—An urgent plea for the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canadian and the United States was made last night by Jas. J. Hill, at the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Hill said in part:

"There ought not to be one vote in Congress or one voice in the country against an arrangement worth more than armies and navies, more in dollars and cents than the acquisition of other markets for which we are prepared to spend huge sums. Every man in public life who knows the true value and effect of reciprocity, and yet opposes, is willing to sacrifice the most important interests of his country and to close the greatest opportunity to open it in years.

"Any opposition to a project so advantageous to the American people is so extraordinary that the nature and cause of it should be considered first. It comes from three sources; two of which may be summarily disposed of. Such of the monopolistic combinations as find their power to overcharge the people imperilled by reciprocity are naturally against it."

WILL CONTROL MILK.

Municipalities Get Complete Authority In New Bill.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday announced the particulars of his pure milk bill.

The bill follows the recommendations made by the Milk Commission appointed by the Government. It is entitled, "An act respecting the production and sale of milk for human consumption." It seeks to embody all legislation on this subject, hence many of its clauses are not new.

The bill gives municipalities complete control over their milk supply. And sets general standards for the province.

The principle followed is that the municipality in which the milk is to be consumed should have complete control in the matter of the production, care and sale. Municipalities are given power to pass bylaws making regulations as to the care of cows, the sanitary condition of the places where cows are kept, the water supplied to cows, the care of utensils used in handling milk, the proper storage and transportation of milk, the making of bacteriological tests as a guide to the wholesomeness of milk, and such other matters as may be considered necessary. These regulations are to be approved by the Minister of Agriculture.

Councils are also authorized to fix standards for butter fat and total solids, but it is provided that "no milk shall be sold for human consumption which contains less than 12 per cent. of solids, of which 3 per cent. shall be butter fat." In addition to this, stringent provisions are made to prevent adulteration.

Councils are empowered to appoint inspectors. As to tuberculosis, it is provided that no milk shall be sold from any cow which, upon physical examination by a certified veterinarian, shall be declared to be suffering from tuberculosis. It is provided that no cans or other utensils used in the distribution of milk shall be used for any other purposes, and all must be thoroughly cleansed.

For Irish Parliament.

London, Feb. 16.—The Nationalist members of the House of Commons came across the Irish Channel in force yesterday for the preliminary skirmish on the home rule question, which arose as the result of an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, moved in the Lower House by Ian Z. Malcolm, Conservative member for Croydon.

Complaining that the obscurity of the Ministerial remarks on the subject of home rule, "which avowedly was one of the main reasons for altering the existing constitution," hampered an effective deliberation on the proposed changes of relations between the two Houses of Parliament, Mr. Malcolm asked on what terms peace had been patched up between the Liberals and Nationalists.

He claimed that the land purchase act, permitting Irish tenants to acquire property, had knocked the bottom out of the demand for home rule and protested against an attempt to smuggle home rule through by a single chamber government.

"THE GOLDEN AGE" WON GOLDEN OPINIONS

Mr. J. Nevin Doyle's New Comic Opera Given Its First Presentation—Local Amateurs Performed Most Creditably—The Opera an Exceedingly Clever Production—Music and Book Won Deserved Praise

A large and generally pleased audience witnessed the "premiere" of Mr. J. Nevin Doyle's new comic opera "The Golden Age," in St. Michael's Academy last evening, and left the hall feeling that Belleville had every reason to feel proud of a son from whose fertile brain could emanate both the libretto and music of such a very complete performance as they had just been privileged to enjoy, and which is the first opera ever copyrighted in Canada by a Canadian composer.

Mr. Doyle has chosen for his first act possibly the most picturesque setting for any opera of any kind, namely the land of the pyramids and the sphinx, one whose very name seems fraught with mysticism and intrigue. This same choice by Verdi on the part of his "Aida" has helped greatly to add to its immense popularity and Mr. Doyle's cleverly laid scenes and carefully chosen costumes were fully successful in transporting his audience for the time being from our Belleville snows to a land of palms and sunshine, of beautiful water carriers and singing girls, also transported from among Belleville's fair daughters for the occasion.

The second act, laid in Greece, is Hellenic in character and is, as unusual as it is clever and seems to be an entirely new conception in the annals of comic opera and the more to be commended for that very reason.

Of the opera as a whole it is difficult to speak with any degree of justice as the almost unavoidable jars which will creep in at the first performance tend to destroy in part the continuity one expects as scene replaces scene in the dramatic sequency. Very few operas are finally produced as given at the first performance, because, not until then can superfluous matter be readily recognized and eliminated with any degree of certainty. Mr. Doyle's music is interesting to the degree that the audience would have enjoyed more of it and less of dialogue, which in the "Golden Age," could be condensed without any loss of dramatic force or interest. The plot deals with a most marvellous series of interrupted love affairs in high and low society, but the composer has, as a clever writer has put it, kindly landed them all, drenched with adventures at the matrimonial altar, and presumably they all live very happy ever after. Space would not permit of any detailed account of four closely woven and simultaneous "affaires d'amour," one must be an eye witness to sympathize properly.

Throughout the entire performance a very apparent lack of knowledge on the part of the chorus in the matter of words, stage "business" entrances and a bland disregard of the fact that the conductor was endeavoring to heroically guide them through the musical maze, tended to mar in many cases music which would have otherwise been extremely effective. The ballet was not effective, and the effect of Mr. Burrow's smart and cleverly sung "You can never tell," containing some local hits of pile-driver intensity was to a great degree lessened by distinct differences of opinion on the part of his police escort.

The music of the first scene, act 1, was a revelation to the audience, anxiously waiting to judge of "Joe's" much-heralded contribution to operatic anthology, and proved to be bright, catchy and of unusual freshness. Possibly the effect of "Forbidden Fruit" might have been heightened by a greater increase in the tempo, in the repetition of the refrain by the chorus. The closing quartette was a gem and made a most beautiful finale.

The opening chorus of scene 2, act 1 was highly effective, the local "color" being cleverly woven in the musical texture. This scene is full of animation and color, the various musical numbers following one another with well-sustained interest. The Pasha's (Mr. Burrows) entrance was carefully thought out and extremely impressive and the ensemble number given by the complete company as a finale was without a doubt the most striking climax of the evening and would have been much more so but for the reason given above.

In the second act the songs, sextette, and duet, were cleverly rendered by the principals and were well up to the standard of comic opera composition. One at times yearns for dramatic sequence between the plot and the musical number, but is forced to sacrifice the hope as archaic, and enjoy the song for its intrinsic worth. Happily last evening the ability to do so came rather as a pleasure than an effort.

The freshnes of the play and the spontaneity of the principals whom Mr. Doyle has associated with him formed a delightful contrast to the grand opera performance of Monday evening, when one heard undoubtedly much beautiful music and some splendid singing, and witnessed much of the worst acting that any Belleville audience has been asked to endure for a long time.

The cast of the "Golden Age" simply covered themselves with glory and credit by the brightness and the intelligent force of their utterance, both spoken and sung, and it speaks well for Belleville that as large and as uniformly clever a number of her own citizens could have been associated in the performance of a Belleville opera.

Mrs. A. P. Allen, whose recent indisposition threatened to make a postponement of the opera necessary, was able to appear as 'Yodah' in magnificent form, and carry a long and trying part through to a highly finished and artistic completion. Coupled with a charming stage presence Mrs. Allen has the ability to sing a dainty little song in an exquisitely finished manner, and the next moment to appear in a trying obligato passage, a most unusual and enviable combination. Her acting throughout was replete with an intelligent conception of the lines and her songs "Forbidden Fruit," "The Fable of The Flies," and "A Little Birdie Told Me So," were as dainty bits of delightful melody, charmingly rendered as one could wish to hear. During the performance she was presented with an exceedingly handsome bouquet of violets.

Mr. Vincent Doyle, as the 'Young American Millionaire' added much to his already won laurels, both as an actor and a singer. He has a very easy and natural presence, and is to be commended for his really refined handling of the love scenes, the ever present bugbear of amateur opera. His singing of the "Egyptian Serenade" was artistic in the extreme, and the trying octave jump at its conclusion was made with a skill that might well try a professional. Mrs. Allen blended duet, "Love's Reason," possblendid duet, "Love's Reason," possibly the vocal gem of the entire score.

Mrs. Grant made a very handsome "Lady Vane" having naturally a dignity of bearing charmingly suited to the role, and sang a delightful song "After All" in her accustomed finished style. By the way, could not our Belleville sopranos have been given a better chance in their solo work to display their brilliant upper voices to more advantage?

Miss Bawden made a striking looking dancing girl and took her part fluently and cleverly. It is to be regretted that the role of "Dalmah" did not give her an opportunity to display her beautiful voice to any great degree.

Miss Jessie Phillips, Miss Loretta Doyle and Miss Lulu Davy, as English girls, with literary tastes, made a clever and smartly dressed trio, and added much to the charm of the performance. Miss Phillips, who had an exacting part, acquitted herself most satisfactorily, and showed an acquaintance with her lines which was as noticeable as in some other members of the cast.

Mr. St. Charles, as "Dobbins Bey," a British officer with a "penchant" for five brands of "smokes", was immense. His work is extremely smart his voice clear and distinct, and his entire performance characterized by a humor at once brilliant and refined His performance was most effective in giving the opera the necessary swing and dash. Mr. St. Charles is an artist in livening things up to the requisite pitch of intensity and seems to thoroughly enjoy his work, especially the singing of trios. It is not to be wondered at, a remark which will be appreciated fully by the evening's audience.

Miss Stork, as an English girl, of evident "coster" extraction, and Mr McFee, as a stranded circus man, and her one-time lover, furnished most of the humor of the evening. Their respective "character" roles were long and exacting, and they deserve all the praise and applause showered upon them by a laughter convulsed audience. Mr. McFee was costumed effectively and was really very funny with a natural flow of unforced humor an expressive countenance, and a keen grasp of the requirements of the part His delineation of the character of the money-loving and unpolished animal buyer, relentlessly pursued by a former love, whom he detested and who persisted in spoiling his carefully laid plans, was a tower of strength to the performance. If Mr. McFee fails at all it is in his inability to sacrifice traction of the internal muscles is effected by work or strain in the cells of the aqueduct of Sylvius. Sometimes the eyes are converged for a very near point and used for a long period in this position, as in sewing, reading, etc. Then they pull upon and establish a counterstrain in the external rectus muscles.

In view of the location of these centers there must be a terrific strain in the base of the brain at all times during continued near vision. When the eyes are looking off into the distance, these strains are relieved. This is what gives the brain and nervous system so much rest in the out-of-door or open-air life.

It is a normal and natural function to be able to exert these strains and use the eyes for near work, but it is unnatural and abnormal to exert these strains constantly, as is done in some in-

INDIANS CHARGED WITH SERIOUS OFFENCE

At Deseronto yesterday two Indians named Brant and Maracle had a preliminary trial before Magistrate Bedford. They were charged with assaulting and occasioning grievous, bodily harm to one, George Barnhart, who is also an Indian. A few days ago trouble ensued between these parties and as a result, Barnhart, it is alleged was rather roughly used. The result of the preliminary investigation was that the accused were committed for trial and subsequently allowed out on bail. They will be tried here at a later date. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C. of Napanee appeared for the accused.

INDIGESTION

An Interesting Statement.

Portland, Me.,—"I suffered so long with indigestion and stomach trouble that I lost flesh rapidly—I had used all kinds of remedies without help Vinol was recommended and I decided to try it.

"I soon commenced to feel better my stomach trouble disappeared and I can eat heartily without the slightest distress. My experience leads me to believe that no other medicine equals Vinol for stomach troubles and indigestion. It tones up the stomach, increases the appetite and creates strength." W. E. Waterhouse. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol seldom fails to strengthen and tone up the tired, overtaxed and weakened nerves of the digestive organs and remove the cause of indigestion and soon enables the sufferer to digest with ease the foods that once caused distress. Moreover Vinol is delicious to taste, contains no oil and does not upset weak stomachs, as do old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. J. S. McKeown.

"THE GOLDEN AGE" WON GOLDEN OPINIONS

individualism and play more with "Molly Muggins," his English inamorita. Possibly for this reason there is some lack of cohesion between two parts which should be intimately associated. Miss Stork was extremely successful in representing the afore said "Molly," transformed in the last act to "Minerva," and deserves great credit for her intelligent and truthful representation of a trying part.

Mr. Burrows was every inch a Pasha and his splendid voice gave great dignity to the ensemble in which he makes his entrance. His diction has improved wonderfully and there is a crispness and decision in his work which made his "Pasha" a very definite asset to the cast.

Mr. Phelps and Mr. Wallbridge, with smaller parts to play, acquitted themselves with great credit, and Mr. Dolan with his two blood-thirsty attendants lent a great deal of Eastern color and "thrill" to the various scenes in which they appeared.

Mr. Ridley, on very short notice, made a very amusing body servant to the Pasha, while the Parrot, though given to unmentionable language played a small but important part successfully.

The costumes worn by the cast throughout were extremely effective especially in the last act, and the entire chorus, girls and boys, looked at all times smartly and gracefully dressed to suit the various occasions on which they appeared.

The orchestra, with Mrs. Campbell at the piano, lent invaluable aid throughout the entire evening.

Mr. Doyle fully deserves the congratulations showered upon him after the performance, and great credit is due to him and his able lady assistants for the very successful culmination of a most trying series of practices.

The performance is well worth attending.

DOCTOR SAID SHE WOULD DIE

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Her Life

RIVIERE A PIERRE, QUE., May 9th 1910

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation. The last two years of my illness, I was confined to my bed nearly all the time. I was so thin I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate. Even water would not stay on my stomach.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious.

At this time, a lady friend strongly advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and how thankful I am that I did so. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again and had gained 20 pounds.

I have taken thirteen boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am absolutely well—no pain—no indigestion—no constipation—my heart is sound and complexion clear".

Pains That Make Misery.

A TALK WITH OUR LADY READERS.

Have you ever noticed how miserable and unhappy the little pains and aches make one? A stinging cut, badly chapped hands, a nasty burn, a sore foot, a poisoned finger—none of them wounds or ailments ever likely to cause serious trouble, which come to every woman— and man too—and are just sufficient to take the edge off one's temper and give one a "grouch"

Zam-Buk is just the thing at such times. As soon as you put it on to a sore a cut, a burn, or any skin injury it stops the pain, and the smarting and starts up healing. Dont make the mistake that because Zam-Buk is so widely used by medical men, by nurses, and for serious skin diseases and accidents, that it is only for serious cases. Keep it handy and use immediately you get some trivial injury or have some little sore.

Mrs. Chas. H. Barrett, Harmony Road, Truro, N. S., says:"I had an ingrowing toe nail, which caused me acute agony. Sometimes the pain was so severe that I could not sleep. It become so bad that I feared that blood-poisoning would set in. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and bound up the sore toe with it. In a few days it was much easier and I continued the treatment. The result is that to-day the toe is sound and I have had no more trouble with it. We always keep Zam-Buk in our house, and I would strongly recommend it to every housewife."

Zam-Buk is just the thing too, for the little ones. Pure in its composition, and herbal in its nature, it is suitable for the most delicate skin It also cures piles, eczema, varicose ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, blood poisoning, ring-worm, and all similar skin diseases. Sold every where at 50c. a box, or post free form Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

When apples have to be cored, but served whole, it is advisable to core them before peeling them, as they are then less liable to break.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

eyes of a bird of prey. Though a hawk would show mercy to a fledgling sparrow sooner than this cutthroat to a captive, the robber instinct in him made him pause before he tied the fatal noose.

"Have you gone through the Nazarene's pockets, sirdar?" he asked.

"No," was the impatient answer. "Of what avail is it? These chota-sahibs have no money. And Cawnpore awaits us."

"Nevertheless, every rupee counts. And he may be carrying letters of value to the Maharajah. Once he is swinging up there he will be out of reach, and our caste does not permit us to defile our hands by touching a dead body."

While the callous ruffian was delivering himself of this curious blend of cynicism and dogma, his skilled fingers were rifling Malcolm's pockets. First he drew forth a sealed packet addressed to Sir Hugh Wheeler. He recognized the government envelope and, though neither of the pair could read English, Abdul Huq handed it to his leader with an "I told-you-so" air.

It was in Frank's mind to revile the men, but, most happily, he composed himself sufficiently to resolve that he would die like an officer and a gentleman, while the last words on his lips would be a prayer.

The next document produced was the Persi-Arabic scrawl which purported to be a "safe-conduct" issued by Bahadur Shah, whom the rebels acclaimed as their ruler. Until that instant, the Englishman had given no thought to it. But when he saw the look of consternation that flitted across the face of the subadar when his eyes took in the meaning of the writing, despair yielded to hope, and he managed to say thickly:

"Perhaps you will understand now that you ought to have asked my business ere you proposed to hang me off hand."

His active brain devised a dozen expedients to account for his presence in Bithoor, but the native officer was far too shrewd to be beguiled into setting his prisoner at liberty. After re-reading the pass, to make sure of its significance, the rebel leader curtly told Abdul Huq and another sowar to bring the Feringhi into the presence of the Maharajah, by which title he evidently indicated Nana Sahib.

The order was, at least, a reprieve, and Malcolm breathed more easily. He even asked confidently about his horse and the members of his escort. He was given no reply save a muttered curse, a command to hold his tongue, and an angry tug at his tied arms.

It is hard to picture the degradation of such treatment of a British officer by a native trooper. The Calcutta Brahmin who was taunted by a Lascar—a warrior-priest insulted by a social leper—scarce flinched more keenly under the jibe than did Malcolm when he heard the tone of his captors. Truly the flag of Britain was trailing in the mire, or these men would not have dared to address him in that fashion. In that bitter moment he felt for the first time that the mutiny was a real thing. Hitherto, in spite of the murders and incendiarism of Meerut, the risings in other stations, the proclamation of Bahadur Shah as Emperor, and the actual conflicts with the Mogul's armed retainers on the battle-field of Ghazi-un-din Nuggur, Malcolm was inclined to treat the outburst as a mere blaze of local fanaticism, a blaze that would soon be stamped under heel by the combined efforts of the East India Company's troops and the Queen's Forces. Now, at last, he saw the depth of hate with which British dominion was regarded in India. He heard Mohammedans alluding to a Brahmin as a leader—so might a wolf and a snake make common alliance against a watch-dog. From that hour dated a new and sterner conception of the task that lay before him and every Briton in the country. The Mutiny was no longer a welcome variant to the tedium of hot weather. It was a life-and-death struggle between West and East, between civilization and barbarism, between the laws of Christianity and the lawlessness of Mahomet, supported by the cruel, inhuman, and nebulous doctrines of Hinduism.

Not that these thoughts took shape and coherence in Malcolm's brain as he was being hurried to the house of Nana Sahib. A man may note the deadly malice of a cobra's eye, but it is not when the poison fangs are ready to strike that he stops to consider the philosophy underlying the creature's malign hatred of mankind.

Events were in a rare fret and fume in the neighborhood of Cawnpore that night. As a matter of historical fact, while Malcolm was hearing from the villager that Roshinara Begum had come to Bithoor, the 1st Native Infantry and 2nd Cavalry had risen at Cawnpore.

Nana Sahib was deep in intrigue with all the sepoy regiments stationed there, and his adherents ultimately managed to persuade these two corps to throw off their allegiance to the British Raj. Following the recognized routine they burst open the jail, burnt the public offices, robbed the Treasury, and secured possession of the Magazine. Then, while the ever-swelling mob of criminals and loafers made pandemonium in the bazaar, the saner spirits among the mutineers hurried to Bithoor to ascertain the will of the will of the man who, by common consent, was regarded as their leader.

He was expecting them, eagerly perhaps, but with a certain quaking that demanded the assistance of the "Raja's peg," a blend of champagne and brandy that is calculated to fire heart and brain to madness more speedily than any other intoxicant. He was conversing with his nephew, Rao Sahib, and his chief lieutenants, Tantia Tope and a Mohammedan named Azim-Ullah, when the native officers of the rebel regiments clattered into his presence.

"Maharajah," said their chief, "a kingdom is yours if you join us, but it is death if you side with the Nazarenes."

He laughed with the fine air of one who sees approaching the fruition of long-cherished plans. He advanced a pace, confidently.

"What have I to do with the British?" he asked. "Are they not my enemies, too? I am altogether with you."

"Will you lead us to Delhi, Maharajah?"

"Why not? That is the natural rallying ground of all who wish the downfall of the present Government."

"Then behold, O honored one, we offer you our fealty."

They pressed near him, tendering the hilts of their swords. He touched each weapon, and placed his hands on the head of its owner, vowing that he would keep his word and be faithful to the trust they reposed in him.

"Our brothers of the 53rd and 56th have not joined us yet," said one.

"Then let us ride forth and win them to our side," said the Nana grandiloquently. He went into the courtyard, mounted a gaily-caparisoned horse, and, surrounded by the rebel cohort, cantered off towards Cawnpore.

Thus it befell that the mob of horsemen pressed past Malcolm and his guards as they entered the palace. The subadar tried in vain to attract the Nana's attention. Fearing lest he might be forgotten if he were not in the forefront of the conspiracy, this man bade his subordinates take their prisoner before the Begum, and ran off to secure his horse and race after the others. He counted on the despatches gaining him a hearing.

"Better serve a king's daughter than these Shia dogs who are so ready to fawn on a Brahmin," said he to his comrade, another Pathan, and a Sunni like himself, for Islam, united against Christendom, is divided into seventy-two warring sects. Hence the wavering loyalty of two sepoy battalions in Cawnpore carried Malcolm out of the Nana's path, and led him straight to the presence of Princess Roshinara.

The lapse of three weeks had paled that lady's glowing cheeks and deepened the lustre of her eyes. Not only was she worn by anxiety, in addition to the physical fatigue of the long journey from Delhi, but the day's happenings had not helped to lighten the load of care. Yet she was genuinely amazed at seeing Malcolm.

"How come you to be here?" she cried instantly, addressing him before Abdul Huq could open his mouth in explanation.

"As your Highness can see for yourself, I am brought hither forcibly by these slaves," said Frank, thinking that now or never must he display a bold front.

"How did you learn that I had left Delhi?"

"The journeyings of the Princess Roshinara are known to many."

"But you came not when I summoned you."

"Your Highness's letter did not reach me until after the affair on the Hindun river."

"What is all this idle talk?" broke in Abdul Huq roughly. "This Feringhi was carrying despatches—"

"Peace, dog!" cried the Begum. "Unfasten the Sahib's arms, and be gone. What! Dost thou hesitate!"

"Throw these troopers into the courtyard," she commanded. "If they resist—"

But the Pathans were too wise to refuse obedience. Not yet had the rebels felt their true power. They [illegible] untied Malcolm's bonds, and disappeared. Using eyes and ears each moment to better advantage, Frank was alive to the confusion that reigned in Nana Sahib's abode. Men ran hither and thither in aimless disorder. The Brahmin's retainers were like jackals who knew that the lion had killed and the feast was spread. The only servants who preserved the least semblance of discipline were TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17.—W. S. Morden, barrister, of Belleville, has been summoned to appear in court on the charge of the hypothecation of notes in connection with the Farmers' Bank. The charge is simialr to that brought against Hon. J. R. Stratton.

A BRAVE GIRL FIGHTS GRAFT

WEST HAMMOND, Ind., Feb. 16—The Searchlight, a semi-weekly newspaper, published by Miss Virginia Brooks, made its initial appearance yesterday, and declared editorially that the editor will continue the publication, regardless of expense, till corruption is driven out of the city.

Miss Brooks, who is known as the Joan of Arc of West Hammond, has been making a campaign against graft and other phases of official corruption in this city for two years, and at the last election was the most potent factor in changing conditions by driving out some officials and voting in others. She is twenty-two years of age, is a property owner, and is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of reform.

When Miss Brooks began her campaign two years ago, her first assaults were made upon gambling, and she forced the local officers to make raids upon gambling houses and arrest gamblers till she rid the town of them. She has been greatly instrumental in ridding the town of other criminals and she now proposes to proceed against delinquent officials and expose graft in taxes and expose those who have gained control of property by questionable means.

It doesn't pay to play truant from the school of experience.

BONUS VOTE AND SPECIAL PRIZE OFFERS PLEASE THE CANDIDATES

Enthusiasm Increasing In Both Districts—Many Candidates Have Their Eye on the Liberal Special Prizes Offered, and it is Evident That Interest Will Increase Daily—Subscriptions Get Votes—Votes Win the Prizes—Secure Them Now, When They Count for Most—Miss Theda Barragar Heads List In District No 1—Miss Hazel Hume Retains Lead in District No. 2

NOTICE.

For the benefit of some subscribers we wish to state that all subscriptions delivered at the Belleville P.O., by carrier, or called for at The Intelligencer office—$3.00 per year. Subscriptions mailed to any P.O. outside of Belleville—$2.00 per year.

If The Intelligencer had the shadow of a doubt as to the reception which would be accorded its offer of bonus votes and special prize offers, that doubt was dispelled to-day like vapor before the morning sun. The candidates recognized the opportunity afforded by these special offers, and the results of the redoubled activity began coming in to the office before the noon hour to-day.

It didn't take The Intelligencer contestants more than a moment to comprehend the advantage to be gained by instant action, and all are now engaged in an earnest quest for subscriptions. That they are meeting with success goes without saying.

Candidates who have hesitated about starting an aggressive campaign for votes may well profit by the remark of one young lady who has already secured several subscriptions, and who may be depended upon to turn in many more before the close of the ten-day offer period. "I was surprised," said this contestant, "to find how easy it is to secure votes, and how readily one's friends will give their assistance to help one. You just ask them, that's all. You can't expect them to help you if they don't know you want their assistance." There never was a time in any contest when a little work counted for so much as right now in The Intelligencer popularity competition.

Every new subscription for one year or more secured during the next few days will entitle the candidate turning them in to double the usual number of votes; and in addition to this special incentive, The Intelligencer will present a $35.00 merchandise order on Sinclair & Co. to the contestant who during the next few days turns in the greatest total on subscriptions, old or new; to the contestant turning the largest amount in the remaining district will be awarded a beautiful Gold Watch.

Are not these unusual inducements worthy of your best efforts? A $35.00 merchandise order or a beautiful watch for a little extra effort for a few days and every vote secured in the competition for these special prizes counts also towards the regular prizes.

And in addition to these special prizes every subscription or one year or more turned in during the ten-day period will entitle the candidate securing them to double the usual number of votes. These subscriptions count, of course, toward both the regular prizes and the special prizes.

Now is the time to put forth your best efforts in this contest. Subscriptions will never count for more than right now.

SCHEDULE OF VOTES.

The following schedule is to be DOUBLED on all subscriptions turned in for ONE YEAR or more during the next ten days, Feb. 15th to Feb. 25th, inclusive:—

MUNICIPAL BONUSES

Bill for their Abolition to be Introduced In The egislature

TORONTO, Feb. 15. — Lieut.-Col. Craig of East Welington, intends to introduce a bill in the Legislature which will entirely abolish all bonuses by municipalities to industries of any kind. His intention is to repeal all clases of the Municipal Act relating to bonuses. His bill contains a specific prohibition of bonuses to manufacturing industries, iron, smelting or refining works, beet sugar factories, rolling mills or grain elevators. The definition of a bonus is greatly enlarged in the bill for the purpose of prohibition. The idea is to make a bonus include any grant of money as a gift or loan, the guaranteeing of any loan, the gift of land or leasing of land at a nominal rental, the carrying out of any local improvement for the particular use or benefit of any manufacturing industry, the supply of light, water or power to any industry free, or at rates less than those generally charged, and any act involving expenditure on the part of the municipality.

RUSSIA'S PATIENCE IS EXHAUSTED

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 15. — The Bourse Gazette says that Russia's relations with China were the subject of an important conference at the Ministry of War yesterday. Russia's patience has been exhausted by China's persistent disregard of her treaties and a vital pronouncement by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is expected in a few days, conveying to China Russia's sense of displeasure.

Russia's chief complaint is China's alleged violation of the treaty of 1881 in hindering Russian merchants from selling tea within the Chinese frontiers and refusing to admit Russian Consuls to certain cities. China repudiates Russia's contentions regarding the treaty of 1881. China complains that Russia's actions in Mongolia imply that she has designs on the integrty of her territory.

THOUSANDS ARE DEAD

Statistics Show Appaling Mortality From Bubonic Plague In China

PEKIN, Feb. 15.—The Chinese Government to-day applied to the Missionary Medical Association headquarters at Shanghai asking for the despatch of additional physicians to the north.

The appalling magnitude of the devastation caused by the plague is revealed by the estimates. The minimum estimate of the deaths from Chang-Chun to the north is 20,000.

The estimate for Southern Manchuria, based upon statistics of the Japanese railway administration, exceeds 2,500.

A conservative estimate for the provinces of Chih-Li and Shan-Tung is 2,500.

While it is impossible to obtain reliable statistics, particularly from the region north and east of Harbin, where the epidemic is raging with unabated fury, 25,000 as a total is more likely to be an under-estimate than an over-estimate.

The Viceroy of Manchuria telegraphs to the Wai-Wu Pu that his official reports show between 10,000 and 11,000 deaths, but he fears the total is much larger.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

If Canada had possessed a tariff commission composed of business men, that tariff pact would never have been entered into.

The Intelligencer's popularity contest is creating an interest which is rapidly growing. Some startling developments are expected on Monday, as some of the fair contestants are said to have hundreds of thousands of votes "up their sleeves."

The budget debate in the legislature has ended. It was about as frosty as the weather.

There need not be any doubt that the U. S. Senate will not reject the tariff pact. They know a good thing when they see it.

Can the prime minister of this country, or the cabinet of this country, secretly negotiate a treaty that involves a complete revolution of our fiscal policy, and then force it thru parliament by a party majority?

Hitherto we have discussed, amended, re-amended, our tariff proposals as presented in parliament. Now there is to be no discussion, no amendment, no compromise!

Is that a square deal?

Is it a square deal when it involves the very national life of a people.—Toronto World.

C. P. R. WILL BE DOUBLE TRACKED

A despatch from Montreal says that the C. P. R.'s new line along the front will be double tracked, and as the line between Smith's Falls and Montreal is double tracked already, the C. P. R. will have a double track all the way between that city and Toronto and an alternative route between Smith's Falls and Toronto and will reach all the important industrial communities between Montreal and Toronto now served by the Grand Trunk alone. Work will commence, it is said, on the line in the spring.

"AND GREAT WAS THE FALL THEREOF"

It was not an uncommon occurence this morning to witness the fall of pedestrians. This was owing to the fact that at an early hour this morning rain commenced to fall, and as it fell upon the walks made the latter not only glary but treacherous. In fact, upon the greater portion of the walks of the city it was next to impossible to navigate and consequently the road was well patronized by pedestrians.

MR. VAN TASSEL BORNE TO THE TOMB

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Willie A. VanTassel took place from the family residence, Front of Sidney township, and was largely attended. Helpful Hints on Hair Health Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on any body else's hat Many a hat band is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousand of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with the hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one shrould scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a practical test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Belleville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Mr. Editor : Your editorial on Monday last under the above heading, is certainly most misleading, and I judge you will welcome a statement putting you right.

The penalty provided in the city by-law giving the bonus to the G. T. R., is the RETURN of the bonus, in case the shops are removed outside the city. If the city has not been treated fairly by that the company, the remedy is easy. You do not, however, advise the enforcement of the terms of the by-law, but propose to get the property in Thurlow incorporated with the city, even if a low fixed assessment must be offered the G. T. R.

Even this refguge will fail. In 1874 the city limits were extended eastward School section No. 13 had nearly all its property taken into the city, including the school house. Only $18,000 assessment was left outside, not enough to maintain a school.

The children on these properties go to the city schools and the township pays. This is most unsatisfactory. We want a school of our own. The city has never paid a nickel for the school house taken in in 1874. This is not fair to those left outside who had contributed to the cost of the building. We now intend to ask the city to hand over our share of the west of Station School and will build a new school of our own.

Without the round house property the school could not be built. The presence of the new bridge will permit us to accommodate both the districts named in one school. The city at this juncture covets and undertakes to get the property which makes the new school possible. Before the G. T. R. got any privileges from Thurlow Council this action of the city was anticipated and provided against by a written undertaking of the G. T. R. not to seek admission to the city. Instead of the township inducing the G T. R., after it got the property in Thurlow, not to unite with the city the contrary is the fact, as this letter proves :—

Montreal, Jan. 30 '11.

Dear Mr. Vermilyea :

I have been intending to write you for some time. I have been corresponding with Mr. Mikel, City Clerk of Belleville, who states that the city intends to apply for legislation to take in the new round house and terminal I have told him that the company do not desire to be taken in, and that we will oppose it. I have not seen the notice of the application yet, but if it is true that the application has been made, I assume we can rely on Thurlow Council taking an active part in opposing it. Kindly let me hear from you.

E. DONALD,
Land and Tax Com.

Montreal, Feb. 1st, '11

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K. C.
City Solicitor, Belleville, Ont.,

Dear Sir : I observe the advt. of the application to Parliament in Ontario Gazette, giving notice that the City intend to apply to the Legislature to annex lands and territory belonging to the company upon which the new round house is situated. I think it would save expense and possibly avoid trouble and friction that the city should not proceed with this proposed application. At the present time the company do not want this territory annexed to the city under existing circumstances. If in view of this statement to you the council desire to settle the question as to bonus I shall be very glad to hear from you as to the proposition that was contained in my last letter.

Yours etc.,
E. DONALD.

These letters settle the attitude of the G. T. R. Assuming that the property when finished would be assessed at $300,000—

Belleville's tax would be, ..$8400.

Thurlow's tax would be, ..$2500.

The G. T. R. has its own water supply. Electric light and power can be had in Thurlow.

Public order must be paid for in any municipality by the authorities While the city has hundreds of acres not yet built upon what folly to talk of room to expand. When the people of College Hill ask to be annexed they will probably come in, just as when the city needs room for expansion it will be available.

Truly yours,
N. VERMILYEA.

That Disloyal Pact

The Intelligencer, in common with many other Conservative newspapers and with the leading men of the Liberal-Conservative party throughout the Dominion, has charged that the ulterior motive on the part of the United States in negotiating the tariff project which is at present under consideration by the legislatures of both countries, is the severance of Canada from the British Empire and the annexation of the Dominion to the adjacent Republic. Evidence in support of that contention is accumulating rapidly. For instance, the New York American, a "yellow" journal which caters to the lower strata of the population, published a few days ago a leading article in which it said, in part:—

> "In ratifying this trade agreement we should understand therefore that we are settling a world problem, and settling it right.
> "British imperialism will wane in consequence. But American trade routes will run along the lines that were ordained by nature. And the prosperity of the Western Continent will receive an immense impetus through a definite, a final disentanglement from the intrigues of European politics.
> "British imperialists dream wildly of creating, by artificial devices, an over-sea commerce with Canada, through its ice-locked ports, that shall be greater and more important than the easy and inevitable flow of exchanges through the open plains and valleys of the American continent.

That is significant, but still more so is the fact that the Democrats—who have ever been the anti-British party—railroaded the arrangement through the House of Representatives, which is equivalent to our House of Commons, in short order.

But still more significant is the fact that Mr. Champ Clark, of Missouri, the Democratic leader in the House of Representatives, made the following outspoken declaration during the debate on the subject:

> "I am for it, because I hope to see the day when the American flag will float over every square foot of the British North American possessions clear to the North Pole. They are people of our blood. They speak our language. Their institutions are much like ours. They are trained in the difficult art of self-government. My judgment is that if the treaty of 1854 had never been abrogated the chances of consolidation of these two countries would have been much greater than they are now."
> Representative Norris said, as he understood it, Mr. Clark favored the bill for at least one reason, "that it will have a tendency in the end to bring Canada into the Union."
> "Yes," answered Mr. Clark, "I have no doubt of it."
> Asked whether that would have a tendency to preserve peace with Great Britain, Mr. Clark said:
> "Why, certainly it will. I do not have any doubt whatever that the day is not far distant when Great Britain will joyfully see all her North American possessions become a part of this Republic. That is the way things are tending now."

Mr. Clark's speech has naturally aroused a storm of indignation among the loyal people of Canada and in Great Britain—so great, indeed, that President Taft has issued a disclaimer on his own behalf. But the fact remains, and cannot be concealed, that the enemies of Canada and of Britain have given their support to the tariff proposals because they believe that their effect will be as we have stated.

CLERK GRAPPLES ROBBER AND HOLD-UP FAILS

Bold Bandit Invades New York Hotel With Big Revolver, But Fails to Get to Safe—Shoots Nervy Employe of Hostelry Who Tries to Halt Him and then Gets Away in Waiting Automobile

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—With the aid of a big revolver and the co-operation of pals in a waiting automobile, a masked bandit early to-day attempted to hold up the clerk of the Hotel Frederick in West Fifty-sixth St. The attempt failed because Robert G. Barnard, the clerk, grappled with the bandit after the latter had fired one shot and wounded Barnard on the hand, and because the other's revolver twice missed fire when he tried to follow up his first shot by two more.

The bandit and his companions got away without having gotten anywhere within reaching distance of $400 in cash which had just been placed in the hotel safe.

Barnard had just finished figuring up the night's receipts when a well-dressed man, wearing a black mask, walked quietly up to the desk. In his right hand was a big revolver. The man whispered:

"HOLD UP YOUR HANDS."

"Hold up your hands or I'll blow your head off. I want all the money you've got."

Barnard for some time has been studying hypnotism and as he started to raise his hands he thought he might hypnotize the man. He extended his right hand toward the bandit, but the latter wasn't to be hypnotized and fired. The bullet grazed Barnard's hand and made an ugly wound.

PULLS THE TRIGGER.

Barnard and two hall boys who heard the shot jumped for the bandit, who pulled the trigger of his revolver twice more, but the shells failed to explode. The robber ran through the corridor, jumped into a waiting automobile and the machine darted away at top speed.

Scores of guests who were awakened by the shots flocked to the corridor in a panic. Barnard's wound was dressed and he was taken to a hospital.

THE COLDEN AGE WON MORE FAVOR

Mr. J. Nevin Doyle's charming comic opera was repeated last night in St. Michael's Academy to a crowded house, and was warmly applauded. The performance was even better than that of the night before, and gave general satisfaction. A nice sum will be netted for the hospital as a result of these performances.

DWELLING BURNED AT TRENTON

A frame dwelling, situated along the C. N. O. R. track in the town of Trenton owned and occupied by a Mr Blondin, wes yesterday destroyed by fire. The fire broke out at about 9.30 and the building was enveloped by flames when the brigade arrived upon the scene. Put a small portion of the contents were saved. The building and contents were partially insured.

AN EARLY AND MOST TIMELY WARNING

tentative treaty would no doubt operate to heighten popular opposiion to it there." Well may we ask: What is it? "a farce" or a "sectional coup d'etat?"

Noteworthy it also is that the passing of the Imperial Loan Act, authorizing the borrowing of $15,000,000 for the construction of the Intercolonial Railway was, in part, precipitated by the necessity of closer co-operation incidentally made more essential by the non renewal of the expired reciprocity treaty. The largest degree of development of purely Canadian resources will be best furthered under a consistent system of general tariff protection on natural and manufactured products.

Canada, with anxious eyes and expectant hands, is daily looking to Britain, France and Germany, and even is looking to our southern competitor for capital to develop resources upon resources, lying as yet but superficially touched and uncovered. And who knows not the ladder on which we must climb to attainment? Will we climb by the same ladder as the United States or will we profit by the profit of others?

The trade policy of the United States from 1866 to 1910 has been a policy which has steadily widened the commercial breach between the two countries. And this policy has not been, in the long run, to the detriment of Canada. On the contrary the tariff policy which has been steadily maintained against us has been a decided blessing. It has been the means of making Canada fiscally and nationally independent. It has been the means of uniting Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A few years ago our position was precarious. What is to-day our Great West was isolated from any efficient communication with the east by the rock-bound region of Lake Superior. To-day we have perfected a great waterways system, we have two great trans-continental railway systems in practical use and a third, the Canadian Northern, under process of construction. A few years ago the western path of commerce was south—to-day it is east. This we have built up on the structures of protection— protection to both natural and manufacturing products.

The trend to high or low tariffs is and always has been affected by considerations other and more potential than considerations of mere barter and exchange. The reasons responsible for the United States abrogating the reciprocity treaty were, principally, reasons of sentiment. And the reasons which to-day demand that no manner of reciprocity agreement be entered into by Canada, are, likewise in part, reasons of sentiment. At the present time so vital are those reasons of sentiment that to disregard them would be to undermine the framework of our country which is to-day faced with a number of portentous problems of a nature far too important to be placed under any possible or probable growing disadvantage.

The one aspect, single in its purport, afforded by a comprehensive glance at the social fabric of our rising west, as it is now composed and as it will be composed in the near future, will, of itself, convince any keen observer of a number of vital reasons why he should oppose any modification or change in that policy which has so excellently built up and fostered national spirit and prosperity.

The way of Canada is in the path where, in unison, blooms the rose, the thistle, the shamrock, all as one brightened and refreshed by the sweet scented fragrance of the ever so gallant, the fleur-de-lis.

The present day wish of the united Canadian people is for "more close relations within the Empire." And it is, therefore, the eventful duty of all to see that no snares or obstacles obstruct the straight path.

Let the Canadian farmer and the Canadian manufaturer continue to work hand in hand—broadly accepting the principle that what is good for the one is also good for the other. The injury of one is the injury of the other. Reciprocity for both spells in large bold letters "Commercial Union." The advent of "Commercial Union" portends a baleful retrogression to things that no man would have be. It is for us to make our history so that our future will be a happy future, and if err we must, then let us err on the side of national happiness and prosperity.

(Signed.)
WM. J. C. SUTTON.

Dr. Bishop, and also by the society. The cortege, headed by the I. O. O. F. band playing the dead march, proceeded to the Belleville cemetery, where interment took place Upon the casket were placed a number of beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were all Past Grands of the Belleville Lodge, I. O. O. F., being: Bros. L. C. Pascoe, F. C. Sharpe, H. Ransome, W. J. Kelly, Geo. Turner, and D. Pringle.

BRAVE POLICEMAN SAVED NINE LIVES

MONREAL, Feb. 14.—The courage and presence of mind of Constable Demerles of Police Station No. 2 saved nine persons from a horrible death early this morning.

The officer made nine trips into a burning house, and carried out each time an unconscious person through the thick smoke, down stairs that grew less stable every trip, and over floors the supports of which were gradually giving way as the flames ate into them.

The constable was walking his beat along St. Catharine St. about 1 o'clock this morning, when he noticed smoke pouring from the East End Emporium, a dry goods store kept by Messrs. Hart & Small, at 1,357 St. Catharine St. Seeing that those who lived above the shop were in danger, the constable endeavored to waken them, first by the bell and next by knocking. There was no reply, and no sound except the sharp crackle of the flames. With a mighty effort he burst open the door with his shoulder, and then rushed up the stairs through the heavy smoke. One of the party rescued was an old man 75, totally blind.

EUROPE IS SAFE

From Bubonic Plague--Cannot Be Infected Except Through Criminal Negligence

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Dr. Burnet, of the faculty of Paris University, who has made a special study of the bubonic plague, affirms that the sole means of preventing its spread from Manchuria to Europe is by isolation

Dr. Elie Metchinikoff, of the Pasteur Institute, is of the same opinion, and by showing the possibility of successfully isolating the plague, he is prompt to re-assure the French republic, which has been lately watching the reports from Eastern Asia with considerable apprehension.

KINGSTON'S FAREWELL

Archbishop Gauthier Presente With A Cross and a Purse of Gold

KINGSTON, Feb. 15.—An immense congregation gathered this evening in St. Mary's Cathedral to witness the presentation to Archbishop Gauthier of gifts from the clergy of the diocese and the Roman Catholic people of Kingston on the eve of His Grace's departure for Ottawa, where he assumes the duties of Archbishop of the capital see.

On behalf of the clergy, Vicar-General Masterson of Prescott read an address to his Grace and presented him with a large gold pectoral cross decked with amethysts and a heavy gold chain. The address of the laity was read by Mr. James Swift. The people's gift was a purse of gold, containing about $2,000.

The Archbishop, who has been head of the diocese for the past twelve and a half years, and who is greatly beloved by all classes, was deeply moved by the affection shown for him. He thanked his people for all they had been to him during his stay here. He regretted to leave Kingston, to which he had been called in 1898, as successor to the late Archbishop Cleary, and where his college days had been spent in old Regiopolis. He departed to the capital of Canada, knowing that the prayers of Kingston Archdiocese would follow him and sustain him in the larger work to which he had been called, and to which, as a faithful pastor, he must devote himself.

After the Archbishop's discourse the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given. The musical service was under the direction of Prof. Paul Denys of Montreal. After the service the Archbishop entertained the visiting clergy to a banquet in the palace. On Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock his Grace will say his last Mass in St Mary's and address the Catholic children of the city. He will leave at 1 o'clock in the afternoon by special G. T. R. car for Ottawa and will be bidden good-bye at the railway station by a large assembly of people.

RACING NEWS IS NOT ILLEGAL

By a decision of the Court of Appeal handed down at Osgoode Hall on Tuesday in which the Police Court convictions against Melville Luttrell, news-agent at the Iroquois Hotel and George Hogarth, Manager of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co., were quashed, the publishing of racing information and news was declared legal.

The test case was made of The Chicago Racing Form in the Luttrell case, and all other cases were dependent upon it, including The New York Telegraph, Daily Racing Record of Toronto and other papers that made a specialty of racing news.

In this case the court held there was no reasonable evidence of the criminal intention, which the enactment is aimed against, in either publisher or seller of the publication, and that the Magistrate had no power to make a pro forma finding with a view to stating a case.

In the case of the G.N.W. Telegraph Co., who were charged with violating the act in transmitting the results of the races at the Dufferin Park track by wire to a Detroit newspaper, the court held that the evidence was entirely insufficient to prove the charge.

CANADIANS DO WELL AT N. Y. DOG SHOW

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The New York dog show, the greatest ever held in America, opened in Madison Square Garden. More than two thousand dogs were benched.

There is but one entry from Canada in collies, Irish or fox terriers, three varieties that used to be strongly supported by Canadian fanciers. W. P. Fraser, of Toronto, is represented by the smooth-coated Ortruda, bred in the old country.

The only Canadian Great Dane was the Harlequin dog, Meadow Spring Pasha, owned by Wm. J. Cundell of Winnipeg. He was first.

Mrs. P. F. Mathias, of Montreal, showed the Russian wolfhound, Alexander, of Spring Farm, which got V. H. C. in the open class, twelve dogs competing.

Ben Lewis furnished the leader in whippets, with Champion Lansdowne Sunray, and J. O Moran's Whisper M., from Toronto, was second. Whisper M. was bred by Geo. H. Gooderham.

The Winnipeg Great Dane, Meadow Spring Pasha, was also third in the open class for dogs of any color, where he met two champions, Vohl's Vulcan and Helios' Von Wurtemberg, which were also first and second in the winners' class. Alexander, of Spring Farm, was highly commended in the open wolfhound class.

Canadian exhibitors in Cocker spaniels were Geo. Douglas, of Woodstock T. A. Armstrong of Ottawa, the Calmo Kennels of Toronto, and Frank E. Curtis of Simcoe. Mr. Armstrong's Ottawa Don was reserve in limit dogs, other than black, and third in the open, and in the same classes Mr. Douglas was third and second with Radium Star. His Wickett was reserve to Ottawa Gold Dust. The Calmo Kennels Oviedo was second in bitch puppies and, Frank Curtis' White Frost was third in the limit classes for bitches other than black. Charles H. Mason was first in puppies and novice with Black Baronet, and the winner in open dogs was the Daffodil Farm Kennels' Kemah. Both of these are sons of Champion Le Noir, a dog bred by the late James S. Clarke of Toronto. Midkiff Elms, second in the winners, was also sired by a Toronto dog, L. Farewell's Billy Oho.

In the Pomeranians, a very large class, Mrs. Wiederseim of Philadelphia, showed the first and second dogs in the winners' class, Offley Bumble Bee and Offley Marco. Foster and Crosby of Toronto, the only Canadians represented, got a second with Berwyn Princess and third with Sable in limit and open bitch classes.

New York, Feb. 15.—Champion Inferno, the crack bull, owned by John Miles, of Toronto, was awarded first in winners of the Dog Show here. Mr Miles' Inferno King, was third in puppies, and the same owner had a fourth in English terriers with Slossie.

The only English setter from Canada was Joseph Lemoine's Winipeg dog, Gleams Count Whitestone, but he was unsuccessful.

STATES IMPORT THEIR WOOD PULP

Over 95 per cent of the mechanical pulp imported by the United States in 1909 came from Canada. This interesting statement is made in a report by Henry S. Graves, United States Forester on Pulp Wood Consumption which has just been received by the Department of Mines, Forest and Lands. This Washington document shows the inducements Canada, particularly Ontario, offers to the United States, with its depleted forests for reciprocity, particularly in regard to pulp wood.

The United States consumption of pulp wood in 1909 was 4,001,607 cords an increase of 19.6 per cent. over the amount consumed in 1908. Despite this increase, the United States mills according to the bulletin, now require double the amount consumed in 1900 It says :—

"The expectations expressed in the bulletin on pulp wood consumption for 1908 have now been fully realized the industry now requiring double the amount of pulp wood consumed in 1900. The total cost of the pulp wood has likewise increased, not only because of the greater quantity used, but also because of the higher average cost per cord of the wood delivered at the mill."

The imports amounted to 19.8 per cent. of the total pulp wood consumed in 1900.

As the spruce has become scarcer other kinds of wood are being pressed into service. White fir, formerly considered of no value for this purpose, is now much used. But the average yield of pulp per cord of wood has decreased from 1,286 pounds in 1907 to 1,245 pounds in 1909. New York is the leading state in the consumption of pulp wood. Of the spruce it consumes, 44.3 per cent. is imported. In 1909 New York state imported 408,713 cords of pulp wood, as compared with 384,883 cords of domestic wood.

A total of 2,491,405 tons was the output of wood pulp in the United States in 1909. The total imports in 1910 were 423,721 tons, worth $11,786,014 In 1906 the value of wood pulp imported was four and a half million dollars It was over six millions in 1907; in 1909 $8,029,263. During these five years the values of the imports from Canada have gone up as follows :—1906, $2,503,352; 1907, $3,230,272; 1908, $3,198,223; 1909, $3,407,715; 1910, $4,226,560.

Since the pulp forests of Ontario and Quebec are practically the last on the North American continent it is not likely the Provincial embargoes will be removed. Hon. Frank Cochrane says they will not be so far as Ontario is concerned.

When apples have to be cored, but served whole, it is advisable to core them before peeling them, as they are then less liable to break.

You may have observed that a man who always laughs at his own jokes seldoms has any laughter left for the jokes of others.

SEVEN WIVES CLAIM THIS MAN INCLUDING ONE IN ST. THOMAS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 15.—The authorities in Canada and the United States are looking for Bertram S. de la Meutre, alias Bertram Smith, soldier of fortune, traveller, linguist, who is now a fugitive from justice, charged with wholesale bigamy. Smith has, according to the local authorities, at least seven wives living. Their names and addresses are as follows : No. 1 Mrs. Lucy S. Smith, St. Thomas, Canada; No. 2., Frances Downs, Atlanta Ga.; No. 3., Blanche Hall, of Bryan Texas; Nos. 4 and 5, residents of Cuba, No. 6, Miss Muller, of Hollywood, and No. 7, Mrs. Charlotte Pounder, of the Hotel Burlington, Burlington and 9th streets, Los Angeles, Cal., who became Mrs. Herbert Smith on Jan. 8, in San Francisco.

It is believed that Smith has other wives living in the United States and in Europe, but the police have received no information concerning their identity. Two of the women who admit that they have been married to Smith have indicated thir willingness to become witnesses against him in the event that he is taken into custody. Four others have notified the officers that they do not desire to press a prosecution against him.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 15.— Bert, or Herbert Smith was born in St. Thomas forty years ago of well-to-do parents. His father died, leaving him considerable money. His mother married again and still lives here. Herbert Smith was well educated and married a wealthy girl in Brantford twenty years ago. He spent all her money and spoiled her life. She left him eight years ago, when they were living in St. Louis, Mo. She came to St. Thomas, and lives here with his mother, and is known here as Mrs. Lucy S. Smith. Herbert, or Bert Smith is a lecturer by profession, and when last heard from by his friends here was in New Orleans. After Smith's marriage in Brantford he was tried for bigamy before Judge Hardy, but was acquitted.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 16.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat at an advance in prices of 1½d, but exporters were not disposed to accept all the bids, and sales of only 100,000 bushels were made. In sympathy with the further weakness in the Winnipeg market for oats, prices here scored another decline of ¼c per bushel. There was no improvement in the export demand for flour, but a fair trade was done for local account. The market for eggs is weak, and prices have declined 1c to 3c per dozen. Demand for provisions and dairy produce is fair.

Luckily the snow was deep and held up the weight so that he was able to crawl out to safety.

BIG LOAVES PREVAIL

There Will Be No Change in Bread Law This Year.

Provincial Secretary Also Presents His Municipal Works Bill For Second Reading—McKeown's Bill to Abolish Church Exemptions From Taxes Is Withdrawn at the Request of Hon. Mr. Hanna.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Church exemptions, increased indemnities, and school holidays afforded members of the Ontario Legislature material yesterday afternoon upon which to dilate, while considerable progress was made with a number of consolidation measures. The latter included the second reading of Hon. W. J. Hanna's bill to place the control of costly local improvements under the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, which is strongly opposed by the Toronto city law department.

Hon. Mr. Hanna's announcement in regard to the bread bill was another feature of a laborious and progressive afternoon. The Provincial Secretary said that there would be no need of bread legislation this year, because the Court of Appeal had upheld the Government's measure of last year. Big loaves would prevail.

W. K. McNaught, North Toronto, made a spirited protest against the requirement of two years' residence in Canada of aliens, before being entitled to qualify as stationary engineers. He considered six months ample, but was willing to compromise at one year.

The suggestion of the member for North Toronto was accepted.

A. Studholme argued for a requirement in the bill that two certificated engineers should be required in case of mills and factories which worked day and night.

Sir James Whitney took the view that the statute, if enforced, would suffice, as the employment of a fireman who acted as engineer even in the latter's temporary absence, was prohibited under a penalty.

C. R. McKeown, Dufferin, moved the second reading of his bill to abolish exemptions on church lands, and the sites of religious and philanthropic schools. It was unjust that Havergal Hall, the Loretto Abbey and Bishop Strachan School should be free from taxation while the home of the poor wicked was taxed out of due proportion in consequence.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said that in view of the fact that the bill would be overwhelmingly defeated both in the committee and the House, it should be withdrawn, as it was a few years ago thoroughly discussed in committee.

Mr. McKeown said as a loyal Conservative he would withdraw his bill.

Mr. Bowyer's bill to amend the Public School Act, so that the summer vacation in rural districts would be extended to two months, as maintains in urban localities, was given its second reading and was referred to the committee on education.

Hon. A. G. MacKay was opposed to it and would advise hesitation until the returns for August were shown, to see if the attendance was short.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, in closing the debate, stated that in August the schools were poorly attended, and he advised that the motion go to committee.

Sir James Whitney's bill to have laundries, Chinese et al., put under factory inspector regulation, received its second reading.

A. Studholme said the principle was O. K. from labor's point of view, and the leader of the Opposition didn't object to it.

The bill of Mr. Ferguson (Simcoe) to restrain traction engines from running on roads in May and December, because of the damage they wrought in soft weather, was read a second time.

Hon. Mr. Hanna opposed it, saying there had been no demand made, and while it might be necessary in a few isolated instances, it would hardly do to tie up the whole province.

Mr. Eilber's bill to do away with arbitration troubles and expense in respect to snow fences, by recognizing a simple agreement between the person owning the property affected and the local council, was given its second reading.

The House went into supply on the supplementary estimates, and passed a number of items.

The vote for the statute revision commission, $9,545.50, was challenged, and was allowed to stand for further information.

W. F. Nickle, Kingston, moved that the item of $42,400 to increase the appropriation to $1,400 per member, be struck out.

Mr. Studholme agreed with Mr. Nickle.

Sir James Whitney said that the item would not be withdrawn. In introducing the proposal he had assumed the usual responsibility of a Government. He did not desire to shift his responsibilities to anyone else's shoulders.

TREATY NOT HARMLESS

Haughton Lennox Points Out the Heavy Sacrifices.

In Further Debate on the Proposed Reciprocal Tariff, J. E. Armstrong Presents the Alternative Proposal of Trade Within the Empire—All That Is Needed Can Be Produced by Britons.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Another day passed in the Commons yesterday in the discussion of the tariff. The Liberal speakers followed party lines and denied that any harm was coming to the fruit growers, packers and others by the treaty.

Continuing the debate on the reciprocity agreement, Haughton Lennox (South Simcoe), said that it could not be stated with truth that no interests had been sacrificed, in view of the representations made to the Government by the fruit growers. He criticized the Government for having made the agreement without consulting Parliament and without having a mandate from the people, and said that Canada now has an order-in-council Government.

Referring to the argument advanced by Hugh Guthrie on Wednesday, that it was not wise to ignore geographical conditions; he would remind Mr. Guthrie and the Government that the United States had insisted for forty years on ignoring geographical conditions.

Mr. Lennox did not believe that there was any reason to believe in view of the fact that the price of wheat was fixed in Liverpool, that there would be any substantial increase for the Canadian farmers. The wheat would, however, find it way to the market via American routes. Mr. Guthrie had dilated on the immense benefits which would result to Eastern Canada should one million more farmers settle in the west. It would not do Canada much good if their products were shipped to and through the United States.

A considerable list of articles which Britain could supply had been placed on the free list, and, owing to the longer haul from the Mother Country, the U. S. would have a distinct advantage. This was discrimination against Great Britain.

A. B. Warburton (Queen's, P.E.I.) took up cudgels on behalf of the island province. He did not believe in placing the tariff altogether under the control of a permanent committee, because it would abrogate the duties of the Ministers of the crown. In all matters of fiscal policy, the Government should assume full responsibility. He did not agree with the argument of the Opposition that Canada should leave well enough alone. That would eliminate any question of future progress.

In reply to Mr. Lennox's statement that the U. S. would receive an advantage over the Mother Country regarding goods on the free list by reason of discriminatory rates, due to the longer haul, he said it costs us more to bring freight from Halifax to Prince Edward Island, than from Liverpool to Halifax; and so it likewise cost more to bring goods from New York than from both ports.

J. E. Armstrong (E. Lambton), prefaced his remarks by drawing a scheme for imperial trade. The meaning of Confederation was the welding together of the British Empire. Everything a nation needs was grown in the British Empire. Canada had the grain, minerals and lumber. Australia produced meat and wool. India and Egypt provided the cotton, and Britain herself was the manufacturing clearing house. This was a combination that could not be beaten. Reciprocity with the U. S. was the first step towards empire disintegration.

Picturing an era of trade depression and financial ruin in Canada when the railways would be without tonnage and the great lake ports would be without cargoes. Mr. Armstrong charged that the Finance Minister, in his local campaigns in Nova Scotia, had preached secession. He feared direct taxation would follow. There was no object in offering amendments to the deal; an amendment would void the whole agreement.

Additional light was thrown upon the agreement by answers by Mr. Fielding to questions put by S. Sharp (North Ontario).

In the case of a few articles which are not to be found in the French treaty, the favored nation countries will be entitled to receive the concessions on the same terms as the United States, but France will not be so entited. Although not arising from any agreement, in no case has any advantage been granted to any foreign country that did not extend at the same time to all parts of the British Empire. In the few cases to which the rates to be established are lower than those already enjoyed by British countries, the reductions will apply to such countries.

Mr. Sharp asked if, at the recent conferences at Washington, any understanding was reached that the Canadian tariff on articles not specifically mentioned in the treaty would not be included.

Mr. Fielding replied: "There is no understanding of any kind except what is found in the correspondence and schedules already before the House."

Cannibalism In China.

Pekin, Feb. 17.—Several cases of cannibalism, the result of the great Chinese famine, were reported yesterday from the Province of Kiang-Si, the centre of the starvation zone. According to these reports a man, a woman and two children were killed and their flesh eaten by villagers in the community west of the Tayuling Mountains just south of the tea district.

From Canton and Shanghai despatches were received from missions, which confirm the stories of barbarism. Missionaries in the field in the famine belt have sent word that the famished people are insane from suffering and that rioting is frequent. Soldiers sent into the districts have been attacked.

Along the valley of the Kan River whole villages have been depopulated and dead bodies strew the roads and fields. In the tea district, the crop is rotting because hands cannot be found to till the ground and attend to the vines.

Application will be made by Jas. Laidlaw, K.C., acting for Liquidator Clarkson, for permission to institute court action against them, or, rather, against all those who are considered liable for the return of moneys wrongfully paid to or by them.

The new action came out yesterday afternoon at the hearing before the official referee of the defunct bank, in the bank office. Mr. Laidlaw explained that until he had had further conference with the liquidator he would be unable to state the names of the parties who will be the defendants.

A week was allowed Mr. Laidlaw to file his affidavit by Referee McAndrew and there will be a hearing next Thursday in the office of the liquidator.

M. Baker, executor of Mrs. Eddy's will. A hearing is asked on the bill for Feb. 20.

The injunction is asked on the ground that Geo. W. Glover, with Dr. E. J. Foster Eddy, Mrs. Eddy's adopted son, signed an agreement to forego all rights to any part of Mrs. Eddy's property on her death, in return for a considerable sum paid to them at the time.

Moorehead claiming to be a promoter for the Walker Car Co., managed to get Bellamy to loosen up to the extent of $1,160 in cash and notes. He claimed to be a contributor to several leading American magazines, and while in jail spent his time writing poetry.

ISSUE IS ABOVE PARTY

Imperils Canada's Nationhood Says Sir Edmund Walker.

Banker Presents Resolution, Seconded by J. W. Flavelle, Opposing Reciprocal Tariff, and It Is Carried by Overwhelming Majority by Board of Trade, Toronto — Pact Might Lead to Political Union.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—At a big meeting of the Board of Trade in this city yesterday, prominent men from all over the country an anti-reciprocity resolution moved by Sir Edmund Walker and seconded by J. W. Flavelle was passed by a vote of 289 to 13.

The speakers were Sir Edmund Walker, J. W. Flavelle, J. D. Allan, W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford, Col. G. T. Denison, Albert J. H. Eckhardt, F. W. Hay, Listowel, and J. E. Atkinson. The three last named supported the reciprocity agreement.

Sir Edmund Walker, in explaining his motion, said he had always been a Liberal, but this issue was beyond party. The resolution said:

"(1) That the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of the policy which has been pursued in the development of her trade and of her natural resources, and that any policy which would hamper the development of Canada's resources in her own way and by her own people, or which would check the development of trade between the various parts of Canada with each other or between Canada and the various parts of the Empire, would be detrimental to the true interests of Canada and to Canadian nationality.

"(2) That very large expenditures have been made upon railways, canals, steamships and other means of transportation between east and west and west and east to promote such development and trade, and that the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United Stats of America would seriously check the growth of such development and trade and would curtail Canada's freedom of action with respect to her tariff and channels of trade.

"(3) That any present benefit to any section of Canada or to any interest therein which might accrue from said agreement would be more than offset by the loss and injury to other sections and interests.

"(4) That the proposed agreement would weaken the ties which bind Canada to the Empire.

"(5) That to avoid the disruption of trade which after some years under said agreement would result were said agreement terminated and a protective tariff against Canada established by the United States, Canada would be forced to closer trade relations with them, which would still further weaken those ties and make it more difficult to avert political union with the United States.

"Be it resolved that in the opinion of this board the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States of America is opposed to the true interests of Canada, threatens Canadian nationality, and should not be consummated."

Would Annex Canada.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Representative Bennett of New York yesterday introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives calling upon President Taft to open negotiations with the British Government, through Ambassador Bryce, for a treaty providing for the annexation of Canada by the United States.

Representative Bennett, with Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, and one or two others, opposed the proposed pact, obtained an opportunity to fill the air with smoke yesterday, and it is now believed that unless President Taft can find some way of halting the annexation talk, the opponents of reciprocity in the Senate will make use of their opportunity to kill the pact in the Senate finance committee, where the bill now awaits action.

In speaking of his resolution in the House yesterday, Representative Bennett insisted that he was both serious and sincere. He declard that, to his mind, annexation was the logical result to be looked forward to following reciprocity.

SCHOOL BOARD GRAFT.

Pittsburg Probe Shows Startling State of Affairs.

Pittsburg, Feb. 17.—Graft in the Pittsburg school boards, as exposed in a bulletin issued to the public by the Voters' Civic League yesterday, has not yet received official notice from the district attorney, who, after reading the bulletin, said he would wait to ascertain if the league would make informations, and take up the prosecution of the alleged offenders as it did in the councilmanic graft cases last spring.

The personnel of the school boards of the individual wards is attacked, the charge being made "that the majority are gamblers, bartenders, saloonkeepers, political employers, placed on the boards to control votes, mill workers and laborers, with inadequate education to govern the instruction of children," and a score of more characters of men, equally objectionable in the judgment of the voters' league.

A few cases cite that as low as $25 was paid board members and as high as $1,000 for votes to place contracts. On one contract of $200,000, it is asserted that one-third of the amount was paid to the school board members in graft.

"Teachers have been forced to pay for their appointments, janitors and truant officers held up, and when everything failed the grafting directors can always borrow money from agents of the contractors who do business with the schools. The money is never returned," says the report.

"Some of the school picnics have been nothing more than drunken orgies for the directors and their dissolute and disreputable friends. Children have been taken to picnics with men and women of the underworld. They have seen drunken women from the tenderloin on the dancing platform, and gamblers playing their vocation on the grounds."

Veto Bill Has Clear Track.

London, Feb. 17.—In the House of Commons yesterday, after a nine hours' debate, Premier Asquith's motion appropriating the whole time of the House until Easter to the veto bill, in order to get through before the coronation, was carried under closure, 196 to 118.

During the course of the debate the Prime Minister said he expected that the veto bill would be sent to the House of Lords early in May, and that the Lords would give their decision thereon before the coronation. This optimism on the part of Mr. Asquith is interpreted in some quarters as indicating the possibility of a compromise being arrived at, as it is contended that otherwise it would be vain to hope that the bill could be disposed of so quickly. Thus far, however, the Unionists give no sign of relenting.

B. C. Condemns Reciprocity.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 17.—The British Columbia Legislature yesterday adopted the resolution introduced two days ago, condemning the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States. There was only one dissenting vote.

Premier McBride spoke at length on the resolution, asserting that he regards reciprocity with the United States as unnecessary and uncalled for. He said that, although he believed freer trade with the United States would not weaken Canadian loyalty to Great Britain, it would not assist in bringing the Dominion and the Mother Country closer together. He interprets the agreement as a departure from the established policy which both parties in Canada have recognized as vital to the welfare of the Dominion.

Further Intellectual Relations.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—Leopold Koppel, a banker, has donated $175,000 for the erection of a physical chemistry research institute and will make a further gift of $87,500, extended over the next ten years, for the maintenance of the institute. The object of Herr Koppel is the furtherance of Germany's intellectual relations with foreign countries.

A Chinese Contributor.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Liang Tun Yen, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of China, who is now in Washington, yesterday contributed $1,000 to the fund which the Red Cross is raising for the relief of the famine sufferers of his country. The former Minister is traveling for the benefit of his health.

Relations Are Strained.

London, Feb. 17.—The relations of Russia and China are strained to the breaking point. Russia yesterday notified the Governments of Great Britain, France and Germany of her intention to make a military demonstration on the Russo-Chinese frontier, owing to China's persistent violation of the St. Petersburg treaty of 1881.

Russian troops will be sent forthwith to the district of Ili.

The extent of the demonstration, it is added in the diplomatic note, will depend entirely upon the attitude assumed by China.

The vital questions involved are free trade in Mongolia; the extra territorial rights of Russians in China, and the establishment of a Russian consulate at Kobdo, Mongolia.

AN EARLY AND MOST TIMELY WARNING

Canada Is Now Standing at the Parting of the Ways—Path to Be Followed—It is Not That Leading to the United States—A Presentation of Some Pertinent Facts

In the affairs of nations the relative importance and future scope of federal legislative measures, are, by many, little understood and seldom fully appreciated. And so it would appear to be in the present and prospective tariff arrangements with the Republic of the United States. In view of the pressing importance of the further tariff negotiations now in progress in respect to a reciprocity—treaty with our southern neighbors, it, perhaps, behooves all who are interested in and who love their country to awake from that lethargy which, from present appearances, will permit our Minister of Finance to enter into a course of action to which a large and influential proportion of Canadians are strongly opposed. The more so for reason that reciprocity with the United States has a wide ultimate significance, and would have much to do with the ultimate political destiny of Canada and the Empire. Apt are we to forget—apt are our modern political apostles of expediency to forget that the great issue of "Reciprocity," which is an outpost of "Commercial Union," has already been before us, or, at least, before those of the older generation.

The consensus of past Canadian experience is storngly averse to Reciprocity and Commercial Union. The consensus of present Canadian opinion, as expressed in unmistakeable terms by the Montreal Board of Trade, the Chambre de Commerce, as expressed by the Manufacturers' Association, and as expressed by general public opinion, concurs with past experience and strongly condemns any reciprocity arrangement with the United States. In other words, there must not be any suggestion of favors or agreement which will permit reciprocity either in natural or in manufactured products.

Our government has already made the mistake of having a too equivocal and a too unwieldy tariff system without adding to the new unsatisfactory status quo additional multifarious tariff issues, which are bound to arise with the Empire and foreign countries in the sad event of a culmination of reciprocity or commercial union with the United States. It never comes amiss, in a time of crisis such as the present, to remind any government of any political persuasion that they are responsible representatives of the people, and that to hold office does not give autocracy of control without regard to the wishes of the people.

The tariff policy which has given Canada the splendid commercial standing which she to-day enjoys does not permit and, since the acceptance of our broad national policy in 1879, has never permitted any arrangement such as would result result from a reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Our political policy of Canadian and British unity, so gloriously born, July 1, 1867—a year after, and rendered more practical by, the abrogation of the then existing Reciprocity Treaty in 1866—does not, in any national manner, make it nationally consistent for Canada to enter into a treaty of reciprocity. It is for Canadians to answer whether, at the whim of those few whose reciprocity dictates seem to emanate from causes other than national, we are to cast aside the policy which has served Canada so well these 43 notable years of progress and at a time so direly critical to our Empire!

Reciprocity is a sword of many sharp edges. The handle would not be our handle. Then why take you the sword? Reciprocity immediately would injure British capital and imperial connection. And just so as the weight by gravity falls, so, thereby, will we become a purposeless people and a race void of a hoped for future.

Reciprocity in natural products between two countries like the United States and Canada would be like playing with loaded dice, with the preponderance of natural weight in the dice of the United States. In manufactured products it would be played out to the superior weight, over-production and specialization of the United States.

Reciprocity would discountenance Canada and hamper her in the great trade markets of France, Germany, Japan and throughout the world. How long and how much costly experience will our short-seeing legislators find necessary to again discover that to give any trade preference to any foreign country and not give that same trade preference to every foreign country is to speedily incur the gentle clubbing of the maximum and minimum tariff principle which worked to such exquisite perfection a few months back on mildly inexperienced and offending Canada by the United States. Five months have passed and our legislators, like Shakesperian nonentities, have clean forgotten that the German trade damaging reprisals which gave rise to the German surtax were the result of the justified and commendable Canada's British preference which was an Inter-Imperial preference and not a foreign preference as would be the case were a Reciprocity Treaty made with the United States. Well will it be for our legislators to remember that the Canadian, the British Empire and the world conditions of to-day do not permit what was possible during the operative period of the Reciprocity Treaty 1854-66. When will the comedy stop, and why, therefore, do our legislators make a toy of this dread and injurious weapon?

At the period of 1854-66, when the Reciprocity Treaty was in force, Canada was totally different in physical and political aspect to what she is to-day. We were, at that time, literally, scattered broadcast throughout the land. Large sections had little or no communion with each other. The Maritime Provinces were legislatively independent, and until the completion of the Intercolonial Railway were unconnected with what are now the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Of the present day Great West there then were the isolated settlements of the Red River and the Pacific Coast—totally unconnected and separated by vast natural barriers.

The attitude of the United States towards Canada, as regards her commercial relations, has consistently been unfavorable to Canadian interests. This is, to some extent, to be expected. It is not natural that the interests of Canadians should be given precedence over the interests of her own people.

In 1850, four years before our efforts were successful, we despatched an agent to Washington to "press Reciprocity." In 1854, after continued endeavor, a Reciprocity Treaty, providing for the free interchange of natural products only, was brought into force. The country, while the treaty was in force, experienced from a variety of causes, among which were the Crimean and the War of Succession, a term of general prosperity. We have, indeed, great cause for thankfulness that there is no probability of Canadian trade being, in the near future, materially assisted by such unnatural causes as an European War or Southern Civil War, with the stoppage and devastation of agriculture and industry.

On the expiration of the treaty, 1866, the serving of notice of abrogation caused general consternation to the Canadian farmer, and he was brought face to face with the necessity of finding new markets for his products. The government despatched a deputation to Washington to make a further attempt to secure a renewal of the treaty. The Washington government, however, remained inflexible and the Canadian deputation met with total failure.

It was not, therefore, surprising that the withdrawal of our foreign installed centre Reciprocity pillar was followed by our complete commercial collapse. Is it wise to build on a treacherous clay or is it wiser to build on stone?

In 1891, the government of the day, in response to Reciprocity overtures, was informed by the United States that the only conditions under which they would grant Reciprocity would be that "Canada discriminate against Great Britain in favor of the United States." As Mr. Sec. Blain, for the United States, insisted on this discriminatory feature the Canadian government discontinued negotiations. It is clearly patent that the motive influencing the action of the United States is hardly assuring to Canadian lovers of country.

Nationally it is most noteworthy that the refusal of the United States to renew the expiring treaty in 1866, gave decided impetus to Canadian Confederation — brought to a splendid consummation the following year, 1867. And thus we accomplished our first great progressive step. We have, therefore, to conclude that Reciprocity is a stranger to the fostering of Canadian national spirit— the greatest of great assets.

Had Reciprocity prevailed even the man of one-tenth vision could now picture under the fair blue horizon of this fair Dominion a land "destitute of a presently thriving and a presently throbbing industrial people." In this dismal antithesis of utopia our factories and our people would be "south of the south line."

To be sure, our easily numbered Canadian farmers would, if the foreign farmer liked him to, "sell the broad harvest of his narrow fields to the foreign consumer."

Why, what idle and arrant foolishness it is to sell raw material and produce to your own industrial consumer? A reversal of form this is not! It is a mere reversal of national being.

Of immeasurable wealth and greater than money by far—the seed of our fathers and the grain of our children —are the virile and strong men and fair women with whom we seek to people the wide regions of our wide Dominion. And will you stop and will you see which condition best favors to-day and to-morrow, the coming of the tillers of the soil and the industrial workers?

Is it biting sarcasm on, or is it a mere ignoring of, Canadian intelligence when a paper like the New York Commercial, in casually commenting that negotiations for trade reciprocity are "on," adds: "The great bulk of the people of the Dominion do not want reciprocity with the United States ,and the publication of a

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

Since women have abandoned their close indoor work and have taken up outdoor life and field sports they are fast rising nearer and nearer to the physical basis of men, and men who abandon their out-of-door lives for indoor callings and close occupations are becoming enfeebled and are breaking down.

BOXING BASKETBALL

HOCKEY.

A game of hockey was played at the Arena last evening between teams representing Holloway St. Church, and Tabernacle church, Sunday Schools. The former won by a score of 8 to 4. Mr. L. Barrett was the referee.

Kingston Frontenacs have made all arrangements for their trip to Oshawa counting the game with Peterboro tonight as already won. The champions gained a lead at Peterboro and are not in danger of losing the round.

Preston juniors went to Seaforth and won by 11 to 4. At Orillia the home juniors won from Toronto Canoe Club by 10 to 3. In the Inter-Collegiate League, Trinity won an intermediate game from Varsity, and Trinity College School beat Varsity III. in a junior fixture.

Brantford, Feb. 16.—There may be no further professional hockey games here this season, owing to the failing of the Brantford and Waterloo teams to play here last night. On account of the uncertainty of the lights, owing to a power break-down, the game was postponed. The rink management will not, however, agree to such arrangement and will permit no further games unless a deposit of $50 is made before each. Manager Irving is out of the city, but it is doubtful if he will do this. The game here is dead.

Peterboro, Feb., 16.—The first exhibition of "pro." hockey for this city contributed by Belleville and Port Hope teams was just a comedy for the crowd of 400, whose request to the players to apply the hickory met with generous response. The game was a burlesque throughout, and concluded with Port Hope on the big end of a 15 to 5 score. Harvey Sproule, and F. C. Waghorne handled the contest and handed out 24 penalties, with Doherty of Galt doing the most time.

The Canadiens now have what looks to be a pretty firm hold on second place in the National Association series. That victory over Quebec tightened their grip considerably. But, notwithstanding defeat, the Quebec boys played a smart game, and had it been just a trifle better, the night might have been theirs. Such are the fortunes of war.

So far as the Ottawas are concerned everything is about over except the cheering, which their admirers will continue until the last goal of the last match of the season has been scored, and possibly, in fact quite likely, a few more victories are in store for them. Having won nine games in succession it, no doubt, is their ambition to complete the season without a defeat, and the record does not look impossible.

BASEBALL

New York, Feb. 16.—For a bonus said on good authority to be $500,000 the National League, in session here to-day, made a twenty-year contract with a prominent sporting goods firm to use a baseball of its manufacture for the official league ball.

It is the same ball as has been used by the National League for the last sixteen years, and in adopting it again the magnates rejected an offer of a Cincinnati firm said to be $325,000, in twenty annual installments of $16,250, of which half was to be in cash and half in baseballs supplied.

Heretofore it has been commonly supposed, even among the players that the big leagues paid about 97 cents apiece for balls which sold at $1.25 retail, but the developments of to-day show that they not only pay nothing but receive all the balls they use free and a very considerable sum of cash besides.

The schedule was adopted without change, despite the protest of C. W Murphy of Chicago.

Three rinks representing the juniors of the Napanee Curling Club arrived in the city this afternoon and will play a friendly game this evening with three junior rinks of the local club.

—o—

A number from the city went to Whitby to-day to witness the hockey match which takes place this evening between the Whitby and Midland teams.

THE KENNEL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The bull terriers of John Miles of Toronto pretty well cleaned up in the competition for that breed at the Westminster Kennel Club's show. With Inferno he won in the open and winners classes. Cold Steel coming second to him in both cases.

Mr. Miles' Willowvale Bloom won in limit and open classes or lightweight bitches, but was beaten in winners, which went to the heavyweight The Vampire. With King Inferno and Willowvale Bloom the Toronto fancier won the prize for the best team.

J. C. Hanna of Montreal showed two Irish setters. St. Elvan II. was third in puppies with Lansdown Shamus O'Brien second in limit and V. H. C. in the open classes. St. Patrick of Elsinore was the best dog shown in this breed. Puppy, Whisper-by-the-way, owned by J. M. Platz of New York.

J. J. Lyndon of Toronto sent the only black and tan terrier from Canada, Pearl Point, which was third to Smedley Tornado and Long Shot.

With champion Dundee Prince and Dundee Princess Mrs. G. G. Anderson of Toronto took first and second prizes for black pugs. J. H. Kenyon's Churchill Pansy was third in Yorkshire terriers and Mrs. J. F. Dickert got the same place with Buster in Italian greyhounds.

Queenie, entered by J. F. Dickert, Toronto, won the blue ribbon in the open class, toy black and tan terriers.

RUNNING.

"Tom" Longboat, the celebrated runner, is in the city, says the Kingston Whig. He came by foot from Cape Vincent to Wolfe Island, and was then driven over to the Iroquois hotel by John Theriault and Con. Milan and he had dinner at the hotel.

"Tom" does not have to wait for stages. No matter if the going is good or not, he is good for a run and in spite of the fact that the road from the Cape was filled with drifts he made the jaunt in good time, although "Tom" did not care to give the exact time. He spent the night at Point Alexander, where he was the guest of Capt. John Geoghegan, customs officers. He was also entertained.

"Tom" is looking fine, is in good health, and is just on his way back to Toronto, from a trip to New York State, where he made arrangements to give some exhibition runs. This is his first visit to Kingston since he had a run at the covered rink here. It was in Kingston that Longboat started his professional career.

Police Constable "Nick" Timmerman was one of the first to shake hands with the celebrated Indian runner. He was introduced to Con. Millan, the latter referring to Mr. Timmerman as "Kingston's veteran police constable."

"Tom" said that he would like to get a job in Kingston, chasing runaway convicts from the penitentiary. The Portsmouth philosopher will endeavor to get him the job, and also appoint him to catch runaway horses.

VOLLEY BALL.

The Volley Ball tournament played last night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was a grand success. The players were in fine shape and consequently good play resulted.

The first set to be played was the Midgets, resulting in a win for the Midgets, 2 games to 1. The next one close, the score being 21 to 20 at full time. The Sovereign Physical Culturists proved to be too much for Dickens' Tigers, the Gladiators winning two games out of the three. Betts' Midgets were away off in color in the Semi-Finals with Smith's Terribles, losing two straight games.

The teams were:

B. Moore.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

those of the Princess Roshinara. It was an hour when the cool brain might contrive its own ends.

"I am, indeed, much beholden to you, Princess," said Frank. "I pray you extend your clemency to my men. I have an escort of six sowars, and a servant. Some of them are wounded. My horse, too, which I value highly—"

He paused. He saw quite clearly that she paid no heed to a word that he was saying. Her black eyes were fixed intently on his face, but she was thinking, weighing in her mind some suddenly-formed project. He was a pawn in the game on the political chess-board, and some drastic move was imminent.

Some part of his speech had reached her intelligence. She caught him by the wrist and hurried him along a corridor into a garden, muttering as she went:

"Allah hath sent thee, Malcolm-sahib. What matters thy men and a horse? Yet will I see to their safety, if that be possible. Yes, yes, I must do that. You will need them. And remember, I am trusting thee. Wilt thou obey my behests?"

"I would be capable of little gratitude if I refused, Princess," said he, wondering what new outlet the whirligig of events would provide.

Leading him past an astonished guardian of the zenana, who dared not protest when this imperial lady thought fit to profane the sacred portal by admitting an infidel, she brought Malcolm through a door into larger garden surrounded by a high wall. She pointed to a pavilion at its farthest extremity.

"Wait there," she said. "When those come to you whom you will have faith in, do that which he who brings them shall tell you. Fail not. Your own life and the lives of your friends will hang on a thread, yet trust me that it shall not be severed while you obey my commands."

With that cryptic message she ran back to the door, which was immediately slammed behind her. Having just been snatched from the very gate of eternity by the Begum's good offices Malcolm determined to fall in with her whims so long as they did not interfere with his duty. Although Cawnpore was in the hands of the mutineers and he had lost his dispatches, he determined, at all costs, to reach Sir Hugh Wheeler if that fine old commander were still living. Meanwhile, he hastened to the baradurl, an elegant structure which was approached by a flight of steps and stood in the angle of two high battlemented walls.

The place was empty and singularly peaceful after the uproar of the village and of that portion of the palace which faced the Grand Trunk Road.

Overhead the sky was clear and starlit, but beyond the walls stretched a low, half luminous bank of mist, and he was peering that way fully a minute before he ascertained that the garden stodd on the right bank of the Ganges. Almost at his feet, the great river was murmuring on its quiet course to the sea, and the mist was due to the evaporation of its waters, which were mainly composed of melted snow from the ice-capped Himalayas.

When his eyes grew accustomed to his surroundings he made out the shape of a native boat moored beneath the wall. It had evidently brought a cargo of forage to Bithoor. So still was the air that the scent of the hay lingered yet in the locality.

Between Bithoor and Cawnpoor the Ganges takes a wide bend. At first Malcolm scarcely knew in which quarter to look for the city, but distant reports and the glare of burning dwellings soon told him more than its mere direction. So Cawnpore, in its turn, had yielded to the canker that was gnawing the vitals of India! He wondered if Allahabad had fallen. And Benares? And the populous towns of Bengal—perhaps even the capital city itself? The Punjab was safe. Hodson told him that. But would it remain safe? He had heard queer tales of the men who dwelt in the bazaars of Lahore, Umritsar, Rawalpindi, and the rest. Nicholson and John Lawrence were there; could they hold those warrior-tribes in subjection, or, better still, in leash? He might not hazard an opinion. His sky had fallen. This land of his adoption was his no longer. He was an outlaw, hunted and despised depending for his life on the caprice of a fickle-minded woman. Then he thought of the way his comrades of the 60th, of the Dragoons and the Artillery, had chased the sepoys from the Hindun, and his soul grew strong again. Led by British officers, the native troops were excellent, but, deprived of the only leaders they really respected, they became an armed mob, terrible to women and children, but of slight account against British-born men.

His musings were disturbed by the sound of horses advancing quietly across a paddy field which skirted that side of the wall running at a right angle with the river. It was impossible to see far owing to the mist that clung close to the ground, but he could not be mistaken as to the presence of a small body of mounted men within a few yards. They had halted, too, but his alert ears caught the occasional clink of accoutrements, and the pawing of a horse in the soft earth. He racked his brain to try to discover some connection between this cavalry post and the parting admonition given by the Begum Roshinara, and he might have guessed the riddle in part had he not heard hurried footsteps in the garden. They came, not from the door by which he was admitted, but from the Palace itself. Whoever the newcomers were they made straight for the pavilion, and, as he was unarmed, he did not hesitate to show himself against the sky line. For ill or well, he wanted to know his fate, and he determined to spring over the battlements in the hope of reaching the river if he received the slightest warning of hostile intent by those who sought him.

"Is that you Malcolm?" said a low voice, and his heart leaped when he recognized Mr. Mayne's accents.

"Yes. Can it be possible that you are here?"

He ran down the stone steps. On the level of the garden he could see three figures, one a white-robed native, one a man in European garments, and the third a woman wrapped in a dark cloak. A suppressed sob uttered by the woman sent a gush of hot blood to his face. He sprang forward. In another instant Winifred was in his arms. And that was their unspoken declaration of love—in the garden of Nana Sahib's house at Bithoor—while within hail were thousands who would gladly have torn them limb from limb, and the southern horizon was aflame with the light of their brethren's dwelling-places.

"Oh, Frank, dear," whispered the girl brokenly, "what evil fortune has led you within these walls? Yet, I thank God for it. Promise you will kill me ere they drag me from your side again."

"Hush, Winifred. For the sake of all of us calm yourself," said her uncle. "This man says he has brought us here to help us to escape. Surely you can find in Malcolm's presence some earnest of his good faith."

The native now intervened. Speaking with a certain dignity and using the language of the court, he said that they had not a moment to lose. They must descend the wall by means of a rope, and in the field beyond they would find three of the officer-sahib's men, with his horse and a couple of spare animals. Keeping close to the river until they came to a tree-lined nullah—a small ravine cut by a minor tributary of the Ganges—they should follow this latter till they approached the Grand Trunk Road, taking care not to be seen as they crossed that thoroughfare. Then, making a detour, they must avoid the village, and endeavor to strike the road again about two miles to the north of Bithoor, thereafter travelling at top speed towards Meerut, but letting it be known in the hamlets on the way that they came from Cawnpore.

This unlooked-for ally impressed the concluding stipulation strongly on Malcolm, but, when asked for a reason, he said simply:

"It is the Princess's order. Come! There is no time for further speech. Here is the rope."

He uncoiled a long cord from beneath his cummerbund, and, running up the steps, adjusted it to a pillar of the baradurl with an ease and quickness that showed familiarity with such means of exit from a closely-guarded residence.

"Now, you first, sahib," said he to Malcolm. "Then we will lower the miss-sahib, and the burra-sahib can follow."

There was nothing to be gained by questioning him, especially as Mayne murmured that he could explain a good deal of the mystery underlying the Begum's wish that they should go north. The exterior field was reached without any difficulty. Within twenty yards they encountered a little group of mounted men, and Malcolm found, to his great delight, that Chumru, his bearer, was holding Nejdi's bridle, while his companions were Akhab Khan and two troopers who had ridden from Agra. To make the miracle more complete, Malcolm's sword was tied to the Arab's saddle and his revolvers were still in the holsters.

Winifred, making the best of a man's saddle until they could improvise a crutch at their first halt, would admit of no difficulty in that respect. The fact that her lover was present had lightened her heart of the terror which had possessed her during many days.

They were on the move, with the two sharp-eyed sowars leading, when the noise made by a number of horsemen, coming toward them on the landward side and in front, brought them to an abrupt halt.

"Spread out to the right until you reach the river," cried a rough voice, which Malcolm was sure he identified as belonging to Abdul Huq. "Then we cannot miss them. And remember, brothers, if we secure the girl unharmed, we shall earn a rich reward from the Maharajah."

Winifred, shivering with fear again, knew not what the man said, but she drew near to Malcolm and whispered:

"Not into their hands, Frank, for God's sake!"

The movement of her horse's feet had not passed unnoticed.

"Be sharp, there!" snarled the Pathan again. "They are not far off, and only six of them. Shout, you on the right when you are on the bank."

"None can pass between me and the stream," replied a more distant voice.

"Forward, then! Keep line! Not too fast, you near the wall."

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness ?

You see the statement every day that the one cause of baldness is dandruff. But is it?

True, dandruff often precedes the departure of the hair.

It is equally true that you know men with a shock of hair you can hardly pull a comb through, who have carried around a dandruff laden collar as long as you have known them.

You have also seen men whose scalp was kept as clean as a baby's whose hair was surely departing.

That dandruff talk sounds well and convinces a good many of us, but let us not fool ourselves.

Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an indication.

The same trouble that causes the hair to fall out usually causes dandruff, so if you get at the cause and arrest the loss of hair, you will stop dandruff too.

Those who use Nyal's Hirsutone find it the most satisfactory hair healer and hair dressing they have ever used.

It does stop the hair from falling out.

It will also stop dandruff.

Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends it—$1.00 and 50c in sprinkler bottles.

Sold and guaranteed by J. S. McKeown, J. V. Doyle, Albert L. Geen, The Belleville Pharmacy, Ltd., Belleville.

TRAVERS GONE TO KINGSTON

Manager of the Defunct Farmers Bank Taken to the Penitentiary

A STRANGE MOVE

On the Part of the Dominion Authorities—What Does It Mean?

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—W. R. Travers Manager of the defunct Farmers' Bank who was sentenced to penitentiary was taken to Kingston this morning to commence his term of imprisonment It is expected that this unexpected move has been made so that he may not give further assistance to the prosecuting authorities. The responsibility for keeping him here rested on the Sheriff, but now an order must be obtained from the Minister of Justice to bring him back.

Another despatch says: Manager Travers was carried off in a surprising way from the Toronto jail by the Dominion police and taken to the penitentiary on this morning's train.

AT BELLEVILLE.

Travers passed through this city at 12.05 to-day, being on train No. 4. which is the fast train going eastward He was in company with an official who was known by parties who were upon the train. The trip from Toronto was uneventful, but few being aware of the fact that the former President of the Farmers' Bank was a passenger on the train, en route to Kingston to serve out the sentence which had been imposed up on him.

WHAT RUSSIA MEANS

(Intelligencer Special.)

PEKIN, Feb. 18.— The Imperial Council believe that Russia and Japan have a secret understanding to strip China of a large part of her territory. This, they believe, is the meaning of Russia's ultimatum.

KILLED HIS WIFE TO MARRY AFFINITY

READING. Pa., Feb. 17.—Matthew E. Vanaman, charged with murdering his wife, Mary E. Vanaman, aged 20 was given a hearing before Magistrate Koch and made a clean breast of the murder, declaring that he shot his wife while she slept. His main purpose, he said, was to get rid of her to enable him to marry Miss Ellen Wessner, of Blandon, with whom he was infatuated. He denied setting the house on fire, stating that his wife upset an oil stove in her death struggle.

WHO WILL BE WINNERS OF THE SPECIAL PRIZES

Many Contestants Have Their Eyes on Them—Who Will be the Likely Ones?—Only One Week More of Double Votes on all Subscriptions of One Year or More—Miss Louise Shorey Enters Race Today in District No. 2 and Takes Lead by a Large Margin with a Total of 206,000 Votes—Miss Gertrude Thompson Again Captures Lead in District No. 1

NOTICE.

For the benefit of some subscribers we wish to state that all subscriptions delivered at the Belleville P. O., or called for at The Intelligencer office—$3.00 per year. Subscriptions mailed to any P.O. outside of Belleville—$2.00 per year. (Delivery by carrier boy can be arranged for).

To-day's balloting was the heaviest yet recorded in The Intelligencer's contest. Practically every candidate received a goodly number of votes, and many advanced their standing several thousand by themselves and friends turning in subscriptions. The bonus vote offer of double votes on all subscriptions of one year or more turned in by 8.30 p.m. Feb. 25th, is bearing splendid fruit, and many subscriptions are being sent in every day by the alert young ladies who are quick to take advantage of every opportunity to approach a step nearer the coveted prizes.

To-day's line-up furnishes most interesting material for speculation as to the final outcome. Quite a number of candidates who have been working quietly but steadily are beginning to reap the reward of their efforts, and the changes in the standing of the candidates, as shown by to-day's figures, only emphasize the uncertainty as to who will eventually capture the prizes.

Many of the contestants are holding back part of their ballots and in this connection The Intelligencer would advise that each candidate accumulate a reserve of votes to be used when the competition grows more spirited.

We wish it to be entirely clear to all the candidates that the double votes given for one year or more subscriptions need not be voted until the holder wishes to vote them. They may be held as long as the candidate wishes, the only condition necessary to the securing of double votes being that the subscription be obtained and the money paid into The Intelligencer office on or before 8.30 p.m. Feb. 25th. A voucher for the votes will be issued to the candidate securing the subscriptions, which may be voted at any time. Remember that the offer of double votes will not be repeated during the contest—make hay while the sun shines.

Bear in mind, too, that only a few days remain to work for the extra prizes, the $35.00 suit or gown or merchandise order for that amount, and beautiful Gold Watch, at the end of which the special prizes will be won. If you have not yet made any special effort for these beautiful prizes, it is not too late to start, for a few subscriptions will give you an equal chance with all the others.

SCHEDULE OF VOTES.

The following schedule is to be DOUBLED on all subscriptions turned in for ONE YEAR or more during the next ten days, Feb. 15th to Feb. 25th, inclusive:—

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

TAKE IN CATHOLICS

In Unity Scheme of the Churches—Roman Church Needs First to be Reformed Within Itself

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 16.—Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, who is a leader in the movement to bring about unity among Protestant denominations, says that the "ultimate aim is not unity by the absorption of one church by another but by organization, co-operation and comprehension. This movement cannot be brought to a stop at any halfway station, such as an external federation of churches for some common work—good as that is so far as it goes—nor can it rest merely in a 'gentleman's agreement, to avoid wasteful multiplication and competition of churches. Its end is to reach an effective administrative unity, to gain a dynamic unity of all the churches, in order to meet the demands upon Christianity of democratic civilization. Beyond the immediate prospect, but within hope, it looks also for the ultimate reconciliation of the Eastern and Western Churches, and with the Roman Catholic Church reformed within itself.

THE LAW'S LONG ARM

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—The Governor General has signed the warrant of surrender for Abraham Wishart, a former sergeant in the Royal Irish Constabulary; and to-morrow morning he will start for Ireland in charge of Sergeant MacNeise, who was sent across the sea to bring him back. In this case the long arm of the law is stretched across 4000 miles of sea and land, to bring into custody a man whose only known offence is the alleged theft of $15 or $16 from a member of the constabulary.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

The Emperor of Japan is a poet and, a news item says, even the poet laureate of that country praises his verse. And with good reason, for if he ventured to criticise adversely there would, within a very short time, be a call for the Lord High Executioner, "a short, sharp shock" from the snickersnee and a headless poet laureate.

The Minister of Public Works has ordered that the British flag shall fly every day on the public buildings, but the Premier, the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Customs are forcing through Parliament a policy which may substitute the stars and stripes for the glorious emblem of our nationality.

The Holland Unitarian and Grace Episcopal Churches of Grand Rapids, Mich. have started a free lunch scheme to attract parishoners to the church and keep them there during the entire service. One of the churches served coffee and cookies Sunday, while the other served tea and sandwiches.

Some call it "REPREEOSITY."
Others call it "RESIRPRISSITY."
Hon. Champ Clark, M.C., calls it ANNEXATION.—Toronto Telegram.

Opposition to annexation, by way of a tariff pact is growing in all parts of the country. The British Columbia Legislature, the Toronto Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association have joined the ranks of those who are protesting, and an organization of people of British birth has been formed in Toronto for the purpose of opposing the one-sided bargain. This is an example which it might be well for Belleville to follow.

PURELY PERSONAL

Our two druggists, Tom Sweeney and Geo. Jack, are so busily engaged in ministering to the sick and ailing in their respective localities, that we have not yet had the pleasure of seeing them at our club metings. We are living in hope, however.

On a visit to the Coliseum recently we had a hand shake, and a plesant word or two, with Fred Henderson, the genial and busy treasurer of the Coliseum Company.

Fred (Daddy) Wilkins, local agent for the famous Ballantine Brewery of Newark, N.J., is a prominent and active worker in the Belleville Club. Do you know Daddy? Yes! No! Then get acquainted with him—he's worth knowing

Fred Acton, who is with Armour & Co., is some traveler, believe us. He thinks no more of a trip to Oklahoma City than the average Chicgoan does of a jaunt to Oak Park or Wilmette.—

ENGLAND ASTONISHED AT REDMOND'S SPEECH

LONDON, Feb. 16.—All England is discussing John Redmond's Home Rule speech in Parliament, in which, for the first time in the history of the Irish Nationalist movement, an Irish leader has publicly proclaimed his willingness to accept local self-govenment as a full measure of Irish demands and to acknowledge England's King as ruler of Ireland.

Hitherto the Nationalists have consented to accept whatever England granted as a step toward final separation, but the Irish leader yesterday, in endorsing the Prime Minister's statement of the measure of Home Rule to be granted, astonished all his hearers by applauding the autonomy granted to South Africa by King Edward and expressing the hope that King George would open the Irish Parliament and so hasten the day when Ireland, reconciled, woold become a loyal unit of the British Empire. His speech was hailed with joy by the Government leaders and Liberal newspapers.

Premier Asquith's brief speech drew forth vigorous cheers form the Irish and Liberal benches.

HEROIC PHYSICIANS DIE.

In reply to a question in Parliament by Mr. Allen Baker, Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, this afternoon stated that the British Minister at Pekin reports that all physicians here have been inoculated with Haffkin's vaccine and that the Chinese Government has done its utmost for the personal comfort of the physicians.

The French physician, Dr. Mesny, was not inoculated. He was infected owing to a patient coughing in his unmasked face. Dr. Jackson, a British physician, died of exhaustion after continuous hard work among the infected coolies. The Minister concluded by declaring that Sir John Jordan reports that the heroism of the physicians is beyond praise.

SLEEPLESSNESS

ITS CAUSE AND REMEDY.

Di you know what it is to lie awake nights, fidgety, restless, tossing about counting 100 backwards, or sheep jumping over a fence, all in a vain endeavor to lose yourself in slumberland and get the rest which you so much need.

No one, unless they have been troubled with incomnia, can begin to realize its horrors and how wearing it is

In nine cases out of ten it is simply a case of overworked nerves or derangement of the digestive system Thousands of such cases are being cured by Vinol. As proof we quote from a letter recently received from Marion, Ind:

"I could not sleep nights, was run down, nervous, had no appetite and was all discouraged. Vinol made me well after all other remedies had failed. I sleep splendidly and have gained in strength." Mrs. L. E. Heinlein (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every person who suffers from sleeplessness or who is nervous or run-down to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not help them. Vinol contains no drugs, or oil, and agrees with everyone. J. S McKeown.

AN EVENING WITH CANADIAN CLUB

Brilliant Address by Mr. W. P. Archibald, Dominion Parole Officer—Difficulties in the Way of Uplifting Our Criminal Classes—How They Can be Overcome—Promiscuous Charity for Discharged or Paroled Prisoners is a Mistake

A very pleasing and profitable function, for those present, was the banquet given by the Canadian Club to M. W. P. Archibald, Dominion Parole Officer, last evening. There were not many present, which fact is deeply regretted, as the address given by Mr Archibald was one of the most eloquent and practical Christian addresses it has ever been our pleasure to listen to. It is well worth publishing in its entirety, but lack of space forbids.

The members of the club assembled at Wallace's restaurant at 6.30, where a most appetizing repast was prepared by mine host Wallace. After the supper which was most heartily enjoyed by all, the President of the Club, Mr C. M. Reid, introduced the speaker of the evening—

MR. W. P. ARCHIBALD.

Mr. Archibbald, in rising to speak stated that it was indeed a pleasure to be present. "Prison Reform, and the Treatment of Prisoners" is a question of vital interest. The helping of discharged prisoners disappoint a great many people. Instead of accomplishing a great work of reformation they are generally duped or imposed upon. There is no one way of doing good, and we soon learn by our failures that our preconceived ideas are not founded on logic or fact, and consequently our charity broadens until we are willing to see good accomplished in any consistent way, only that the desired end may be attained.

The man who expects to find gratitude in individuals to help sustain him in such work will find himself without visible means of support. Nothing but a genuine love, born of Christ, can sustain a man in this nature of work, and without it, a man better keep his hands off the work of uplifting discharged prisoners. The speaker stated that he did not bbelieve in a machine type of promiscuous charity for the discharged or paroled prisoners. What is needed is the opportunity created to earn an honest living. Self interest, if no higher motive, would seem to demand a study of the prison systems of our country but the public is only anxious to spend the wealth of the nation in punishing the offenders and gives but little heed to reformation methods.

Of the three great agencies of reformation, religion is the first, and justly so; education and industry are its auxiliaries. Religion is the essential— education and industry are the accidental agencies to be employed in the moral work of reformation That religion can, and does reform a goodly number of prison inmates is generally believed, and its value is only known and appreciated by the fact that no true reformation can be hoped for without it. Indeed there has never been a reformer of the criminal who has not insisted on the absolute necessity of religion to accomplish his object, for he knows well that there can be no outward permanent change of life until the inward change is wrought. Improvement of penitentiaries is all right in its place, but the effort is at the wrong end. The little children are the pillars of our coming social systems. The Government should guarantee to every child the opportunity of growing up a healthy, inductrious, honest citizen.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is in the fact that societies are springing up everywhere having for their object the increase in the number of men who live upright lives, and who are interested in those less fortunate in their communities. Men must never be denied anywhere the opportunity to earn an honest living.

Another hopeful sign, the speaker staed, was the fact that our penitentiaries are seeking to reform men by teaching them useful avocations. He said that he was satisfied that there were many men in our penal instituitons, who, when weighed in the balances of God, would not find as much in the scales against them as society would have us believe. The paroie system is a modern factor in the reconstruction of many a broken life. If desirous of doing so the prisoner if guaranteed employment by a responsible party, is allowed to go out and make an endeavor to lead a honest upright life, subject, of course to recall in case of misbehavior until the date set for the completion of their sentence. The speaker stated that there were 999 prisoners now out on parole, and who were reporting regularly.

After the address, Mr. John Elliott in a few well-chosen words, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for the very practical address the club had had the pleasure of hearing. He was sorry, he said, that more were not present.

The gathering broke up after singing the National Anthem.

Mr. Archibald will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting for men and boys in the Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon at 4.15 p. m.

CANADIANS WILL HAVE A BANQUET

The Chicago Daily News of the 14th says:

Canadians in Chicago who were former residents of Stratford and Perth County, Ontario, will entertain their Canadian and American friends at their fifth annual banquet this evening at King's restaurant, 118 5th Ave. John Brown ex-member of parliament, and Mayor and Police Magistrate James O'Loane of Stratford, Ont., will be the guests of the association. Addresses will also be delivered by William King Pattison, president of the British Empire association, and Thomas Francis Lynch, secretary of the Belleville Old Boys in Chicago. Miss Myrtle Brown will be the soloist of the evening and Miss Clara Anderson the reader. Thomas J. Douglas, president of the International association, will preside at the banquet.

DO YOU REMEMBER? ASKS B. C. C. NEWS

The Belleville Club of the Chicago News says: The Daily Intelligencer of Jan. 12th said:

"The present condition naturally leads to the inquiry, whether the sidewalks are intended for pedestrians of for coasters and skaters." Does this bring back any memories?

Does it make you think of the old pair of double mullies with the straps at heel and toe? Does it start you thinking of the time when you became fully convinced that all policemen were blackhearted tyrants and that the grown-ups had never been young? Does it? Well I wonder! Do you remember the cry, "Cops! Cops!" when you were coasting down "Myers'," "Wannacott's" "Church St.," "Merchant's Bank," "Montreal's Bank," "Murney's" or "Yeoman's" Hills and the attendant scramble for safety from the feared and detested bluecoated guardians of the peace? Do you remember, oh do you remember, the clear, cold nights, the moon shining and the, then, best girl in muffled up togs, her cheeks aglow, her eyes a-sparkle with the excitement and pleasure of it? Do you remember? Will you ever forget One of those nights would be poor now, wouldn't it? Well, raythe!

Finishing His Work

"Let Laurier finish his work." This rather ambiguous slogan was used by the Liberal forces in 1908. Is reciprocity to be the crowning accomplishment of the Premier's career? ask the Toronto News. Many observers have thought that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's chief work has been the demoralization of his Party. Reciprocity is unpopular in the constituencies, so unpopular that if it is pressed to ratification in Parliament, the Government will not weather another election. In that case Sir Wilfrid will have finished his work—of wrecking the Liberal party.

The Premier came to office surrounded by a group of ardent enthusiasts, pledged to reform. The first mistake was made when the Cabinet decided to maintain the Patronage System. From that time evils began to grow. Year after year the Public Accounts Committee investigated payments frankly extravagant and it became increasingly plain that middlemen with political pull were fattening at Government expense.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not deal manfully with these evils. It was within his power to compel his colleagues to administer their Departments in accordance with business principles, to destroy the whole system of patronage ditribution or political interference in public affairs. But he was lenient with offenders and angry with investigators. He called to his Cabinet some men whose only distinction lay in their ability to play the political game according to the least creditable methods. He winked at their difficulties. He defended their peculiar transactions. Scandals multiplied until investigation was a vital necessity. Then the evils in the Marine Department were made clear. We have had discreditable tales about the Department of Public Works and the Department of Militia. But no action has been taken. Liberal candidates in bye-elections and in two general elections have been forced to go to the people with excuses on their lips. They have found it necessary to apologize for the Government.

But aside from administrative inefficiency, the Government under Sir Wilfrid Laurier has grown curiously reactionary. The Government has struggled towards centralization of power. Provincial Rights have been invaded. Corporate interests have found willing ears and eager hands in the Cabinet. Year after year the calibre of the Cabinet has declined and the Ministers have developed into little more than a Chorus of Homage.

There is great uneasiness among Liberals in the country. They see that their principles have been neglected and that pldges have been broken with amazing calmness. In the West the position of the Liberal Party becomes more and more precarious. The secondary Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan are asking for their lands. Men are beginning to doubt the wisdom of maintaining an arrogant autocracy at Ottawa. In the face of such distrust, the Government brings down a project for Reciprocity with the United States, a polite effort on the part of our Ministers to help the Republican party out of a hole at the expense of our trade routes and our nationality. When Laurier has finished his work the Liberal party of Canada will be only a name, or even less, a memory.

The American View

Says the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger: "Almost without exception the larger manufacturing interests of the United States who maintain headquarters in New York are persuaded that reciprocity with Canada, following on the whole the lines laid down by President Taft, will in the course of two or three years greatly increase the exports of American manufactured commodities into Canada. How greatly our trade may be developed with Canada can be demonstrated by the increase in that trade in the past ten years. If the rate of increase for the past ten years be maintained, the United States should be selling each year to Canada in ten years more commodities of the money value of $400,000,000. The only disturbing thought to the larger manufacturers in the situation is that there now comes a vague suggestion from Canada that if reciprocity is to be defeated it will be due to opposition raised in Canada rather than to any obstacles built up in the United States or in Congress."

FANCY DRESS CARNIVAL WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Grand Gathering Despite Bad Weather—The Ice Was In Fine Condition and the Skaters Were Numerous—Many Costumes Were Handsome and Others Original—An Evening Full of Enjoyment

Although there have been in the past some very successful, fancy dress carnivals held in this city, the one which took place at the Arena last evening, was, considering weather conditions, one of the best. Although during the day a considerable quantity of rain fell, the ice was in good condition and skating was indulged in to the delight of a large crowd. Whilst the costumes were probably not as numerous as upon similar events, there were many upon the glassy surface and some excellent costumes were to be sen, the originality of some being exceptionally good. Mr. R. Arnott, the proprietor of the Arena, did everything in his power to make the skaters enjoy themselves and to make the carnival a success. The I. O. O. F. band was present and during the evening provided a number of selections which were hightly appreciated. At 9 o'clock masks were removed and all who desired wer privileged to skate. It was then that the body of the rink was filled.

The judges selected to award the five prizes were Mayor Ackerman, Ald. Vermilyea and Mr. J. L. Hess. After careful observation of those in costume these judges awarded the prizes as follows:

Second prize—$2.50 gold piece — F. Duesberry, as a Persian Lady.

First prize—Little boy, $2.50 gold piece —Willie Boyce, as William of Oranze.

These prizes were awarded to the successful competitors by Mayor Ackerman.

The following handed in their names and characters they represented:

Gordon Miller—Funny Clown.
Charles Miron—Canada's Pride.
George Duesberry—Soft Water Sailor.
George Sampson—Clown.
Clarence Horie—Clown.

CHILDREN'S OUTING

Junior Epworth League of Bridge St. Church Had Pleasant Evening

The members of the Junior Epworth League of Bridge St. Church were treated to a sleigh ride yesterday afternoon after school, and, needless to say, the children thoroughly enjoyed it. Three large sleighs were needed to carry the crowd, and after driving about the city and vicinity till they were tired and hungry they returned to the church, where their parents had prepared a supper for them. One hundred or more children sat down to the tables, while the parents waited on them, and the way those boys and girls made the beans and sandwiches and pies and cakes to disappear was worth going to see. Many a youngster was complaining afterwards of an uncomfortable feeling in his interior but an hour or so of romping and games, which followed the supper speedily dissipated ially to the enjoyment of the evening. After the games the following program was rendered, and it will be noticed that every selection was given by the young people.

Piano Duet, Catharine Root and Claude Root; Recitation, Earl Kemp; Piano Duet, Nina Yeomans and Mary Yeomans; Vocal Solo, Pearl Smith, accompanied by Dorsa Vermilyea; Recitation, Alice Colling; Piano Solo, Winston Wensley; Recitation, Sabra Bonistell; Violin Solo, Catharine Root, accompnied by Claude Root; Vocal Duet, Miss W. Kemp and Earl Kemp, accompanied by their mother; Recitation, Vira Boyle; Piano Solo, Irene C. Chapmn; Song, Edna E. Rose with mandolin, accompanied by Clayton Rose; Recitation, James Ketcheson; Piano Solo, Russell Doxee; Piano Solo, Virna Rose; Song, Clara Yeomans, accompanied by her mother; Mandolin and piano, Clayton Rose and Madilene Rose; chairman, Horace Yeomans.

WOULDN'T GO OUT AND WAS PUT OUT

The police last night were called to Mr. Patrick McGinnis' residence on Mill St. to eject a man named George Stills, who was evidently not wanted about the premises. It is alleged that Stilts, who was boarding at McGinnis' had neglected to pay his board and was ordered out of the house. He went out, but returned and refused to go out the second time and acted, it is said, in a boisterous manner. A police Court case will in all probability be the result.

TAKEN TO THE MERCER

Mrs. Hannah Richardson, who was sentenced here to 15 months in the Mercer Reformatory, and a Mrs. Lapointe of Trenton to 9 months in the same institution were yesterday taken from the jail here to serve out their sentences. Both women are evidently bad in character and appear to have thieving propensities.

Old Folks' Coughs

BECAUSE RESISTING POWER IS WEAK PNEUMONIA OFTEN FOLLOWS.

One of the worst terrors of old age is that distressing chronic cough Colds settle on the chest, are wrongly treated with drug-laden and chest-weakening cough syrups, and from year to year the condition has grown worse. Formerly the cough went away when fine weather came, but now bad weather makes it worse, and fits of recking, tearing, coughing maks lite a burden.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with everlasting coughing—those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhozone. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrhozone and instantly its rich balmy fumes are carried by your breath into the tiniest recesses of the nose throat chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it.—a direct breathable medicine, full of soothing, antiseptic pine essences that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm the aged or the infant because Catarrhozone is the purest, safest cough, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

Mrs. W. E. Walford, wife of a well-known grocer in East Sheffield, writes: "For three years I suffered with a hard, racking cough and bronchial irritation which annoyed me so much at night I couldn't sleep. I tried many remedies, catarrh tablets, syrups sprays, etc., but they only helped for a short time. Catarrhozone brought me wonderful comfort from the first I inhaled its balsamic fumes every hour or two and am now free from any trace of cold, bronchitis and catarrh. I can go out in all kinds of weather and don't take cold."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone last two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co Kingston, Ont.

veive their motive force from the floor of the fourth ventricle, as also do the external rectus muscles of the eye. Now, when there is a strain in these eye muscles inducing irritation in their fourth ventricle cells it is only reasonable to suppose that this irritation will be communicated to the adjacent cells governing oher functions, the kidney, liver, lungs, heart, stomach, etc.

We have been wont in the past to use the word reflex to account for certain diseases in distant parts of the body originating from eye strain and other local points of irritation, but when we view these disorders from the nerve centres we have a better understanding of how one diseased condition of the body may arise from another.

From the most minute cells to the largest organs of a healthy body every part has a place in the general economy.

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

SHANLY, ONT., Sept. 23rd, 1910.

"You certainly have the Greatest discovered Headache Cure in the world. Before "Fruit-a-tives" came before the public, I suffered tortures from Headaches caused by Stomach Disorders.

"One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost raw from external applications.

"I hated to see any person coming into the store (much less a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying "Fruit-a-tives".

"I did so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years". WM. PITT

A LUXURIANT GROWTH OF HAIR

DOES NOT FOLLOW NEGLECT OF THE SCALP.

Aside from combing it when they think necessary many people give no attention whatever to their hair. Then when the hair begins to fall out it never occurs to them that their trouble is the result of personal carelessness.

An occasional application of Newbro's Herpicide will not only prevent loss of hair but permits a luxuriant growth.

Herpicide kills the germ that causes dandruff and to this germ most hair losses are attributable. It keeps the scalp clean and free from dirt, allowing the hair to grow unhampered by accumulation of dandruff.

Newbro's Herpicide is sold by all druggists and its manufacturers have such confidence in its germ destroying power that they authorize all druggists to guarantee the one dollar size bottles to do as claimed or money refunded.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops.

FAMOUS EXPERT TELLS

How Fat May be Removed Rapidly by A simple Home Remedy, Without Causing Wrinkles, Disturbing the Diet, or Necessity of Exercise.

"Fat is nothing but unused energy" says a prominent physician, and the man or woman who is burdened with it can easily get rid of it if they wish All they need is a 1-2 ounce of Marmola, 3-4 ounce of Fluid Extract of Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces of Peppermint Water, all of which they can get at any good drug store for a few cents. Then let them take one teaspoonful after meals, and at bed time until they are down to the weight they want to be.

This simple home receipt is far and away better than any or all the patent or secret medicines, for it reduces the fat safely and harmlessly to the system, having both tonic and purifying qualities and so help rather than distress the stomach. The remedy does not cause wrinkles, for it reduces one gradually and naturally preserving a good outline and best of all, needs neither physical exercise to help it do the work, nor does it require any change of diet—one can get results and still take things easy—eating meanwhile just what, when and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.

CALVERT PUT IN WORD

Travers Says Welp Took Him to Hon. Mr. Fielding.

Former Manager Tells the Inside History of the Farmers' Bank—He Also Alleges That He Paid C. H. Smith $1,800 With a View to Keeping Him Silent—Hon. Mr. Fielding May Be Subpoenaed.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Sensation followed sensation thick and fast in the hearing of the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank and others in the Police Court yesterday morning. Of the nine charged with conspiring to secure the certificate of the Treasury Board of Canada by fraud, six were present, three are absentees from this and other charges. Those who answered to their names and pleaded not guilty were J. R. Stratton, M.P., president, and J. J. Warren, manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co.; John Ferguson, Alex. Fraser, A. S. Lown and John Watson, provisional directors. Those absent were Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, former president of the bank; W. J. Lindsay, stock seller in the organization, and C. H. Smith, secretary of the provisional board.

Even the morning session, though largely taken up by the filing of exhibits, was filled with sensation toward the close. At the afternoon sitting, which opened at 3.15 and closed at 4.45, surprise after surprise was sprung until the senses were dulled against all but the most startling developments.

During this hearing, taken up with the examination of W. R. Travers, and which was not completed, Magistrate Denison asked why the name of W. H. Hunter, solicitor, had not been included among those charged; it was promised that Travers' statements would be investigated and, if supported, the name would go with the others before the grand jury. Travers charged that William Laidlaw, K.C., had approached him to be appointed solicitor for the bank and to receive a share of Travers' commission, for which he would get his brother to take $5,000 stock and go on the board of directors, failing which he would put the bank out of business.

Travers further declared that to baulk the investigation of the Bankers' Association's secretary, John T. Knight, he had secured a deposit slip from the Trusts & Guarantee Co. for $80,000, for which he had paid no money into the company, but had manipulated back a former loan (made to secure money to complete the deposit with the Finance Minister and which had been repaid), to stand as a deposit in order that he might present such deposit slips to Mr. Knight.

Mr. Hunter explained later, out of court, that this had been a purely legitimate transaction in the regular routine of business.

The morning session was taken up by the reading and filing of various books and documents by Inspector Duncan as exhibits in the case and with the bearing of the evidence of Secretary Knight.

The checks of the Trust Company making the loan to the bank were produced and filed, and these were for $80,000 and $20,000, and were drawn in such a way that they could be used by the bank only for deposit with the Minister of Finance at Ottawa.

Travers, during his evidence, declared that he had paid $1,800 to C. H. Smith, secretary for the provisional board in Ottawa as a compromise for the $2,500 which Smith claimed as still due in addition to his salary under the agreement in which Travers had agreed to allow the provisional board and Smith $20,000 for their services.

Travers explained that while in Ottawa he had been introduced to W. S. Calvert, then Liberal whip. Mr. Calvert had gone with him to see Mr. Fielding, and in a 15-minute interview with the Finance Minister, had done all that he could to further the granting of the charter.

Travers was asked if Mr. Calvert had got anything for this. He said no. He was asked if anything had been promised. He said no. He was then asked if he had leant Mr. Calvert money and said that he had lent him $5,000 on his note, which had not been endorsed. This had been repaid. It was lent through the bank in the ordinary course of business.

One more information was laid by Inspector Duncan yesterday in connection with the Farmers' Bank. It charged W. S. Morden of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., with Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren, with hypothecating the bank's notes (currency), contrary to the provisions of the Bank Act. This was in July, 1910, and the amount was $50,000.

MY CINDERELLA GIRL.

Musical comedy is perhaps the most popular form of entertainment, but unfortunately, certain producing managers for temporary gain have sent on tour musical productions so suggestive that they were offensive to people of refinement and good breeding.

It is a pleasure to chronicle the coming of "My Cinderella Girl" at Griffin's Opera House on Friday, Feb. 24. For this merry musical farce is not only conceded to be one of the most successful of the many produced in Chicago during recent years, but it also bears the distinction of having been indorsed by numerous clergymen and over one thousand school teachers who witnessed the performance during its phenomenal run of over three hundred nights in Chicago.

It is a clean, wholesome, furiously funny entertainment; one that ladies and children may attend and enjoy without fear of hearing or seeing anything to offend the most fastidious. Seats on sale Tuesday, Doyle's Drug Store.

It was said at the close of the hearing that W. S. Fielding, Dominion Minister of Finance, would be subpoenaed to tell just what persons had intervened with him to secure the granting of the certificate to the bank and just what had been the nature of the intervention.

City to Buy Bridge.

Kingston, Feb. 18.—There is a movement for the city to purchase Cataraqui bridge for $14,850 and be in a position to eventually deal with the Dominion Government. At present the city holds $20,000 stock in the bridge, the value of which is placed at $49,700. There is an annual grant of $1,400 from the Dominion Government. If a new bridge is not erected for some years the tolls collected would more than keep the bridge in repair.

Battleships For Russia.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18.—The Government has asked the Douma to vote $60,000,000 for the construction of four battleships by 1915. The vessels are to be named Sebastopol, Petropavlovsk, Gangut and Poltava.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Midland won at Whitby.

WHITBY, Feb. 17.— A crowd that filled the rink in every part saw Midland win the first of the Whitby-Midland games here to-night by 6 to 5. The small rink favored the heavy Midland players, who were able to check the lighter, though swifter players very hard.

Frontenacs Won.

KINGSTON, Feb. 17.— The Junior Frontenacs won the group from the Peterbor team here to-night by a score of 7 to 3. Play was very strenuous on account of the soft ice, but the Frontenacs set an awful pace and kept it up, although the Peterborough men were larger.

Obstinate Open Sores are Healed by Zam-Buk.

For sores which defy all ordinary remedies, Zam-Buk should be tried. Old wounds, varicose ulcers, cold cracks, blood-poisoning, and chronic skin diseases cannot resist the healing influence of this great herbal balm.

Miss Alma Bourgue, of Notre Dame Kent Co., N. B., gives the following account of what Zam-Buk did for her after various other ointments and salves had failed. She writes:

"For months I suffered with a running sore on my leg. I tried several ointments and salves, but none of them could bring about a cure. The sore would just heal over and break out again. I read in a newspaper one day of the good Zam-Buk had done and so I determined to try it and see what this balm would do for me. I also purchased some Zam-Buk soap.

"I washed the sore night and morning with the soap, and then applied the balm. I continued with this treatment and after using Zam-Buk for a few weeks the sore was completely healed. I have recommended Zam Buk to one or two of my friends for sores, and in their cases it has been equally effective."

All druggists and stores sell Zam Buk at 50c. box or may be had post free from Zam-Buk Co., for price. It is a sure cure for piles, inflamed places, cuts, burns, scalds, chapped hands, ulcers, eczema, scalp sores and all similar diseases and injuries. Refuse harmful imitations.

COST TOO MUCH MONEY

Opposition Criticizes Festival of Empire Vote.

Glen Campbell Also Discusses Government's Method of Paying Salary and Allowance to Same Man—Agricultural Money Grants Not Large Enough — Cocktails Bought For Seattle Exhibition.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—In committee of supply on an item of $100,000 for exhibitions yesterday, Hon. Sidney Fisher explained that it was for an expenditure incurred during the present year in connection with the exhibit Canada will have in the Crystal Palace grounds, London, as an adjunct of the festival of the Empire, which will be a feature of the coronation celebration. The exhibit will be in a building which will be a reproduction on a small scale of the Canadian Parliament Buildings, and another vote of over $150,000 will be required to cover the total expense which will be incurred.

Then there was some criticism of the nature of the proposed expenditure, during the course of which the Minister explained that Canada's only contribution to the pageant of nations would be two thousand pounds sterling for rental of space in the grounds for the Canadian building.

Mr. Fisher explained that all the other countries which make up the British Empire would be well represented with exhibits, and that the Government would not be doing its duty if Canada did not make her usual good showing.

Glen Campbell (Dauphin) introduced a criticism of Wm. Hutchinson, Dominion exhibition commissioner, by referring to the fact that he is given an allowance per day in addition to his salary. He subsequently explained, however, that he did not object to Mr. Hutchinson being well paid, but to the system of salary and allowance.

Dr. Reid replied that "a small fair such as they have in Ottawa would be no proper training for the big expositions."

Dr. Reid (Grenville) then launched into a general criticism of the Minister for not getting larger votes for agricultural purposes. He said that Mr. Fisher was losing influence with his colleagues, and that the Minister of Labor would soon have as big a sum to expend.

Mr. Fisher contented himself with the remark that it would take more than Dr. Reid's assertions to make the farmers believe it.

Geo. Taylor caused some amusement by discovering that seven cases of cocktails had been bought at St. Hyacinthe for the Seattle Exposition.

Mr. Fisher laughingly remarked that he did not know anything about this transaction, but would enquire.

A. Haggart of Winnipeg brought up the matter of the Selkirk Exposition. He said the people would be glad to hear what was the attitude of the Government towards it.

Mr. Fisher explained that these estimates were for the current year only. Already the Prime Minister had stated to the House that the matter of a contribution was still under advisement.

Mr. Haggart said that this being a world's exposition, they must have three years to prepare.

Mr. Staples asked the Minister to state definitely if he would use his influence to get for the agriculturists of this country what they deserved. "Jump and take a chance. You will come out all right," he said.

Dr. Reid of Grenville read a letter which he had received from Washington regarding the Long Sault dam proposition. The letter stated that after investigation, it was found out the company was endeavoring to get legislation to develop power south of the boundary line, independently of the Canadian Government. The bill omitted any provision for the consent of Canada, but expressly stated that the company could construct and operate.

Sir Wilfrid said he could not agree with some of the conclusions, but he had communicated with the Government at Washington, and the correspondence would be brought down in due course.

Martin Burrell (Yale-Cariboo) read a telegram from the ratepayers of Coldstream and Vernon, B.C., deploring the reciprocity agreement, and declaring that there can be no difference of opinion, but that if there is to be protection, there should be protection all round. They believe that it is more necessary to protect the fruit growing than manufactures, and that there is no justice in sacrificing an infant industry and protecting a full grown industry.

Bennett Gets His.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The fame of William S. Bennett, as the man who would annex Canada to the United States at once by resolution, went up like a rocket and came down like a stick. Solemnly introduced in the Congress Thursday, the resolution to commence negotiations with Great Britain to this end met an untimely and undignified end in the committee of foreign affairs yesterday morning, and there was none save Mr. Bennett to do it honor. When it emerged from nowhere Thursday it at once took a place in international politics, and the friends of reciprocity felt that it could only arouse unnecessary prejudice and prevent a rational consideration of the bill upon its merits. It was, therefore, thought desirable that there should be an immediate decision to place the resolution where it belonged.

Scrutiny to Go On.

Cornwall, Feb. 18.—In the Alexandria local option muddle, the solicitor for the hotel keepers moved to set aside the order for a recount, the principal ground being that the returning officer had not declared for or against the bylaw, on the ground that the deputy returning officer's statement for one of the polls was not in the box. Judge Liddell has given judgment, directing that the scrutiny be proceeded with on Feb. 21.

BEARING DOWN PAINS

What woman does not at some time or other experience these dreadful bearing down pains. Mrs. E. Griffith, of Main street, Hepworth, Ont., says:

"A heavy bearing down pain had settled across my back and sides. I was often unable to steep or straighten myself up. Many times each night I would have to leave my bed with the frequent and irregular secretion of the kidneys, and just as done out in the morning as save to let my housework stand. Nothing I had tried would benefit me. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and concluded that I would try them, which I did, and soon found the long sought relief. My back strengthened and I began to feel stronger. I now enjoy a night's sleep without being disturbed and feel grateful to Booth's Kidney Pills for what they did for me."

Canadian Railroading In the Olden Time

ENGINES BURNED WOOD—DUG PEAT FOR FUEL AT MONTREAL—VETERAN ENGINEER TELLS OF EARLY DAYS ON THE OLD GREAT WESTERN AND THE MANY DIFFICULTIES EXPERIENCED BY THE RAILROADS OF THAT PERIOD.

Inspite of white hairs and snowy moustache, his eyes shone clear and keen as in the days when on their ceaseless vigilance depended the lives of scores of passengers. As he reminisced, a far-away look came into those once watchful orbs and the old engineer imagined himself as of yore back at the throttle, gazing out of the cab window at the twin ribbons of steel along whose shining course the locomotive would rush quivering like a living thing.

The Old Great Western.

"Railroading! Ah! It has changed a whole lot since I first started into it as a call boy over half a century ago in England. I got my first engine when I was only nineteen years old," said the veteran with pardonable pride. "Then, soon afterwards, I emigrated to this country and joined the Grand Trunk. There was no starting in as fireman in those days and working yourself up to engineer as they do now. No, sir, leastways on the old Great Western. A man had to know all about it before ever the officials would allow him to take a train out.

Peat For Fuel.

"They burnt peat in those days running out of Montreal. That was back in '69," said the old railroader. "Some of the officials got hold of the big peat bogs about that city, and they sold it to the company, and the dirty stuff was handed out to us to fire with. Leaving St. Lambert, we had our tenders to load up with this muddy fuel; but it didn't last long. You can bet the firemen know how to get rid of it in a hurry, for just as soon as the tender got partly empty we could load on the cord wood. You should have seen the way they dumped that peat out by the cart load. It lay so thick in places along the right of way that the company sent out special trains to gather it up.

"Well, one fine day, just about the time that every fireman on the road had got good and sick of the dirty, crumbly stuff, which was just a mess composed of mud and grass roots cut into little square-like bricks, some fellow on a locomotive threw a piece of blazing cotton waste right into the big stack where over a thousand tons of peat were stacked. The whole thing caught fire There was an awful blaze, and the windows of passing cars were cracked by the heat. But that was the end of our troubles. No more peat was used on the Grand Trunk.

The Introduction of Coal.

It was well on into the seventies before Canadian locomotives began using coal to any extent. The years '73 and '74 saw its introduction, but it was not until about '80 that it came into general use. Before that the cumbrous looking old wood-burners, familiar only to the present generation from pictures, lugged the trains of box-like cars.

Old Locomotives.

"Those wood-burners were all smoke-stack, and they were a terror for puffing out hot cinders," said the old man. "That's why the Government made them put on those wire bonnets on top of the stacks. But they were very serviceable little engines, too, though they only weighed thirty-five tons. In those days each engineer had to look after his own locomotive and try and keep it in repair. He would get down out of the cab and tighten up a nut or adjust a bearing, and generally keep his eye on the whole machine. You didn't see any hammer marks on the wheels in those days. If the big drivers showed the least dint you can bet the engineer would hear about it. We were provided with lead hammers to do our testing, so that we wouldn't mark things.

"Nowadays, anything goes. All the repairs to the giant engines they drive are done in the shops. Nobody pays any attention to dints or scratches caused by rough blows from the steel tapping hammers. Why, in my time, I have often stopped a train in the middle of a run to let the engine cool off. Now they would can a man who did that. Of course, bearings on modern locomotives don't heat up the way those on the old ones did but in any case in these days of competition a man is supposed to get his train through on time, provided the engine can pull it."

"How did you ever manage in the days before the air-brake was invented?" he was asked.

"Oh, we did well enough. The engineer knew his crew, and when he whistled 'on brakes,' the boys were all on the job. It certainly seems pretty crude compared with what we have nowadays—the running along over the tops of moving cars, and the twisting and turning of the old 'Armstrong' brakes on the platforms, but we seemed to get along with it.

No Smash-Ups.

"And let me tell you," said the old man, "up to the time of the Great Western's amalgamation with the Grand Trunk, in '80, we hadn't had a single rear-end collision on my division—St. Thomas to the Falls and Buffalo. And there was lots of freight traffic over that line then, too. That was the great stock route from the American west. In those days there were big herds of cattle on the plains, and hundreds of train loads used to pass through from Detroit east."

Rough Running.

But if collisions were few, accidents of other kinds there were a-plenty. "The St. Thomas division was built in the early seventies," he continued, "and the road was a sure enough rough one then. There was something running off the track all the time. It was only used for freight in the beginning, and I can tell you we freight crews had our own time of it.

"A man starting out never knew just when he was going to get back. Once I was a whole week making the round trip. Just think of it. St. Thomas to the Falls and back, seven days. There were five crews tied up all near each other for over a day. We hadn't any provisions with us, and had a hard time foraging for food at one of the few settlers' homes in the vicinity. Twenty hungry men finally deserted their trains and went over in a body to a farmer's place. We were nearly starved, being a good day and a half without food, and I can tell you the pork and potatoes that farmer set out for us fairly melted away when our gang got after them.

Lost His Son.

It's a hard and dangerous life, is railroading," mused the old man. "Accidents—always accidents! Lost two of the family that way. My son-in-law, an engineer, was killed in a smash-up. It killed his wife too; she died from the shock. And my poor boy, too—my second son. What a shameful way it was that he met his death!"

Here the old man's voice shook, and his eyes filled with tears. "They just murdered him, That's what it was—downright murder through the criminal carelessness of others. He was coming along with his engine at the rate of sixty miles an hour. He was late and had orders to make up time. The track was supposed to be clear. Somehow or other, through a bungling mistake, two light engines were sent out in the opposite direction, carrying no headlights. Of course their crews saw the lamp of my son's approaching locomotive, and they jumped just in time. But my poor lad couldn't see their engines standing there in the dark. He crashed right into them with his express freight, and was just blotted out of existence. He never knew what struck him."

The father brought two suits against the railway companies responsible and got heavy damages. "Yes, I made them pay for it," said the veteran engineer, "but pretty soon they got an excuse and fired me from my job at the throttle. They say it costs a railway company $1,000 to make a green hand into an efficient engineer. But it costs our Society of Railroad Engineers from $60,000 to $85,000 every month paying out to the widows and orphans of those killed, and to the scores of others maimed and crippled in the railroads wrecks on this continent.

"Yes, indeed, it's a dangerous life."

John D.'s $12,000 Pastor, Discouraged, Will Resign

REV. DR. CHARLES F. AKED, JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER'S $12.000 PASTOR, WHO WILL RESIGN FOR A MORE PROMISING FIELD OF LABOR—DISCOURAGED BY FAILURE OF HIS PROJECT FOR A NEW CHURCH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—That the Rev. Charles F. Aked feels that he is wasting his time as pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church in this city—of which John D. Rockefeller is a leading member—and that the famous English preacher contempaltes leaving his present pastorate for some more promising field of labor, possibly in California, is set forth in a statement of unusual character made by Dr. Aked for an English news agency for publication this week in England.

Dr. Aked is on a month's vacation in California, where he has met with a very cordial reception. The statement regarding his work in New York City was prepared before he left for the west, but with the condition that it should not be made public, either in England or America, until to-day. He says:

"If I could be content with a very easy berth and a very generous salary, among the most charming people in the world, the position I now hold would be plain and clear and my future settled, but I cannot be content with a work that seems to me to be too small. It is a question with me whether I can bring myself to accept the limitations of my present position for the sake of friendships and for the sake of the little good I can do in New York, or whether I shall have to break with these association for the sake of some larger work elsewhese."

Nicest Flock in United States.

"Mrs. Aked says that the nicest people in the world are to be found among Americans; that the nicest Americans are in New York, and that the nicest in New York are in our church, and as that represents the feeling of both of us, you can understand that it would be an absolute horror to feel that one's work called one elsewhere.

"The question of salary does not weigh with me. It is perfectly true that the church has just raised my salary to $12,000 from $10,000, but I would rather have a third or a quarter of that salary, as I used to have, and feel I was doing some good in the world than have a big salary and feel that I am, compared with my English life, wasting my time.

"I know that is not the view the people take. The church is crowded at all its various services. The people think it magnificent, and their kindness to me knows no bounds. But all this seems very small to me after my English life. I feel as though, after four years, we ought to be in a different position and with different prospects."

"The trustees have understood from the first that I could not contemplate a permanent ministry under present conditions. Now I do not see how present conditions are to be remedied and I have to sit down and consider whether I can accept present conditions for the remainder of my natural life or whether I shall listen to proposals from some other city or from some other country."

Big Project Has Failed.

Dr. Aked speaks at length of his efforts in connection with the project for the construction of a big new edifice for the church. It is the failure of this scheme on account of the difficulty of securing a site which the trustees could agree upon as entirely suitable, which appears to have discouraged him most of all. "The great project," he says, "has completely broken down. We had in mind something that would have given us one of the biggest churches in American Protestantism, perhaps in the Protestantism of the world. Now we realize the impossibility of this. We are just where we were, and that is nowhere, and so far as I can see there is no outlet and very little hope.

"At the last trustees' meeting, I said there was no site yet suggested about which I could feel really satisfied, and John D. Rockefeller, jr., said solemnly, 'Doctor, if my life depended upon it, I could not say what is the wisest thing to do.'

"That is the position. It is easy to riddle with criticisms any scheme presented to us, but it seems impossible to find out what we ought to do."

Of reports that he might accept a call to California, Dr. Aked has only this to say: "I am to preach three times at the First Congregational Church in San Francisco; but I do nit know what the position is; until I get there I cannot say."

But a telegram received yesterday from Dr. Aked indicates that San Francisco looks promising to him. His telegram says: "The crowds, the enthusiasm and the spirit of the people are very exciting, and I find the prospects singularly attractive."

100 GIRLS ARE SEEKING HUSBANDS IN CANADA

Miss Le Neve Was Not Among Prospective Brides on the Royal Edward.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 17.—A thorough search of the steamer Royal Edward, which arrived yesterday from Bristol, failed to disclose any trace of Miss Ethel Clara Le Neve, the young woman who fled to Canada last summer with Dr. Crippen. It had been reported that a young woman resembling Miss Le Neve had boarded the steamer at Bristol, bound for the Canadian Northwest to meet a prospective husband.

Although the Le Neve woman was not among the passengers more than 100 prospective brides came from England, Scotland and Ireland. All of these young women were bound for the Canadian Northwest in search of husbands. They were in charge of a matron appointed by the steamship company, and the matron will chaperone them as far as Toronto, where special representatives will accompany them further west. Most of the young women have decided to settle in the vicinity of Regina.

WHAT'S MATTER WITH ARABIA?

A SKETCH OF PRESENT CONDITIONS IN THE LAND OF MYSTERY—THE COUNTRY IS FULL OF THIEVES—IT IS A LEAN LAND, HOT AND DRY—ITS HISTORY AND TOPOGRAPHY—AN OUTBREAK AGAINST TURKEY, AND CAUSES.

"He is a deserter and we ought to make him our prisoner. But one day we, too, may be sent to the Yemen and may have need of pity."

When we came to the border of the land of the Shammars the officer in command of the Turkish military post insisted that our escort should be increased to six mounted soldiers.

"The Shammars are thieves, and Ibrahim Pasha is not at hand to protect travellers."

We had pitched our tents and were about to turn in when there approached on the horizon a solitary figure. The presence of a stranger in these solitudes of Mesopotamia is always a subject for inquiry, and two of our escort rode out to meet him. They returned with what seemed to be a scarecrow—a hollow-eyed, emaciated figure of a man, whose rags bore traces of the uniform of a Turkish soldier. Squatting by the camp fire and smoking a cigarette, he told us his story.

He was a peasant from Anatolia. One day he was summoned to the ballot-urn of conscription and, despite the tears and entreaties of his aged and despairing mother, he had to take his place, among the ragged crowd of recruits. After a few months' training he was sent with his regiment to southern Arabia, where the tribes are always in rebellion. So great were his sufferings that he deserted and set out with a comrade to walk from the Yemen to his home in Anatolia. His comrade was dead and he had been eight months on the way.

Before dawn our visitor was gone, and our escort was relieved of the duty of arresting a deserter.

What is this land of Yemen which is once more in open rebellion against the Sultan of Turkey?

Arabia is a peninsula larger than India. It is a lean land among the most rainless and hottest countries in the world. Vast regions of it have never been seen by Europeans and no native is known to have crossed the great sandy desert of the south, which is a name of terror throughout Arabia. The mystery of the unknown has attracted adventurers from the days of AElius Gallus to the last decade of the nineteenth century, when the Ottoman Government closed the Yemen to explorers. And apart from mystery Arabia has strong fascinations. Few countries have played a greater part in history or have had wider influence on the mind of the world, for the Arabs were not merely the founders of the Mohammedan faith, but also the fount and origin of Jerusalem, and therefore the forerunners of Christianity.

In the southwest corner of this strange land is the province of the Yemen. It forms a rough triangle of which the sides are the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden, and the Sandy Desert. The province of Asir separates the Yemen from the Holy City of Mecca, and to the south of it is Aden, our Gibraltar of the Indian Ocean. The Yemen has natural advantages over other regions in Arabia. The range of mountains parallel with the coast gives rain when the monsoon strikes.

The fertility of the land has changed the character of the people. They have ceased to be nomads and marauders, and, having something to lose, are jealous of their Turkish masters, who do not come to the Yemen for the good of their health and do not care to leave it empty-handed. Like all Arabs, the Yemenite has a secret contempt for the Turk.

The Yemen had a chance of escape from the thraldom of Mecca and the exclusiveness of the Arab. Being fertile and settled, it attracted traders from Asia and Europe. Mokha, which first gave coffee to the world, was the port of the Yemen and brought the Arabs into touch with western civilization. But trade languished under competition, and fear of encroachments from India closed the door of southern Arabia.

Behind that barred door has been going on a struggle between Turk and Arab that has lasted for more than two generations.

The cause of this new outbreak is simple. General von der Goltz was not the first German to point out to the Turks that their strength lay in Asia Minor and Arabia rather than in Europe. Here were vast resources of men and material upon which the Sultan had claims as temporal and spiritual chief. Abdul Hamid strove to make himself master of these elements of power. He poured wealth into Mecca and Medina, and won to his purpose the guardians of the tomb of the Prophet. But the tribal chiefs and the nomadic tribes were jealous of their freedom and resisted every attempt to bring them into line. Rebellion became chronic and Turkish soldiers marched through the deserts only to die from hunger and thirst, or at the hands of the war-like Arabs. To overcome the greatest obstacle to conquest the railway to Mecca was begun, and the subjection of Arabia seemed only a question of time.

The parliamentary government of Turkey has adopted the policy of the ex-Sultan, but has had recourse to other methods in the Yemen. The governor of the province has been seeking to enlist the services of the sheikhs or tribal chieftains by proposing to enrol a native militia. His offer has been rejected, and has aroused once more the suspicion of the Yemen. From resentment to action is a short step in Arabia, and the Ottoman Government is threatened with a war that may satisfy the ambition of Chauvinists who believe that a war is necessary to cement the foundations of the new Turkish parliament:—William Maxwell in London Daily Mail.

CEMENT HOUSES FOR MONTREAL.

One Firm Preparing to Erect Five Hundred of Them This Spring.

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—A Montreal firm is preparing to erect five hundred all-cement houses this spring. These will be modelled on lines laid down by Edison. The houses will be entirely of concrete, and when they are completed not a piece of wood apart from the doors and window frames, will enter into their construction. The walls, floors, ceilings, stairs, mantels, partitiins, roofs and outside trimmings will all be concrete and will be practically in one piece, without joints or other visible forms of connecton, thus forming a house apparently made of one solid piece of rock. This form of building construction, it is claimed, has many advantages over all others. It is absolutely fireproof, requires no renovating, and is absolutely permanent. Another leading factor is the comparative cheapness. Under ordinary circumstances such a house is ready for occupancy within three weeks of digging the foundation.

THE KINDLY POST-CARD.

It seemed to me that Uncle Eben's place at Barker's Flat
Was not the handsomest estate that I was ever at;
A few old scraggy bushes, a tumble-down old shed,
A house that needed painting, a barn that once was red,
But, sakes! the colored post-cards do show that place up fine,
The bushes are a vivid green, the house just seems to shine,
And distance enlds enchantment to the shed and barn behind,
And underneath the picture, this paragraph I find:
"The picturesque, ancestral rome of Ebenezer Platt,
One of the many charming spots in lovely Barker's Flat."

A Pretty Romance of the Atlantic

Love Affair Starting on Canadian-Bound Steamer Has Pretty Ending.

SMITH'S FALLS, Feb. 17.—There was an interesting little romance in connection with the arrival in Perth a few days ago of a party of Scotch girls from Glasgow who had come to work in T. A. Code's quilting factory. A young man, also from Glasgow, accompanied the girls to Perth, and the day following the arrival of the party in the country town he was united in marriage to one of the young ladies. The young man had lived in Canada a year, and had been employed in a butter factory at Brownsville, Norfolk County. He had spent the Christmas season on his native heath and was returning to Canada on the same ship as the girls who were coming to Perth under engagement with Mr. Code. A friendship between the young man and the young ladies sprang up, and before the vessel reached this country a much warmer attachment existed between him and one of the party, which culminated in the marriage above referred to. As the girl had been brought out as an employee of Mr. Code, she honorably agreed to fulfil her part of the contract and will work in the factory for a time. With this understanding the youthful groom returned to Brownsville to resume his employment there.

Advertiser For Wife Is Swamped

Edgar W. North, of No. 823 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, advertised for a wife recently and since then he has been inundated with letters from women anxious to share his $3,000 and his farm in Minnesota. He has notified the postal authorities to send the belated missives to the dead letter office.

"This is about the biggest job I ever tackled" remarked Mr. North with a despairing sigh. Among the missives received were several written in German. The writers of these must abandon hope, as Mr. North was unable to make them out. Some idea of the general tone of the letters received can be obtained from the following:

"I am sick and tired of working, and would love to live on a farm. To——with the $3,000. I want the man, and he must have a good position. I am within the limits concerning age, as I am only twenty-seven, and would not like to die an old maid. Now, I don't want a fellow with a whole lot of style, but a good, sensible fellow that will work to make a home."

A girl who said she was an artist's model, writes in this vein:

"I would gladly see that you are just the fellow I am looking for—a good, middle-aged man with about $6,000. I am twenty-six years of age, and must say for myself I am a good-looking blonde, with dark brown eyes, good form, as I have been employed as an artist's model, so you can figure for yourself. I also have an income of my own, am not of a grouchy disposition and quite lovable."

Prizes in Our Great Popularity Contest

When we decided to offer the ladies of Belleville and vicinity the chance to win prizes in a popularity contest, we took great pains to select prizes that would be of value to them. We thought of trips to Europe and a great many other things, but after due consideration decided on the prizes we are giving, because they are prizes anyone will be proud to win, and at the same time many of them are prizes that will last a lifetime. Everyone understands that the circulation of a newspaper is the foundation on which a newspaper stands, the stronger the foundation the better the newspaper. We are able to take care of a great many new subscribers, thus accounting for our decision to put on a big popularity contest. The prizes to be given away are as follows:

1ST GRAND PRIZE.

The first Grand Prize, and most valuable of all the prizes in this great Contest, is a handsome $400.00 Ionic Heintzman Piano. It was purchased from W. B. Riggs and can be inspected at his store. Here is what the manufacturers have to say about this grand instrument.—Pianos are like men, they have character; likewise, too, this character is reflected in every detail of construction. It is the cumulative value of little things in the making of a piano that in the end will secure the symmetrically developed instrument. We want the details of this instrument to be inspected because we know they will be creditable to the makers. The Heintzman Piano Co. is composed of men who have built up an industry on a solid foundation, who have distinct ideals in their undertakings. We invite the inspection of this grand instrument at Mr. Riggs' store.

2ND GRAND PRIZE.

The second Grand Prize is a beautiful $300.00 Kohler & Campbell Piano. This piano is conceded by experts to be the best value on the market at this price. It is truly a grand instrument, and is fully guaranteed by Mr. W. B. Riggs, from whom it was purchased.

DISTRICT PRIZES.

There are ten other prizes, which will place five in each of the two districts, making a total of six valuable prizes for each district, including the Grand Prizes. They are as follows:

Two beautiful $100.00 Diamond Rings. The gems are perfect in every respect. They were purchased from Angus McFee and can be inspected at his store.

Two handsome $75,00 Bedroom Suites; one purchased from S. B. Sills & Co.; the other, a beautiful Brass Bedroom Suite, purchased from W. Thompson & Co. Both of these suites can be inspected at the above dealers.

Two $65.00 complete, Business, Shorthand and Typewriting Courses in the Ontario Business College. This includes a complete unlimited course.

Two $35.00 complete Shorthand and Typewriting Courses in the Ontario Business College.

Two Ladies' beautiful Gold Watches. These watches were purchased from Mr. McCurdy and are fully guaranteed by him. They will be on display at his store.

THE WAY THE PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED.

The contestant receiving the largest number of votes in the whole contest territory, that is in both districts combined, will be awarded the 1st Grand Prize, the beautiful $400.00 Heintzman & Co. Piano.

The contestant receiving the largest number of votes in the remaining district after the award of the 1st Grand Prize will receive the $300.00 Kohler & Campbell Piano. One piano will be awarded to each of the two districts.

The third highest candidate will have her choice of the remaining five district prizes.

The fourth highest will have her choice of the remaining prizes, and so on down, after the other higher candidates have selected their prizes. This applies to both districts.

Every one has an excellent chance to win one of these valuable prizes. Just think, there are fourteen regular prizes and special prizes will be added from time to time during the term of the contest.

Any young lady who desires to enter this great contest and win one of the magnificent prizes offered should see that her name is sent in to the Contest Manager. All that is necessary to win a prize is to receive the largest number of votes, according to conditions mentioned elsewhere in this announcement.

A nomination coupon is printed in this paper, which, when sent in to The Intelligencer office with the prospective candidate's name and address, is good for 1,000 votes. Only one nomination blank for each nominee.

The easiest and quickest way for a candidate to win is for the candidates to ask their friends to pay and prepay their subscriptions in advance. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to do this, and they have saved the annoyance of weekly and monthly collections. By so doing the candidate receives a special vote voucher, which is good for votes, according to the schedule, and will count at any time during the contest.

Any young lady residing in the territory mentioned is eligible to compete in this contest. Any one who desires to vote in this contest may do so by ballots cut from the paper, or by special vote coupons by subscribing for The Intelligencer.

The coupons secured by subscribing to The Intelligencer may be held as long as desired and voted at any time up to the close of the contest, but the ballots cut from the paper are only good for a few days from the time of publication and will not be counted after date printed on ballot.

This affords the girls of Belleville and outside territory an excellent opportunity to receive valuable prizes with very little effort on their part.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR VOTING.

Enter the name of the young lady whom you wish to secure one of these valuable prizes in this contest at once. Better still, get the young lady to enter her name and then vote for her. Those who get in at the start have the best chance of winning, so it is desirable that the names be entered at once. Candidates who enter this contest do not necessarily have to be subscribers to this paper. Enter your name and your friends will do the rest.

The first announcement as to who are the young ladies competing in this contest will be made Thursday, Feb. 2nd. We will then publish the names and number of votes each one has to her credit. After the first announcement of candidates the votes will be published daily.

Any person has the privilege of nominating one or more candidates.

Nominations should be mailed to the Contest Manager before Feb. 2nd. Candidates can be nominated after that date, but it is of great advantage for each candidate to have her name in the first list published, so that her friends will not agree to work for some one else before knowing who are entering the contest. It costs absolutely nothing to nominate a candidate. In all cases where ballots are issued subscriptions must be paid. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestants or brought to this office.

WOMEN OF EMPIRE AND THEIR RIGHTS

How They are Working in Various Countries for Recognition—Academicians of Sweden

The idea of a women's academy seems to be gaining favor in France, but there is no evidence so far that the feminists themselves welcome it. An academy for women is not quite what they want. It would not help their case much. They desire to be admitted to men's academies on the ground that they are the equal of men in brain work and achievement. A women's academy is no new thing. For the last six years one has been in existence in Sweden. It is called the "Quinna Akademi." Thus, while England has suffragettes, France feminists, Denmark women municipal councillors, and Norway women members of Parliament, Sweden has women academicians. The "Figaro" tells the story of the origin of the "Quinna Akademi." It was founded in Stockholm on the initiative of the illustrated journal "Ydun," which is the name of a dogess of Scandinavian mythology. First of all, it was decided that the Academy should contain only nine members—nine muses of literature, beaux-arts, music, the drama, learning, science, sociology, industrial arts, and commercial affairs. All the women of Sweden were invited by the "Ydun" to select the academicians, and they chose the women who were the most prominent exponents of the arts already enumerated. The members of the "Quinna Akademi" are not immortal like French academicians. They are selected for only nine years. If one dies or resigns, her colleagues elect her successor by a secret ballot. These woman academicians do not meet in a special building. They hold their meetings every month in a hotel in Stockholm. At these gatherings they discuss questions of art, literature, and sociology. Once a year, like any other institute or society which respects itself, the Academy gives a prize of $300, founded by the "Ydun," to the best work accomplished by a woman during the twelve months. The first prize was given to Mlle. Borg, an octogenarian, who created several evangelical asylums in the poorest quarter of Stockholm. The women academicians of Sweden, busy as they are with practical work, have not yet thought of donning a special costume. They will be astonished to learn that this was the first detail which claimed the attention of those Parisian women who favor the idea of a women's academy. Indeed, the subject of the dress to be worn has already given rise to animated discussion. Several papers have imagined uniforms and have reproduced the portraits of women, the future academicians, wearing them.

LIFE IN CANADA

The Right Kind of Person With the Right Kind of Aims Can Get Along

A large proportion of those who go out to Canada, says the "Evening Standard," do not realize that the conditions of existence are not the same as they are in England. In some respects Canada is like a foreign country. It is more largely influenced by American methods and ideals than the stay-at-home Englishman imagines, and it naturally takes time for one to get out of the familiar track and become habituated to a new outlook on life

The country also is raw and ungarnished, and the casual, make-shift conditions are irritating to people accustomed to the well-oiled orderliness of England. Educated persons miss the historic background, the culture, and the multitudinous social amenities of the Homeland.

Canada is busy with elemental things, with logs and plough and roads and bridges and railroads, and has no time at present to attend to the graces of civilization. As Kipling makes it say:—

"My speech is clean and single,
I talk of common things;
Words of the wharf and the market place,
And the ware the merchant brings."

Such conditions are attractive to many natures who experience a keen satisfaction in taking part in laying the foundations of a great nation, but there are others, trained in a conventional groove, who find them irksome, and are unable to take kindly to the soil into which they have been transplanted.

This is particularly the case with those who have reached middle age. The wrench is often too great for them, and many return to the Old Country. We find, in fact, that, in addition to the broad tide of humanity flowing into Canada, there is a thin stream trickling back of disappointed persons, and it is these who speak slightingly of the country. It is not that the country is not all it is represented to be, but that it does not suit their particular temperament.

England, of course, will always possess a magic of her own to draw back her exiles from the ends of the earth, butt here is no reason why the right kind of person with the right kind of aims should not find in Canada a real home and a full and satisfactory existence.

A WISE DOG

Mr. G. G. Hamar, of Rochester, is the possessor of a dog, a cross between an Irish retriever and an Irish terrier, which has been so trained that by means of sounds it goes to butcher and baker and other tradesmen on errands. Quite recently a note was placed in his mouth, and the dog trotted off to Rochester Post Office and secured its own license.

BIG CONGRESS OF ALL RAGES

Representatives of All Mankind Will Meet in London, England, on July 26th Next

A most unique congress, to be known as the Universal Races Congress, is to open in London on July 26. This congress, which will last for three days, will indeed be a romance of realism. All mankind will then assemble in council in the very heart of the British Empire.

The originator of this congress is Dr. Felix Adler, of Columbia University, in New York. In the summer of 1906 a conference was convened at Eisenach, when it was declared that, though the modern conscience had advanced in general sensitiveness and strength, it is, nevertheless, internationally weak. The modern conscience is indeed fast becoming alive to what are known as social problems in the interior life of the community, yet it has not learned to apply itself with adequate power to the problems presented by radical divisions. In order to remedy this growing evil, the Universal Races Congress will be convened in London, and its prime object will be to cultivate mutual knowledge and respect between Occidental and Oriental peoples. The British Government has given this congress its moral and material support, and all the invitations to the foreign States have been despatched through the agency of the Foreign Office.

The great number of races that will be represented may be gathered from the fact that some fifty countries have promised to send delegates. There will be present over twenty-five presidents of parliaments, the majority of the members of the permanent Court of Arbitration, and of the delegates to the second Hague Conference, twelve British governors, eight British Premiers, over forty colonial bishops, about one hundred professors of international law, the leading anthropologists and sociologists, the officers and majority of the council of the Inter-Parliamentary Union, and other distinguished personages. Among those who will read papers will be several prominent Hebrews.

Mr. Israel Zangwill will discourse on Jews among the nations; Dr. L. L. Zamanhof, the author of Esperanto, will discourse on international language; and Mr. Edwin D. Mead, of Boston, Director of the International School of Peace, will speak on the organization of a world association for encouraging inter-racial goodwill. Dr. Moses Gaster will represent the Royal Asiatic Society.

Mrs. Carter celebrated her 102nd birthday at her cottage at Snailham, near Hastings. Mrs. Carter and her son are in receipt of the old age pensions, and her daughter will be eligible next year.

FOG FACTS AND FICTIONS.

The Light Side of the Time Honored Pest of Old London.

It was one William Guppy—"the young man of the name of Guppy"—who called it "London particular." At least, it was either he or Charles Dickens who put the words into his mouth.

And the term has stuck. It is quite possible, of course, that it may have been street slang before Dickens seized it, but no one seems to know now whether that was actually so or not.

John Evelyn called a fog a "dismal cloud of sea-coal" two hundred and thirty years ago. He had a fog remedy of a somewhat drastic character—nothing less than to banish from the metropolis all factories requiring furnaces, and to plant it throughout with sweet-smelling shrubs and trees.

As one would expect, a great many good stories are told of adventures in the fog. Sir Hiram Maxim, "the man behind the gun," told last year of a friend of his who had promised to dine with him at the Savoy Hotel. The guest emerged from the Tube at Trafalgar Square into a fog. The sulphurous air made the eyes smart and the head ache, and it brought on terrific fits of coughing. To use Sir Hiram's own words, "You could not, literally, see your own hand before your face."

There was a continual crashing in of windows, bells jangled, vehicles and foot-passengers collided, shrieks and oaths arose.

Threading his way in the midst of this pandemonium through the Strand—at least, as he supposed—from Landseer's lions to the waiting dinner at the Savoy, he soon found himself, to his great surprise, descending a broad stairway. He put out his hand to the balustrade. Yes, a broad and stately stairway, with a rail of carved stone. His perplexity increased. Where on earth could he be?

Suddenly, in his descent, he collided with someone ascending the stairway.

"Hallo!" he said.

"Hallo!" a gruff, male voice replied.

"Can you tell me," said the other, "where I am going?"

"Certainly!" was the reply. "If you keep straight on you will walk into the Thames, for I've just come out of it!"

Probably the most famous of all the funny fog stories is that of an old lady—it nearly always is an old lady—who found herself in a West End square, encircled by a fearful black fog. In vain she tried to pierce the blacks. There was no "t'other side of the way" visible.

At last a policeman led her across the road, and instructed her to feel her way along by clinging to the railing. She obeyed his instructions. She wearily trudged on and on for many hours. And then she discovered, to her humiliation, that she had been going round and round the railings in the centre of the square!

Evelyn's scheme is only one of the many plans which have been evolved in the attempt to abolish fogs. One of the quaintest of all was that formulated in 1847 by a joint-stock company. The scheme was to send up huge rockets, and these would, when falling, discharge a quantity of chemical spray, which would instantly seize upon and decompose the particles of which fog is composed.

However, as soon as a few subscribers had sent in their money, the whole wild scheme vanished into the thinnest of fogs, finally disappearing altogether.

Hit It Right.

Kegan Paul in his reminiscences speaks in one case of his bishop as "an astute and insincere man," giving this instance of his insincerity: At a meeting of the clergy at Clapham his chaplain told him that old Dr. Blank, who had been many years in the diocese, was vexed at having been forgotten. "Yes," said the bishop, "I have not the smallest recollection of him, but I will make it all right and will go and speak to him. Which is he?" He was pointed out, and the bishop made his way to him. "My dear Dr. Blank, I have not had a moment for real conversation with you. I need not ask you how you are after all these years. Do you still ride your gray mare?" "Yes, my lord. How good of you to remember her!" etc. The chaplain, who was within earshot, said when he again came near the bishop, "Then you did remember Dr. Blank, after all?" "Not a bit of it," said the bishop. "I saw the gray hairs on his coat, and I chanced the sex."

Curiosities About Fish Scales.

The thin silvery coating of fish scales derives its lustre from many minute crystals of lime mixed with a peculiar substance called "guanin." This coating of silver crystals is very easily rubbed off the scales, and in the case of a European species of carp known as the "bleak" the crystals are so numerous that a metallic pigment, commercially known as "argentine," is made from them. The large globular glass beads known as "German" or "Roman" pearls are coated on the inside with this substance. In some species of fish with lustreless scales the silvery lining is found on the inside of the body. A well-known example of this is seen in the common smelt.

Narrow Escapes.

An Edinburgh minister rolled a thousand feet down the steeps of Ben Nevis and lived to tell the tale. Admiral Sir Novell Salmon was clean shot through at Lucknow and returned as dead, but came up smiling soon afterward. Similar was Lord Wolseley's experience in the Crimea; but, though pretty well riddled with shot and shell and deprived of the sight of an eye, he was able soon after to enjoy a laugh over his own obituary. Not long ago there was a girl up on trial in a London police court who had twice attempted to commit suicide, but two trains had passed over her and left her absolutely unscathed.—London Telegraph.

sir, anything compared with this staggering news! Why, our club's just captured Flyeprint, the finest 'wing' in the whole football world!"

THE PRIVY PURSE.

The Secrets of the Payments of King George's Expenses.

Those who imagine that King George, like the monarchs one reads of in fairy stories, has only to dip his hands into a bag of gold whenever he desires to possess himself of anything, would be sadly disillusioned if they could but enter the office of the Keeper of His Majesty's Privy Purse, the old-fashioned title of the King's chief accountant.

In the days of his predecessors, the Georges, the royal finances were conducted in a very go-as-you-please fashion, with the result that when Queen Victoria came to the throne everything was in a state of considerable confusion. The process of straightening out the royal finances was a lengthy and tedious operation. Some of the tradesmen's bills had not been paid for years; some had been overpaid; and the labor of going into these petty details and settling accounts was enormous.

It was really only when, on the death Queen Victoria, King Edward took matters personally in hand that a thoroughly satisfactory settlement was arrived at. All the royal investments were carefully examined, and, on the advice of experienced financiers, many changes were made. The royal properties were revalued, and the pictures, books, china, furniture, and jewels, the personal property of the sovereign, were scheduled by a professional appraiser.

An office, run on up-to-date business lines, was instituted to deal with revenue and expenditure, the staff of clerks was augmented, and books were kept on more elaborate lines and periodically balanced. As a natural consequence, when King George, who is himself exceedingly accurate, business-like, and methodical, came to look into matters he found, unlike his royal father, that everything was in apple-pie order.

The office of the Keeper of the Privy Purse is no light one. The duties are many and varied. The royal estates are numerous and of considerable extent, and a whole army of workpeople of various grades are employed. At Sandringham, Windsor, and Balmoral there are gardeners, coachmen, footmen, farmhands, gamekeepers, beaters, motor and electric light mechanics, blacksmiths, carpenters, dairymaids, locksmiths, tailors, grooms, wagoners, forest rangers, veterinary surgeons, hydraulic engineers, and a veritable army of miscellaneous workers, who may be conveniently included in the all-embracing term, "odd men." No account is taken here of the purely domestic servants, who alone form a miniature army. The wages and pensions of this huge body occupy the attention of several clerks.

A "Death or Glory Boy."

Viscount Tredegar, who has given $25,000 to the Welsh National Memorial to the late King, which takes the form of a crusade against consumption, is one of the most notable survivors of the Balaclava Charge. As a young man he rode with the Light Brigade, and on its return found himself—then a lieutenant in the 17th Lancers—in command, all his senior officers having been killed or wounded. A hundred times he was as near death as a man could possibly be. A few years ago, on the jubilee of Balaclava, he was officiating at a distribution of prizes at a girls' school. Suddenly he stopped in the middle of a speech he was making. "Girls," he said, after a pause, "do you know where I was fifty years ago to-day?" taking out his watch. "Fifty years ago I was in the Valley of Death with the Six Hundred." Needless to say, the incident made a deep impression on the gathering.

A Blustering King.

"The King had appointed the bishop of Winchester to administer to him the sacrament on one of the Sundays about Easter. The bishop was not punctual to his time, and when he arrived the King, in a great passion at having been kept waiting, abused and even swore at him in the most indecent manner, on which the bishop very coolly said he must be permitted to withdraw, as he perceived his majesty was not then in a fit state of mind to receive the sacrament, and should be ready to attend on some future day, when he hoped to find his majesty in a better state of preparation."

Dr. Syntax.

On the English coast, at Land's End, there stands a curiously formed bowlder with a profile resembling that of a human face. It is supposed that once the rocky head was held proudly erect and could look out over the blue sea, but during some period of disturbance the huge bowlder was thrown forward, so that now the forehead of the man rests against a neighboring rock. All these rugged and massive pieces bordering the coast are fine granite. Locally the curious bowlder is known as Dr. Syntax.

Thanksgiving.

The first national Thanksgiving may be said to have been the one offered up at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, for the defeat of the Spanish armada, September, 1588. The English settlers in this country naturally adopted the custom of their native land, and at an early period in our colonial history Thanksgiving became quite common. The institution may be said to be the natural outgrowth of human nature and has probably existed in some form or other from the earliest times.

English Law of Arrests.

No arrests may be made in England on a Sunday except for treason, felony or a breach of the peace, and freedom from arrest at any time on civil process is a privilege enjoyed by members of the royal family and their servants, bishops, peers and peeresses and members of Parliament during the sitting of Parliament and forty days before and after each session.

LOCUST PLAGUES.

Onslaught of the Ravenous Tribe During an Invasion.

GLUTTONS BY THE MILLIONS.

The Devastating Armies Fly In Clouds Dense Enough to Obscure the Light of the Sun—The Hoppers That Come After the Crops Are Devoured.

There are several species or varieties of the migratory locust, which are mostly to be found in dry, semitropical countries, such as the south of Europe, Egypt, Syria and Morocco, for their native home seems to be in the countries bordering on the Mediterranean, though migratory locusts are to be found in regions as remote as South Africa and South America, where they form a veritable scourge to the agriculturists. In Argentina, especially the northern half of the country, they are very destructive, for they will annihilate the farmer's entire crop in a few hours.

A locust invasion, writes John D. Leckie in Chambers' Journal, is an event not easily forgotten. The first sign of the approaching incursion is usually a long, dark cloud low on the horizon. But the dark cloud is no forerunner of rain. Instead of the precious liquid, which the farmer has probably long expected in vain, it portends the approach of his greatest enemy, the omnivorous locust.

As the dark cloud comes nearer it is seen to be composed of countless millions of locusts on whirring wings. Soon the cloud appears overhead and is sufficiently thick to obscure the sun, which is only seen opaquely, as through a mist, although the sky is cloudless and the air clear.

Now we are in the midst of a dense swarm of flying, whirring locusts, which dash into our faces, enter our houses and fill our rooms with their presence. The air is simply alive with them. All open wells must be instantly covered or they will be polluted.

Fowls and turkeys welcome the advancing hordes. They simply fatten on the locusts as they run around and gobble them up. But this is no blessing to the farmer—far from it, for the flesh of poultry becomes so tainted by this form of diet as to be quite uneatable, and even their eggs have an unpleasant taste.

So well is this fact known that as soon as the locusts make their appearance in the locality the price of eggs drops to one-half or one-third of their former figure, and even then there are few buyers. All the animals about the farmyard seem to be affected adversely, for even the horses have a strong aversion to eat grass which has been polluted by the presence of locusts, and unless very hungry they will not touch it.

The advance of the locusts takes place as follows: First a few pioneers, the advance guard of the vast army, then the main body of the army, a host which is as invincible as it is destructive. All true locusts are migatory by nature, for the simple reason that, being gregarious in their habits, it would be impossible for them to exist without continual migration.

The ground on which they settle is completely cleared in a few hours, and they must perforce seek other fields and pastures new, where they can repeat their depredations. For the same reason the destruction which they effect is purely local. One district may be completely devastated, while another a few miles away is altogether spared from their presence.

When the locusts have eaten their fill the females commence to deposit their eggs, which they do by making an opening in the ground, in which the eggs are laid. The infant locusts soon make their appearance, scarcely so large as a pea, hopping about in countless swarms. In this stage of their existence they have no wings, but progress by hopping. While in this state—that is, before their wings are developed—they must be ruthlessly destroyed.

Long trenches are dug, into which the "hoppers" are driven by rows of men, women and boys armed with branches of trees, with which they beat the ground, driving the insects in the direction of the trenches. On the opposite sides of the trenches sheets of galvanized iron are placed upright so as to form an effectual barrier.

On arriving at the trenches the "hoppers" fall into them and cannot easily make their way out, especially as their progress is barred by the wall of galvanized iron in front of them, the smooth surface of which affords them no foothold.

The trenches are soon filled with millions of young "hoppers," the weight of those above crushing to death the under strata of their fellows. Earth is then shoveled on the top of the seething mass of insects, and they are thus smothered and killed.

This is the most effective method of exterminating the locusts, but in order to insure the success of the operation it is necessary that the attempt should be properly organized and that all the neighbors should act in concert.—Providence Journal.

No Sick Person can Afford to throw away this chance to get a 50c. bottle of

Psychine FREE

This being ill is curious business.

It usually commences in a subtle fashion, almost unconsciously.

Yet if you do not check your illness, it grows and grows.

And one fine day you find you're sick.

The greatest scavengers of the body are the white corpuscles, or phagocytes in the blood.

These white corpuscles attack and eat up every germ of disease that invades the body.

That is when they are strong enough and in sufficient numbers.

If they're not strong enough, then they wage an unequal warfare until they are finally overcome by their more powerful enemies.

The body becomes steadily sicker and sicker until actual disease sets in.

Now, we have had all sorts of so-called cures.

And a great many people have seriously endangered their health experimenting with them.

But years ago—before even science was able to tell we had the right treatment for disease—viz., herbs, nature's own remedies.

Now that science can tell to an absolute certainty, we know why certain herbs cure disease.

Because they strengthen and increase the white corpuscles or phagocytes.

A third of a century ago Psychine made remarkable cures.

To-day it is making remarkable cures.

In the interim, millions of bottles of Psychine have been sold.

Hundreds of thousands of people made well and kept well.

Why?

Because Psychine is largely made up of those herbs that scientists now know increase and strengthen the white corpuscles, the phagocytes.

That's why we have received hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials, that's why we can afford to buy and give away hundreds of thousands of 50-cent bottles of Psychine, that's why Psychine benefits these diseases:

La Grippe
Bronchitis
Hemorrhages
Sore Throat
Anaemia
Female Weakness
Indigestion
Poor Appetite
Chills and Fevers
Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles
Bronchial Coughs
Weak Lungs
Weak Voice
Spring Weakness
Early Decline
Catarrhal Affections
Catarrh of Stomach
Night Sweats
Obstinate Coughs
Laryngitis and Dyspepsia
After-effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe.

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effects of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner, hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

(2) How did Elijah know there was to be rain?

(3) Verse 42—Why did Elijah have to pray for rain, seeing that he told Ahab it was coming?

(4) When God gives us the assurance of a thing is it right or wrong to be anxious about it.

(5) What is the proper bodily attitude when we pray?

(6) Verses 43-46—Why is it our duty when we pray for a thing to look out for an answer?

(7) Is "the hand of the Lord" on a godly man any more at one time than another, or is the difference only in its realization?

(8) Verses 1-2—Did Ahab tell Jezebel all that Elijah had done simply for information or to stir her anger against him?

(9) If Jezebel meant what she said why did she warn Elijah?

(10) What did Jezebel do that her name has become a synonym for badness?

(11) How do you account for Jezebel's hatred for Elijah?

(12) If Jezebel had made a similar threat when Elijah made his challenge to the prophets of Baal what effect would it then have had on Elijah?

(13) 3-4— Is it a rule that great spiritual elation is followed by a corresponding period of dejection as in this case of Elijah, and if so, how do you account for it?

(14) Why is a good man more likely to tripped by the Devil when he has been having unusual success than at other times?

(15) How do you account for it that such a mighty man as Elijah ran away from a woman?

(17) Was this "angel" a spirit, or a human being?

(18) Verses 9-10— If Elijah had waited to get God's direction would he have been in this cave?

(19) What connection is there between Elijah's answer and God's question?

(20) Verses 11-14—What is the significance of the wind, the earthquake the fire, and then the "still, small voice?"

(21) Are the great events or the so-called little ones, the more important in shaping our destiny? Give your reasons. (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(22) Is melancholy always wrong or does it sometimes accomplish a good purpose? Give your reasons.

(23) Verses 15-18—Could we be saved from every unnecessary journey and be prevented from making mistakes if we thought of God in all our plans?

(24) Does God to-day plan for the rulers of the nations as he did in those days?

(25) What reason is there for the belief that God gives every good man his work as he here lays it out for Elijah?

(26) Does God plan for the future of nations as in this case?

(27) Verses 19-21— Should the call to the ministry, or any other occupation to-day, be as distinct as the call of Elisha?

COMING from CALIFORNIA!

The "SUNKIST" Special, Moving at Express Train Speed, is Bringing TWENTY THOUSAND Boxes of Famous "SUNKIST" Oranges

Special Sale of "SUNKIST" Oranges All Next Week

Another big sale of "Sunkist" oranges will begin Monday next, continuing till the close of the week.

These special sales, which are held from time to time, are proving immensely popular.

Nearly everybody now knows the excellence of "Sunkist" oranges and they look forward with great interest to these announcements. If you and your people have never eaten "Sunkist" oranges, please try them. Until you do so, you can not imagine the delicious taste of fresh picked, tree-ripened oranges.

Special "Sunkist" Train

Two giant locomotives, pulling 48 refrigerator cars laden with fresh-picked, tree-ripened oranges—the select crop of 5,000 groves—will soon arrive from California.

So carefully have these oranges been picked; so rigidly were they inspected and graded; so rapidly are they being transported, that the people of this vicinity will be able to secure oranges as fresh, sweet and wholesome as can be bought in Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Your dealer and all other local dealers will be supplied with "Sunkist" oranges from the "Sunkist" Special Train.

"Sunkist" is the Perfect Orange

"Sunkist" is not a species or variety of oranges—it is a certain grade or quality, the choicest of each of five thousand California Orange Farmers, who produce 60% of the state's entire crop. They pack all their perfect oranges under the one name, "Sunkist," and ship them East by special fast freight.

Every "Sunkist" orange is firm, solid and sound. It is picked by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground or becomes bruised or damaged in any other way, ever bears the "Sunkist" name.

Cheapest You Can Buy

"Sunkist" oranges are not only the finest flavored, freshest and most healthful of all oranges, but they are actually the least costly you can buy. Being seedless, fibreless and thin-skinned, the percentage of waste is extremely small. The tender, luscious pulp comprises 98% of the orange.

So it means economy to buy "Sunkist" oranges.

Buy "Sunkist" by the box. You can obtain a worth-while reduction on a box from your dealer. Because of their excellent condition "Sunkist" oranges keep better than others.

Many Ways to Serve Them

Oranges are the most appetizing and nourishing foods one can serve—at breakfast—in the sick-room—between meals—in salads, ices, sherbets and puddings.

There is no limit to the number of excellent dishes of which "Sunkist" oranges form the basis.

Doctors Recommend Them

It is very unusual to find a food that people like and can safely eat as much of as they please. Leading physicians say that to counteract the meats and other heavy foods we eat, one should eat oranges liberally. It is a universally known fact that orange juice is an excellent food for the brain cells and a tonic for run-down nerves. No better laxative than sound, ripe oranges can be found.

Save Your "Sunkist" Wrappers

By saving your "Sunkist" orange wrappers you can easily secure a full set of genuine Rogers orange spoons, dessert spoons and fruit knives. The patterns shown are new 1911 styles, designed exclusively for us. They are as attractive and stylish as money can buy. All are Rogers quality, standard A-No. 1 plate and are fully guaranteed by the maker. No advertising appears on any of our premiums.

Read on the right the description of these valuable premiums and how to get them.

PRINCE EDWARD GOES TO OXFORD

Some of the Rules and Regulations Our Future King Will Have to Obey

As it has been officially decided that the Prince of Wales is to go "up" to Oxford for a couple of years, it will doubtless be interesting to know what the young Prince will have to go through during his college career. In the first place, before being admitted he will have to pass an examination known as "Smalls." In this he will have no difficulty, because it is really no harder than the examination he passed a few years ago before entering Osborne. The only difference is that in "Smalls" the student has to "take" Greek whether he likes it or not.

This is immediately followed by another examination known as "matriculation," which is set by the college—not by the University—and is in most cases easier to pass than the "Smalls".

His preliminary examinations passed, it is probable that His Royal Highness will enter into the social life of Oxford with that whole-heartedness that was so marked a characteristic of his grandfather.

The young prince will doubtless find some of the regulations a trifle exacting. For instance, he will have to be fully dressed and ready to "keep" chapel at eight o'clock—if not every morning, at least four days a week.

Chapel lasts about twenty minutes. From eight-forty-five till ten he will breakfast. This may seem rather a long time for breakfast, but it must not be forgotten that 'Varsity breakfast is as important a meal as dinner and generally comprises four or five courses, as lunch for the most part consists of bread-and-cheese only. For this reason breakfast is frequently known as "brunch."

From ten till one, with perhaps an hour's interval, he will attend lectures, for which he will have to don "academical dress," which consists of a gown that is a little shorter than the ordinary lounge-coat, and a "mortar-board."

The afternoon he will have to himself, and, if he decides to devote himself seriously to athletics, will be invited by the various secretaries of the different athletic clubs to "turn up."

If, as is not improbable, he wishes to take up rowing, he will be duly "tubbed."

"Tubbing" consists of sitting in a short, heavy boat which holds two beginners and one "coach." The beginners do their best to row under the supervision of their coach, who keeps up a running fire of comment on their efforts. It is well known that the language of coaches is not of the choicest.

For dinner the Prince will again don his gown. Dinner is served in hall, the undergraduates sitting at long tables that are divided according to the number of years that students have "kept." Thus all those in their first year, called "Freshers," sit at one long table, those in the second year at another, and so on. The dons, or professors of the college, sit on a dais.

At nine o'clock "Tom Tower"—that is to-say, the tower of Christ Church—which can be heard all over Oxford, tolls for about ten minutes, at the end of which His Royal Highness will be required to be in his own college. The college gates are closed at this time, and he will have to pay a fine of five cents if he "knocks in" between closing-time and eleven o'clock; between eleven and twelve the fine is a quarter. To be later than twelve is a very serious offence. The smallest fine for this is five dollars.

After dusk the Prince will have to wear his cap and gown, and if he fails to do this he will run the risk of being "progged," which is Oxonian for falling into the clutches of the Proctor. The Proctor is a don and takes the place of a University policeman. After dusk he patrols the city, accompanied by some half-dozen "bulldogs"—that is to say, men of the working-class who have been expert runners.

One of these men approaches an undergraduate and tells him that the senior (or junior, as the case may be) Proctor wishes to speak to him.

If the undergraduate takes to his heels, it is the "bulldog's" duty to follow. He may not lay hands on the man, but dogs his footsteps until midnight, when the student is compelled to "knock in" to his own college. His name is then obtained from the porter, and a heavy fine awaits him the next day.

QUEEN MARY

Happy Home Life, Domestic Happiness and Quiet Contentment

A deeply interesting series of articles on the "Life Story of Queen Mary" is being published in England. In the first chapter some interesting details are given of her Majesty's home life and early training: "In these early days a visitor to White Lodge has put on record the universal appreciation of the picture of happy home-life, domestic happiness, and quiet contentment presented by the household there in the following words: 'It was a pretty sight to see the Royal parents, with their young family, at tea-time, under the old apple tree in the garden, which, by the skill and taste of the Prince and Princess, had been transformed from a wilderness to a paradise.' Every birthday, as it came round, was specially marked, and the little ones were allowed to order their own favorite breakfast, a touch which gives one an idea of the simplicity of the home and family life."

SOME RICH SALVAGE

The Dover boatmen are reaping a rich harvest in salving the cargo of the German sailing ship Preussen, which went ashore to the east of Dover several weeks ago. As much as $1,000 has been earned by one family. The cargo includes bags of wax weighing about 200 pounds, and for these the boatmen get $2.50 a bag.

THE OLD ARMCHAIR

Sad Story of a Widow, Whose Husband Had Been Fond of Chair

A pathetic tale of an old armchair was related at St. Pancras Coroner's Court recently. An inquest was being held on a hawker's widow, who had been compelled through poverty to sell her household goods, including an armchair of which, it was said, her husband had been "very fond."

A neighbor purchased the armchair, and a few days ago the widow went to her, complaining of cold and hunger. She was given food and shelter and allowed to sleep in the favorite armchair. She was found dead sitting in the chair before the kitchen fire.

The coroner said the case showed how good the poor were to the poor. Here was a woman with no means of subsistence, and her friends took her in and cared for her. This was a charity that gave something. These people really did give something out of their own pockets often out of their own stomachs.

Lots of men act as if breakfast with the family was the tail end of the nightmare they had.

MORMONS IN ENGLAND

Liverpool Is Very Much Disturbed Just Now Over Their Activity in that City

At the present time Liverpool is very much exercised at the activity of the Mormons in that city. It may not be generally known that the Mormons have been established in England for the past eighty years or so, and that they maintain a regular staff of missioners there. During that time they are said to have converted some 125,000 Britons to the faith. Their headquarters in London are at Tottenham, where they acquired the Markfield Hotel some three years ago. There are pretty well a thousand of the sect in London alone. There are about forty missionaries in London, working by house-to-house visitation, and as many as fifteen converts have been baptized at one time. These baptisms have taken place in different towns, the public baths usually being called into use. House-to-house visits are made, tracts being left at first, and afterwards interviews are solicited. A year or two ago it was announced that 27,856 of these calls were made in six months.

The gentlemen who gave these figures also stated that there were 200 tract distributors in the United Kingdom, who disposed of 2,000,000 leaflets in the twelve months, and that one steamship company received $60,000 in fares every year, thanks to the journeys of Mormon missionaries and converts. The Elders at Utah and other places call for volunteers to work in God's Vineyard, and young men respond to the "call," maintaining themselves during their travels on their own private means.

MILL GIRLS MISTAKEN FOR DUCHESSES

Attention is again being focussed on the remarkable prosperity of Huddersfield. Almost every other man you meet in the town either owns a motor car or has a brother who owns one. Operatives—the unsophisticated stranger is told—drive to their work at their mills in magnificent automobiles. While many employers are about to take to aviation.

This is an exaggeration, however. More well-founded, it would seem, is the story that two Huddersfield mill girls, as they wandered through the grounds of the Brussels exhibition, were mistaken for English duchesses. Wearing costumes which Paquin would be proud to have designed, and hats that a society beauty would have envied, they had momentarily left their father and mother seated in one of the exhibiton halls, and had wandered out to view the exhibition grounds. Good looking as well as smartly dressed, they made an attractive picture. "They must be duchesses," whispered in broken English one attendant to another as they passed. The workpeople at the mill in Huddersfield where the girls work are still re-telling the story.

BUYS RADIUM

English Institute Director Pays for One Gramme, £15,000

The director of the English Radium Institute, Mr. Alton, this week concluded at Vienna the purchase of one gramme of radium from the Mines Department of the Austrian Ministry of Public Works.

Mr. Alton made the proposal a considerable time ago to the Austrian Government, but then obtained nothing, as there was not sufficient of this valuable material to hand.

The price is £15,000, and the funds for the purchase are being provided by Sir Ernest Cassel, who will place this unusually large quantity of the metal at the disposal of the English Institute for medical purposes.

Half the amount, which is ready, is being tested, and will be delivered in January. The other half of the gramme will be accumulated at Joachimsthall, the process taking three months.

One gramme is equal to .564 of a dram avoirdupois. Sixteen drams go to the ounce, and the price of the radium per ounce may be roughly estimated at £470,000.

WONDERFUL CAT'S BIG DAILY SWIM

A Deptford Feline that Crosses the River Thames Every Day—A Remarkable Feat

A cat that swims across the Thames River every evening and swims back again next morning is something in the nature of a novelty, but the people of Deptford claim that they possess such an animal. The feline to which such remarkable feats are attributed belongs to the ferryboatman who used to ply between the landings at the shipyards of Messrs. Robt. Thompson on the Southwick side and Messrs. Laing on the Deptford side. This man had up to about a fortnight ago ferried a small boat across the river, and on many occasions the cat, which had apparently discovered "pastures new" at Southwick, accompanied him in his boat each evening, and returned by the first ferry the next morning. Sometimes, however, the cat would travel so far in the boat, and then of its free will would leap overboard and finish the journey with a beautiful paw-over-paw stroke.

On the cessation of the ferry service people thought that the cat would check its roving disposition and remain on its own side of the river, but evidently pussy found that the rats and mice on the Deptford side were not to be compared with those at Southwick, for every night with a beautifully graceful jump it takes the water and swims across the river, returning first thing next morning with a contented and self-satisfied smirk.

But Deptford is not the only place on the Thames that can boast of a clever cat. Harry Milham, one of the most popular boating men on the river, has a cat at his well-known boathouse at Strawberry Vale, between Twickenham and Teddington, which is a feline marvel. In the summer it may frequently be seen perched on the bow of a boat gazing into the water. All at once it will make a dive into the river and, swift as lightning, bring to the surface a small fish, which it proceeds to devour with evident satisfaction. Milham has had this cat from the days of its kittenhood, and believes it is the cleverest cat on the Thames.

THE MEUX MUMMY

Superstitious People Are Much Concerned Over the Recent Gift to the British Museum

Believers in the supernatural are rather concerned in their minds at the moment regarding a mummy which is included in the Assyrian and Egyptian antiquities bequeathed to the British Museum by Lady Meux. The mummy is that of Neo-Amsu, who died about 2,250 years ago, but does not seem to be able to rest comfortably unless he is doing somebody a bad turn. Neo first came into the possession of the late Mr. Walter Ingram, who bought it while serving in one of the Nile Campaigns.

Owing to a misunderstanding, Mr. Ingram did not pay the price the dealer expected, and in his wrath he heaped an ancient curse on Mr. Ingram's head. And when the mummy came home, and Mr. Ingram presented it to Lady Meux, who was then getting her collection together, certain hieroglyphics were found to read thus:—

"If any person of any foreign country, whether he be black man, or Ethiopian, or Syrian, carry away this writing, or it be stolen by a thief, then whosoever does this, no offering sha'l be presented to their souls, they shall never enjoy a draught of cool water, they shall never more breathe the air, no son and no daughter shall arise from their seed, their name shall be remembered no longer upon earth, and most assuredly they shall never see the beams of the Disc" (the Sun God).

Curiously enough, two years later Mr. Ingram was killed while elephant shooting in Somaliland, while in 1900 Sir Henry Meux died childless, and his baronetcy became extinct, another clause of the curse therefore being fulfilled. And now some people are wondering what is going to happen to the Directors of the British Museum if they accept the bequest.

Only a fighter or a runner can afford to call a man a liar.

LONG SERMONS AND THE KING

His Majesty is Willing that Preachers Shall Exceed the Customary Ten Minutes

The recognized time for a preacher to occupy the pulpit when preaching before the late King was ten minutes. King George, however, has never quite approved of these very short sermons, and it has been intimated to the chaplains in ordinary attached to the Royal Household, from whom the preacher for the morning service at Buckingham Palace is usually selected, that their sermons may be of greater length than they were customarily in the late reign. An intimation of this sort amounts practically to a command, but it is doubtful if it will be very welcome to some of the chaplains who were in the late King's Household, who have during the past years rarely preached a sermon of more than ten minutes' duration. When the King is at Buckingham Palace on Sunday the preacher for the morning service is selected by his Majesty; the selection is usually made on Friday, and the chaplain, who has been chosen is notified of the fact by the Sub-Dean.

THE PRIEST'S FROCK

A New Costume Which is the Talk of Fashion Circles in Paris—Fur-lined Chiffon

Paris has made the "priest's frock" so becoming that among smart women it is likely to be a great favorite. In shape it very closely resembles a cure's costume, and is generally made of soft black, with a row of crochet buttons from throat to hem. A flat sash with fringed ends accentuates the simulated bolero of bright bishop's purple satin, and a white stock gives the finishing touch to a high black satin collar. In addition there is a little stiff bow of the bishop's satin, with long gold tasselled ends. Many of those who have adopted this priest's frock add to it a little semi-fitting coat of black velvet with touches of purple satin and a hat of black beaver, that is called "papal." Chiffon and fur, though one is the lightest of filmy fabrics and the other the heaviest of pelts, are quite a usual combination, the one as a trimming for the other. In Paris, however, the fastidious dame of fashion who shows herself robed in fur from head to foot during the daylight hours, loves the more frivolous looking chiffon to enwrap herself for evening wear. Even her long enveloping coat—her evening wrap—she now also has of chiffon, but to keep her snugly warm and strike the note of novelty this coat is lined with fur.

TOMBS OF JEWISH KINGS

Baron Edmond de Rothschild, of Paris, is about to visit Palestine in order to have excavations made in the locality where it is believed the tombs of the Jewish kings are situated. His representative, a celebrated French archaeologist, has already arrived in Jerusalem. It is probable that the baron, who has done so much for the Jewish colonies, will seize the opportunity for his visit to Palestine to inspect the colonies and to study the possibilities of colonization there and in other parts of Asiatic Turkey.

IMITATION PEARLS

So many imitation pearls are sold now that it is hard to tell real ones from copies, which must be sold in very large quantities, judging from all the shops one sees filled with them in the finest thoroughfares of Paris and London.

What some artless people are unable to understand is why art committees hang certain paintings and let the artists escape.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

Frank loosened his sword from its fastenings and took a revolver in his left hand, in which he also held the reigns. He judged Abdul Huq to be some fifty yards distant, and he was well aware that the fog became thinner with each yard as he turned his back on the river.

"Take Winifred back to the angle of the wall," he whispered to Mayne. "You will find a budgerow there. Get your horses on board, if possible, and I shall join you in a minute or less. If I manage to scatter these devils, we shall outwit them yet."

It was hopeless, he knew, to attempt to ride through the enemy's cordon. There would be a running fight against superior numbers, and Winifred's presence made that a last resource. The most fortunate accident of the deserted craft being moored beneath the palace wall offered a far more probable means of escape. What blunder or treachery had led to this attack he could not imagine. Nor was he greatly troubled with speculation on that point. Winifred must be saved, he had a sword in his hand, and he was mounted on the best horse in India. What better hap could a cavalry subaltern desire than such a fight under such conditions?

In order not only to drown the girl's protest when her uncle turned her horse's head, but also to deceive opponents, Frank thundered forth an order that was familiar to their ears.

"The troop will advance! Draw swords! Walk—trot—charge!"

Chumru, though no fighting-man, realized that he was expected to make a row and uttered a blood-curdling yell. Inspired by their officer's example the two sowars dashed after him with splendid courage. They were on their startled pursuers so soon, the line having narrowed more quickly than they expected, that they hurtled right through the opposing force without a blow being struck or a shot fired. As it chanced, no better manoeuvre could have been effected. When they wheeled and Frank managed to shoot two men at close range, it seemed to the amazed rebels that they were being attacked from the very quarter from which they had advanced.

Under such conditions even the steadiest of troops will break, and at least endeavor to reach a place where their adversaries are not shrouded in a dense mist. And that was exactly what occurred in this instance. Nearly all the mutineers swung round and galloped headlong for the landward boundary of the paddy field. Shouting to his two plucky assistants to come back, Frank called out to Chumru and bade him join them. He was hurrying towards the corner of the palace grounds when a shriek from Winifred set his teeth on edge.

"I am coming," he cried. "What has happened? Where are you, Mayne?"

"Here, close to the boat. Look out there! Two sowars are carrying off my niece. For Heaven's sake, save her! I am wounded, but never mind me."

Malcolm had the hunter's lore, a species of Red Indian cunning in the stalker's art. Instead of rushing blindly forward, he halted his men promptly and listened. Sure enough, he heard stumbling footsteps by the water's edge. Leaping from Nejdi's back, he sprang down the crumbling bank and came almost on top of Abdul Huq and his brother Pathan. Their progress was hindered by Winifred's frantic struggles and their own brutal efforts to stop her from screaming, and they were taken unaware by Frank's unexpected leap.

A thrust that went home caused a vacancy in a border clan, but, before the avenger could withdraw his weapon, Abdul Huq was swinging his tulwar. He was no novice in the art, and Malcolm must have gone down under the blow had not Winifred seen its murderous purpose and seized the man's arm. That gave her lover the second he needed. He recovered his sword, but was too near to stab or cut, so he met the case by dealing the swarthy one a blow with the hilt between the eyes that would have felled an ox. Never before had the Englishman hit any man with such vigorous good will. This rascal was owed a debt for the indignity he had offered the sahib in the village, and now he was paid in full.

He fell insensible, with part of his body resting in the water. It was a queer moment for noting a trivial thing, yet Frank saw that the man's turban did not fall off. He had lost his own turban during the melee on the Grand Trunk Road, and, as it would soon be daylight, he stooped to secure Abdul Huq's headgear. Oddly enough, it was fastened by a piece of cord under the Pathan's chin—an almost unheard-of device this, to be adopted by a native. With a sharp pull Frank broke the cord and jammed the turban on his head. He was determined to have it, if only because no greater insult can be inflicted on a Mohammedan than to bare his head.

The incident did not demand more than a few seconds for its transaction and Winifred hardly noticed it, so unstrung was she. Without more ado Malcolm took her in his arms and carried her up the bank. He told the troopers and his servant to follow with the horses as quietly as possible, and led the way towards the budgerow.

Arrived at the boat, they found Mayne standing in the water and leaning helplessly against the side of the craft. He had been struck down by one of the precious pair who thought to carry off Winifred, but, luckily, it was a glancing blow and not serious in its after effects.

With a rapidity that was almost magical the horses were put on board, the boat shoved off, and the huge mat sail hoisted to get the benefit of any breeze that might be found in midstream. The current carried them away at a fair rate, and, as they passed the place where Abdul Huq had fallen in the river Malcolm fancied he heard a splash and a gurgle, as though a crocodile had found something of interest.

CHAPTER VI.

The Well

Not until many months later did Malcolm learn the true cause of Roshinara Begum's anxiety that he and his friends should hasten to Meerut, and let it be known on the way that they came from Cawnpore. Yet there were those in Bithoor that night who fully appreciated the tremendous influence on the course of political events that the direction of Winifred's flight might exercise. The girl herself little dreamed she was such an important personage. But that is often the case with those who are destined to make history. In this instance, the balking of a Brahmin prince's passions was destined to change the whole trend of affairs in northern India.

Nana Sahib escorted Mayne from Meerut to Cawnpore because the safeguarding of the Judicial Commissioner of Oudh was a strong card to play in that parlous game of empire. As he travelled south reports reached him on every hand that nothing could now stop the spread of the Mutiny, and, with greater certainty in his plans came a project that he would not have dared to harbor even a week earlier.

Winifred, naturally a high-spirited and lively girl, soon recovered from the fright of that fateful Sunday evening. She had seen little of the tragedy enacted in Meerut; she knew less of its real horrors. Notwithstanding the intense heat, the open-air life of the march was healthy, and, in many respects, agreeable. The Nana was a courteous and considerate host. He took good care that his secret intelligence of occurrences at Delhi and other stations should remain hidden from Mayne and, while his ambitions mounted each hour, he cast many a veiled glance at the graceful beauty of the fair English girl who moved like a sylph among the brown-skinned satyrs surrounding her.

Once the party had reached Bithoor the Nana's tone changed. Instead of sending his European guests into Cawnpore, whence safe transit to Calcutta was still practicable, he kept them in his palace, on the pretext that the roads were disturbed. He contrived, at first, to hoodwink Mr. Mayne by giving him genuine news of the wholesale outbreak in the North-West, and by adding wholly false tidings of massacres at Allahabad, Benares, and towns in Upper Bengal. At last, when Mayne insisted on going into Cawnpore, the native threw aside pretense, said he could not "allow" him to depart, and virtually made uncle and niece prisoners.

But he treated them well. A clear-headed Brahmin to whom intrigue was the breath of life, was not likely to make the mistake of being too precipitate in his actions. The wave of religious fanaticism sweeping over the land might recede as rapidly as it had risen. Muslim and Hindu, Pathan and Brahmin, hereditary foes who fraternized to-day, might be at each other's throats to-morrow. So the Nana was a courteous jailer. Beyond the loss of their liberty the captives had nothing to complain of, and he met Mayne's vehement reproaches with unmoved good humor, protesting all the while that he was acting for the best.

Winifred took fright, however. Her woman's intuition looked beneath the mask. For her uncle's sake she kept her suspicions to herself, but she suffered much in secret, and her distress might well have moved a man of finer character to sympathy. Each time she

LAID UP FIVE YEARS

Until Half a Bottle of Father Morrisey's Liniment Cured His Shoulder.

Mr. Jos. J. Roy, a prominent tinsmith of Bathurst, N.B., July 16, 1909:

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without letting you know what benefit I received from your Liniment. For five years I had a sore shoulder, which prevented me from working or from sleeping at night. I had tried everything possible and still could find no relief, until I was advised to try a bottle of your liniment, which I purchased without delay. I only used one half of the bottle when I was completely cured, and now I feel as if I never had a sore shoulder. I would advise anyone suffering from Rheumatic pains to give your liniment a trial, for I cannot praise it too highly."

A liniment that will do that is the liniment you want. It is equally good for sore throat or chest, backache, toothache, ear ache, sprains, sore muscles, cuts, bruises, burns, frost-bites, chapped hands or chilblains. Rub it in, and the pain comes out. 25c per bottle at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 64

HAD BLOOD IN HIS EYE

Harrowing Experience of Caretaker of Apartments—Tenant Got Excited

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—Hunted by a man with an automatic pistol in his hand and blood in his eye, Sylvester Carter, the caretaker of the Berkeley Apartments, Berkeley and Queen Streets, had a harrowing experience Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

He was called out of bed by Ernest Hicks, one of the tenants, who wanted the key to his room, and after he had let Hicks in the two sat down to enjoy a "split" of beer. Hicks got abusive and an altercation ensued over the fact that the caretaker was slow about producing the key.

Hicks whipped out a pistol and Carter grabbing a detached leg of a chair, clubbed him over the head and "beat it" down the elevator and into his own flat. Hicks staggered to his feet and pursued via the stairs. He knocked Carter's door open and Carter jumped out of the window.

P. C. Drury was on the corner and Carter told him his troubles.

Hicks was locked up in Wilton-avenue Station, charged with being drunk and Carter laid the additional information of threatening to kill.

The pistol contained seven loaded cartridges.

The Police System.

The police system, being almost entirely municipal in its character, has gradually developed with the growth of cities. In London a night watch was appointed in 1253 to proclaim the hour with a bell before the introduction of clocks. The old watch system was discontinued and a new police on duty day and night commenced Sept. 29, 1829.

WOMAN AND MANIAC

Toronto Woman Prevented Him From Killing His Wife With a Razor

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 18.—In a fit of jealousy because she had willed all her property to his stepdaughter Geo. Quigley, a travelling salesman tried to kill his wife with a razor at their home to-day, and failing, took his own life by slashing his throat from ear to ear. The woman was badly cut about the head, neck and arms but may recover.

Miss Edith Reid, of Toronto, Can. daughter of Mrs. Quigley, and the innocent cause of the fatal quarrel, with her two-year-old child, witnessed the tragedy. Both Mrs. Quigley and Mrs Reid fought the enraged husband, holding to him and trying to wrest the weapon from his hands.

KINGSTON, Feb. 19.—United States Consul Johnson has orders to close the Consulate at Deseronto, which has been in existence for the past forty years. MINING MATTERS IN THE NORTH

The Marmora Herald states that Mr. P. Kirkegaard has resigned his position of Managing Director of the Deloro Mining and Reduction Co., with a view to taking up private practice of his profession and otherwise be free to look after his many and varied interests.

Mr. Kirkegaard and associates, Messrs. Mackechnie and Hughes recently bought the Pelmont gold mines at Cordova and this they intend to work to its capacity this summer, Mr. Kirkegaard will act as managing director, but leave himself free to attend to other interests he has in Northern Ontario. Mr. Kirkegaard has large and valuable interests in Porcupine, Cobalt and Gowganda.

Last November he and friends bought what was known as the three Felden Claims adjoining the Dome Extension in Tisdale. They at once put a large force of men stripping, which resulted in uncovering exceptional rich showings of surface gold over a very large area, many samples showing coarse, free gold. We understand that an English Co. is now negotiating for these properties at a large price. We also learn that Mr. Kirkegaard has taken an option on the Mozer Veteran Claim, 160 acres, in Whitney. This location adjoins Golden City and upon it it is thought the railroad station may be located, which will add greatly to its value. Several veins have been uncovered on this location, samples have assayed as high as $120 in gold.

17-YEAR LOCUST THREATENS N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The seventeen-year locusts, which are due to return to plague the American farmer this summer after being absent since 1891, have made their appearance in the vicinity of New York City. Curator Ditmars of the New York Zoological society, has discovered the first grubs, several thousand in number in an excavation near Nyack, N. Y. By the time the frost is out of the ground these thousands will be millions, he says.

During the last previous visitation the locusts literally covered suburban New York, stripping trees, bushes, hedges, lawns and truck farms of everything green and then moving in vast clouds which obscured the sun to fresh fields. The individual locusts lived only a few days, but each female in that time found time to lay 500 eggs on the branches of denuded trees. When the larvae hatched they fell to the ground and burrowed straight down for more than a foot. There, it is said they have rested for 17 years before the process of hatching was complete, and as soon as the frost leaves the ground they will dig their way to the surface and appear as small oblong shells.

The grubs found in the excavation at Nyack are said to be completely formed and ready to come to the surface as soon as the earth warms up.

Chinatown will welcome the visitation. The Chinese cook makes locusts into pies, casts them, eats them as a salad, and dresses them in many mysterious ways, and even New Yorkers have found some of these dishes palatable.

Of course there are two sides to every story; but the trouble is the most of us only care to hear one.

AN INFANT DEAD

Marguerite L. Davis, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sandford Davis, residing in this city died yesterday. The remains were taken to Ottawa for interment.

The election law does not forbid the purchase of ballots in The Intelligencer's popularity contest.

Daily Intelligencer.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

Saturday's summer-like temperature induced people to talk of spring. But yesterday's——

"The annexation cry is not taken seriously," says the Globe. Probably not—in the Globe office—but it is outside of the Grit newspaper offices.

That was a great flying leap which Miss Shorey of Cannifton took over the heads of all her competitors in the Intelligencer's great popularity contest.

Mr. Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, is in favor of the tariff pact because he believes it will be a check to British preference, which the apologists of the arrangement have loudly proclaimed would not be affected. And Mr. Bourassa did not speak as one without knowledge.

Shall we keep Canadian trade in Canadian channels or turn it over to the Americans? Shall we maintain a tariff which gives our manufacturers a fair chance in their home market and compels Americans to invest hundreds of millions in establishing manufactures in Canada, or open the door wide to American manufacturers to the detriment of our industries by American "slaughtering" and the stoppage of the influx of capital?

"The enactment of this great measure for larger trade with Canada would," says the Springfield, Mass., Republican, "be a mighty stroke for the country's industrial expansion and prosperity, and our business men should see to it that the Senate is made duly aware of the fact. The sooner the agreement is ratified the better." And what of the Canadian manufacturers? Where do they come in?

If looks as if there was an election coming and they wanted to have men on the ground," is how Hon. Dr. Reaume interprets the recent move of the Federal Government in appointing fishery inspectors all over Ontario. While Provincial Minister of Public Works Dr. Reaume presides over the Ontario Fish and Game Department, of which Edwin Tinsley of Hamilton is superintendent. "There is bound to be friction," said the Minister, "and my men have very positive instructions."

ABLE SPEAKERS SUPPORT MISSIONARY MOVEMENT

Three Speakers Heard in Anglican and Methodist Churches—Cheering Note Sounded by Them all—Interesting Information of the Great Project—Rev. Dr. Gould, Mr. Allan and Mr. Arnup Were the Speakers

The missionary spirit was certainly kept alive in this city yesterday, when three well-known speakers, who are deeply interested in the Laymen's Missionary movement, were heard in the Anglican and Methodist churches. The speakers were Rev. Dr. Gould late of Jerusalem, Secretary of the M. S. C. C., Mr. Allin, M. A., Secretary of the Anglican branch of the Laymen's Missionary movement, and Mr. J. H. Arnup, Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary movement of the Methodist church of Canada. All are eloquent speakers and in thorough sympathy with the work they are engaged in.

ST.THOMAS.

In the evening there was a large congregation present at St. Thomas church and the speaker on missions was Mr. Allin. The Rector, Rev Rural Dean Beamish, assisted in the services.

Mr. Allin in his opening remarks referred to the existence of a Supreme Being who is believed in by those who have been brought up under Christian influences. We cannot but help believe in God. The Bible, the Word of God, is missionary in its teachings, and the cause of missions is the cause of the Lord Jesus Christ. A church is dead that has not zeal for missions. A church that is alive to this cause is a live and progressive church. That a deep interest should be taken in missionary work there can be no doubt. What a glorious work the missionary cause is achieving to-day. One million heathen in every six years are being brought into the church through the efficacy of the missionary work. A noted divine has made the assertion that one missionary is worth a batallion of soldiers. To-day there is a great turning point in the history of the world, in fact it is the most critical point in its history. This fact is apparent if we but look abroad to foreign countries and see what is being done. Look at the progress Japan is making. In 1871 on the advice of missionaries that country sent embassies to the civilized countries in the west, and She wiped out her old school systems were introduced. Tokio has been a great educational centre of that country, Japan, suddenly become one of the foremost nations of the world. The nations of the West realize that Japan is a nation to be reckoned with.

China has also undergone of late years a wonderful change. China who a few years ago was afraid to dig down into the bowels of the earth for minerals for fear evil spirits would come up, has dispelled that idea and to-day is opening up the bowels of the earth and bringing forth minerals and coal. In 1905 they wiped out their old educational heals and to-day she is educating her girls as well as her boys. What will he future be? This country has one half of the area of the world and a population of 4000,000,000. Although a great poll tax was imposed on Chinese entering into this country they are still coming to its shores in great numbers.. India, another nation, is also undergoing a great change. These nations are realizing that they have powers and possibilities that may make them foremost in the world some day.. Canada occupies to-day a unique position. It has been advertised as a free home, and a land free and pure, and in consequence a tremendous tide of immigration has flowed into this country. We have a tremendous problem to face on account of this influx of immigration into this country. And what is this problem? It is the Christianizing of those who are not Christians. It makes for the stability of the man and also for the nation. If we have any desire to serve our fellow men we must assist in this missionary movement. We plead with men that they will realize that this is God's work and that it is essential to their spiritual welfare to assist in this work. We should do God's work in faith and await results which will surely come. We may meet with rebuffs but God's promise is assured :—"Lo. I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.

Once again the call has been sounded for the Christian people of this city to furnish more men and women for the development of the work of the church in the world. Last Sunday it was Rev. Charles Bishop of the Students' Volunteer Work, who gave the message. Yesterday it was Mr J. H. Arnup, Canadian Secretary for the Methodist church of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, but both speakers were one in claiming that the most imperative need in Canada to-day is more men and women to preach the Gospel so the church may keep pace with the growth of the country.

It was Missionary Anniversary Sunday which was the cause of Mr. Arnup's visit to Belleville, but his address was not an appeal for money, but for men In the morning he dealt exclusively with this need right here in Canada and a most masterful and convincing appeal it was.

Mr. Arnup has travelled Canada, and knows Canada, particularly the West and is frankly an optimist regarding the future of the country. He foresees the time when Canada will be the largest portion of the British Empire, and when she will wield a large influence whether for good or evil will be determined largely on how the church is able to mould the character of the nation in the next few years. On the average two new communities per week was added to the Canadian west last year, and are we going to allow these communities to run "wide open" or will the east provide the teachers and preachers needed to combat the evils so common to new towns.

There was a time in the history of the U. S. when it was said there was no God west of the Mississippi. Canada wants no conditions like that. The curse of materialism and the greed for wealth is even more prevalent in the West than in the East. People go there solely to make money and are apt to leave their religion behind them. This constitutes a grave danger that only the Gospel message can counteract and for the sake of the future of the nation it would pay our national government to subsidize the work of the church. A Christian manhood is the highest type of citizenship, and the Government should see to it that Canada is producing the highest type of citizens Our aim should be not Canada for the Canadians, but Canada for the World, and the world for Christ.

Just now the work of the church in the West is handicapped, in fact is almost at a standstill, for lack of men. Both men and women are needed to carry the Gospel message, and they must be the right type of men and women, not the scrubs and culls from the east, but the best we can give them—men who can mould the nation in its making.

In the evening Mr. Arnup gave the same message, but from a different angle. He first reviewed the results alrady accomplished in the extension of the Kingdom, showing that the Christian world is awakening to the work, and is giving more liberally of men and women and money, and that some of the recently heathen nations are now an example to the world in the matter of real earnestness and zeal for the true God.

He next quoted from the report of the World's Missionary Conference in Edinburgh last summer, in which the investigating committee said "The next ten years will in all probability constitute a turning point in human history." To get an idea of what might be looked for during the next ten years the speaker reviewed the past ten years throughout the world showing swiftly and graphically the marvellous changes that had occurred in that period in Japa, China, Russia Persia, Turkey, India, Africa, Germany, France, South America, etc From the past we can get a vision of the future, and what will become of the church if it fails to take advantage of this opportunity. These nations are in process of change now, and emerging into a new life. History proves there are periods of change and also periods of fixity, and now is the time to sieze the opportunity and supply the men to carry the Gospel to these nations. Then quoting the Scripture "Who knoweth but ye are come to the kingdom for such a time as this," he appealed to the men to give more definite service to the Master, saying "you have been using the Christ for a fire escape." This is not treating the Scriptures squarely. You men should line up with Him and assist Him in saving the world.

Mr. Arnup is only a young man but he is a vigorous and eloquent speaker knows his subject well, and thinks for himself. His message was earnestly delivered, and there is indications that one or more of the workers he is asking for will be found in Belleville.

CHRIST CHURCH.

There was a large congregation present at Christ Church last evening, when Rev. Dr. Gould, late of Jerusalem, and Secretary of the M. S. C. C., preached a missionary sermon. His text was from Revelations, 3rd Chapter, and 8th verse : "I know thy works; behold I have set before thee an open door and no man can shut it for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word and hast not denied my name."

The Divine, in his opening remarks gave a vivid description of his experiences in Jerusalem, where he labored for some time. Since 1897 he had been a medical man at Jerusolem and was also engaged in missionary work. In regard to the latter work he was in hearty accord with it and made an earnest appeal for help in regard to spreading the glad tidings. The speaker referred to such countries as China, India and Africa, and said that it would be a calamity if those countries should fall into idolatry and remain so. In late years the M. S. C. C. had doubled its income, but there was still much to be done and more means were wanted to carry on the missionary work in heathen lands.

What Shall Be Done?

Judging from the course which the City Council has taken with reference to the accusations publicly made, on the platform and in the press, against ex-Mayor Marsh and City Treasurer Price of having, in their capacity of trustees for the city in the matter of administering a portion of the city's estate, been false to their trust, it is but too apparent that our civic representatives have given cause for the belief on the part of some of the citizens that they are not unwilling to hush the matter up.

The subject is, however, of too grave a character to be thus brushed aside.

Citizens of the highest character have publicly made accusations against ex-Mayor Marsh and Treasurer Price, which involve not only the personal honor of those gentlemen, but include the allegation that the city treasury has been deprived of the sum of $1,600, more or less as the result of a conspiracy between Messrs. Marsh and Price. In substantiation of those accusations the accusers presented, before one of the largest public meetings ever held in Belleville, facts and figures in support of their charges. Those accusations were set forth at length in a resolution which called for a judicial investigation before a commissioner to be appointed by the Ontario Government from some other county, which resolution was adopted.

Subsequently, at a largely attended meeting of the Property Owners' and Taxpayers' Association, the matter was fully discussed and a resolution was unanimously adopted asking the Council to apply for a judicial investigation.

The response by the Council to these requests was far from satisfactory. After an attempt by some of the aldermen to burke investigation on the ground that no "specific or concrete" charge had been made, they went through the farce of appointing a committee of three to determine whether a judicial investigation should be held. That committee, which had no power to compel the attendance of, or to swear, witnesses, or to compel the production of papers, books or documents of any kind, evidently recognized its own impotency and has never met, although it was appointed a month ago.

Moreover, as evidencing the unaccountable apathy of the Council in this most important matter, they simply tabled, at the last meeting a letter from Mr. J. F. Wills, K.C., Secretary of the Property Owners and Taxpayers' Association, asking for the appointment of a commission. Finally, we have the extraordinary declaration made by Mayor Ackerman that he "could say a few things regarding Mr. Marsh's acts as Mayor that perhaps would not be to his credit," but that he has concluded not to do so, as he does "not believe the interests of the city will be advanced by continuing the controversy."

To this "specific and concrete" charge Mr. Marsh, who is a prolific letter writer—who did his best, by various subterfuges, to prevent any sort of an investigation, and who even went so far as to make a totally unfounded and transparently disingenuous attack by insinuation against Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.—has not ventured to make any reply.

All citizens who regard the honor of Belleville and the reputation of its civic officials must be united in demanding a judicial investigation, in order that the accused, if innocent, may be cleared, or punished if found guilty. The good name of the municipality and the reputation of its present rulers are involved in this matter; for it cannot be allowed to go forth to the world that such accusations as have been made and so sustained can be passed over with indifference, without unpleasant suspicions of a widespread character being engendered in the public mind in other places.

AN OLD-FASHIONED REVIVAL WANTED IN WALL STREET

The Wall Street Journal's Appeal Considered by Pastor Russel—Bishop Candler Freely Quoted

PITTSBURG, PA., Feb. 19.—Quoting an extract from the Wall Street Journal, Pastor Russell used it as his text in conjunction with Proverbs xiv. 30. The Journal not long since appealed "for a revival of old-time religion, which took time to pray every morning and to attend the mid-wek prayer-meeting." It claimed that such a revival would cleanse the country of filth, of graft and of greed, petty and big, of worship, of fine houses and big lands, and high offices and grand social functions.

Bishop Candler also noticed the Journal's appeal and Pastor Russell quoted him freely as follows:

"We cannot get a revival of religion by seeking a revival of religion. Nowhere in God's Word are men admonished to seek a religion or seek a revival of religion. They are always urged to seek God. All the revivals of religion which have blessed the world in the history of the past have come when men have undertaken to seek God. None have ever come otherwise. We cannot deify even a revival of religion. God must be the supreme object of our love and desire.

"Herein is our trouble: we have lost God. Men called preachers have explained away the Word of God, making it no longer a sure Word of prophecy, but an antique for the critics to analyze and discuss. The moral law has been lowered. The Ten Commandments have been reckoned as a piece of Mosaic plagiarism applicable to the needs of ancient nomads in the wilderness, but having no more than a qualified bearing on the life of to-day. The Sermon on the Mount has been treated as 'an iridescent dream.' The lordship of Jesus Christ has been denied, while treacherous compliments have been poured out upon His name, as that of merely a great Teacher and noble martyr."

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY, SAYS PASTOR RUSSELL.

The words of the Wall Street Journal respecting the need of the old-time religion are along proper lines. Bishop Candler sees already what I also have so frequently pointed out, namely, that the so-called New Theology, Higher Criticism and Evolution theories have so undermined faith that it would be folly to look for a return of the pious earnestness of the past, which was built upon a living faith, even though it was not the pure faith "once delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3.)

MOST IMPORTANT POINTS.

It is useless for any to attempt to believe or to attempt to each others that God is great, and just, and loving, while at the same time teaching that he prepared before the foundation of the world an immense torture chamber in which thousands of millions would be forced to spend eternity. How our forefathers could believe this and yet believe somehow or other that God is Love we do not understand. It was their faith in God's love, and not their faith in eternal torment, which constituted the power of God working in them for good, and which offset the errors of their creeds to a considerable degree. But no one of today who is at all awake can any longer think of worshiping a God inferior to himself. A God unjust and unloving, or unkind and powerless, can no longer be worshipped in spirit and in Truth.

What the world neds, and what first of all Church needs, is to get doctrinally straight in respect to the Almighty's character, and in respect to His purposes with His human creatures. As soon as that condition of mind shall have been reached there will be no need to pray or to ask for revivals of religion—they will follow irresistibly.

CHURCH AND WORLD STANDARDS.

During the "Dark Ages," the fact that the Church is a specially called, chosen, faithful class and only "a little flock" was seen and preached to some extent. But this lofty Church Standard was difficult of appliaction to the world, and the world's hope under a different standard was not seen. It clarifies our minds greatly when we recognize that the "elect" few are intended by God to be the world's instructors and helpers by and by, when the world will be granted an opportunity of rescue from sin and death not to heavenly conditions, but to an earthly Restitution of all that was lost by Adam's transgression and redeemed by the great Sacrifice of Calvary.

After learning that the hell to which the world goes in death is the grave, and that it is an unconscious condition, a "sleep," the next lesson is the resurrection of the dead: "Many that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, * * some to shame and lasting contempt" (Daniel xii, 2.) Mankind fall asleep with unrighteousness and very indistinct glimpses of holiness and saintship. When awakened they will recognize the glory, honor and immortality of the saintly Bride of Christ and be recipients of her loving care and blessing in proportion as they respond to the blessed privileges of that time. As the Restitution work will progress, and they obediently rise from their degradation, their shame and contempt will gradually disappear and eventually perfection of human nature may be attained in an earth also attaining perfection, as the Garden of the Lord.

ERROR LOSING ITS POWER.

Intelligent people no longer believe the God-dishonoring doctrine of eternal torture, nor even the doctrine of purgatorial suffering. Having lost these, they are doubting every religious teaching. What they need to see is the Bible's presentations. They should see the "high calling" now extended to the faithful, saintly few and should sit down and count the cost before undertaking so great a contract as to become members of that Royal Priesthood. If they do not accept this (the only call now extended) they should have in mind that there is a general Law of Retribution operating, expressed in the terms, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." They should understand clearly that every thought and word and act of theirs will have to do with their future conduct and affect them more or less favorably in the resurrection, when Messiah's Kingdom will provide to every man a full, gracious opportunity of restitution to human perfection in a world-wide Eden.

To the Kingdom of Messiah belongs the promise, "Righteousness exalteth a nation." His will be a reign of righteousness and by Divine direction he will have control of the whole world for the uplifting of all mankind redeemed by the precious blood of Calvary. At present, in every kingdom under heaven, we see exemplified the latter part of our text, "Sin is a disgrace to any people"—to the whole world. Let us accept the direction of God's Word and set our faces toward righteousness with greater zeal than ever—to attain Divine favor, either by the "high calling" of this present time or by the blessed restitution times soon to be ushered in (Acts iii, 19-21)

THE Y'S HAD AN INTERESTING MEETING

Interesting and profitable were the prayer services held by the W. C. T. U. in St. Andrew's Church on Friday. Mrs. Russill's Bible Reading on Nehemiah was fine. We should be like him, despite all ridicule and discouragements bring our God given work to a successful conclusion.

Mrs. (Rev.) Seymour's paper on "Motherhood" was splendid. She believed in putting first things first. The education of the children was of more importance than house or social duties. She advocated Bible pictures and stories instead of Red Riding Hood, for children.

Miss Holden gave an interesting sketch of Frances Willard's life.

In the afternoon Mrs. (Dr.) Bishop gave a Bible Reading and talk on "The Holy Spirit—the Builder." She encouraged the few workers to go on and cited Gideon, Hannah an dothers and their great work. She thought God honored the people by allowing them to work for Him.

Miss Florence Adam's paper on "Building Ourselves" was so good, Mrs. Williams asked for a copy, to send to the Provincial Union's "Essay Bureau." Mrs. Chapman gave useul information on Local Option.

The above was interspersed with hymns and prayers on special lines of work. Mesdames Sprague and Ray's duet "You'll reap whatsoever you sow," was much enjoyed, also the report of the Alliance Convention by Mrs. Seymour.

was made in Western Town Property during the year 1909

Did you participate in these huge profits or did you "pigeon-hole" the propositions submitted to you by your western friends for future consideration? In short, are you the man who made a profit or the unfortunate one who had the chance but did not possess sufficient judgment to recognize the opportunity or sufficient courage to close a deal? The man or woman entitled to sympathy is the one who says: "Five or ten years ago I had the chance to buy this or that property at $100 or $500, and now it is worth $10,000." The average persons sneers at the person who makes such a statement and says: 'I would have bought and made that money." Are you going to say five years from now that you had a chance to buy a lot at Poe, Alta., at from $50 to $100 each, or are you going to be the man who will have from $1,000 to $10,000 in cash as a result of having bought property in this town in this year of grace, 1911?

POE A COMING COMMERCIAL CENTRE.

Poe is located on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Saskatoon. It is located in one of the finest farming districts in Western Canada. The surrounding country is settled by a progressive type of farmers and consequently will become the market centre for Northern Alberta. Poe district possesses rich coal mines, is close to rivers and lakes and large forests are easily accessible from this point. These natural resources insure for the residents of the town, first, low cost of living, and second, great commercial activity, two essentials in the upbuilding of a large town, thus creating valuable real estate.

POE AS A MANUFACTURING CENTRE.

This townsite and contiguous territory has the requirements outlined by large manufacturing concerns for the location of large factories or lareg enterprises of any kind employing large numbers of people. The rivers and lakes furnish water, the coal fields and forest furnish fuel and cheap building material, the fine farming lands furnish farm products, enabling the residents to live at a low cost.

The town is located on the main line of a transcontinental railway, assuring the necessary transportation facilities. These combined conditions will furnish cheap labor, one of the most important features of a manufacturing centre.

Poe townsite was recently placed on the market and already over 200 lots have been sold, and many of these lots have already changed hands at a substantial increase in price. Most of these lots were purchased by representative business men throughout Canada, who are now profiting by their foresight.

The townsite is high and dry and very suitable for building purposes.

OPPORTUNITY

is useless unless you possess the courage to act. You might possess great wisdom, you might read a good deal or travel much and thus see all kinds of opportunities to make money, but unless you have the courage to act on your judgment and wisdom all of these desirable qualities are entirely useless.

Lots in Poe are a good investment at present prices. The town is bound to grow rapidly. Owing to the easy terms of payment you have the ability to buy and if you do not buy now it is because you are lacking in courage, and the chances are you will never be like the man you now admire most, rich courageous and wise.

TORRENS TITLE

PRICES AND TERMS.

Prices of lots range from $50 to $100 each, and they can be purchased on terms of one-tenth cash, balance in eighteen equal monthly payments; or quarter cash, balance in six, twelve and eighteen months.

INFORMATION.

We have issued an attractive circular giving full information pertaining to the town and its prospects, together with map showing lots for sale. If you wish to receive this attractive circular cut out and fill in the attached coupon and mail it to us to-day.

CLARK'S SPEECH ALARMS BRITISH

LONDON, Feb. 18. — England is aroused to-day over the fear of ultimately losing Canada in case the American-Canadian reciprocity agreement is ratified.

The press is prticularly disturbed because of the statement made by Speaker-elect Champ Clark in the House yesterday that he had no doubt that the time would soon come when England would gladly look forward to the turning over of her possessions in North America to the United States.

The Conservatice press in exhibiting the nearest approach to "Americaphobio," that it has ever displayed, as even the papers friendly to reciprocity are censuring Clark for his so-called indiscretion.

The Westminster Gazette, which has led the fight on reciprocity, says today:

"Clark must be singularly innocent, if, desiring this consumation, he imagines it will be promoted by such a frank avowal at the present moment. But we will probably get the right kind of a measure, despite his utterance."

"The speech will surely make Canadians pause before assenting to the tariff agreement." the Globe declares.

The Times says that if its correspondent is right in stating that it is doubtful whether the American people take the annexation talk seriously "the Americans show their good sense."

The Pall Mall Gazette asserts that "Englishmen cannot much longer be blind to the fact that preference signifies union."

An appeal to the English people to "save the Empire" is sounded by the Morning Post. It declares that there is no longer any attempt in America to conceal the ultimate aim of annexing Canada.

Jaseph Martin, in an interview on his return from Canada, said :"Anyone here who is alarmed shows his ignorance of the agreement, which will benefit the British manufacturers as Canada's purchasing power is increased."

WALLBRIDGE.

A very pleasant event occured at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell on Thursday evening, 16th, inst., when about fifty of their friends and neighbors gathered, bringing with them well-filled baskets to welcome them to their new home, on the 4th con. of Sidney. At about 9.30 an oyster supper was served, when everybody present did justice to the good things provided by the ladies. The Regent Zither Club, of Wallbridge, was present and furnished music for the evening. Games and music were indulged in until the wee small hours when the party broke up after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Says England Is Asleep

PARIS, Feb. 18.-- The Temps publishes a leading article this afternoon summing up the Canadian-United States reciprocity situation. The paper thinks that the speech made by the Representative Champ Clark seriously compromises the situationxztifl ously compromises the success of the agreement, a it rudely awakens the slumbering inquietudes of Canada and England that the United States seeks the absorption of Canada.

From the start, The Temps maintains, England has failed to recognize the importance of the negotiations and, generally speaking, has conducted the whole question "with the same feebleness and slackness that has characterized her actions in other parts of the world."

Torontoians are Suing for Money

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 18.—The contest by Samuel Scholes of Kingston, Ont., Jennie Scholes, Richard Scholes and Matthew Scholes of Toronto, Ont., of the will of their brother. W. H. Scholes of this city, who was wealthy, began today in the Probate Court.

Mrs. Villers, to whom Scholes left his money, was very attractive in her mourning garb, assumed on the death of Scholes. She was a close follower of what was said.

The will was introduced in the evidence, after which Samuel Scholes, a brother of the dead man, was called. He said there were five other brothers. He was always friendly with the deceased and during the lifetime of Mrs. Scholes both were very affectionate. He told of visits of the dead brother to Canada and the subsequent intimacy with Mrs. Villers and his taking up his residence with the Villers family. He testified that once Capt. Scholes and Mrs Villers were sitting on the sofa in the kitchen in each other's arms and that when he asked Mrs. Villers' children where their mother was, they stated that she was hugging Capt. Scholes. Mrs. Villers, when this statement was made, said, in a tone sufficiently loud to be heard by many, "That's a lie."

This was the only instance where she appeared to lose her composure during the trying ordeal.

Witnesses said that on occasions when they were all at the table Capt. Scholes and Mrs. Villers would moon like young lovers or a bridal couple. Even then Mrs. Villers sat unconcerned and without making any comment.

TEAS ARE NOW MUCH HIGHER THAN FOR YEARS

The Market is Steadily Advancing, But Prices to Consumer Remain the Same

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—"The tea market during the past two years has been advancing steadily, until just now for Ceylon and Indian teas (practically the only teas consumed in Canada) the price has reached a higher point than it has for twenty years," said a tea merchant yesterday. "This has been caused, in the first place, by the shortage of eight million pounds of Ceylon tea, due to climatic effects, and the enormously increased demand for that country's produce from Russia and the United States. Large dealers fore see still higher prices in the future, through the interplanting of rubber in the low-grown tea estates. So far this had not had any effect in curtailing the quantity of leaf produced on these gardens, but in the course of a year or two this is bound to unfavorably effect the production of tea."

"As to rubber, as far as I can see it really is replacing tea in the low country districts. I saw tea garden after tea garden on the way here from Colombo interplanted with rubber, and when it develops, it will undoubtedly crowd out the tea. Up here, in Nuwara Elia (from where we get most of our teas), it is too cold for rubber, but tea prices will be affected everywhere. I was shown over the tea factory on one estate, which is a picture of cleanliness, and the smell of fresh tea leaf, just as it is brought in, is delicious—like primroses. I saw the withering, rolling, oxydizing and firing all going on. The coolie's wages on an estate is about eleven of our cents a day, and a garden requires one and a half coolies to the acre."

This advance in price has very seriously affected the profits of the large blenders; they selling their product in packets, and fixing the price which the consumer pays. It is said, however, that there is no immediate probability of a higher price to consumers.

Canadian Admiral Honored by King

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, K.C.B., of the British navy, came here on board the steamer Clyde ot he Royl Mail Steam Packet Company's line yesterday, from the West Indies, hurried ashore and took the first taxicab in sight, catching the Campania of the Cunard line. Within half an hour he was on his way to England, in response to the call of the King.

It was a pleasant command from King George, although it broke up a vacation that the distinguished officer was taking.

Admiral Sir Archibald had taken passage at Southampton for the round trip, and just as the steamship was leaving Antilla, Cuba, a wireless told of a cable message that had chased the officer thousand of miles.

It commanded the Admiral to be at Buckingham Palace on Feb. 23, to be invested with the Order of Grand Commander of the Bath.

BRING TEACHERS FROM OLD COUNTRY

Mr. J. W. Johnson Thinks His Proposition a Reasonable One

"It is stated that there is a great scarcity of teachers for the Public Schools of the province, and that an adequate supply is not in sight," said Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., at Toronto yesterday. "This condition is similar to that which exists in the ministry of all Protestant churches, and in connection with the banks. The chuches have been sending clergymen to the Old Country for years to obtain a supply of men. The banks have, through special efforts, secured hundreds of young men from the same source. The agents of Ontario in Britain make it their business to induce farm help and domestic help to emigrate to the province.

"What objection can there be to obtaining efficient, well trained teachers from England, Scotland and Ireland, where there is a superabundance of the types that we need, who would prove as desirable citizens of this country as any of the other classes. Being highly intelligent people, they would soon learn Canadian methods and adopt themselves to Canadian methods and adopt themselves to Canadian life. The scarcity that prevails, owing in a great measure to the lure of the Canadian West, affords an opportunity to bring to Ontario new citizens of a most desirable kind, who would help to supply a great need, and who would not displace any of our own people."

French May Boycott Bishops

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—It was officially announced here to-day that the French Canadians of Ottawa will not present an address of welcome or participate in the ceremonies at the installation of Archbishop Gauthier if Bishop Fallon of London or Bishop Scollard of North Bay have any part in the proceedings. This stand is taken owing to their position on the bilingual question.

Chairman Vincent of the French Reception Committee made the announcement in strong terms. "We refer particularly to Bishop Fallon," he said. "We have written, asking him not to come, but if he persists the French people will not participate Bishop Fallon has shown himself to be a man who does not respect the truth or the French people."

Kingston, Feb. 15.— Archbishop Gauthier left here for Ottawa this afternoon, and several hundred people gathered at the station to say good-bye. The train was due to leave at 1.08 o'clock, but owing to the storm interfering with the traffic, it was over an hour late. The Archbishop travelled in a special car. He was accompanied to Ottawa by several of the clergy, including Very Rev. Dean Murray of Brockville; Rev. Father J. T. Hogan, Perth; Rev. Father Spratt, Wolfe Island; Rev. Father M. MacDonald, Portsmouth; the Cathedral staff, consisting of Rev. Father A. Hanley, (rector), Rev. Father Joseph Macdonald, Rev. Father McWilliams and Rev. Father Charles Mea, B. A. Dean of Regiopolis College.

Archbishop Gauthier, by authority of the Pope, has appointed Mgr. Masterson as administrator of the diocese of Kingston until a new bishop is chosen. Mgr. Masterson is the oldest priest of the diocese, and resides at Prescott. It will be months before a successor to Archbishop Gauthier is named.

Smallpox at Lachine

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Smallpox has broken out in the convent of St. Ann at Lachine, a suburb of Montreal. There are 275 pupils in the place, mostly from the United States and Western Canada. Rumor in the town placed the number of cases at seven or eight, but Dr. Valois, medical health officer, of Lachine, states that there is only one case of smallpox and three of chickenpox. A strict quarantine has been placed on the convent.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 18.—The weakness in America yesterday and the freer offers of American winter wheat caused some realizing here, and values were off ⅛d to ⅜d. The general undertone was steady, with offers light, and, following opening, market firmed under fairly good buying. Support was induced by the expectations of lighter world's shipments on Monday, fewer Plata offers, firmer Australian offers, and expectations of a large decrease in local stock here on Monday. The continent was a fair buyer of cargoes arriving. At the close the market was steady, ⅛d to ⅜d lower than yesterday, with the principal pressure in July.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Confronted by assertions that the quarantine against bubonic plague might put a stop to shipments from Russia, the wheat market today took an upward turn. Prices were a shade to ⅛c higher than twenty-four hours' previous. The outcome in corn was a net advance of ⅛c, and for oats a gain of ⅛c to ¼c. Final changes left hog products within 2½c either way from last night's figures.

It is stated that the C.N.R. through the Scarboro Securities Co. have bought all the land south of McPherson avenue, west of Avenue road and south of Cottingham street, east of Avenue road.

Beat Her to Death.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Thomas Waterhouse, whose husband beat her over the head with a baseball bat on Wednesday night because he said she was always belittling the children by his first wife, died in the general hospital on Saturday at noon, without regaining consciousness. After beating his wife, Waterhouse walked around to the police station and notified the police of what he had done, and expressed the opinion that he had made a good job of it. The police are of the opinion that he is mentally deranged. The couple came out from England about ten years ago.

Rector Is Upheld.

London, Feb. 20.—It is believed that the last has been heard of the efforts of a portion of St. John the Evangelist Church to secure the resignation of the rector, Rev. T. W. Hill, because of his action in dismissing his assistant, Prof. C. E. Jenkins.

Saturday afternoon a delegation of those desiring to oust Mr. Hill waited on Bishop William, and while none of those present would discuss what took place, it is claimed that his lordship took a strong hand in favor of the retention of the rector, holding that he acted entirely within the canons of the Anglican Church.

BASEBALL.

On his return last night from the National League meeting in New York President McCaffery handed out the training trip line-up of the Toronto team for 1911. Among the newcomers, whose names have not been mentioned heretofore in connection with the Leafs, are Armiger, a semi pro. pitcher discovered by Joe Kelly, and Phelan a youthful outfielder from Pittsburg.

The line-up announced is as follows, there being 27 men in the squad.

Pitchers— Killan, Lush, Bachman, McGinley, Mueller, Cathers, McIntyre Winters, McDonald, and Armiger.

Catchers— Phelps, Kocher, Slattery and McWhirler.

First base—Jordan.

Second base—Mullen or Fitzpatrick

Shortstop— Vaughn, and another.

Third base—Bradley.

Outfielders—Shaw, O'Hara, Keeley Delehanty, Phelan and one other.

Utility—Kelley.

"Ty" Cobb gets more than any other active ball player. Frank Navin pays him $9,000 a year for the service he renders to the Detroit club. Christy Mathewson, star of all hurlers, is second to Cobb. The New York Giants pay Christy $8,000 a year for his pitching. But Christy has something on Tyrus. Immediately after the baseball season ended Mathewson went on the vaudeville stage. He appeared in a sketch called "Curves". "Chief" Meyers, catcher, and Miss Mey Tully a clever vaudeville actress, were the other members of the supporting cast. In this sketch Mathewson shows how he throws curves, his famous "fadeaway" and other deliveries. Managers of vaudeville houses paid $1 500 a week for this sketch. Mathewson drew $800 of this sum. They had fifteen weeks in vaudeville and consequently Mathewson drew $12,000 as his share. In 12 weeks Mathewson drew $12,000 for telling how he earns $8,000 in six and a half months.

A Canadian enthusiast, who went to the New York meeting with Joe Kelley, wagered a suit of clothes with Willie Keeler that the midget outfielder would lead the Toronto club in hitting next season if he played regularly. Keeler says he'll throw in an overcoat if he happens to lead the league.

The first accident of the baseball season at the University of Virginia took place late Wednesday afternoon when Gu Hebert, a promising young player, was struck in the face by a batted ball. His jaw bone was broken in two places.

Only two base runners playing the game under the banner of organized baseball were able to beat Eddie Collin's record of 81 stolen bases last season. One of these was Billy Zimmerman of Newark, who played in the outfield for Utica in the New York State League last year Sheffield of Victoria, Southwestern Texas League, stole 94.

President Barrow thinks that Bobby Keefe will prove one of the sensations of the National League. Barrow had Keefe in Montreal last season and the Eastern League President firmly believes Bobby was the best twirler in the circuit.

Mike O'Neill, who played in the out-garden with the Montreal Club for a while last season, has refused to accept the position as manager of the Lincoln Club of the Western League. O'Neill will manage the Elmira Club of the New York State League team this year.

HORSE AND TRACK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—The race meeting at the Emeryville track closed to-day, eighteen days before the scheduled time, in consequence of the passage of a stringent anti-gambling law by the Legislature at Sacramento. The new law, which goes into force to-morrow, prohibits, under penalty of a jail sentence, betting of any kind, whether on contests of men or beasts or on games of chance. Neither oral or written wagers on horse races are permitted, and if breaches of the law occur the owners or lessees of the property on which the betting is done are to be held equally culpable with the bettors.

MOTORING.

The British International Trophy for moto rboats was won by Frederick K. August. Under the new rules there shall be at least two races, and if necessary, three, for this trophy. Previously it was the custom to decide the event by a single contest.

BOXING.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A boxing bout between Anthony J. Drexel of Philadelphia, husband of Marjorie Gould, and the Hon. Robert Beresford of England, a brother of Lord Decies, took place in a private gymnasium at the Gould country home at Lakewood, N. J.

One version says that young Drexel was knocked out, and all assert that his seconds threw up the sponge in the third round. The bout was scheduled to go six rounds. Beresford weighed 166 pounds; Drexel 161.

Mrs. George Gould gave a silver cup to the winner, and the bout was witnessed by the family of George Gould, and a score of guests, including Lord Decies' mother and sister.

A Simple Anaesthetic For Appendictis

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 14.—Lukewarm water is now being used as an anaesthetic in most of the operations for appendicitis at Johns Hopkins Hospital, according to the statement to-day of a surgeon of national repute connected with the institution.

In an operation for appendicitis, declared the surgeon, all that is necessary is to inject lukewarm water in sufficient quantities under the skin in the vicinity of the part operated on.

While the operation is in progress the patient is said to feel no pain, and is fully conscious. The use is confined to only a few surgeons, who have learned the proper manner to inject it to get results.

TRAVERS RUSHED AWAY

Prisoner-Witness Is Hurried to Kingston But Is Back Again.

Finding Ex-Manager of Farmers' Bank Not In Toronto Jail When He Went For Him on Saturday, Detective Duncan Rushed Away to Kingston and Brought Him Back — Travers Says He Did Not Want to Go.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—Inspector of Detectives Duncan returned to the city Sunday morning with the much-moved Mr. Travers safely in tow, after the latter had been hurriedly taken to Kingston from Toronto Jail. Leaving Toronto Duncan had driven directly from the Kingston station to the penitentiary, where his man was turned over to him at 8.30 Saturday night. Travers is now again in the jail, where he was taken by Detective Armstrong, who met the train and relieved Inspector Duncan of his prisoner. Travers was given his breakfast before being taken to the Don Castle.

Adding to the present knowledge of the apparent haste and secrecy of the removal of Travers from the jail, while he was still giving evidence in the police court probe into the Farmers' Bank affair, comes his statement that when Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Severs arrived at the jail to take him to Kingston he vigorously protested that there must be some mistake and urged them, and Deputy Governor Wilson, who was present, to communicate with Inspector Duncan, Crown Attorney Corley, or at least to notify the sheriff that he was still required here as a witness, but despite the fact that more than an hour remained before the time for the leaving of his train, this was not done.

Immediately upon Inspector Duncan's arrival at the penitentiary Travers was turned over to him. He took him to the hotel and caught the train for Toronto at one o'clock yesterday morning. The train arrived in Toronto at 6.30 o'clock. Travers seemed cheerful and glad to be back. If, as is feared by many, his stay in the penitentiary, to which he has been sentenced for a term of six years, has broken his nerves, he did not show it on his arrival here, although he had spent a sleepless night sitting up in the train and looked weary. From remarks made by Travers and overheard in the train it is thought that he will now talk at least as freely as heretofore.

When Detective McKinney went to the jail shortly after eight o'clock on Saturday morning to take Travers to the City Hall to give evidence in the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors, J. R. Stratton, J. J. Warren and others, he was told that Travers had been taken away by Deputy Sheriffs John Brown and Severs, who came with an order of Sheriff Mowat to remove him to Kingston penitentiary to begin his term of six years in that institution. Detective McKinney immediately telephoned to Inspector Duncan, his principal. He was told to meet the train at the Don station and get the man, and Detective Guthrie was also rushed to that point.

Meanwhile Detectives Armstrong and Newton were hurried from headquarters to the Union Station to intercept Travers and his escort at the train, which left at eight o'clock. They arrived there just as the train was pulling out. They boarded the train and tried to recover the witness, but the deputy sheriffs would not give him up. The city officers were forced to jump from the train at Cherry street, as it did not stop at any place this side of Oshawa. Therefore the other two city men got no chance to interfere.

Inspector of Detectives Duncan was angry. He immediately notified Crown Attorney Corley and Magistrate Denison, and Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan was also on the job at the City Hall, and several councils of war were held on the spot.

Inspector of Detectives Duncan issued a statement. He said that he had been informed of numerous efforts to close Travers' mouth. These efforts originated in sources which the inspector either did not know or did not care to divulge. He declared that Travers had told him that he had been approached by a jail guard and others who had told him that the best thing he could do for himself was to keep his mouth shut.

He said that a guard had come to him while in the jail telling him that Inspector Duncan had been pulled off. Crown Attorney Corley had been pulled off, and that he was a fool to go on talking. Either this man or another had pointed out to him that he might easily antagonize those who could have it in their power to influence his release on parole, but that if he did not keep silent and went on giving information which might expose influential men, he not only would lose all chance of any parole, and be compelled to serve out his full time, but that he would be taken from the jail and further prosecuted and would get as much as twenty years in prison.

He was told, he said, that if this could not be done in the Police Court, owing to the fact that he had been given the protection of the court, it would be done by indictment before the grand jury.

Added to this, there was the rumor at the time of Travers' arrest, that it was planned to have Travers plead guilty, all the blame shouldered on him and thus have any further prosecutions balked. At this same time a rumor was current in several places that it was proposed to have Travers declared a lunatic and incarcerated in an asylum to prevent him from furnishing any further statement to the police and to discredit any facts in any statement already made.

"Travers declares to me that he never received a message while in the jail that he would be given twenty years' additional sentence if he would not keep silent about certain transactions of the Farmers' Bank. He never even told of receiving one through a guard of the jail. If I learned of such a proceeding I would immediately report the guard for suspension."

This was the statement of Rev. Dr. A. B. Chambers, governor of the jail, made last night.

Afloat on Ice.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—The heroism of a quick-witted young man named Cleveland prevented a double tragedy about one o'clock yesterday afternoon at Balmy Beach. Two young lads who had come up from Kew Beach were playing out on the ice off the Beach Club house, when a section broke off and floated out into the lake, bearing the two boys steadily away from shore.

Before Sherwood, the steward of the club house, could bring out a boat four young men started over the ice hummocks, bearing a canoe. Leaving the hummocks behind they got down on the dangerous pack ice and made their perilous way to the open water. At every step the ice was cracking beneath their feet, and at any moment they might have been precipitated into the icy water, but they heroically pushed on. By the time the open water was reached the floating floe, with its human freight, had drifted almost a half mile from the shore.

Leaving his three companions, Bert Cleveland, a young lad living at the corner of Birch and Lake Front, set out in the canoe to thread the maze of floating ice floes to their rescue. It was perilous work. Nowhere was there an open channel, and the heavy chunks of ice were battering the frail canoe from every side, but he heroically held to his task and brought them back in safety.

The names of the foolhardy boys were not ascertained.

Will Investigate Plague.

London, Feb. 20.—Dr. Reginald Farrar, medical inspector of the local Government Board, who will start on Monday for Harbin to join the international plague commission, which is to advise China as to the best means of stemming the outbreak of the plague, thinks there is little danger of the disease spreading into western Europe.

Dr. Farrar was selected as the British representative in this mission because of his wide experience with the plague in India. He points out that the period of incubation is so brief and deaths follow so quickly, the danger of the disease of being carried long distances over the Siberian railway is materially less. The possibility of the epidemic getting a foothold in Great Britain, the physician declares to be negligible.

England has not declared a quarantine against Russia, but since the outbreak in Manchuria the usual precautions in the matter of examining the ships arriving from that quarter have been taken, resulting in the detection of two or three cases.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 20.—The steamship Sloterdijk of the Holland-American line reached this port yesterday from Rotterdam with the cargo in her forward hold on fire. Tug and fire engines were called and after streams had been played upon the burning cargo for hours, the flames were extinguished at 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered at one o'clock yesterday morning, though it might have been burning a long while before its discovery, as the hatches were tightly closed. The damage to the cargo has not been ascertained.

Blaze In C.P.R. Shops.

North Bay, Feb. 20.—Fire broke out at midnight Saturday in the C.P.R. car repair shops here, doing damage to the extent of $1,000. The town and company's fire brigades, after hard work, succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames to other branches of the company's works.

Ald. John McCallum, a member of the C.P.R. fire department, while working at the fire, fell and broke his leg.

Thirteen Firemen Overcome.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Thirteen firemen were overcome by smoke in a fire in the Union Stock Yards on Saturday. While the fire itself was confined to the fourth floor of the building, fear that the blaze would be a repetition of the fire a month ago, in which 24 firemen met their death, caused the battalion chief to send in a general alarm and calls for special apparatus. The loss is $15,000.

UNIONISTS ARE WEAK

There Is a Lack of Debaters on the Front Bench.

For This Reason the Debate on the Veto Measure In the British Commons Will Be One-Sided—Lloyd-George's Health Is a Matter of Serious Concern to His Colleagues—He Is Essential at This Stage.

London, Feb. 20.—The main feature of the political situation is the apathy of the Opposition. The resistance to the Parliament bill will be strenuous, but there is no reasonable hope of prolonging the debate on the second reading beyond three days, nor of obstructing the passage of the measure through the committee stage for a longer period than ten days. The bill can be carried through the Commons early in May, without doubt, if the Government desires to take advantage of its new powers of naming the chairman of the committee. The lack of debating power on the Opposition side makes this an easy task without undue pressure of the guillotine.

The retention of the preamble may be regarded as a certainty and the introduction of the bill before the Lords before the coronation is also a foregone conclusion. The Lords cannot depend upon the King to extricate them from their critical position. They must fight their own battle, and they do not know how to meet the argument that the Parliament bill has received popular sanction and cannot be rejected.

The commonest quotation heard among the peers is the defiant exclamation of a belligerent duke: "Let five hundred puppets come. Four-fifths will be Tories within a year."

The most serious obstacle to the progress of the Ministerial plans is the condition of the Chancellor of the Exchequer's health. It has improved, but physicians have warned Mr. Lloyd-George that his voice must not be strained by persistent use, or he may be forced to retire from public life. The financial business is heavily in arrears, and the Chancellor alone can extricate the Treasury from the various complications and clear the ground for another instalment of the democratic politics outlined in the budget speech and for the introduction of disability pensions and a system of insurance against unemployment.

Otherwise, the Minister is in fine fighting form, and full of enthusiasm. Premier Asquith, by encouraging the rising men and distributing the labors of exposition and defence of the Liberal policies, has secured fresh supplies of debating power. Mr. Balfour has not brought forward any new debaters, and there is a dearth of ability in the front of the Opposition bench. The most serious complaint against the Unionist party organization is that the safe seats are taken by men who have money rather than talent, and that ambitious men of real ability are left to contest hopeless boroughs and are kept out of Parliament.

Sermon Was Prophetic.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—"When I saw Him I fell at His feet as one dead," from Revelations I., 17, was the text chosen by Rev. Dr. Mowatt, of Erskine Church for his sermon yesterday morning, the subject being "A Vision of Christ."

The choir was singing the introductory hymn to the sermon when members of the congregation noticed that their pastor was in distress. Willing arms bore him to the vestry, where he passed away immediately without recovering consciousness. Dr. Mowatt was 72 years of age, and had been in ill-health for some months. Two months ago he handed in his resignation, but was filling the pulpit pending the appointment of his successor. He came to Montreal from St. John, N.B., in 1890. Last night, Rev. Dr. Scott, who was assisting at the service in the morning, delivered the sermon Dr. Mowatt was to have preached to a tearful congregation.

A Tragic Sequel.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—There is a tragic sequel to the conviction of the Count O'Brien de Lassy for the murder of Count Vassilli Bouturlin, for which crime he was sentenced to servitude for life. His wife, who was the sister of Count Vassilli, and the daughter of Gen. Bouturlin, has become insane.

Immediately after the verdict Countess de Lassy announced her intention of going to Siberia with her husband. Then she disappeared. She was recognized yesterday in a tram car by a lawyer engaged in the case. He detained her, and with the help of the police, took her to Gen. Bouturlin. Later an examination by physicians disclosed that she had lost her mind.

Reduced Salary by $10,000.

New York, Feb. 20.—A special cable from London to The Herald says: The salary of Dublin's lord mayor-elect, Mr. John J. Farrell, a news dealer, was cut by the corporation on Saturday from $18,000 to $8,000 a year. Mr. Farrell says he will close and lock the Mansion House, will give no entertainments and will live frugally in his modest suburban home.

The Fastest Ever.

London, Feb. 20.—The Duke of Westminster is having a 15-metre racing autoboat, the Brunhilde, built at the Saunders Co.'s yards in East Cowes, which he believes will surpass the world's record, with a speed of 43 miles an hour.

She will compete at the Monaco international motorboat meeting in April.

Misunderstanding Caused Collision.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20.—Eight persons were seriously injured late on Saturday night when a passenger and freight train on the Charleroi division of the Pittsburg Railway Co. collided at Monongahela, Pa., near here. A misunderstanding of signals caused the accident.

ENGLISH BANKER'S VIEW.

Earl Grey's Son-in-Law Sees No Harm In Reciprocity.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—That Canada has secured a good bargain in the reciprocity agreement with the United States and that it will stimulate rather than check the investment of British capital in the Dominion is the opinion of A. M. Grenfell, son-in-law of Earl Grey, member of the banking firm of Chaplin, Milne, Grenfell & Co., and chairman of the Canadian agency of one of the leading Canadian bond issuing houses in London.

In a cabled message which reached here yesterday, Mr. Grenfell is quoted as giving the following interview in regard to reciprocity:

"From my recent trip to Canada, I am convinced that Canadians fully realize the progress and prosperity that have accrued to Canadian manufacturing and agricultural industries from cheap money sent out at a rate of over $150,000,000 per annum by English investors. I am confident that the first thing taken into consideration by the Canadian Ministers would be whether the reciprocity arrangement with the United States might affect securities against which these large invesments have been made.

"I believe it will prove of inestimable advantage to Canada. Great material benefits will be derived by the whole Dominion in both agricultural and manufacturing industries from the opening of American markets. The future prosperity of Canada must be largely based on the soundness of agriculture and the enhanced value of western farm lands that will result from reciprocity will mean greater security of English investors. The free and larger markets which reciprocity will open to the farmers of the west, will cause great demands for the products of the factories of the east. Canadian statesmen have taken advantage of the situation.

"It appears to me they have secured splendid terms for Canada in exchange for giving Americans what Americans could have taken for themselves at any time by simply lowering their own tariff wall without asking permission from Canada. Investors in England will speedily realize many trade advantages derived by Canada through the reciprocity agreement and will be more anxious to participate in opportunities offered by sound Canadian enterprises by investing their money at high rates of interest, while assisting in the development of the British Empire.

Two Men Badly Burned.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—George Cuff and Arthur Mitchell were very seriously burned by boiling tallow in the works of the Inter-urban Electric Co., 215 Mavety street, seventh ward, at 3 p.m. Saturday.

They were melting tallow in the cellar, and were lifting the pot out of the furnace with pinchers, when it dropped, sending a shower of scalding grease over them.

The superintendent sent a hurried call for aid to the "Junction" fire hall, and Firemen William Harsmith and Bert Spicer responded and effectively dressed the blistered men's injuries with bandages and oils, in accordance with the system inaugurated by Dr. Sheard last year, whereby every hose section is supplied with "first aid" appliances.

Dr. Gilmore later ordered the men removed to Englehart Hospital, where they were resting quietly, and will recover. He praised very highly the work of the firemen.

A New Phase.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The Long Sault dam proposition has assumed a new phase, which will be referred to in the Commons to-day by Mr. Borden. Lieut.-Governor Dix of New York State, has written Hon. W. P. Frye, chairman of the United States committee on commerce, stating that in his opinion the pending bill fails to cover properly the interests of navigation, and suggesting that before final action is taken by Congress there should be a survey of the channel and approval obtained from the Secretary of War and the Dominion.

Change sin Directorate.

Kingston, Feb. 20.—At the annual meeting of The British Whig Publishing Co., held Saturday afternoon, owing to the death of E. J. B. Pense, the late president, changes in the directorate were made. J. G. Elliott was elected president and L. A. Gould, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Elliott, who has been over thirty years in The Whig office, will continue as managing editor, and Mr. Gould, for twelve years associated with the company, will continue as business manager.

Love's Young Dream.

Windsor, Feb. 20.—Harry Pembetter, aged 13, and Esther Kaechal, aged 14, of Wharton, Ohio, presented a properly signed marriage license to Rev. S. J. Allen, a Methodist clergyman Saturday night, and were married. The pair appeared the proper age, and Mr. Allen had no hesitancy in marrying them. To the license issuer, Mrs. Davidson, they gave their ages as 17 and 19.

Their parents arrived here Sunday, looking for them.

Out-and-Out Free Trade.

Chatham, Feb. 20.—Dr. M. Clark, M.P., and Dr. Neely, M.P., addressed the Kent Liberals yesterday on reciprocity. Dr. Clark expressed himself an out-and-out free trader, and declared that the Opposition press was being paid for its editorials against reciprocity by the C. P. R. and the manufacturers.

Under fre etrade, he said, wages would increase.

They Want Our Lumber.

Boston, Feb. 20.—The Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association placed itself on record Saturday as in favor of a Canadian reciprocity agreement. Four hundred members passed resolutions which, in part, declare: "We heartily approve of any thing and everything that will tend to increase friendly and commercial relations with Canada."

EXTRA SESSION LIKELY

Senate's Immediate Business Must Precede Tariff.

Indications Are More and More That Unless Extra Pressure Can Be Brought to Bear on the Second Chamber In Congress, Reciprocity Will Have to Come Before the Newly-Elected Men.

Washington, Feb. 20.—An extra session of Congress looms very large and probable, unless President Taft and the friends of the Canadian reciprocity agreement are able to bring more than ordinary pressure to bear upon the Senate and avert the expenditure of any time whatever by the opponents of the agreement, or friends either, for that matter—it is difficult to see how the Senate can reach a vote on the subject before adjournment in two weeks time.

Ahead of the Canadian agreement for consideration by the Senate, in addition to ten general appropriation bills, are measures affecting the following subjects: Popular election of Senators; Senator Lorimer case; permanent tariff board; general age pensions; Congressional apportionment; fortification of Panama Canal.

Not one of these measures can be sidetracked without a contest. Back of each is a group of determined Senators insisting that a vote shall be taken before adjournment. Some of the measures must be left unpassed or the Canadian agreement will die. There is not time enough left for all.

So far as can be learned no Senator who has talked with President Taft has been commissioned to announce positively whether there will be an extra session in the event the Senate fails to vote on the Canadian agreement. The general opinion now seems to be that there will be an extra session, and the only Senators who are making preparations to go home after March 4 are those whose service expires on that date.

The retirement of these Senators, a number of whom have played important roles during the consideration of many tariff measures, will make quite a change, also in the political complexion of the Senate. All the states which are now in legislative deadlock over Senators to fill the vacancies at the end of the present session, the Senate, if called together to consider the Canadian agreement, will be composed of 50 Republicans and 42 Democrats.

The President believes that the Senate, as it will be constituted after March 4, would pass the bill.

The Senate committee on finance met Saturday and decided to give hearings on the McCall bill on Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday the bill will be considered in executive session, and the concensus of opinion is that it will be reported to the Senate not later than Thursday.

There is no enthusiastic advocate for the McCall bill on the Republican side of the chamber. Some Democrat may come forward as its champion, but his efforts probably would prove ineffective.

Senator Makes Amendment.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Senator Jones of Washington Saturday presented an amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill in the form of a substitute. The substitute would provide for the levying of such tariffs as are demanded by the necessary expenditures of the Government. While introduced "by request," Mr. Jones indicated that he was in favor of the proposition for the reason that the amendment would take the tariff out of politics.

Under the plan suggested, the Secretary of the Treasury at the close of the present fiscal year shall make an estimate of the amount of revenue "that should be raised from customs duties for the following fiscal year in order to meet the expenditures for that year and any deficiency of the previous year."

The Secretary also is directed to estimate the probable value of imports of articles on the dutiable list and determine what percentage the estimated revenues to be raised bears to the estimated value of the dutiable imports. It is further provided that there shall be collected for such year customs duties on all dutiable imports equal to such percentage of the value of same.

Inevitable, Says Knox.

Pittsburg, Feb. 20.—Secretary of State Knox, in an address at the Chamber of Commerce banquet here last night strongly advocated the passage of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, and deprecated the references that have been made to annexation. In part, Secretary Knox said:

"It is probably more true to-day than ever before that the sentiment and opinion in both countries is crystallized, so that the desires will lead to the most satisfactory relations between the two countries. Indeed, Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the talk of the tendency as such a thing as this leading to the absorption of the Dominion of Canada is either very silly or very malicious. In the saner atmosphere and broader aspects of the situation, it is perfectly certain that if there should be a great world movement involving this continent, Canada and the United States would act in most perfect accord. Why should we not make an arrangement such as this? It is the march of progress. It is the inevitable. It may not be done to-day, this week, this year, or in this decade, but it is just as certain as the onward march of the Anglo-Saxon race.

Too Practical.

Oh, art is long and time is fleeting,
And doubtful is the game.
For poets must subsist by eating.
Now, isn't it a shame?

Curtiess Flies Over Sea.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18.—Using one of his hydro-aeroplanes, Glenn Curtiss alighted yesterday on the water alongside the armored cruiser Pennsylvania and was hoisted on board. Soon afterwards the aeroplane was dropped back into the water and the aviator flew away to his hangar on North Island.

The test was made to show the Navy Department that an aeroplane equipped like that of Curtiss' does not need an especially constructed platform on a ship's deck to make it of practical use to the navy. The hydro-aeroplane was wheeled out of its hangar and he flew to the water alongside the cruiser. Within a few minutes Curtiss and his machine were on deck. After a delay of 15 minutes the machine and its pilot were lowered, the biplane arose gracefully from the water and without incident flew back to its hangar on North Island.

Your Money Back if You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation no matter how chronic it may be that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense if it should fail to produce staisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10c.; 36 tablets, 25 cents. CLEM ELLIS IN TOILS

Charged With Stealing From a Tyendinaga Indian Yesterday

Clem Ellis, who is well known about the city, was this morning placed under arrest, and when brought before the Magistrate, two rather serious charges were preferred against him.

The first charge was that he, Ellis, did in this city on Feb. 19th, 1911, steal $14 from one Wm. Loft.

The second charge was that Ellis did, on the 19th of February, 1911, unlawfully supply and give intoxicating liquors to one Wm. Loft, contrary to law.

To these charges Ellis pleaded not guilty, and the Magistrate enlarged the cases until to-morrow.

It appears that Loft, who is an Indian, came to this city yesterday and fell into company with Ellis. That the two were together for some time and had a meal together at a restaurant there is no doubt. Later in the day Loft was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and he claimed that he had been robbed of about $14, and emphatically stated that Ellis was the only party who was in his company. On the statements of Loft Ellis was placed under arrest. Loft, who was charged with being drunk, was also remanded to jail until to-morrow with Ellis. The latter made an effort to secure his liberty by offering bail but he was taken to jail until to-morrow.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

RECIPROCITY CONTROVERSY IS NOW IN FULL SWING

A Masonic Disavowal—Declining Railway Earnings—Rumors of More Mergers—Sending of Canadian Abroad Critized—Steel Industries are Anxious

(From our own Correspondent.)

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.— The reciprocity controversy is now in full swing throughout the land. From the Atlantic to the Pacific it is the chief topic of discussion, not only in the north but to the south of the international line, and the question has even invaded the halls of legislature of Great Britain. No doubt the storm will continue to rage around this bone of contention for some weeks yet and not until the matter is decided by the Canadian Parliament and the American Congress one way or the other, will it let up. Deputations are heading to Ottawa to oppose the agreement, while those who agree are very little heard from.

One of the weightiest announcements was made by the Montreal Board of Trade, an organization which generally gives the cue to similar bodies, at least in Eastern Canada While Montreal is the king pin of the protected interests and shouts the loudest when vested with interests are in danger, there are yet many able men who do not see eye to eye with their business brethren, and do not hesitate to say so.

STEEL INTERESTS ANXIOUS.

A great deal of interest centres around the action of the government in connection with the steel industry Steel rods are placed on the free list by the agreement and the bounty which was given to help to create it expires in June. The Dominion Steel Corporation, which is the chief industry affected, claims that with this class of their product exposed to American and other foreign competition and no bounty, it will be wiped out of existence. They want the bounty extended to enable them to get on a better footing. It was thought pretty sure that with the eastern political pressure which was brought to bear Mr. Fielding would agree to the proposal, but the matter has been decidedly complicated by the sheet steel people at Morrisburg, who went to Ottawa with a big deputation, and practically demanded that if the Dominion Steel people were given a continuance of the bounty they wanted a bounty too. Mr. Fielding's reply was not a very cheering one, but the matter is still under advisement.

NOT WORRIED BY POOR CROPS.

The farmers of Canada are not worried because the crops in certain sections of the Northwest were not up to the mark last year, if the extent of their purchase of farming implements can be taken as a guide. For instance the Sawyer Massey Co., of Hamilton Ont., shows net profits for the year of $184,721, an increase of $29,502 over the previous year, making the common stock, after allowing for the preferred, a 5.3 per cent. issue. Even at that, the output was curtailed because of delays incidental to the formation of the new company. So favorable has been the showing of this company, by the way, that arrangements have been made to list the stocks on the Toronto exchange. The preferred selling at 87 returns 8.04 per cent., and has a particularly bright future as there are no bonds ahead of it and the assets amount to more than $150 for every $100 of preferred stock. The common stock has a book value of $50, but apparently it will be selling soon at a higher level. There is every reason to believe that 1911 will be a favorable year for the makers of farming utilities and that the holders of industrial stocks generally will profit accordingly.

A MASONIC DISAVOWAL.

The Masonic Grand Lodge of the Province of Quebec is holding the annual session here and the opportunity has been seized to make a formal disavowal of any connection with the Grand Lodge of the Orient, the French organization, whose members in this city, members of Emancipation Lodge are just getting setled down after a stir which commenced last summer prior to the Eucharistic Congress and lasted several months. Antagonism to the Roman Catholic church is a specialty of the French organization while quite quite the reverse is the case with the English Freemasonry. They do not want to be mixed up with such a crowd and do not hesitate to say so In the meantime the Roman Catholic church authorities make no distinction.

EARNINGS DOWN, STOCK UP.

The rather unusual spectacle has been presented of a rather sharp decline in the approximate earnings of the C. P. R. during January, due doubtless to the smaller crop last season, while the price of the stock in the market is going up, and everybody seems bullish. The rise is also the more remarkable in face of the prophecies of dire disaster if the reciprocity agreement goes through, one of those to be hardest hit being the Canadian Pacific. The newspapers favoring reciprocity naturally ask how this can be in view of the fact that much has been said of scaring British capital away by the agreement while it is well known that the price of Canadian Pacific stock is practically fixed and controlled by the London market. If the business of the company was likely to be utterly destroyed as suggested, they think the stock would not advance in the face of such a prospect The heaviest decline in earnings shown yet this year was for the first week in February, the decrease being $278,000 compared with a year ago The maximum earning capacity of the company is reached in October and the minimum comes in February. It has to be remembered that this year's records are being compared with a banner year and some further expansion will have to take place before the records created in 1910 can be beaten In the meantime the company announces its intention of invading a new field by running steamships to the West Indies and creating a link of hotels.

MERGERITIS RUM MAD.

There seems to be no limit to the number of mergers of a commercial character and apparently the thing will only stop when the supply of business concerlns to be merged is exhausted. Ambitious promoters have been in very great evidence for months and apparently the stock buying public is pretty well loaded with their wares and may have considerable difficulty in absorbing any more. In the meantime a fresh crop of millionaires is being created, for the business pays very well and those who make the greatest success in this line of business are in great demand and are making money fast.

D. Lorne McGibbon, one of the younger and most recent acquisitions to the ranks of those who have to count their fortunes not lower than in seven figures, only a few days ago bought two of the biggest boot and shoe plants in the country for the purpose of running them under one management and specializing in the production of the factories. He is said to have put up a matter of four millions in connection with the deal

There are also rumors of a deal which will bring the River St. Lawrence and Great Lakes steamship companies under one title, but nothing definite appears to have been arrived at yet. Still another merger talked about is the combination of the big wholesale hardware companies in Montreal but the head of one of the firms involved states that this has been talked about periodically for three years but has never come to anything yet. Bank mergers and pulp mills also figure in the merger proposals.

CANADIAN CAPITAL ABROAD.

While Canada is seeking fresh capital abroad and is getting it in large quantities from England and France, Canadian banks and financiers are backing heavily traction, power and other enterprises in foreign countries more particularly Mexico and South American Republics to say nothing of the concerns in the United States which is using a lot of Canadian capital. Mr. Rodolphe Forget M.P. thinks this is all wrong and voices his sentiment in the course of reasons why another bank would be a good thing in Canada. He thinks there are lots o good propositions at home and that Canadians should have faith enough in their own country to put their money in them instead of expecting outsiders to do it while they go off to some other place with their capital.

The Bank Mr. Forget is organizing is the Banque Generale du Canada but the word "Generale" will be dropped if a charter can be secured for one designated the Bank of Canada. Its capital will be $10,000,000 and of this amount the promoter states the French capitalists are willing to put up $7,500,000 and Canadians the balance. Mr. Forget leads the public to believe that his new bank will set the other banks a good example and that as a result there will not be such an outcry about the tight money market in future.

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

met the Nana he treated her with more apparent friendliness. She recoiled from his advances as she might shrink from a venomous snake.

Fortunately there were others in Bithoor who understood the Brahmin's motives, and saw therein the germ of failure for their own plans. Nana Sahib was an exceedingly important factor in the success of the scheme that meditated the re-establishment of the Mogul dynasty. Recognized by the Mahrattas, the great warlike race of western India, as their leader, looked on as the pivot of Hindu support to the Mohammedan monarchy, it was absolutely essential that he should captain the rebel garrison of Cawnpore in a triumphant march to Delhi. For that reason a marriage distasteful to both had already been arranged between him and the Roshinara Begum. For that reason he had travelled to many centers of disaffection during the months of March and April, winning doubtful Hindu princes to the side of Bahadur Shah by his tact and ready diplomacy. For that reason, too, the native officers of the first regiments in revolt at Cawnpore made him swear, even at the twelfth hour, that he would lead them to Delhi.

His unforeseen infatuation for an Englishwoman might upset the carefully-laid plot. Under other conditions a dose of poison would have removed poor Winifred from the scene, but that simple expedient was not to be thought of, as the Nana's vengeful disposition was sufficiently well known to his associates to make them fear the outcome. Therefore they left nothing to chance, and actually brought the Princess Roshinara post haste from the north, believing that her presence would insure the inconstant wooer's return with her at the right moment.

While the majority pulled in one way there was an active minority that wished the Nana to set up an independent kingdom. His nephew and his Mohammedan friend, Azimullah, were convinced that their faction would lose all influence as soon as their chief was swallowed up in the maelstrom of the Imperial court. If Winifred supplied the spell that kept the Nana at Bithoor, they were quite content that it should be allowed to exercise its power.

Hence, Malcolm's arrival gave the Begum a chance that her quick wit seized upon. Why not, she argued, connive at the Englishwoman's escape, and let it become known that she had fled back to Meerut? When the Nana returned from Cawnpore, flushed with wine and conquest, this should be the first news that greeted him, and his amorous rage would go hand in hand with the other considerations that urged his immediate departure for the Mogul capital. That was not the device of a woman who loved—it savored rather of the cool state-craft of a Lucrezia Borgia.

No more curious mixture of plot and counterplot than this minor chapter of the Bithoor romance came to light during that disastrous upheaval in India. Never did events of the utmost magnitude hinge on incidents so trivial to the community at large. A truculent thief like Abdul Huq was able to defeat the intent of a king's daughter, and a couple of alert troopers, riding to a bluff overlooking the river, could report that they saw the budgerow on which the sahib-log escaped drifting down stream towards Cawnpore! Thus the intrigue miscarried twice. Winifred was free; the clear inference to be drawn from the boat's course was that her uncle and Malcolm would bring her straight to the protection of their friends in the cantonment.

There was a scene of violence, nearly culminating in murder, when Nana Sahib came to Bithoor at dawn. He met the scorn of Roshinara with a furious insolence that stopped short of bloodshed only on account of the prudence still governing most of his actions. Not yet was he drunk with power. That madness was soon to obsess him. But he lent a willing ear to the counsels of Rao Sahib and Azim-ullah. Soon after daybreak he galloped to Kullanpur, on the road to Delhi, whither some thousands of sepoys had already gone, and harangued them eloquently on the glory, not to speak of the loot, they would acquire by attacking the accursed English at Cawnpore.

They were easily swayed. Acclaiming the Nana as a prince worthy of obedience they marched after him, and thus sealed the doom of many hundreds of unhappy beings who thought until that moment they would be spared the dreadful fate that had befallen other stations.

Oddly enough, the high-born Brahmin who now saw his hopes of regal power in a fair way towards realization placed one act of soldierly courtesy to his credit before he made his name a synonym for al that is base and despicable in the conduct of warfare. He wrote a letter to Sir Hugh Wheeler warning the gallant old general that he might expect to be attacked forthwith. Perhaps it is straining a point to credit him with any sense of fair play. The letter may have been a last flicker of respect for the power of Britain, and inspired by a haunting fear of the consequences if the Mutiny failed. It is probable he wished to provide written proof of a plea that he was an unwilling agent in the clutch of a mutinous army. However that may be, he wrote, and never did letter carry more bitter disappointment to a Christian community.

Sir Hugh Wheeler having decided, most unfortunately as it happened, against occupying the strongly-built magazine on the river bank as a refuge, had constructed a flimsy entrenchment on a level plain close to the native lines. He was sure the sepoys would revolt, but he believed they would hurry off to Delhi, and he refused to give them an excuse for rebellion by seizing the magazine. Towards the end of May he wrote to Henry Lawrence at Lucknow for help, and Lawrence generously sent him fifty men of the 32nd and half a battery of guns, though even this small force could ill be spared from the capital of Oudh. Sir Hugh made the further mistake of crediting Nana Sahib's professions of loyalty. He actually entrusted the Treasury to the protection of the Nana's retainers, in spite of Lawrence's plainly-worded warning that the Brahmin's recent movements placed him under grave suspicion.

Nevertheless, Wheeler acted with method. His judgment was clear, if occasionally mistaken, and he had every reason to believe that the only attacks he would be called on to repel would be made by the bazaar mob.

On the night of June 4th, the thousand men, women and children who had gathered behind the four-foot mud wall that formed the entrenchment were left unmolested by the mutineers. During the 5th they watched the destruction of their bungalows, and knew that the rebels were plundering the city, robbing rich native merchants quite as readily as they killed any Europeans who were not under Wheeler's charge. Late that day came Nana Sahib's letter. It was a bitter disappointment, but "the valiant never taste death but once," and the Britons in Cawnpore resolved to teach the mutineers that the men who had conquered them many times in the field could repeat the lesson again and again.

About ten o'clock on the morning of the 6th, flames rising from houses near at hand gave evidence of the ap-

NATURE WILL CURE YOU

Of Kidney Disease, Aided by Father Morriscy's No. 7.

Kidney trouble is one of the most distressing ailments of mankind, and leads to backache and rheumatism. This is because of the importance of the work done by the kidneys,—work which must proceed normally to insure good health.

A very large proportion of civilized people have some form of kidney trouble, sometimes without knowing that their malady is of that nature. Many obscure pains can often be traced to diseased kidneys.

These organs are the filters of the body. Their function is to strain out of the blood and eliminate through the bladder the worn out tissue and other impurities gathered by the blood in its course.

When the kidneys become congested and sluggish, these impurities, including the irritating and poisonous uric acid, are not entirely removed from the blood. The result is that the uric acid is deposited in the joints and tissues, causing the agonies of rheumatism and frequently affecting the liver and other organs.

Father Morriscy, the famous priest-physician of Bartibogue, N.B., after much research compounded a remedy which worked hand in hand with Nature. His doctrine, justified by thousands of cures, was that the need is not a patchwork relief, but a treatment that will enable the forces of Nature, working through the kidneys, to accomplish their intended work.

His famous prescription, No. 7, assists the kidneys to work vigorously and eliminate the harmful uric acid from the whole system. In the form of tablets, No. 7 is easy to take, and will effect cures where other remedies have failed. Do not trifle with kidney disease, but take No. 7 Tablets, the treatment that has proved so successful with other sufferers.

TERRIBLE HARDSHIPS

Mail Carriers Were Overtaken by a Blizzard in Peace River County

PEACE RIVER CROSSING, Alta., Feb. 20.—A story of hardship in which two men, carrying mails to northern posts, endured terrible privations and narrowly escaped losing their lives, was learned when two mail carriers, named McLean, 17 and 20 years old respectively, staggered in the postoffice at Fort Vermilion, one with his feet badly frozen and the other in a serious condition.

The mail for Vermillion left here on January 2 in charge of the two brothers, who were well equipped for their long journey, having excellent dog teams and an abundance of provisions and carrying six hundred pounds of mail. When about 100 miles out they were overtaken by one of the most severe blizzards which has swept the country in years, and so intense became the cold that the huskies' paws began to freeze, making the going exceedingly slow.

Their dog feed and provisions began to run low, and within 30 miles of their next stopping place the younger of the two volunteered to go ahead and secure provisions and then return and meet his brother. He succeeded in making the cache without difficulty, but on the return journey, not meeting his brother as soon as expected, was compelled to camp out for the night. Having no axe or blanket with him, his feet and hands were badly frozen before he managed to start a fire. With the break of dawn, however, he again hit the trail, and eventually met his brother. During the next few hours his feet became so painful from frost that the elder brother placed the young man on the sled, after unloading some of the mail, and a rigorous trip brought them to the fort, having been 21 days on the trail, which it usually takes eight days to cover.

GREAT CONTEST GATHERING HEADWAY WITH EACH DAY

Candidates are Taking Advantage of the Bonus Vote Offer—The Special Prize is Likewise Bringing out a Deluge of Votes--Saturday Night 8.30 P. M. Large Bonus Vote and Special Prize Period Closes—Make the Few Remaining Days Count—Miss Estella Eustace Takes Lead in District No 1—Miss Louise Shorey Continues to Hold First Place in District 2

All the candidates in The Intelligence's great contest are exerting every effort to win the handsome special prizes. To-day finds numerous changes in the list. Many thousand votes have been cast since Saturday and many are forging nearer and nearer the front. Indications are that the contest news will be exceedingly interesting from now on until the close of the race. Ever since the beginning of the contest some of the candidates have employed a great deal of strategy in handling the balloting and many surprises may be expected shortly.

Nearly every day some candidate who has been at the starting point comes up with a few thousand votes and takes her place among the possible winners.

That winning ways are to be on an equal footing with wits is evidenced by the fact that many of the young ladies are making effective use of their business experience. Many and varied plans for bringing in the votes are being tried with good success.

There are a few, however, who are not yet imbued with the enthusiasm that makes winners, and to these the contest manager wishes to offer a bit of advice. It is this: Don't fail to take advantage of a single opportunity to advertise the fact among your friends that you are in the race, and IN TO WIN.

They are only waiting to be convinced of this, and when they see that you are in earnest they will rally to your colors with a celerity that will surprise you. So have confidence in yourself and your ability to win. A good start and the race is half over, with your in the lead.

FOR HER MOTHER

Toronto Girl, Fearing She Would Become a Burden, Took Acid

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Last night, not long after the twilight had fallen, making brighter by contrast the light and happiness in thousands of Toronto homes, there turned into a grey lane on Portland street the ominous black hospital wagon, the sight of which strikes a chill to the heart.

In it lay the body of a girl of 21—a girl who had found life too hard, who, ill and discouraged, had taken the disposal of that life in her own hands.

She was Millie Tomlinson, daughter of a widow who lives in the rear of 7 Portland St. For some time the girl had been a semi-invalid, tortured with a spinal disease. She had not been able to work, and had been cared for and shielded in every possible way by the mother and a brother who loved her tenderly.

It was, perhaps, the thought of her comparative helplessness, her dependence on her dear ones, the fear that she might become a still greater burden to her mother, that caused her act

In the morning yesterday she wrote several letters to relatives and friends About noon a young girl, named Minnie Foot, who happende to be in the house, heard groans from Miss Tomlinson's room. Rushing in she found Millie lying on the floor. Beside her was a bottle which had contained carbolic acid. She had swallowed three ounces.

There was no delay in calling up Dr. McCulloch, of Spadina Avenue He was, however, not at home, but it was decided to send Millie, who was suffering intense agony, to the Western Hospital.

Happily, soon after being admitted at one o'clock, the poor girl became unconscious, and remained so until her death, which took place a little after seven in the evening.

The body was not taken to the morgue, but was removed at once to the humble home where the mother waited hoping for good news from the daughter who was dear to her.

There the mortal remains of the daughter lie to-day, the lips unanswering, the eyes unheeding, the sorrow of those left behind.

"She was a good girl," said a friend at the door of the cottage this morning "Always so quiet, so gentle, always a Christian girl, and a church-goer Yes she came home last night."

JACK LONDON JUGGED FOR MEXICAN RAID

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Jack London, author and Socialist, and Simen don, author and Socialist, and Simon ond in command of the insurgent forces in lower California, are in the custody of the United States troops at Calexico, charged with violation of the neutrality laws. Word to that effect was received by A. I. McCormick U. S. District Attorney, from Captain Babcock, U. S. A., in charge of a patrol at Calexico last night. Definite information could not be obtained but reports that the two men are in custody are persistent. McCormick and Leo Youngworth, U. S. Marshall left for Calexico at 11.15 last night, via. the Southern Pacific. They were summoned by telegraph, the summons coming form Captain Conrad Babcock in command of the Federal forces at Calexico.

It is surmised that the problem presented by the capture of the two men proved too much for Captain Babcock and that he called the nearest representatives of the United States Attorney-General and his court machinery to Calexico to obtain light on his rights, and those of the prisoners."

"One of the prisoners is wounded," said McCormick, last night. "I really know nothing of the circumstances surrounding the capture of these men, except that I have been requested to go there immediately with Youngworth It would seem that some legal question is involved in the arrests, and the men are evidently leaders of the insurgents."

It has been known here for some time that London has been interested in the revolutionary cause.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

Traver's journey to Kingston and back was not exactly a joy ride.

Mild weather this winter is like the Irishman's flea. Just when you put your finger on it, it isn't there.

Many young ladies in the city and country are working harder than ever before in their lives, but not without expectation of fee or reward. It is in The Intelligencer's great popularity contest that they are thus exerting themselves.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture estimates the population of the province at 2,289,000, against 2,183,000 in 1901. It will be interesting to see how these figures compare with these of the Dominion census. The older provinces, of curse, cannot hope to keep up with the West in growth of population. Toronto's new directory claims for that city a population of 424,057; the area is now 28 square miles. The Department of Agriculture estimates that the output of the Ontario farms has increased $50,000,000 in six years.

Give the people of Canada a square deal, Sir Wilfrid. Let the people pronounce on your proposed tariff bargain by means of a general election.

The City Council took the first step last night towards a judicial investigation into the sale of city lots but it was a very short one.

The offer of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of the Grand Junction wharf in lieu of pecuniary consideration for the removal of their roundhouse and shops from the city ought in our opinion, to be accepted without hesitation. Belleville's greatest need in the near future, consequent upon three railways centreing here and the deepening of the Murray Canal, and the Bay of Quinte, will be a deep water wharf, and this can be provided for in no other way so cheaply as by the use of this old "Grand Junction" dock, at it is popularly called. The offer of the company, too, to assist in inducing the Government in building the proposed wharf, is worth a great deal. If the proposal is rejected, those who do so will live to regret their action, unless their departure from this mundane sphere takes place at a very early date.

The proposal of Messrs. Marsh & Henthorn to enlarge their industry and erect additional buildings for that purpose is one which is deserving of liberal consideration, providing the necessary guarantees which are usual in such cases be given.

THE GOSPEL OF PEACE

Canada Will Have the Honor of Spreading it, Says the Rev Dr. Tryon

That Canada is destined to take a prominent part in spreading the gospel of peace in the world was the opinion expressed last evening in the Baptist Church by Rev. Dr. James L. Tryon, Assistant Secretary of the American Peace Society of Boston. Dr. Tyron took as his text," The World's Peace Movement, or the Successes of The Hague Idea."

In the first place, he said, the peace tribunal by the intervention of friendly powers brought on a period of mediation, in which belligerent nations were often induced to come to peaceful terms. He commended in The Hague peace idea the international commissions of inquiry, the successful working of which was illustrated by the North Sea incident; the reference of international disputes to a board of judges, such as settled the fishery question between the United States and Great Britain, and lastly, the World Congress, which is seen to have its beginning already established in the periodic meetings of The Hague conference.

In the course of his address Dr. Tyron drew frequently upon events in the international history of Great Britain. He paid a high tribute to Prince Albert, who in correcting the despatch which the British Government had prepared to send to the United States with regard to the Trent affair had probably averted war between the two nations. He also told the dramatic story of the arbitration between Chili and Argentina, which is commemorated by a statue known as "The Christ of the Andes." "In this connection," he said, "the question was referred to the man who has borne the peerless title of all the rulers of the world, King Edward the Peacemaker."

In closing, Dr. Tryon expressed the opinion that Canada with her spotless record as to war, with her examples of success in a constitutional manner, was destined to lead the nations into the pathways of peace.

There was a good attendance and Mr. C. M. Reid presided.

A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. D. V. Sinclair and seconded by Rev. C. G. Smith, was passed.

MISSIONARY OFFICIALS WERE ENTERTAINED

Banquet in Honor of the Visitors—Interesting Addresses by Several Speakers—Missions Develop the Spirituality of Our Make-up—Business Methods in Religion—Work of the Medical Missionaries--Other Appropriate Themes

One of the most pleasing functions of the year, so far, was the Laymen's Missionary Banquet tendered by the Church of England branch of the Laymen's Missionary movement in this cit, to Rev. Dr. Gould, Gen.-Sec., C. C. M. S. and Mr. R. W. Allen, M.A., Sec., C. C. L. M. A., last evening in Wallace's restaurant.

The guests assembled at 6.30 at the restaurant and Host Wallace had a very tempting repast prepared. After the many good things were partaken of the chairman of the local branch, Mr. John Elliott, called the meeting to order. He said he was never prouder in his life than he was last evening when standing before the assembled guests. After a few complimentary remarks directed principally to Rev. G. R. Beamish, he called on the first speaker:

MR. ALLEN, M.A.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Allen stated that since his visit here a year ago he had been looking forward to just such a meeting as he now had the pleasure of addressing. He stated that the meeting was only one of a large series of meetings of the same kind being held all over the Dominion. The Church of England is waking up, he said, the laymen are beginning to realize that there is really something in the missionary work. He quoted the passage of Scripture which reads: "He that will save his life shall lose it, but him that loseth his life for My sake shall find it."

Power generated and not transmitted is a dead loss. It is the power that is transmitted that counts. If we are to receive spiritual blessings, we must exercise our spiritual beings. It is nonsensical to think of becoming spiritually a great man without exercising our spiritual facilities. In the realm of missions lies the finest opportunity of developing the spiritual part of our make up. There are two phases to every business, i. e., the centre of operations and the branching out. The same two phases existed in the missionary work. Men are beginning to realize that it is not irreligious to introduce business methods into religion. In order to get the best results out of the missionary work it was necessary that those in charge should have a definite knowledge of the work in hand; if a man is to get the most out of life he must have a definite object ahead of him. The same idea is applicable to missions. It is necessary to study the situation so as to devise the system that will produce the best results. The speaker claimed that the duplex envelope of weekly giving was the best system yet devised, and he was pleased to find that the parishes in Belleville had adopted this system of giving for missions. There was no individual too poor to give even a small amount. Christ was not ashamed of the widow's mite. He concluded a very earnest address by expressing the hope that the men would rise to still greater efforts in the future.

REV. DR. GOULD.

In rising to speak, Dr. Gould referred to the former speaker's theme of transmission. Without wishing to appear egotistical, he said that the life he was following, that of a medical missionary, was unequalled for possibilities for doing good.

He related a number of his own personal experiences in the Far East. He wanted to state, he said, that he had but one object in view in his work, that of the extension of the kingdom of Christ. He also related several narratives showing the different aspects of the Mohammedan religion, which he said was the religion which was held up by many as a rival of Christianity. Mohammedanism, the speaker said, was the greatest curse that has ever fallen on civilization.

He contended that the Mohammedan religion was the greatest foe to Christianity. The only direct result of the new constitution in Turkey has been that the Turks are to-day spending two-thirds of their total revenue on their army. He also claimed that the world is in danger of one of the greatest conflagrations in history. Historians, he said, point out great turning points in the world's history. In the distant future, historians would look back on this period as one of the most important in the world's history—the period when men awoke to the true conception of the relationship and responsibility to God and their fellow men.

RURAL DEAN BEAMISH.

Rev. G. R. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, in a few well chosen words moved that a very hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the speakers for their very excellent addresses. This motion was ably seconded by Mr. Walter Alford.

The chairman put the motion, which was carried by a standing vote.

The meeting was brought to a close by Rev. Mr. Blagrave pronouncing the benediction.

FARMERS BANK CASE CONTINUED TODAY

Important Testimony by Mr. Charles, Former Manager—Travers on Cause of Failure—Blamed the Bankers' Association

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 21.—The case against Stratton and Warren in connection with the Trust & Guarantee Co.'s dealings with the Farmers' Bank was continued this morning.

The examination of Hugh Charles, former manager of the bank, commenced at Peterborough, went to show that, inconversation with Mr. that the Trust Company held as security for an $80,000 loan to the Farmers' Bank "everything the Farmers' Bank had, including the Farmers' notes." Mr. Charles thought that Mr. Straton must have known that the money was raised on notes of subscribers.

Liberals Oppose the Pact

The following declaration of prominent Liberals, who prefer country to party, in opposition to the ratification of the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States, will be read with general interest and will have great weight in the country:

"1. Because in the year 1897 the Parliament of Canada repealed the legislation then existing relating to reciprocity, and since such repeal neither the people of Canada nor their Parliament have entrusted the Government with any duty or authority to negotiate with respect to any agreement on the subject.

"2. Because the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of the policy which has been pursued in the development of her trade and of her natural resources. Because this has involved the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars upon railways, canals, steamships and other means of transportation between East and West and West and East, and the obligation to incur further great expenditures for the same purpose; and because further development along the same lines would be seriously checked by the proposed reciprocity agreement and the benefits of the expenditures referred to would be to a great extent lost.

"3. Because it is essential to the continued national unity and development of Canada that no trade relations with any country should be agreed to by Canada on any basis which would check the growth and development of trade between the various parts of Canada with each other, or between Canada and the various parts of the Empire; and because the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States of America would seriously check the growth and development of this trade.

"4. Because any present benefit to any sectionof Canada or to any interests or individuals therein which might accrue from the proposed agreement would be more than offset by the loss and injury which would accrue to other sections and interests and individuals, and because the result to Canada as a whole would be greatly injurious.

"5. Because as a result of the proposed agreement the freedom of action possessed by Canada with reference to her tariffs and channels of trade would be greatly curtailed, and she would be hampered in developing her own resources in her own way and by her own people.

"6. Because after some years of reciprocity under the proposed agreement the channels of Canada's trade would have become so changed that a termination of the agreement and a return by the United States to a protective tariff as against Canada would become a disturbance of trade to an unparalleled extent, and because the risk of this should not be voluntarily undertaken by Canada.

". Because to avoid such a disruption Canada would be forced to extend the scope of the agreement so as to include manufactures and other things.

"8. Because the agreement as proposed would weaken the ties which bind Canada to the Empire, and because the unrestricted reciprocity which would naturally follow would still further weaken those ties and make it more difficult to avert political union with the United States.

"9. Because the disruption in the channels of Canada's trade which was caused by the termination of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 and the subsequent establishment of a protective taiff by the United States gave rise to a decided leaning in many minds towards annexation with the United States, and this at a time when Canada was mainly peopled by native-born Canadians and other British subjects to whom the prospect of annexation was most unwelcome, and because Canada in a comparatively few years will have millions of newcomers, a large percentage of whom will have come from foreign countries, and because if Canada should then have to choose between disruption of her channels of trade with the United States or political union with them the preservation of Canadian autonomy and Canadian nationality would be enormously more difficult.

"10. Believing as we do that Canadian nationality is now threatened with a more serious blow than any it has heretofore met with, and that all Canadians who place the interests of Canada before those of any party or section or individuals therein should at this crisis state their views openly and fearlessly, we, who have hitherto supported the Liberal Party in Canada, subscribe to this statement."

FREAKS OF NATURE.

Two Queer Rock Formations on the Island of St. Helena.

There are at least two queer freaks of nature on the island of St. Helena—or, rather, four, for one of them is a group of three figures—known the world over as the "Devil's Nose" and "Lot and His Daughters." Any one who is able to study the island as it is and not run wild over the Napoleonic legends which have clustered about that "seabound rock" since the days when the "Little Corporal" was housed there in his living grave will find much that will repay for investigation, time and study.

The queerest of the natural formations are the oddities above alluded to. The first of these imitative forms is a rocky promontory which has been known by names which signify Old Nick's nasal projection since May 22, 1502, when Juan Castella and his men sighted the island just in time to see the devil disappear beneath the waves in the best harbor, leaving his nose as a reminder of what might happen should the venturesome Spaniard seek to take possession of his Satanic majesty's favorite haunts.

"Lot and His Daughters" are three conical rocks which can only be conjured into representing a man and two women by a strong play of the imagination. According to the views of some writers they are weather worn statues of colossal size, probably the work of some aborigines of the island. Their gigantic size, however, would seem to preclude this idea. When or by whom they were dubbed "Lot and His Daughters" no authority has ventured to say.

CONJURING BIRDS.

Trick Sparrows of Hongkong and One of Their Feats.

The famous Chinese conjuring birds are Java sparrows. At street corners in Hongkong sedate old Chinese may be seen putting the birds through their tricks for the benefit of strangers.

Each birdcage has a sliding door, and just outside this is a pack of little cardcases, each containing a picture and a small pot holding half a dozen grains of rice.

When the stranger, pursuant to the suggestion of the owner, hands over the necessary coin this is placed with the pack of cards at the cage door. Then the owner will undo the fastening of the door. The bird, eying the coin, then the cards, then the coin again, as if he thought his performance too cheaply valued, descends from his perch, opens the door with his beak, hops outside, draws a card from the pack and passes it to his master. He receives in reward one grain of rice.

The man takes the little picture from the case received from the bird and hands it to the stranger to inspect. He then returns it to the case, accompanied by the tiniest flat slip of bamboo, and shuffles the case up with the rest of the pack. The bird descends and selects a case, and the stranger opens it, to find the identical one containing the bamboo.

How can this be accounted for? The only possible way of explaining is that the bamboo slip is slightly scented.—Exchange.

Rough on the Pianos.

Once in the company of President Diaz I spent a few nights in the Mexican earthquake zone as the guest of the governor of the state. As a measure of precaution the plaster ceilings of our sleeping rooms had been replaced with strips of matched boarding. "If a trembler should come in the night, senor," remarked my host as he was bidding me good night, "wait for nothing, but make straight for the patio. I think these boards will hold until you get from under cover." And that evening, when I took the governor's wife out to dinner, she had remarked sadly: "We are so benighted here in the hot lands. It is impossible even to have music, for no sooner do I have my grand piano tuned than an earthquake comes along and tips it over."—E. Alexander Powell, F. R. G. S., in Everybody's.

Origin of the Opera.

The opera, like nearly everything else interesting in the world of mind, had its origin in ancient Athens. The earliest librettos were by Sophocles and Aeschylus, such as the "Abamemnon" and "Antigone," a band of flutes and lyres constituting the orchestra, the dialogues being musically declaimed and the choruses sung to the best music of the time. Thus do we have the germ of all later developments in the line of opera.—Exchange.

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Belwell, of 337 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me.

"When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief.

"The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand.

"We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to a less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleaned, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, cuts, scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, rashes, tetter, salt rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, varicose veins, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c a box, all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for postage of free trial box. Refuse all imitations.

Love's Young Dream.

Windsor, Feb. 20.—Harry Pembetter, aged 13, and Esther Kaechal, aged 14, of Wharton, Ohio, presented a properly signed marriage license to Rev. S. J. Allen, a Methodist clergyman Saturday night, and were married. The pair appeared the proper age, and Mr. Allen had no hesitancy in marrying them. To the license issuer, Mrs. Davidson, they gave their ages as 17 and 19.

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

proach of the rebels. Irregular spurts of musketry heralded the appearance of confused masses of armed men. A cannon-ball crashed through the mud wall and bounded across the enclosure. A bugle sounded shrilly and the defenders ran to their posts. The wailing of women and the cries of frightened children helpless creatures only half protected by two barracks situated in the southern corner of the entrenchment, mingled with the din of the answering guns, and in that fatal hour the siege of Cawnpore began.

In the tear-stained story of humanity there has never been aught to surpass the thrilling record of Cawnpore. It contains every element of heroism and tragedy. Four hundred English soldiers, seventy of whom were invalids, with a few dozens of civilians and faithful sepoys—standing behind a breast-high fortification that would not stop a bullet—exposed to the fierce rays of an Indian sun—ill-fed, almost waterless, and driven to numb despair by the sufferings of their loved ones—these men, enduring all and daring all, held at bay four thousand well-armed, well-housed and well-fed troops for twenty-one days.

Not for a moment was the strain relaxed. Day and night the rebels poured into the entrenchment a ceaseless hail of iron and lead. Cannon-balls, solid and red-hot, shells with carefully arranged time fuses, and bullets from those self-same cartridges that the superfine feelings of Brahmin soldiers forbade them to touch, were hurled at the hapless garrison from all quarters. In the first week every gunner in the place was killed or wounded. Women and children were shot as though they were in the front line of defense. No corner was safe from the enemy's fire. Every human being behind that absurdly inadequate wall was exposed to constant and equal danger.

Here is an extract from Holmes's history:

"A private was walking with his wife when a single bullet killed him, broke both her arms, and wounded an infant she was carrying. An officer was talking with a comrade at the main guard when a musket-ball struck him; and, as he was limping painfully to the barracks to have his wound dressed, Lieutenant Mowbray-Thomson of the 56th, who was supporting him, was struck also, and both fell helplessly to the ground. Presently, as Thomson lay woefully sick of his wound, another officer came to condole with him, and he too received a wound from which he died before the end of the siege. Young Godfrey Wheeler, a son of the General, was lying wounded in one of the barracks when a round shot crashed through the walls of the room and carried off his head in the sight of his mother and sisters. Little children, straggling outside the wall, were deliberately shot down."

On the night of June the 11th a red-hot cannon-ball set fire to one of the barracks which was used as a hospital. The flames inspired the enemy's gunners to fresh efforts and provided them with an excellent target, yet the garrison dared all perils of gun-fire and falling rafters and masonry, while they rescued the inmates. It is on record that the gallant men of the 32nd, when the flames had subsided, though a heavy fusillade was still kept up by the rebels were seen raking the ashes in order to find their lost medals, the medals they had won in the deadly fighting that preceded the fall of Sevastopol.

On the next day the sepoy army, though so boastful and vainglorious, dared to make their first attempt to carry the entrenchment by assault. By one bold charge they must have crushed the defenders, if by sheer weight of numbers alone. They advanced, with fiendish yells and much seeming confidence. But they could not face those stern warriors who lined the shattered wall. After a short but fierce struggle they fled, leaving the plain littered with corpses.

So the safer bombardment was renewed, its fury envenomed by the conscious disparity of the besiegers when they tried to press home the attack. Each day the garrison dwindled; each day the rebels received fresh accessions of strength. Of the few guns mounted in the British position, one had lost its muzzle, another was thrown from its carriage and two were so battered by the enemy's artillery that they could not be used. The hospital fire had destroyed all the surgical instruments and medical stores, so the wounded had to lie waiting for death, while those who still bore arms eked out existence on a daily dole of a handful of flour and a few ounces of split peas.

Yet the men of Cawnpore fought on, while their wives and sisters and daughters helped uncomplainingly, making up packets of ammunition, loading rifles for the men to fire, and even giving their stockings to the gunners to provide cases for grape-shot.

There was only one well inside the entrenchment. Knowing its paramount importance, the rebels mounted guns in such wise that a constant fire could be kept up throughout the night on that special point. Yet there never was lacking a volunteer, either man or woman, to go to that well and obtain the precious water. It remains to this day a mournful relic of the siege, with its broken gear and shattered circular wall, while the indentations made by such of the cannon balls as failed to dislodge the masonry are plain to be seen.

The sepoys spared none. Tiny children, tottering to the well in broad daylight, were pelted with musketry. Conceivably that might be war. When beleagured people will not yield humanity must stand aside and weep. There was a deed to come that was not war, but the black horror of abomination, worthy of the excesses of a man-eating tiger, though shorn of the tiger's excuse that he kills in order that he may live. The well in the entrenchment was the Well of Life. There was another well in Cawnpore destined to be the Well of Death.

If proof were needed of the extraordinary condition of India during the early period of the Mutiny, it was given by an incident that occurred soon after the first assault was beaten off. In broad daylight, while the garrison were maintaining the unceasing duel of cannon and small arms, they were astounded by the spectacle of a British officer galloping across the plain. He was fired at by the sepoys, of course, but horse and man escaped untouched and the low barrier was leaped without effort. The newcomer was Lieutenant Bolton of the 7th Cavalry. Sent out from Lucknow on district duty he was suddenly deserted by his men, and he rode alone towards Cawnpore, the nearest British station. Unhappily the story of that adventurous ride is lost for ever. Poor Bolton supplied Cawnpore's last reinforcement.

Sir Hugh Wheeler, ably seconded in the defense by Captain Moore of the 32nd, sent out emissaries, Eurasians and natives, to seek aid from Lucknow and Allahabad, the one about thirty-five, the other a hundred miles distant. Lawrence wrote "with a breaking heart" that he could spare no troops from Lucknow. The messengers never even reached Allahabad.

On June 23 the Nana's hosts again nerved themselves for a desperate attack, and again were they flung off from that tumble-down wall. Then, all their valor fled, they fell back on a foul device. A white woman, Mrs. Henry Jacobi, who had been taken prisoner early in the month, crossed the plain holding a white flag. Wheeler and Moore and other senior officers went to meet her. She carried a letter from Nana Sahib, offering safe conduct to Allahabad for all the garrison "except those who were connected with the acts of Lord Dalhousie."

Now Dalhousie resigned the viceroyalty in February, 1856. It was he who had refused to continue to Nana Sahib the Peishwa's pension; assuredly there was none in Cawnpore responsible for the acts of a former viceroy. At any rate, whatsoever that curious reservation meant, the majority of the staff were opposed to surrender. Unfortunately Captain Moore, whose bravery was in the mouths of all, who, though wounded and ill, had been "the life and soul of the defense," persuaded Sir Hugh Wheeler and the others that an honorable capitulation was their sole resource. Succor could not arrive, he argued, and they were in duty bound to save the surviving civilians and the women and children.

So an armistice was agreed on to June 26, and representatives of both sides met to discuss terms. It was arranged that the garrison should evacuate their position, surrender their guns and treasure, retain their rifles and a quantity of ammunition, and be provided with river transport to Allahabad.

The Nana asked that the defenders should march out that night. Wheeler refused.

"I shall renew the bombardment, and put every one of you to death in a few days," threatened the Brahmin.

"Try it," said the Englishman. "I still have enough powder left to blow both armies into the air."

But the Nana meant to have no more fighting on equal terms. He signed the treaty, the guns were given up, and, on the night of June 26th, peace reigned within the ruined entrenchment.

Next morning that gloriouus garrison quitted the shot-torn plain they had hallowed by their deeds. And even the rebels pitied them. "As the wan and ragged column filed along the road the women and children in bullock-carriages or on elephants, the wounded in palanquins, the fighting men on foot, sepoys came clustering round the officers they had betrayed, and talked in wonder and admiration of the surpassing heroism of the defense."

Those men of the rank and file at least were soldiers. They knew nothing of the awful project concocted by the Nana and his chief associates, Rao Sahib, Tantia Topi, and Azimullah.

The procession made its way slowly towards the river, three quarters of a mile to the east. No doubt there were joyful hearts in that sorrow-laden band. Men and women must have thought of far-off homes in England, and hoped that God would spare them to see their beloved country once more. Even the children, wide-eyed innocents, could not fail to be thankful that the noise of the guns had ceased, while the wounded were cheered by the belief that food and stores in plenty would soon be available.

At the foot of a tree-clad ravine leading to the Ganges were stationed a number of heavy native boats, with thatched roofs to shield the occupants from the sun. They were partly drawn up on the mud at the water's edge to render easy the work of embarkation. Without hurry or confusion, the wounded, and the women and children, were placed on board.

Then some one noticed that the thatch on one of the boats was smoking, and it was found that glowing charcoal had been thrust into the straw. About the same time it was discovered that the boats had neither oars, nor rudders, nor supplies of food. Before the dread significance of these things became clear, a bugle-call rang out. At once, both banks of the river became alive with armed sepoys, and a murderous rifle-fire was opened on the crowded boats. Guns, hidden among the trees, belched red-hot shot and grape at them, and the smouldering straw of the thatched roofs burst into flames.

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Jan. 25th, 1910.

"For many years, I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited food constantly and I lost 25 pounds in weight. I was afraid the disease was Cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

I read about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this wonderful fruit medicine was making, and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has cured me when every other treatment failed and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'." YANKEES GRABBING CANADA'S TRADE

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association have circulated throughout the United States a legislative bulletin, which says: "Hon. Chas. M. Pepper, one of the most experienced experts connected with the State Department, stated recently regarding the agreement: 'It has much in it of interest to the members of your Association, although so far manufacturers throughout the country do not seem to realize what we have done for them in the Canadian market.'"

Comment is made upon the fact among the officials of the C. M. A. that Hon. Mr. Pepper is a paid servant of the Washington Government, and is interested in shoving the agreement through for the benefit of President Taft and the Republican party.

AFRAID OF AMERICANS.

In a letter from the treasurer of a leading city in Ontario to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, dated yesterday, the statement is made that the city council of that city do no consider it advisable to make a permanent appointment to the vacant office of Publicity Commissioner in the present state of uncertainity regarding tariff matters. They feel that the Americans will not be over-anxious to erect plants in Canada under the conditions proposed in the trade agreement.

MORE FIGHTERS LAY FOR BERESFORD

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Warren Barbour, the millionaire boxer, America's amateur champion, has challenged Hon. Seaton Robert Beresford of England, who knocked out Anthony J. Drexel, jr., at George Gould's Georgian Court, it was announced to-day A. J. Drexel Biddell, better known as Tony Biddle, amateur boxer of Philadelphia, has also intimated that he will challenge the brother of Lord Decies, in order to uphold the honor of the Drexel family.

When asked to-day concerning Barbour's challenge, the Englishman said: "I suppose I ought to take this man on."

Barbour's challenge was in these terms: "For four rounds under amateur rules, at Georgian Court, or elsewhere." Amateur rules in this country are about the same as amateur rules in England.

YOU BREATHE IT

By the simple act of breathing, we inhale life and death. You breathe air crowded with disease germs. These lodge in the membrane and at once commence their deadly work. In a night you develop a cold and before long you are in the grip of Canada's deadliest enemy—Catarrh.

You also breathe Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) and by so doing breathe in life—Hyomei is medicated and vaporized air. In its journey through the breathing organs it arrests and kills catarrh and cold germs, soothes the inflamed membrane and commences the work of healing. Ask druggist Doyle what he knows about Hyomei. You will find that he not only sells it but guarantees it. A complete outfit will cost you $1.00 from your druggist or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. You will find it invaluable for coughs, colds, catarrh and all kindred diseases. Money refunded if it fails. J. V. Doyle.

COLONIES ON CONFERENCE

New Zealand Proposes an Imperial Council and Secretary - Australia Protests

LONDON, Feb. 20.— The Government has issued the correspondence with the Governments of the over-seas dominions regarding the imperial conference. New Zealand suggests an imperial council with representatives from all parts of the Empire, and a secretary of imperial affaris instead of a colonial secretary. Also separate departments for the dominions and the Crown colonies. She also proposes that the high commissioners be raised to the status of Ambassadors.

South Africa proposes that in self-governing dominions all questions be placed directly under the Premier.

Australia raises the question of the "Declaration of London," expressing regret that the colonies were not consulted, and opposing the provisions affecting food supply, and the destruction of neutral vessels.

The Colonial Secretary expresses the hope that the Imperial conference will meet fifteen times between May 22 and the Coronation on June 22. One of the first questions to be decided will be whether the conference will meet privately.

There are a number of topics to be discussed. One of them is an all red State cable with a line across Canada Newfoundland proposes a line of steamers, subsidized by herself, Britain and Canada, to link the three countries Another topic will be an Imperial Court of Appeal, Australia suggesting over-seas representation.

South Africa, on Jan. 20, suggested consideration of replacing the trade preference by contributions to Imperial and local naval defence, but later withdrew the suggestions.

COAXING SLEEP.

Simply a Question of Will Power and Self Suggestion.

Ordinarily we do not sleep by accident or haphazard. We simply resolve to sleep, and self suggestion plays a great part in the production of sleep. We go through a variety of actions, all suggestive of a change from our normal waking condition. We undress; we place ourselves in a comfortable position; we close our eyes; we believe and expect we are going to sleep, and the result is—sleep.

One of the great preventives of sleep is the fear of not sleeping, but a writer in Harper's Bazar says that once this fear is broken down we sleep anyhow. The insomniac worries about his insomnia, and this very worry deepens the mischief; hence the sufferer should suggest to himself again and again, "If I sleep, well; if I don't sleep, I will at least gain rest by keeping my mind calm and my body relaxed."

In a word, our chances of getting sleep increase if we assume the external physical attitude which corresponds to sleep if we relax every muscle and let it stay relaxed, if we breathe lightly and regularly, if we call up the imagination of a sleeping person and talk and think sleep to ourselves, repeating silently and in a quiet, dreamy fashion such a formula as this:

"There is no reason why I should not sleep. Therefore I can sleep. Therefore I will sleep. My mind is at peace. Sleep is coming. I am getting sleepy. I am about to sleep. I am asleep."

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Snow aided the bears to-day in the wheat market. At the close prices showed a net decline of ⅛c to ⅝c to 1⅛c. The day's trading left corn ¼c to ½c off, oats down a shade, to ⅛c, and provisions varying from 5c lower to 7½c advance.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 20.—The market at the opening showed a steady undertone with prices ¼c higher on the steadier American cables on Saturday and the decrease in local stocks here. Following the opening the market was depressed with a lower tendency and values declined ⅛d with the undertone heavy. Pressure resulted from the liberal American shipments and larger Russian shipments for the week than was expected. Russian shipments amounted to 2,176,000 bushels, against 2,796,000 bushels last week. The amount on passage showed a large increase.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 20.—John Rogers & Co., Liverpool, cable to-day that trade was very slow in the Birkenhead Market, but prices generally were well maintained and ruled as follows: States steers from 12½c to 13c, and Canadians from 12½c to 12¾c per lb.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 110 carloads, consisting of 2268 cattle, 229 hogs, 532 sheep and lambs, and 39 calves.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought for Swift & Co. 306 cattle for export, as follows: Steers for London 147, averaging 1300 lbs., at $6.06, or a range of $6 to $6.10; 2 heifers, 1080 lbs., at $6.10; 12 bulls, 1850 lbs. each, at an average of $5.20, or a range of $5.15 to $5.25.

Butchers.

Butchers' cattle were lower in sympathy with the exporters, selling from 10c to 15c lower, and in some instances the light unfinished grades were reported 20c per cwt. lower. Prime picked lots sold at $5.90 to $6.10; loads of good, $5.60 to $5.85; medium, $5.25 to $5.50; common, $5 to $5.25; bulls, $4.75 to $5.25; cows, $3 to $5 25; canners, $2 to $2.75.

Milkers and Springers.

A moderate number of milkers and springers sold at $40 to $65.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves, of which there were 39 reported on sale, sold at $3.50 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Five hundred and thirty-two sheep and lambs sold as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.60; rams, $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $6 to $6.40, and one or two selected lots sold at $6.50 and $6.55, weighing 90 lbs. each. Wesley Dunn reports the lamb trade dull and sure to go lower.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered at the market, $7.20 and $6.90 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars at country points, were the prices quoted by all dealers here to-day, with 50c per cwt. deducted for all thick fat heavy hogs.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 18 were 2100 cattle, 275 sheep and lambs, 2600 hogs and 550 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 1000 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 150 calves.

The supply of cattle was a little larger than a week ago, but this fact seemed to have no depression on the market as values were firmly maintained. The weather was decidedly cold, which tended to curtail the demand some, as the attendance of buyers was not as large as usual, but on the other hand a very fair trade was done and at the close few were left over.

There is no change in prices here to note, sales of choice steers being made at 6¾c, good at 6¼c to 6½c, fairly good at 5¾c to 6c, fair at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per lb. Sales of car loads of extra heavy cows and bulls mixed were made at 5¾c per lb.

There was a somewhat unsettled feeling in the market for hogs, notwithstanding that the offerings were smaller. Packers in some cases tried to get prices down by only bidding $7.25 to $7.50 per cwt. for selected lots, which drovers would not accept, and in consequence trade in the early part of the day was slow, as the buying was left to one concern, who paid the same prices as ruled last Wednesday, viz., $7.65 to $7.75 per cwt. for selected lots, weighed off the cars.

A feature of the market for small meats is the high prices that are being demanded for calves and spring lambs, $16 per head being paid for choice stock of the former and $8 for ordinary ones, while spring lambs sold at $12 to $14 each, at which figures butchers state they stand to lose from $3 to $4 per head, according to the prices they are realizing for them in a retail way. Sheep are steady at four cents to 4½c and lambs, at 6c to 6½c per pound.

BIG FIGHT FAKED, ASSERTS CLARK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.— Speaker-to-be Champ Clark, during an address at Calvary Baptist church of this city last night, alluded to the Jeffries-Johnson fight as "that fake prize fighting affair of July last."

"None of us think prize fighting a very agreeable pastime, or a nice thing to be fostered by an enlightened people," he said. "Yet 25 years ago prize fighting could be carried on in every state in the union. To-day it is against the law in nearly every state. Nevada was the last to get in line and it is a pity that she did not enact prohibitive laws against the brutal sport before that great and scandalous fake was pulled off in Reno last July."

Mr. Clark declared that the recent activity of laymen in religious affairs has done much good and that more good was to be expected from this cooperation of the laity with the clergy He declared that President Taft, Col Roosevelt, and William Jennings Bryan were qualified to go into the pulpit and preach sermons. He would not be surprised, he said, if Col. Roosevelt or Mr. Bryan ended as preachers

SPOILED THE ACT.

An Incident That Enraged the Actor and Amused the Audience.

Some years ago a melodrama was being performed in a country theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his haughty and overbearing conduct, disliked by all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tombs of his ancestors. In the center of the stage upon a marble pedestal stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure. Enter Albert, who thus addressed the statue:

"I am here once again to gaze upon those features which in life so often looked on me with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee adoration. Let me remove the veil which from the vulgar gaze shields the beloved image of a once dear parent!"

Off went the drapery, and, behold, there was disclosed the statue of the father gracefully standing upon its head.

The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed the mistake of the super effectually put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the jeers of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrollable rage of the actor.—London Telegraph.

THE PARISIAN CABMAN.

A Deadly Verbal Insult That Will Render Him Speechless.

A discreet knowledge of slang is a very useful accomplishment for the stranger or the foreign resident in Paris. Thus if a cabman is rude or more than usually extortionate or if he splashes you with mud from head to foot as he passes and then turns around to grin at the damage done, and cochers frequently do these things, an inadequate command of the niceties of the French language leaves all the advantages on his side.

You might call him "idiot" or "sauvage," but this would only tickle him. If, however, you were able to shout "Va done, Collignon!" the result of the encounter would be at once wholly in your favor.

To say "Collignon" to a cocher is the supreme insult. It leaves him gasping and further speech on his side useless. It is easy to understand why.

Collignon was a coachman who as long ago as 1855 went to the house of a poor professor and murdered him because he had protested against an overcharge. It is satisfactory to know that Collignon was promptly tried, sentenced to death and guillotined. To this day, then, "Va Collignon!" remains the last word.—Paris Cor. New York Sun.

ALLOWANCE FOR WIVES

Maximum For Deserted Spouses Is $10 Per Week.

Sir James Whitney Moves the Withdrawal of His Bill to Put Hydro-Electric Under the Railway Board—Measure to Recover Half-a-Million Worth of Timber Lands—Question of Gratuities to Civil Servants.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—Monday, at the Legislature, instead of the formal gathering of a remnant of the House, yesterday proved one of the most interesting and important of the present session. Several Government measures of considerable public importance were dealt witr.

Sir James Whitney relieved the province of all need for anxiety respecting the control of the Hydro-Electric power furnished by the commission by himself moving the withdrawal of the bill to transfer the control from the Hydro-Electric to the Railway Commission.

Hon. Col. Matheson introduced a bill empowering the Government to recover by purchase to the extent of $500,000, timber limits in the Algonquin Park forest reservation.

The Provincial Treasurer stated that the limits to be secured within the immediate future were appraised at $290,000.

Hon. J. J. Foy was called upon by Allan Studholme and S. Clark to increase the maximum amount to be paid by husbands to deserted wives. The revised statute as recommended by the commission of judges, left the maximum as formerly at $5 per week.

Mr. Studholme said he did not see why a wealthy man, possibly a millionaire, should be let off with $5 a week to his deserted wife.

S. Clark said he thought it should be $7 a week.

Hon. J. J. Foy said he was willing to have the maximum raised to $7, $8 or $10, but this act was not with respect to the wives of men of wealth. It was one of summary proceedings at the entire cost of the public, and enabled a deserted wife, without the expenditure of a cent, to secure an order of support, which carried with it a penalty of imprisonment if disobeyed.

The Attorney-General agreed to the maximum being raised to $10 a week.

Several speakers suggested that various officials in addition to the wife should be authorized to lay complaints on her behalf.

Hon. J. J. Foy said that the judges and himself had personally considered the proposal. It might give opportunity to meddlesome persons to increase trouble, and as desertion was not a crime, but only a civil offence, the act as amended, would, he believed, suffice. It was given its third reading.

Sir James gave notice of his bill aiming at the transfer of control over rates in the early days of the session, but on Feb. 1 announced that he would allow the bill to stand, pending consultation with the hydro engineers. His action of yesterday in absolutely withdrawing the bill, indicates that proposed change was not a popular one.

The House went into supply and passed the balance of the supplementary estimates with the exception of the colonization and agricultural items, which were held over on account of the absence of the Opposition leader.

Replying to an enquiry respecting the item of $10,000 for islands in Georgian Bay, Hon. Frank Cochrane explained that it was to go towards a complete survey, which was designed to prevent the same property being sold to two or three persons, as had been sometimes done.

In passing $1,156,196.77 for miscellaneous items, the Government was asked by Mr. Studholme, why some civil service employes were getting gratuities upon retirement and others were not. He brought up the names of two employes in the Hamilton Asylum of over twenty years' service. A man discharged after twenty-five years' service got nothing.

Sir James Whitney said there was a moral difference between being retired or resigning, and being discharged.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, referring to the statutes, said that prior to 1881 there was an indefinite provision for gratuities, but then an order-in-council was made classifying the manner of employes that should be bonused. This has been re-modified in 1892, and again in 1898, it reached a point after which no gratuities were given. "Under no case had this province granted a gratuity to a discharged persons," concluded Mr. Hanna, "and the provision reads, 'Where it is necessary to dispense with a man by change of Government or through ill-health, without fault, the Government may—not shall—give a gratuity.'"

Hon. Col. Hendrie, chairman of the railway committee, moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Railway Act. He explained that this was the provincial portion of joint legislation to be also enacted at Ottawa. It was for control of the interchange of freight between railway companies holding provincial charters and those chartered at Ottawa. The details had been drafted by Justice Mabee of the Dominion Board, and Chairman Leitch of the Ontario Commission. Its necessity had been shown by conditions at Preston, and with respect to levies in the vicinity of Hamilton.

Col. Hugh Clark's bill with respect to fire insurance aims to provide a standard form of fire policy; to limit variations to the statutory conditions to such as are accepted by the insurer and the assured; to provide that a copy of the application shall be attached to the policy; to hold the inspector of insurance responsible for the administration of the act and the solvency of companies doing business in Ontario. Several amendments are made to the statutory conditions, all with a view to protecting the insured against companies that are practically insolvent, and against trickery, adjustment of fire claims, at the same time providing safeguards for the companies against fraudulent claims.

Creates No Surprise.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—At the Department of Customs yesterday it was stated that renunciation reported by cable over the Anglo-Japanese convention regarding relations between Japan and Canada, has been forecasted, and consequently causes no surprise. It is claimed to be a procursor to a wider arrangement, Japan's idea being to frame a scientific tariff and to cancel such a convention as a preliminary.

The supplementary convention was signed in January, 1906, and was terminable on six months notice, which have now been given. In the meantime negotiations for a new agreement will take place. Under the convention being renounced a specific instead of an advalorem duty was substituted on a list of 64 articles. Included in this list were cement, cotton, yarns and tissues, velvets, velveteen, window glass, iron and weld steel, sheet iron, wire, and small rod iron, leather linen tissues, printing paper, sugar, woolen and worsted yarns, silk faced cotton, satins, yarns of all sorts.

Recently, it was announced in the House by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that correspondence, looking to a new treaty with Japan was in progress.

Woman Goes to Asylum.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—Pronounced violently insane by Dr. T. Owen Parry, the jail physician, Miss Appeline Belland, who sent threatening letters to Ald. Heyd, was yesterday placed in the Toronto Asylum for the Insane, where she will be closely watched by physicians and nurses, as she is subject to wild halucinations and is in every way a dangerous woman.

Miss Belland was a native of Montreal, and first came to this city as a maid in the employ of the household of Hon. W. S. Blake. She afterwards worked in a departmental store, but of late years has been making her living as a modiste. "Her threat on the alderman's life was by no means an idle one," declared Dr. Parry, "for she was very much deranged, and would not forget a fancied wrong."

Would Pray For Aviators.

London, Feb. 21.—There is a serious movement on foot to add the words "by air" to the prayer in the Church of England Litany: "That it may please Thee to preserve all that travel by land or water." The suggestion originated with Rev. Charles de Havilland, a Hampshire rector and father of Mr. de Havilland, an aviator, and now the matter has been taken up by Archdeacon Sinclair.

"I think," said the archdeacon, "that in view of the great advances in aviation and the risks run by those engaged therein, it would undoubtedly be an excellent thing if opportunity were afforded in the litany to offer prayers for the safety of flying men."

DENIES EVERYTHING.

Stratton Gives Direct Contradiction to Rumors.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—J. R. Stratton, M.P., who is to appear with J. J. Warren, the provisional directors of the bank, and others, upon a charge of conspiracy to obtain the certificate of the Treasury Board when Travers resumes his evidence upon the stand to-day, has issued a statement, which was also printed in the Peterboro papers of yesterday. It contains an outline of the probable evidence of Hughes Charles of Montreal, who has been hard to get as a witness but who is expected to be in attendance to-day.

In this statement, Mr. Stratton categorically denies any connection with the bank's promotion, directors or affairs, and declares that he did not communicate with Hon. Mr. Fielding in its behalf.

Mr. Corley said yesterday that Deputy Sheriff Severs at least knew that he was not through with Travers and that he might need him even this week. He said that he had told him that he did not know whether the magistrate would sit on Saturday, and that if not, he would need him on Monday. He said that he was asked for a letter asking the sheriff to detain him, but that he did not give the letter, as it would have had no further weight than his spoken request.

Sheriff Mowat still continues to state that the length of Travers stay in the city is without precedent. Frank Law was held here after his conviction for even longer time.

Travers is back in the city looking not much the wrose for his hurry-up trip to Kingston penitentiary. Yesterday he was closeted with Inspector of Detectives Duncan, Crown Attorney Corley and Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan.

Travers still says that when he was taken from the jail he vigorously protested that he should not be so removed, as he was wanted to complete his evidence in the Police Court, and asked that either Magistrate Denison, Inspector Duncan, Sheriff Mowat or Mr. Corley be communicated with. He was told that Mr. Corley knew on Friday of the plan to move him on Saturday, and yesterday he told Mr. Corley so.

It was learned yesterday from a responsible source that Premier Whitney had called for the presence of Dr. Bruce Smith, who is said to have asked Sheriff Mowat why Travers had not been removed. Dr. Smith was not in the city, having gone out upon a tour of inspection.

The central topic of conversation on the street yesterday was a call for the circumstances surrounding the removal of Travers and the placing of the responsibility.

Scottish Students' Dress.

The Scottish university student has a code of etiquette in clothes as strict as that of Eton or of Harrow. And into it the straw hat enters. On Sept. 15, be the weather ever so bleak, the streets are full of what the small boy knows as "strawbashers." On the 16th you will find never a one—on a student's head, that is. As for the medical student, he seldom wears a straw hat at all or anything in its place. It is his pride to go bareheaded, as it is to wear a fancy waistcoat and turned up trouser ends. The Forgotten Picture.

Mr. Hope Moncrieff recalls in "London" a curious story of Lord Hertford. The one noble taste he had was for the collection of pictures, which he is said to have hung with their faces to the wall. TOO MANY ARE KILLED

H. H. Miller Moves For Inquiry Into Railway Fatalities.

Declaring That One Man In 199 Is Killed Every Year, Member For South Grey Demands an Investigation Into Present State of Affairs With a View to Devising Some Means of Protection.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—On a resolution which recited that one trainman in 199 was killed on Canadian railways, and one in every 33 injured in a year, and that the Government should cause an investigation to be made, with the view of devising some means to provide better protection, with the object of preventing so great a loss of life and so frequent accidental injury, H. H. Miller (S. Grey) pointed out in the House of Commons yesterday that on Canadian railways there was not a sufficient sectional staff maintained to safeguard the lives of trainmen and traveling public. The hours were too long, and he thought the cause was partly due to lack of enforcement of regulations and lack of protective equipment.

Hon. George Graham thought that Canada was moving rapidly towards better railways and better management. He mentioned recent improvements in the way of more money spent for protection, heavier rails, fewer level crossings, more double tracks, interlocking switches and safety devices of all kinds. As to the proposed regulation guarding cattle and protecting farmers from loss, the Minister pointed out that the original framers of railway law approached the problem from the point of view that the right of way belonged to the railway, and cattle on it might cause loss of life to passenger or employes. The railway commission had more plenary power than the Interstate Commerce Commission. Its inspectors reported on every accident.

"Have inspectors the right to prosecute? If not, why not give it to them," asked Mr. Miller, bringing up the old question of enforcing Federal law.

Mr. Graham: Results is what we are after, and we get better results than in the United States, where they have power to prosecute.

The Minister of Railways went on to show that the climatic difficulty was gradually being overcome. Railway employment of its nature involved danger, but owing to the standardization of equipment and the regulation of the hours of employment by the railway brotherhoods, the elements of danger were being eliminated. The regulations of the Railway Board were stringent, and rolling stock had to be built to comply with those orders. He thought that legislation would be introduced this session to give the board absolute power to employ all the experts necessary to maintain a thorough inspection of railway equipment.

Hon. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, quoted statistics in Britain, Canada and the United States to show that Canada was more saving of passenger and employes' life and injury than the republic, although much less than England. But Canada had great mountains and much territory, in which the physical conditions caused greater risk than in comparatively level England. He showed that Canada's laws for the protection of life must be good, as the statistics showed much lower proportions of loss than in the United States, where conditions were similar.

Mr. Miller offered to withdraw his resolution, but Dr. Sproule objected, and Sir Wilfrid moved the adjournment.

Just before the House rose the bill of Mederech Martin (Montreal), providing for the fortnightly payment of railway employes, was given a second reading, passed through the committee stage, and stands for third reading.

George Perley, chief Conservative whip, expressed dissent, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that if the railways had any objections to offer they would be given an opportunity before a third reading.

Hon. Mr. King, on behalf of Mr. Graham, stated that the Minister approved of the bill.

In reply to a question by Dr. Sproule, the Prime Minister stated that he had not yet received the text of the new treaty affecting pelagic sealing in Behring Sea.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) read to the House a letter by Governor Dix, published in a New Yok paper, regarding the Long Sault bill, now before Congress, in which the writer suggested that a hydrographic survey be made of the locality before any legislative action. This was necessary in view of the superior rights of navigation in the St. Lawrence channel. Sir Wilfrid did not think it was necessary to bring this phase of the question before the British ambassador at Washington.

Alex. Haggart (Winnipeg) wanted a bill to incorporate the Security Trusts Corporation amended so that the name of the company would not conflict with one already doing business. The bill goes back to the banking committie.

NEARLY DIED OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

GIN PILLS SAVED HIM

513 JAMES ST., HAMILTON, ONT.

"Five years ago, I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of The Bladder—intense pains in back and loins, and difficulty in urinating, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony. I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

My wife read in the papers about GIN PILLS and sent for a box. From the very first, I felt that GIN PILLS were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks were less frequent.

In six weeks, the Stone in the Bladder came away. When I recall how I suffered and how now I am healthy and able to work, I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what GIN PILLS have done for me." JOHN HERMAN. 48

U. S. Naval Plans.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The naval appropriation bill was considered at length in the House yesterday and practically all of the provisions of the measure were agreed to with the exception of the new building program, which will come up to-day, and which is expected to precipitate a lively fight.

The bill provides for two battleships of the super-Dreadnought type, carrying twelve 14-inch guns; two fleet colliers, eight torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines. An attempt will be made both to decrease and increase this program, but the committee believes it has enough votes to carry it through.

A proposed repeal of the clause in last year's bill that all ships let out by contract should be under the eight-hour labor law, will be fought from both sides of the chamber. There also will be a fight to have one of the new ships constructed at a navy yard. Chairman Foss of the naval commission stated yesterday that of two sister ships now under construction, the one at the New York Navy Yard is costing $6,400,000, and the one by private contract $3,900,000.

Bad Storm in Alaska.

Cordova, Alaska, Feb. 21.—One of the worst storms ever experienced in Cordova and the Copper River country ended Sunday after three days of continuous rain and of wind reaching a velocity of eighty miles an hour. Snow melting on the mountainsides caused bad landslides on the railroad running up the Copper River, but they are now clear. The river bank is full, and it is feared that the flood will start the glaciers moving long before the Alaska winter is ended.

The fire was caused by a natural gas grate.

Ald. Lott said the rubber cap proposed to be purchased for the firemen was not the cap they desired. The Chief of the department had informed him that a helmet was required. He (Ald. Lott) moved that the purchase of rubber caps be laid over for further consideration.

Ald. Canning said the petition presented by the firemen had asked for a rubber cap, and the Committee recommended the purchase of same.

The Committee's recommendation prevailed.

The Water Works Committee recommended that tenders be asked for the necessary painting to be done at the pump house after the installation of pumps and that the city engineer prepare the necessary specifications.

WANT TO EXTEND.

The following communication was read from Messrs. Marsh & Henthorn.

Ald. Bogle,
Chairman of Industrial Committee
Dear Sir : Owing to the continual increased development in our business we find our present premises too small for our use, and we are considering at the present time the building of new shops which will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $20,000. We draw your attention to this matter because we should prefer building these shops in our home town, and to ascertain if the City Council would supply us with lots on which to erect the buildings and also give us a low assessment for a number of years.

We shall be glad to hear from you at your early convenience.

MARSH & HENTHORN.

Ald. Bogle said he had acknowledged the communication and the answer receied stated that the firm were not at present prepared to state what lots not decided where the additional plant not decided wher the additional plant would be built.

A brief communication was read from the Clerk of Bloomfield Council enclosing a cheque for $45.76, being the amount due the city for freight charged for the return of the City's steam road roller. A refund of $7 was asked.

Ald. Panter—I would not sanction any such agreement.

A motion prevailed to send the communication to the Industrial Committee.

CLEM ELLIS WAS ACQUITTED

It Could Not be Proved That he Was Guilty of Either of Two Charges

Before Magistrate Masson this morning Clem Ellis was arraingned on two serious charges, namely, the theft of money from a party named Wm. Loft and giving same Wm. Loft liquor knowing him to be an Indian, having a rather swarthy face and jet black hair which trails down his neck, is a resident of Hungerford Township. He came to the city on Saturday last and on Sunday was in company with Ellis for some time. Loft swore that Ellis gave him a drink of white whiskey out of a flask and later on, when he was under the influence of liquor, some $14 was taken from him. He did not miss the money until some time after Ellis had left him.

In his cross examination by Mr. Carnew, who appeared for Ellis, Loft said he was not a member of a band of Indians and in fact did not know that he was altogether an Indian. His mother was an Indian woman, but his father was a white man. He had no relatives upon the Mohawk Reserve or any other Reserve.

The outcome of the hearing was that Ellis was acquitted of both charges, there being no evidence that he took the money or succeeded in getting Loft intoxicated.

Mr. Andersen, County Attorney, represented the Crown.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Sunday afternoon, the members of the Adult Bible Classes of the City met in the Baptist church to hear Mr W. P. Archibald, of Ottawa. The body of the church was well filled, and those present were well repaid. The Symphony Orchestra had charge of the music, and Mr. Jack Cookson rendered a trombone solo. Judge Deroche was in charge of the meeting, and in introducing Mr. Archibald, spoke for a few minutes regarding the length of sentences meted out to men for the same offences. It rested upon the Judge or Magistrate and it just depended how he viewed that particular offence. Mr. Archibald took for his text: II Kings, xiii:20-21. During his address he gave two very vivid illustrations of actual cases he had met with; one especially of a young man who was dying in one of our penitentiaries, and his dying words were: "I did not have a chance," and upon looking into the case, he found that the words were only too true; the young man had not had a chance.

There are over 1800 men in our penitentiaries and a goodly number of these were there because the home life was not the best. What a responsibility rests upon fathers and mothers to give the boys the right instruction and to make the home life of more benefit to the boys. Out of 1100 men who have been let out on parole only 62 had ever returned to crime. These men report regularly and the officials are constantly in touch with them. One case he cited was where a man was in prison and his wife was working night and day to keep two children and in three years she had gone blind. The man was let out on parole and now the family is re-united and happy except for the thought of the one being blind for the rest of her life. Judge Deroche cited one case out of the many he has had where a man has found his manliness when given a chance, instead of sending him to prison for a term of years.

TIRED, RUN DOWN PEOPLE

A North Carolina Man Suggests a Remedy.

Greensboro, N. C.—"For a long time I was so run down and debilitated that I could hardly drag around. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep nights. I had tried different so-called tonics without benefit. I was advised to try cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, and I am so glad I did, for it gave me a hearty appetite, I soon commenced to sleep soundly and I feel strong, well and more active than I have for years. Every run-down or debilitated person should just give Vinol a trial." K. Allsbrook. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Mr. Allsbrook it will do for every weak, run-down or debilitated person in this vicinity. To show our faith we will furnish the medicine free if it does not do as we claim. Come in and get a bottle on these terms. J. S. McKeown, Red Cross Drug Store.

Tea Time Talks

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

LIFE LESSONS FROM LITERATURE

Professor George F. Stewart of the Deaf and Dumb Institute addressed the Bridge Street Epworth League last evening on the subject of "Life Lessons From Literature." This is an unusual subject and was well handled. Poets only were dealt with, as they have sounded the depths of human experience, and their writings caution the most vital lessons. Poets, from Homer to the present day were quoted including some of the hymn writers, and many valuable lessons gleaned, covering both the practical and ideal human life, and also the hope of the life beyond.

During the course of the address Miss Lawrence sang as a solo an extract from Tennyson entitled "Too Late."

Balsamic Essences

Make Wonderful Cure for Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, Throat Weakness.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure. Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics, so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrh remedies.

The extraordinary curative power of Catarrhozone is well explained in a letter from A. B. Cowan, the well-known restauranter of Carleton, who writes: "Some time ago I suffered severly from a frightful cold in the head and chest. It was nothing but one continual cough, awful headache from morning till night. My nose and throat were so completely stuffed up that I could scarcely breathe. Catarrhozone eased the cough instantly, that would not yield even to the doctor's medicines. Hour by hour Catarrhozone relieved and by pursuing its treatment I have been permanently cured of all trace of Asthma, Catarrh and Bronchial irritation."

Once you try Catarrhozone you'll realize how indispensable it is—the large dollar size contains an indestructible hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication to last two months. Smaller trial sizes 25c. and 50c. Beware of the substitutor and imitators of Catarrhozone—use the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

IT WAS SUICIDE.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 16.— From authoritive sources it was learned that the death of Commander Frank Marble, U. S. N., of the naval war college staff on Tuesday, was a case of suicide, and that death was not caused by apoplexy as was at first reported.

Commander Marble shot himself through the head with a .32 calibre revolver but what prompted his act is a mystery to his wife and his associates on the college staff. He had been laboring hard at the college and the belief is that Commander Marble's mind may have given way and in a moment of depression he shot himself.

Monday night the Commander left his quarters and went to the library of the college. He did not return to his quarters but still was not missed until early in the morning when Mrs Marble went searching for her husband. She found him in a toilet off the library lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

She at once notified the other officers and Commander Marble, who was still alive, was taken to the naval hospital but it was not known until after he had reached the hospital that he had shot himself. It was learned, however that Commander Marble had fired two shots, one of these only grazed the head, while the other passed completely through the skull. In the hopes of saving his life the surgeons at the hospital decided to operate to relieve the pressure on the brain but Commander Marble was in such a weak condition that he died while on the operating table.

SEES STOLEN $6000 NECKLACE IN MUSEUM

PARIS, Feb. 20.— Mrs. Whitney Warren of New York, when visiting recently the Paris Decorative Arts Museum, was surprised to see an 18th century necklace of brilliants valued at $6,000 which she had lost in a case lent the museum by Mme. De Perdussin bought the trinket from a dealer who had acquired it from a hotel keeper. The latter had taken it from a woman lodger in payment of a bill for $70.

Why She Always Looked So Young

Everyone refers to her as one of the most attractive women in town. It wasn't her features, for while regular, they were not unusual. But the charm lay in the head of splendid, vigorous hair that made a veritable crown. It had that peculiar lustre and the sun gave it an added brilliance—you couldn't look at her without unconsciously commenting on the beauty of her hair.

When asked how she kept it so beautiful she replied that it was no secret, simply proper shampooing, regular combing and the conscientious use of Hirsutone. She admitted it had not always been in that condition, but that she found Hirsutone the best thing she ever got for the hair. It gave the scalp such a cool, refreshed feeling, and the hair was so much easier to dress after its use.

There are plenty of heads that would be just as attractive for Hirsutone soon brings the hair and scalp into good condition.

Your Nyal Drug Store will cheerfully guarantee Hirsutone to do all that is claimed for it, and every woman owes it to herself to try it.

BURNING THE VICTIMS

China Is Making Every Effort to Stay the Plague.

Relatives Leave Bodies of Victims In the Streets and Masked Men Take Them Away on Sleds—Each House Inspected Daily and Men With Atomizers Stand at the Shop Doors In Some Places.

Pekin, Feb. 21.—There is a notable attempt on the part of the Chinese Government to stay the spread of the plague, and sanitary measures are being strictly enforced in all the various towns, where a few weeks ago the disease was allowed full swing unhampered. Instructions have been issued that every village burn its dead. The panic and fear of the plague have overridden the Chinese superstition against cremation, and now almost daily the torch is applied to piles of hastily constructed coffins, among which are often seen bodies wrapped only in shrouds.

In the town of Kwongchangtze, near the Manchurian Railway, where the daily death list has numbered a hundred or more, masked men go about with sleds and pick up the bodies lying in the streets, where they have been placed by relatives. The sleds transport them to the west gate, and from there they are removed in carts in lots of four or five to the cremation grounds.

Every house is inspected daily. The important shops keep a man at the door with an atomizer, and with this he sprays all persons entering the shop with a solution of carbolic acid. The refuse, which was formerly thrown into the streets is now removed each day from the houses.

The Mukden authorities are promptly despatching physicians and nurses with all the requisites for taking care of the sick, to villages where new outbreaks occur, and this precaution, it is believed, will result in checking the spread of the disease.

A correspondent who visited Hu-Lan, which is thirty miles north of Harbin, found that towns are afflicted. For many weeks the governor, with the customary fatalism, was indifferent to the awful work of the plague. He has now been suddenly roused into activity, and, clad in mask and bandages, personally superintends the cremation of the accumulated bodies.

In one village nearby, where formerly seventy people lived, there are now thirty-four, the other thirty-six having died from the plague and been cremated. The dread of death seems to have set in throughout the afflicted regions, and the people, fearing infection, refuse to go any distance from their homes. Trade and commerce have been therefore greatly affected in all parts of the country where the disease has appeared.

According to the Government statistics, there have been a few deaths in Pekin and Tientsen.

Burning Lazarettos.

Harbin, Feb. 21.—Although the bubonic plague now is said to be waning in Southern Manchuria, reports from the northern part yesterday stated that the scourge was growing in virulence there. All of the Lazarettos just outside the towns in Southern Manchuria are being burned to-day. Parts of towns where the plague raged in its most virulent form are also being destroyed.

Plague In Glasgow.

London, Feb. 21.—According to The Morning Post, there are isolated cases of the bubonic plague at Glasgow and East Anglia. The plague has killed 75,000 in China.

Wreck on I.C.R.

Pictou, N.S., Feb. 21.—The Intercolonial Railway train from Pictou to Oxford Junction met with a serious mishap yesterday afternoon. Near Munro's Siding, two and a half miles this side of River John, something caused the whole train of fifteen cars to leave the track, the engine alone remaining on the rails. Thirteen of the cars were freight, and there were two passenger coaches. No one was hurt, although the passenger cars are in rather bad shape. The freight cars are badly wrecked, many of them being laden with perishable food products from Prince Edward Island. The mix-up will not be cleared for a day or two.

Burglars Unsuccessful.

Brockville, Feb. 21.—Bold attempts were made to enter three places of business on Brockville's leading thoroughfares. The guilty party was aware of the movements of the night constable, who passed along the street examining doors less than five minutes before. After he had made the nightly examination of the doors the would-be intruder attempted to force them open with a jimmy or chisel. The efforts were unsuccessful.

They Pinched McCurdy.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 21.—At the completion of the aviation exhibition here Sunday, J. A. D. McCurdy and Clem Beachy, aviators, and Col. T. J. T. Brown, chairman of the census celebration committee; Gen. U. Stroude of West Tampa racetrack, and Phil. Collins, treasurer for the racing association, were arrested on a charge of violating the state laws relative to the giving of exhibitions on Sunday, to which admission is charged.

Sinister Silence.

London, Feb. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Sheffield Telegraph says: "The program of the coming conference is a general warning to us. Canada's silence is most significant and sinister, and seems to point out that she is slipping away from us."

Favor Canadian Reciprocity.

Boston, Feb. 21.—The Massachusetts Retail Lumber Association is in favor of a Canadian reciprocity agreement. Four hundred members approve of anything tending to increase friendly and commercial relations with Canada.

There's no use in getting angry, yet a man seems to get a great deal of satisfaction out of it.

ASYLUM INSTEAD OF THE ALTAR

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—Despite the suppression of the story by the police and others, some alleged facts concerning the disappearance of Lou Pattee, aged 29, a young Ottawa millionaire, have just leaked out.

On Thursday last, two men, supposed to have been police officers, called at the house where Pattee was boarding and took the young man away with them. He was about to be married to his landlady, Miss Adelina Precault, a marriage license having been procured, and it is said a minister to perform the ceremony was on the way to the house. Pattee is now declared to be at the Verdun retreat, near Montreal, where he was taken Friday morning, after a hearing in private before a magistrate and an exhibition of certificates signed by a reputable physician to the effect that the man was not responsible for his actions.

FATHER A MILLIONAIRE.

Pattee is a son of the late J. C. Pattee, millionaire lumber king and business associate of J. R. Booth, E. B. Eddy and others, and at one time member for Ottawa in the Ontario Legislature. When Pattee senior died several years ago, he left a fortune estimated at $8,000,000 to four children, Mrs. Berkeley Powell, wife of an Ottawa broker; Mrs. Fred Carling, wife of a broker; Lou Pattee and a brother in California. Pattee is said to have become estranged from his relatives a short time after the death of his father, and took up his residence at the Hotel Cecil.

BECAME INFATUATED.

Eight months ago he became infatuated with Adeline Perrault, ten years his senior, and took up his abode in her boarding house on Nicholas Street. He had been drinking freely recently, and announced that he was about to be married. This put his relatives, prominent in the society of the Capital, on their guard.

The Perrault woman has engaged lawyers to fight his detention. Pattee has lavished expensive presents of rings and other valuable jewellery on her. She left for Montreal this morning. Relatives of Pattee believe that a few months' confinement will bring him to his senses.

Organization is the Foundation of Successs--the Special Prizes Will be Awarded Next Saturday Night Feb. 25th—See that You Are One of the Winners—You Can If You Try—Make the Best of Your Time the Next Few Days—Miss Maud Fleming Takes First Place in District No 1—Miss Louise Shorey Continues Lead in District 2

Candidates in The Intelligencer's popularity contest—practically every one of them—are doing something more than "sitting up and taking notice." They're hustling. They are getting votes; clipping coupons; getting subscriptions. A glance at the heavy vote polled during the past few days, as shown by the comparison of to-day's figures with those of last week, is sufficient evidence that the contestants are improving the opportunity to secure the bonus votes on all subscriptions of one year or more, and are likewise earnestly engaged in the good-natured competition for the special prizes which will be won Feb. 25th.

Are you, Miss Candidate, alive to the exceptional opportunity presented by the bonus vote offer?

Has it occurred to you that up to next Saturday night every effort put forth in securing subscriptions of one year or more, with the bonus votes, will do you double the good it would under the regular schedule of votes?

Make every vote count for you; make every hour of the day yield its harvest of votes. Don't overlook a single opportunity to secure votes; and don't be backward about asking for subscriptions. You may be very sure of one thing, before this contest is over your friends and acquaintances are going to give their subscriptions to some candidate. It's simply a question whom they will help. And in many cases the subscription will go to the one who gets there first. Let people know that you are in earnest; that you mean to win one of the splendid prizes, and that you need their help. And you'll get it.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

FIGHTING PACT IN MANITOBA

Strongly Opposed to Trade Arrangement With U. S.-Debate In the Legislature

WINNIPEG, Feb. 20.—The Manitoba Government came out flat-footed against the reciprocity treaty in the Legislature to-night, and advocated in its place Imperial preference and the free extension of trade within the Empire.

Hon. Robert Rogers moved the amendment to the resolution of the Opposition leader, Mr. T. C. Norris, favoring the present agreement, and asking for its immediate adoption, and the Minister of Public Works went on record in uncompromising hostility to it, with apparently the solid support of the Government benches behind him.

Mr. Norris claimed that there was no need to be frightened at the idea of free wheat. The Canadian railways could compete with the Great Northern, and if they do this they had to reduce their rates, so much the better for the farmer. As for annexation, it was more logical to think that Canada would annex the United States.

Mr. Rogers, in moving the Government amendment, declared that the bonds of Empire should be strengthened. They should follow along the lines of development of the past forty years, and build up interprovincial trade. "We are bartering away our national liberty and financial freedom," he said.

Before the adjournment of the debate Premier Roblin was drawn into the discussion. "We stand," he declared, "for a greater Canada, and we resist the encroachments of President Taft. The Liberals want to distroy what has taken 45 years to build up."

HAREM SKIRT BLOCKED TRAFFIC

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Not since the famous American, Mrs. Bloomer, appeared in London in 1851 wearing the nether garment which still bears her name has a female costume excited such a sensation here as the first appearance of the harem skirt. On Regent Street today, wearing a blue turban-like toque, blue velvet skirt and bodice and pink pantaloons, a lady walked, calmly chatting with her male escort. A crowd gathered and followed her, the small boys yelling with delight. The crowd grew and grew, and waited outside a shop while she purchased some articles, and then accompanied her in ever-increasing numbers while she booked seats at a music hall.

Policemen had to hold up traffic to allow her and her entourage to re-enter Regent Street, soon after which the assemblage grew so large that she was in danger of arrest "for causing a crowd to assemble." Her escort then called a cab, and they drove off.

DRESSMAKERS' OPINION.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—If persistent press agency work can effect anything, the harem skirt ought to be considered as duly discussed. A dozen appeared last night at a fashionable roller skating rink. Some of them were hideous, suggesting a combination of pajamas with apron back and front. Most of the dresses, however, showed that they can be very pretty and artistic. Foreign buyers, who are in numerous numbers in Paris just now, show the greatest reserve in purchasing models of the pantaloon mode.

The opinions of the leading couturiers remain divided as to whether or not the skirt will become fashionable. Doucet makes harem skirts, but not for street wear. Decillett makes them but does not like them. Paquin unhesitatingly opposes them. Laferriere has models on hand in case his clients want them. Poiret is convinced that they are a success. Redfern dislikes them, but is prepared to go with the opinion of his customers. Worth opposes them, and Green is convinced that society will never adopt the new departure.

The harem skirt, worn by Mlle. Provest in Bernstein's new play, "Apres moi," at the Theatre Francais, will disappear from that stage. Mlle. Provost evidently regrets the decision. She says she wore the dress at the author's express request, and she herself considered it elegant and well adapted to her role. Bernstein undoubtedly found the innovation absorbed the attention of the audience to the detriment of his work.

THE BRITISH DIVORCE RECORD

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The law court's report gives an analysis of the divorces for the ten years from 1900 to 1910. It shows that out of every 20,000 persons there were 38 divorces or separation orders. The total number of cases heard in the ten years was 9,281. In almost half the cases the marriage had lasted from ten to twenty years.

More than one-fifth the divorced wives were minors when they were married. A majority of the petitioners belonged to the middle class. In 40 per cent. of the cases there were no children, in 25 per cent. one child and in 17 per cent. two. The parents of six and upwards were only 1.72 per cent.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

The country is up in arms against that proposed tariff abomination.

Champ Clark deserves credit for being one of the few Americans who, in discussing the tariff project has given utterance to his real sentiments.

The Globe, which used to sneer at Hon. S. H. Blake and his letter to "My Dear Foy," now pats him on the back because he disagrees with his brother Edward who held that reciprocity as advocated in 1891 meant annexation.

That protest against the proposed tariff pact which was signed and published by eighteen of the most prominent Liberals of Toronto ought to give Sir Wilfrid Laurier pause in his intention of rushing the measure through Parliament.

Wouldn't it be more in the interest of Belleville to accept the offer of the old Grand Junction wharf, so made by the Grand Trunk Railway Company than to fight the annexation bill to a finish ?

If the United States market is more profitable to the farmer than that of Canada, why do the United States farmers come her to settle ? Are they on the lookout for low prices ? Or do they come here to do better than they have done at home ?—Mail & Empire.

A Chicago woman who claims that she wears a No. 1½ shoe is suing a dealer in that city for $850 for an alleged misfit which caused her an injury. This is remarkkable in view of the general belief that Chicago women have all large feet.

Those who think an early Parliamentary election a possibility in Canada will have their opinions strengthened by the number of advertisements calling for tenders for the construction of public works appearing in the Liberal newspapers. In some districts it takes columns of space to inform contractors of their opportunities. If it is not intended to appeal to the voters much material for influenceing the venal element is being wasted.—Montreal Gazette.

Premier Whitney's Bill, which is to place Chinese and other laundries under the supervision of the Ontario factory inspectors, has been printed It provides that every shop, building or room in which laundry work is done by any foreign trade or for the purpose of gain shall be considered a factory under the terms of the Ontario Factories Act, and shall be subject to all the regulations as other factories under the Act. The bill provides that no laundry work is to be done in any sleeping or living room, and that any place in which laundry work is done must be in a clean condition, free from vermin and all impurities of a contagious or infectious character. The same penalty for breaches of the act will be imposed as on other manufacturing plants. A special exception is made for laundry work done by a woman in her home.

SERGEANTS OF THE 15TH ENTERTAIN

The Sergeants of the 15th Regiment entertained the officers and their friends to a complimentary smoker in their quarters at the Armouries last evening. During the evening a short programme, consisting of songs and speeches and several instrumental selections was presented. The Regimental Orchestra also rendered several selections which were heartily applauded.

The reception room was neatly and artistically decorated with flags streamers and pennants, adding a patriotic and loyal touch to the affair.

The success of the evening more than repaid the Committee for their untiring efforts in demonstrating their hospitality to their guests.

HE WAS CLEARED AFTER 30 YEARS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A special to The Tribue from Peoria, Ill., says :

Rev. Charles Edwin Burdette, brother of "Bob" Burdette, the humorist has been vindicated after thirty years of any blame in connection with the disappearance of $3,500 in 12 letters from a registered package sent out by the Peoria post office, when he was its registry clerk. An inspector recommended that Burdette be dischaxged Burdette studied for the ministry and now has a pastorate at Springfield, Mass.

An old battered mail sack was sent to a repair shop in San Francisco a few days ago to be patched. The first man to inspect the sack decided that it needed a new bottom, and with a knife he ripped the leather, disclosing a large manilla envelope, caught by the corners, which served practically as a false bottom. He opened the envelope and found the missing $3,500.

CANADA LOST TO U. S. CURLERS

Score Was 149 to 137 in Nineteenth Contest for the Gordon Medal

BOSTON, Mass. Feb. 20.—The International curling championship and the Gordon Medal was won by the United States at Boston Arena after five hour of play to-day, when the Canadian teams were defeated by the total score of 149 to 137. It marked the nineteenth annual tournament, during which Canada has won thirteen times and the United States six times. Canada won last year.

The United States teams won in five of the eight rinks to-day, 21 ends being played at all the rinks by agreement.

The closest match was that between the St. Andrews of Montreal, and the Jersey City Curling Club, which was not decided until the last stone was skipped. Measurements of the three nearest stones gave the match to St. Andrews by one point, the score being 18 to 17.

BLACK HANDERS DEFY POLICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Black Hand gangs defying the efforts of Chief Flynn and his detectives to check their operations, renewed their reign of terror with torch and bomb every night for the past week and early today made two daring attempts to wreck with dynamite. Every available detective in the Central office has been sent out to round up the Black Hands.

Two agents of the black mailing society drove up in front of the house of Dr. Bartoli, a wealthy physician on East 106th St., to-day and laid a bomb near the doctor's door, touched it off, and then fled in a carriage.

The explosion caused a panic among one hundred girls in St. Cecilies Convent. The doctor has been receiving Black Hand letters for some time.

AMERICANS TALK OF ANNEXATION

MONTREAL, Feb 21.—A. R. Doble of the head office of the Bank of Montreal, who returned from New York today, stated that a very brief soourn in the American cities at the present time will convince any Canadian that the average American citizen dismisses the reciprocity idea immediately in discussing trade topics, dwelling upon the question of annexation pure and simple.

In fact, he says that the gentleman with whom he conversed on the subject did not attempt to hide their pro annexation sentiments, and appeared to take it as a matter of course that the destiny of Canada was a portion of the American Union, and that the Washington arrangements is the first step towards the fulfilment of the general sentiment shared over the line.

BULL THREW A SPANISH MATADOR

MADRID, Feb. 21.—Carlos Gonzales the celebrated Mexican bull fighter made his debut here to-day at the Palaza Tetuan, and met with an accident, which furnished much excitement to the large crowd of spectators The first bull Gonzales was to kill rushed him and caught him between the horns and threw him with great violence. It was at first thought the infuriated animal had caught Gonzales on his horns, goring him, and the excitement among the spectators was intense. The animal was just on the point of rushing at the matador's prostrate body when another matador performed the act called "quite" which consisted of drawing the bull's attention to him by flourishing a red cape, and then dispatching the bull This is a performance, which, when well done, always awakens the enthusiasm of the spectators, and to-day men threw money, hats and cigars and other things to the second matador, while women threw him flowers, fans, small pieces of jewellry and even garters Gonzales was taken to a hospital where it was found that he was terribly bruised, but no bones were broken.

Another Liberal's Warning

The following letter, written by Mr. Hugh Blain, a former President of the Toronto Board of Trade and a well-known Liberal, is worthy careful perusal and consideration:

"Illness prevents me from being present at the meeting to-night. I hope the Board of Trade will place itself squarely on record against arranging the Canadian tariff through agreements made at secret meeting with representatives of foreign countries.

"This is under all circumstances, and especially where the proposed changes have not been fully considered or publicly discussed by those most largely interested, it seems to me most unfortunate that the Premier of Canada should be put in the position that forced him to confess it was too late on account of a secret-reached foreign agreement to consider the grievances of a deputation of Canadian citizens. There will unquestionably be a great unsettling of business, and while there may be little doubt that there will be some who will benefit, there will be still less doubt that many, and especially the unfortunate will suffer by the change.

"The present time appears to be most inopportune when conditions had adjusted themselves to the needs of every class, when prosperity had ben distributed with reasonable fairness among all our people for a leap like this in the dark. It is impossible to speak definitely of the future. It is, however, reasonable to believe that under present conditions our own Canadian cities would continue to direct Canadian trade over Canadian channels, while under such a sweeping measure of reciprocity in future dominating centres may be New York and Chicago with all the adverse consequences that will necessarily follow to our, at present sturdy, growing nationality.

"Our troubles are now few and far between, and in my opinion we should 'bear the ills we have than fly to others we know not of.'"

(Signed) HUGH BLAIN.

The Birds Our Friends

A well-known scientist, lecturing recently in London, said that a few years ago in Hungary the farmers, believing that the birds were injuring the crops, declared war on them. Within five years, said the lecturer, frantic efforts were being made to get the birds back. With the birds who feed on them absent, insects of various sorts had increased so rapidly that they had done hundreds of times the damage to crops the birds had ever been suspected of. With the return of the birds the insects largely vanished and good crops were again enjoyed.

"Eliminate birds from living organisms," said the lecturer, "and there would be an immediate increase in the number of injurious pests. In time, every tree would be defoliated, all vegetable life destroyed, and without vegetable life animal life would be impossible on the earth. In eight years probably, certainly not more than ten, this globe would be a desert."

Too many of our farmers do not appreciate the benefit done them by the birds. They see a robin eat a few cherries or other fruit, and exaggerate the damage he does. They do not see the hundreds and thousands of annoying and injurious insects which a single bird will devour in the course of a summer.

A striking instance of the harm done by killing or not protecting birds has been shown in the Southern States. The boll weevil is directly due to an insect. When birds were abundant these insects were devoured so that practically no damage was done by the boll weevil. But the birds were largely killed off, sometimes intentionally, sometimes through carelessness. Then came the boll weevil, which has destroyed cotton crops worth tens of millions of dollars and in a single season done hundreds of times the damage the birds could have done in a thousand years.

MADE A BIG HAUL AT SWELL COCK FIGHT

PITTSBURG, Feb. 21.—About 60 sports, most of them in evening clothes, as well as 36 fighting chickens, were secured in a raid after Saturday midnight by the Humane Society. It required eight patrol wagons to haul the cock fighters and birds to the police station.

Thirty-eight of those captured confessed to the name of "John Smith," while most of the rest put it "Jones." There was hurrying away as soon as forfeits could be posted, but those who posted forfeits did not come back to-day for a hearing. Their money was declared forfeited. Seven who did not have forfeits, and who are really unknown, are in jail being held for a hearing later.

In the meantime, Supt. James Bell of the Humane Society, is distributing $5,000 in chicken broth among sick in hospitals. He killed some of the game chickens to-day and will make soup of the remainder to-morrow for the hospitals.

He says he was offered over the 'phone from $50 to $500 apiece for the fowls by different "John Smiths." Recently a cocking main at which $50,000 changed hands was fought here the purse for the 21 bouts being $20,000.

TUSKER CHARGED THE KAISER'S HEIR

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—According to the Neuste Nachrichten, the Crown Prince of Germany had a narrow escape from death while hunting elephants in Ceylon last November. The story has just reached here.

The informant of the newspaper quoted says that a huge tusker ambushed the Prince and suddenly charged him without warning. The Prince fired but missed and the beast was so close upon him that he had no time for a second shot. Fortunately, however, an English official stood immediately beind the royal hunter and he fired over the Prince's shoulder, bringing down the elephant and killing him instantly. The shot, it is said, grazed the Prince's ear and caused temporary deafness.

Most pleasures have their draw backs, and most promises have strings tied to them.

FAMINE IN CHINA

The Starving People are Eating Turnip Tops and Ground Corn Cobs

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Writing to The Globe from Shanghai under date of January 17, Rev. D. MacGillivray, Hon. Sec. of the Central China Famine Relief Committee, tells of reports received from the famine-stricken district. He says:

"A correspondent of the North China Daily News, under date of Jan. 11, writes as follows concerning the famine around Suchien in the Province of Kiangsu.

"'News from North Kiangsu must necessarily be colored by the famine, its evil arrows are even now striking down many weak and poor. Seven starved at this place, and three starved at that hamlet during the few days, So-and-So is only eating turnip tops and ground corn cobs and the children cry all day long. This one sold his child and that one does not know where his refugee brother is. These are snatches of the refrain that colors all intercourse up here. One can endure the swollen and yellowed faces of the grown-ups, but the pitiful crying of the little, frozen children goes down, down deep.'

"The Famine Relief Committee organized in Shanghai, acting in the strong faith that the benevolent would liberally respond to their appeals, have borrowed money sufficient to begin the relief work at several places. Protestant and Catholic missionaries vie with one another in distributing the relief. But since the committee was formed they have received numerous appeals from other places where the famine is little if any less severe. Whether these other places shall receive any help depends on the liberality of Canadian, American and English friends. The weather has recently been exceedingly cold and the mortality among the refugees has already been severe. Many of the aged, the women and children, and the weak in body have already perished. May God in His mercy move those who have, to give liberally and quickly ere it is too late."

Mr. S. J. Moore, 445 King Street West, reported yesterday that the relief funds received by him have amounted so far to $6,110.33.

WINS $500 SUIT AGAINST COUNTY

By judgment handed down by Judge Morrison, Monday, Allan Herrington, won his suit against the county of Prince Edward. He wins $500.00 damages for two broken ribs and other damages. The accident occurred when he fell over a plough that had been left on the road by the men working for the county on the new good roads system. The suit was an action against the township of Ameliasburg as well as the county, but Judge Morrison dismissed the action against the township with costs. The county will be entitled to any of the costs entailed through bringing the township into the action.

ON GABLEHORN IN GREAT STORM

The Remarkable Experience of Alpine Travellers During a Passing Hurricane

From Zermatt, says George D. Abraham, we had climbed to the top of the Unter Gablehorn in perfect weather. Not a cloud was visible until late in the morning, but during the halt on the summit curious mist-wraiths accumulated, and after descending to a point just above the first gap on the ridge, a sudden wind sprang up, and clouds began to spin around the peak somewhat like a whirlwind. Almost simultaneously a shrieking northerly gust brought along a stinging shower of hailstones, followed by vivid flashes of lightning. Clinging to the exposed narrow ridge of the tip of that fragile peak, I remembered contrasting myself with a squirrel on the top of a small tree, an easy target for a small boy's aim. We must certainly have seemed tempting prey for Nature's thunderbolts.

The storm increased impetuously, but fortunately the rocks were easy enough to allow of a hurried descent. Then with curious suddenness the wind dropped, an ominous calm succeeded the tourmente, though the lightning flickered incessantly. The first peculiarity I noticed was a tingling sensation in the tips of my fingers whenever they grasped or released a handhold. One of my companions was hatless, and his hair had assumed such an upright bristly appearance, that we made feeble jokes at his expense. Still, he was not the kind of man whose hair stands on end with fright, and we soon began to realize that we were all more or less alike, and simply charged with electricity, which was silently discharging from our finger ends. Our ice-axes began to give off sparks that would have roused to envy the electrically belated motorist.

Just before we gained the shelter of the gap, a tremendously vivid flash of lightning spluttered on the opposite rocks, and the whole mountain, ourselves included, seemed to shudder with the simultaneous thunder crash. Instinctively we leeked up for falling stones, but nothing fell in our direction. A few seconds later there was an even still brighter flash, and at the sime time I felt an electrical shock in my arm which held the ice-axe. My companions suffered likewise, so, as we were now only a few feet above the gap, we dropped our axes precipitately, for they were evidently a source of danger.

When we reached the neighborhood of the axes some rocks afforded partial shelter whilst the storm continued, and dense black clouds rolled across, heavily laden with powdery snow. All the time a strange fizzling noise appeared to flit here and there amongst the rocks, but gradually the space between the lightning and the thunder-crash grew appreciable. Then, after a fierce repetition of hailstones, the disturbance began to subside. In rather more than half an hour we were able to breathe more freely and enjoy the prospect as the mist rolled up, disclosing the sunlit valley 5,000 feet below with the monolithic Matterhorn piercing the surging vapor.

AN ELDERLY SPINSTER

How She Got Even With an Inquisitive Lawyer

At a recent trial in Scotland an elderly spinster was called to the witness-box to be examined.

"What is your age, madam?" inquired the counsel.

"Sir," answered the witness, "I am an unmarrit woman, and dinna think it right to answer that question."

The Judge interposed, and told her she should answer.

"Oh, weel, then," she said reluctantly, "I am fifty."

"Not more than fifty?" questioned the counsel, sternly.

"Weel, dinna fash yersel'," she replied, "I am sixty."

The inquisitive lawyer still futher asked if she had any hopes of getting married, to which Miss Jane replied:

"Weel sir, I winna tell a lie. I hinna lost hope yet"; scornfully adding, "but I widna marry you, for I'm sick and tired o' your palaver already."

FIRST ENGLISH NEWSPAPER

The first paper published in England was the "Weekly News," edited by Nathaniel Butler, which made its first bow to the public as long ago as the year 1622, in the year of the Great Plague. The same year (1622) saw the birth of the "London Weekly Courrant," and a score years later came a small family of "Mercuries," followed in 1663 by Sir Roger L'Estrange's "Public Intelligencer." Of all this brood of 17th century newspapers two have survived to our day—the "London Gazette" and Berrow's "Worcester Journal," which, as the "Worcester Postman," first saw the light in 1690, the year of the Bottle of the Boyne.

SUICIDE OF A WASP

Some time ago a scientist being curious to see the effect of benzine on a wasp, put some of it under a glass in which a wasp was imprisoned. The great annoyance and anger, darting at a piece of paper which had introduced the benzine into his cell. By and by he seems to have given up the unequal contest in despair, for he lay down on his back, and, bending up his abdomen, planted his sting thrice into his body, and then died. He is, therefore, of opinion says the "Family Doctor," that wasps, under desperate circumstances, commit suicide.

A PIGEON'S FEAT

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—
LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

Awakened to the unspeakable treachery of their foe, officers and men rushed into the water and strove with might and main to shove the boats into deep water. They failed, for the unwieldy craft had been hauled purposely too high.

Here Ashe and Moore, and Bolton, hero of that lonely ride through the enemy's country, fell. Here, too, men shot their wives and children rather than permit them to fall into the hands of the fiends who had planned the massacre. Savage troopers urged their horses into the water and slashed cowering women with their sabers. Infants were torn from their mothers' arms, and tossed by sepoys from bayonet to bayonet. The sick and wounded, lying helpless in the burning craft, died in the agony of fire, and the few bold spirits who even in that ghastly hour tried to beat off their cowardly assailants were surrounded and shot down by overwhelming numbers.

One heavily-laden boat was dragged into the stream, and a few officers and men clambered on board. The voyage they made would supply material for an epic. They were followed along the banks and pursued by armed craft on the river. They fought al day and throughout the night, and, when the ungoverned boat ran ashore during a wild squall of wind and rain at daybreak, the surviving soldiers, a sergeant and eleven men, headed by Mowbray-Thomson of the 56th, and Delafosse of the 53rd, sprang out and charged some hundreds of sepoys and hostile villagers who had gathered on the bank.

The craven-hearted gang yielded before the Englishmen's fierce onslaught. The tiny band turned to fight their way back, and found that the boat had drifted off again! Then they seized a Hindu temple on the bank and held it until the sepoys piled burning timber against the rear walls and threw bags of powder on the fire!

Fixing bayonets and leaving the sergeant dead in the doorway, they charged again into the mass of the enemy. Six fell. The remainder reached the river, threw aside their guns, and plunged boldly in. Two were shot while swimming, and one man, unable to swim any distance, coolly made his way ashore again and faced his murderers until he sank beneath their blows.

Mowbray-Thomson, Delafosse, and Privates Murphy and Sullivan, swam six miles with the stream, and were finally rescued and helped by a friendly native.

Those four were all who came alive out of the Inferno of Cawnpore. The boat, after clearing the shoal, was captured by the mutineers. Major Vibart of the 2nd Cavalry, who was so severely wounded that he could not join in the earlier fighting, and some eighty helpless souls under his command, were brought back to the city of death. There, by orders of the Nana, the men were slain forthwith and the women and children were taken to a building in which they found one hundred and twenty-five others, who had been spared for the Brahmin's own terrible purposes from the butchery at Massacre Ghat on the 27th.

Returning to Bithoor the Nana was proclaimed Peishwa amid the booming of cannon and the plaudits of his retainers. He passed a week in drunken revels and debauchery, and when, in ignorance of its fate, a small company of European fugitives from Fategarh sought refuge at Cawnpore, he amused himself by having all the men but three killed in his presence. These three and the women and children who accompanied them, were sent to a small house known as the Bibigarh, in which the whole of the captives, now numbering two hundred and eleven, were imprisoned.

Many died, and they were happiest. The survivors were subjected to every indignity, given the coarsest food, and forced to grind corn for their conqueror, who, early in July, took up his abode in a large building at Cawnpore overlooking the house in which the unhappy people were penned.

But the period of their earthly sufferings was drawing to a close. An avenging army was moving swiftly up the Grand Trunk Road from Allahabad. The Nana's nephew and two of his lieutenants, leading a large force against the British, were badly defeated. On the 15th of July came the alarming tidings that the Feringhis were only a day's march from the city.

The Furies must have chosen that date. The Nana, the man who thought himself fit to be a king, decided that Havelock would turn back if there were no more English left in Cawnpore! So as a preliminary to the greater tragedy, five men who had escaped death thus far—no one knows whence two of them came—were brought forth and slaughtered at the feet of the renowned Peishwa. Then a squad of sepoys were told to "shoot all the women and children in the Bibigarh through the windows of the house."

Poor wretches—they were afraid to refuse, yet their gorge rose at the deed, and they fired at the ceiling! Such weakness was annoying to the puissant Brahmin. He selected two Mohammedan butchers, an Afghan, and two out-caste Hindus, to do his bidding. Armed with long knives, these five fiends entered the shambles. Alas how can the scene that followed be described!

Yet, not even then was the sacrifice complete. Some who were wounded but not killed, a few children who crept under the garments of their dead mothers lived until the morning. Not all the native soldiers were so lost to human sympathies that they did not shudder at the groans and muffled cries that came all night from the house of sorrows. Some of them have left records of sights and sounds too horrible to translate from their Eastern tongue.

But the rumble of distant guns told the destroyer that his short-lived hour of triumph was nearly sped. In a paroxysm of rage and fear, he gave the final order, and the Well of Cawnpore thereby attained its ghastly immortality. By his command all that piteous company of women and children, the living and the dead together, were thrown into a deep well that stood in the garden of Bibigarh—the House of the Woman.

It was thus that Nana Sahib strove to cloak his crime. Yet never did foul murderer flaunt deed more glaringly in the face of Heaven. Fifty years have passed, myriads of human beings have lived and died since the well swallowed the Nana's victims, but the memory of those gracious women, of those golden-haired children, of those dear little infants born while the guns thundered around the entrenchment, shall endure forever. The Nana sought oblivion and forgetfulness for his sin. He earned the anger of the gods and the malediction of the world, then and for all time.

CHAPTER VII.

To Lucknow

The tragedy of Massacre Ghat, intensified by the crowning infamy of the Well, brought a new element into the struggle. Hitherto not one European in a hundred in India regarded the Mutiny as other than a local, though serious, attempt to revive a fallen dynasty. The excesses at Meerut, Delhi, and other towns were looked upon as the work of unbridled mobs. Sepoys who revolted and shot their officers came under a different category to the slayers of tender women and children. But the planned and ordered treachery of Cawnpore changed all that. Thenceforth every British-born man in the country not only realized that the government had been forced into a Titanic contest, but he was also swayed by a personal and absorbing lust for vengeance. Officers and men, regulars and volunteers alike, took the field with the fixed intent of exacting an expiatory life for each hair on the head of those unhappy victims. And they kept the vow they made. To this day, though half a century has passed, the fertile plain of the Doab—that great tract between the Ganges and the Jumna—is dotted with the ruins of gutted towns and depopulated villages. But that was not yet. India was fated to be almost lost before it was won again.

On the night of June 4th, when the roomy budgerow carrying Winifred Mayne and her escort drifted away from the walls of the Nana's palace at Bithoor, there was not a breath of wind on the river. The mat sail was useless, but a four-mile-an-hour current carried the unwieldy craft slowly down stream, and there was not the slightest doubt in the minds of either of the Englishmen on board as to their course of action.

Mr. Mayne was acquainted with Cawnpore and Sir Hugh Wheeler was an old friend of his.

"Wheeler has no great force at his disposal," said he to Malcolm. "It is evident that the native regiments have just broken out here, but, by this time, our people in the cantonment must have heard of events elsewhere, and they have surely seized the Magazine, which is well fortified and stands on the river. If I can believe a word that the Nana said, the sepoys will rush off to Delhi to-night, just as they did at Meerut, Aligarh, and Etawah. I am convinced that our best plan is to hug the right bank and disembark near the Magazine."

"Is it far?" asked Malcolm.

"About eight miles."

"I wonder why the Begum was so insistent that we should go back along the Grand Trunk Road?"

Mayne hesitated. He knew that Winifred was listening.

"It is hard to account for the vagaries of a woman's mind, or, shall I say, of the mind of such a woman," he answered lightly. "You will remember that when you came to our assistance outside Meerut she was determined to take us, willy-nilly, to Delhi."

Malcolm, who had heard Roshinara's impassioned speech and looked into her blazing eyes, thought that her motives were stronger than mere caprice. He never dreamed of the true reason, but he feared that she knew Cawnpore had fallen and her curiously friendly regard for himself might have inspired her advice. Here, again, Winifred,s presence tied his tongue.

"Well," he said, with a cheerless laugh, "I, at any rate, must endeavor to reach Wheeler. I am supposed to be bearing despatches, but they were taken from me when I was knocked off my horse in the village—"

"Were you attacked?" asked Winifred, and the quiet solicitude in her voice was sweetest music in her lover's ears.

His brief recital of the night's adventures was followed by the story of the others' journey and detention at Bithoor. It may be thought that Mr. Mayne, with his long experience of India, should have read more clearly the sinister lesson to be derived from the treatment meted out that night to a British Officer by the detachment of sowars, amplified, as it was, by their open reference to the Nana as a Maharajah. But he was Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Cured His Rheumatism In Three Weeks.

James LeB. Johnstone, a prominent member of the Citizen's Band, of Chatham, writes:

"I contracted Rheumatism by exposure, five years ago, and was ailing for two months and in great pain all the time. I got Father Morriscy's No. 7 Tablets and took them for about three weeks, when the Rheumatism all left me and I have had no return of the pains since."

Rev. Father Morriscy

Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets have cured thousands of this terribly painful disease.

Rheumatism is generally brought on by exposure, but is really caused by Uric Acid in the blood. This Uric Acid is an irritating poison, formed from the waste matter of the body. The kidneys should remove it, but when they fail it poisons the blood, and, settling in the joints, causes Rheumatism.

"No. 7" Tablets clear out the clogged-up Kidneys and stimulate them to perform their task of filtering the Uric Acid out of the blood. When this is done the Rheumatism simply and naturally vanishes.

"No 7" Tablets cost 50c. At your dealer's. 28

A Good Idea in Hair Treatment.

The trouble with most women's hair is that they won't take the time to give it proper treatment. If you want your hair to have that look of lustre and vitality, you must take care of it.

You cannot expect to have splendid hair if you simply run a comb through it in the morning—give it a dab on the outer edge with a brush—throw it into a braid—switch it around the head—jab in a few hair pins—and let it go at that.

Hair is like any other growing thing—it needs attention—it needs care—it needs thorough grooming regularly—not only the hair but the scalp.

If you have the time and patience you won't need any hair tonic—but most women haven't. The next best thing is Nyal's Hirsutone. It is the best thing offered to take the place of hours of combing and brushing.

It tones up the roots, brightens the color, improves the texture and makes it stay gracefully where it is put.

Hirsutone literally revitalizes the neglected hair.

Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends Hirsutone because he knows.

In artistic bottles $1.00 and 50c.

HOME WEDDING IN THURLOW

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rombough Schryer of Thurlow on Wednesday evening, Feb. 15th, when their youngest daughter, Lucy Edna, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John Reid of Vancouver, B.C.; Rev. A. E. Cameron of Melrose tieing the nuptial knot.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of the bridal chorus, becomingly gowned in a dress of apricot, silk, crepe de chene with trimmings of lace and pearls and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations; her sister, Miss Adora Schryer of Toronto, acting as bridesmaid, wore a dress of silk San Toy with a bouquet of pink carnations, and Mrs. P. Mather of Corbyville, in silk voille, with bouquet of pink and white carnations, acted as matron of honor. Mr. Harry C. Taylor of Shannonville supported the groom, and the bride's sister, Mrs. J. N. Vandervoort of Belleville, presided at the piano.

After the ceremony, the many friends and relatives repaired to the dining room where they partook of the festivities prepared for the occasion, after which the usual toasts were given.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, among others, a gold watch and ring from the groom and $50 from the father.

The happy couple, with the good wishes of their many friends, left on the 1.50 train Wednesday for their new home in the west, the bride travelling in a taupe broadcloth suit with a becoming beaver hat and willow plume.

WOMEN SUFFER

MORE THAN MEN

Women have more than their share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity. They must "keep up" in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, etc. Mrs. Edward Calwood of 123 S. Harold Street, Fort William, Ont., says:

"I suffered with dull, miserable pains, soreness across my back and in my sides for months. They would cater me so badly at times that I could scarcely more around. I would have dizzy spells, and altogether, felt generally run down. After using a number of remedies without finding relief, I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and found them an excellent remedy. They not only relieved me of the miserable pains and soreness in my back but cured me of my kidney trouble."

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills cure Backache, Dull Shooting Pains, Thick and Cloudy Urine, Gravel or Stone, Rheumatism and all diseases of the kidneys and bladder. All druggists and dealers 50c. box or post paid from the R. T. Booth Co. Fort Erie, Ont. If you derive no benefit your money will be refunded. Could we say more? Sold and Guaranteed by J. V. NEW CINDERELLA SUES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 21.— Besides revealing an especially unpleasant experience in the ordeal of trying on a pair of shoes, a suit in the Municipal Court by Mrs. Eva Heyman, wife of Alexander H. Heyman, a lawyer, discloses that Mrs. Heyman has an unusually small foot and high instep.

She wears a No. 1½ shoe. The suit is directed against a local shoe company and is for $950.

Mrs. Heyman finds such difficulty in obtaining a pair to fit that it is her custom to have her shoes made to order in New York. But needing a pair in a hurry last fall, and being told by a friend that she could get a pair of No. 1½'s at the defendant's store, she went there for them on November 2. This is Mr. Heyman's version of what happened:

"My wife found what seemed a suitable pair, and ordered the buttons set over on them, for she has a high instep, and later went back to try them on. They sent a boy about fourteen years to try on her shoes, and he bruised her feet until they bled, cutting her stockings and causing her so much pain that she has not fully recovered yet.

"The wife of a prominent business man was with her at the time, and will testify at the hearing. Mrs. Heyman paid the money for the shoes which has not been returned, although I have asked for it.

"There is no way for me to go about it but to sue. If they had put a man to work fitting the shoes I could go over there and lick him to the amount of the money. I can't go over there and pick on a fourteen year-old boy."

Pirate's Coins.

The doubloon, that famous coin of romance, is still in circulation. The Isabella doubloon, worth $5, still remains current in Cuba. The doubloon is so called because when first coined it was double the value of a pistole—that is, it was worth $8. The name was given later to a double doubloon current in the West Indies. Pieces of eight, with which every reader of "Robinson Crusoe" is familiar, are also in circulation. They are simply Spanish dollars of eight reals. A doubloon dated 1787—there are said to be only six of that date in existence—sold a year or six ago for $6,200.—New York Press.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

BOXING — BASKETBALL

HOCKEY.

On Monday evening at the Arena two city hockey matches took place and both games were well contested. The first match was between teams representing the T. A. S. and the XV Regiment. The Regiment boys won by a score of 4 to 3. The second match was between the Y. M. C. A and O. B. C. teams. The College boys proved to be victors, winning by a score of 3 to 2. The referee of the matches was Mr. W. Allen.

The Frontenacs of Kingston, defeated the Osawa Juniors last night, by 11-7. Had Clayton Frechette been sufficiently recovered from a severe illness to play his position at left wing the score could have been closer—perhaps in favor of Oshawa.

Stirling, Feb. 20.—Marmora and Stirling played the first of a home-and-home series to break a tie in the Trent Valley League at this town to-night. The game was fast and close and resulted in a tie of four goals each. The final game of the season will be played at Marmora Friday the 24th.

Canadiens beat Renfrew 4-2 at Montreal last night.

BOXING.

London, Feb. 21.— Bill Lang, who once held the heavyweight championship of Australia, was no match for Sam Langford, the Canadian colored pugilist, in a scheduled twenty-round bout at the Olympia to-night. Langford won in the sixth round, when Lang was disqualified, but the contest could not have gone on much longer as Lang was about out when he committed the foul.

Six thousand spectators gathered at the Olympia to witness what they expected would be a fast bout. After six rounds, when Langford was down the Australian, in a dazed sort of a way, rushed at the Canadian and struck him, and immediately the referee proclaimed Langford the winner.

The saying "a good big man will always beat a good little man," proved a fallacy, for the Australian with all his natural advantages, including 52 pounds extra in weight, was hopelessly outclassed by the colored fighter who walked into him and hit him from all angles and when he willed. Lang was all nerves. He seemed scared to death. The only redeeming feature in Lang's showing was his gameness in taking punishment. As early as the first round Sam punched him all over the ring. In the second the negroe forced the Australian into a corner and dropped him for a count of nine with terrific left and right swings to the jaw.

Attell's English Protege.

New York, Feb. 21.— According to The World, Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, has imported a near-champion. The newcomer is Joseph Shear, whom Attell came across in England. Shear has Attell's statement of approval, and is at present working under Attell's direction for his American debut. He weighs 115 pounds, and according to Attell, is the cleverest boxer for his weight on the other side. Shear will make his first appearance at the National Sporting Club here on Thursday night in a preliminary match.

YACHTING.

Rochester, Feb. 20.—Following weeks of correspondence the Rochester Yacht Club to-day received from the Royal Canadian Yacht Club three typewritten pages of conditions to govern the proposed series of races for the Fisher Cup.

When the Vice-Commodore of the local club puts his signature to the articles to-morrow the last preliminary will have been disposed of and it will remain simply for Rochester to send the Seneca across the water to compete with the choice of the Queen City salts for the trophy now held on Canadian soil.

From the conditions it seems possible that the R. C. Y. C. will build a new defender. Sept. 2nd, Sept. 4th and Sept. 5th have been set aside for the Fisher Cup races, with the L. Y. R. A. racing programme and the George Cup races preceeding, which will give Toronto eight straight days of yachting, beginning Aug. 28th. There is local talk of engaging Addison Hanan to sail the Seneca in the Fisher Cup series.

HIS QUEST FOR A WIFE.

John Newcomb Was a Close Observer and Was Hard to Suit.

The sister of Simon Newcomb, the great astronomer, tells in McClure's of their father's John Newcomb's wanderings in search of a wife, whom he had decided to select in accordance with scientific theories:

"John Newcomb stopped at farmhouses for his refreshment, and in each house, if there was a daughter of marriageable age, he tarried perhaps a day or even longer to make a study of the maiden. He always made himself 'handy' about the place, drawing up water with the great well sweep, bringing in firewood—doing anything that he could do and still keep near the daughter.

"Disappointment met him at every door. At one house the cooking was poor, at another the house was not neatly kept, at a third there was scolding or faultfinding, a want of harmony—and in all the maidens a lack of desire for learning or education. One young woman little knew by what a narrow margin she missed her fate. All was going smoothly till, when she was molding the dough for the baking pans, he noticed that a considerable portion of the dough was left in the wooden kneading trough. He asked her the reason for this, and her reply was that she left it for the horse because he was fond of it. She always did this, she said; there was plenty. 'Want of thrift,' decided the young man, and he shouldered his bundle and walked on."

Told Who He Was.

Dr. Beadon, a former rector in Eltham, Kent, England, one Sunday preached from the text "Who art thou?" After reading it he made a pause for the congregation to reflect upon the words, when a man in military dress who at that instant was marching very sedately up the middle aisle of the church, supposing it a question addressed to him, replied, "I am, sir, an officer of the Sixteenth regiment of foot on a recruiting party here, and, having brought my wife and family with me, I am come to church because I wished to be acquainted with the neighboring clergy and gentry." This so deranged the divine and astonished the congregation that the sermon was concluded with considerable difficulty.

Ringing For Gofer.

Among the queer church customs in England is the one observed at Newark parish church, called 'ringing for gofer.' This custom, which has lasted for over 300 years, arose through a wealthy merchant named Gofer losing himself one October night in the forest that then surrounded Newark. He carried much money, and the forest was infested with thieves. Suddenly he heard the sound of Newark bells and was guided safely home by their music. To commemorate his escape Gofer left a goodly sum for Newark bell ringers on condition that they "rang for Gofer" every year on Sunday nights in October and November.

HOME MARKET ENOUGH

Dr. Sproule Says Tariff Treaty Is Unnecessary.

Nova Scotia Supporter of Government Says United States Is the Natural Market For the Maritime Provinces—Hon. Mr. Lemieux Makes First Ministerial Speech In the Debate—"Throw Open the Doors," He Cries.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Geo. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.), continuing the debate on the reciprocity agreement, gave an enthusiastic endorsation of the Government's proposals, more particularly because of the good effect he said they would have on the industries of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Kyte said that with the exception of coal and steel, reciprocity between the Maritime Provinces and Ontario and Quebec had consisted in an exchange of the manufactured products of the latter for the cash currency of the people by the sea. At times, he admitted, there was a market for Maritime potatoes in mid-Canada, and fish to a limited extent came as far west as Montreal, but the natural market for both products was to be found in the United States. The people of the Maritime Provinces had been trying to coax the residents of this part of Canada to buy their fish, but with little success.

Dr. Sproule (E. Grey) replied the argument of Mr. Kyte that there was no inter-provincial or English trade in fish by showing that out of $15,000,000 fish produced last year $5,209,000 had gone to England, but only $1,627,000 to the United States.

Was it a wise policy to say, as the member for Richmond argued, that the natural resources of Canada were for to-day and not for to-morrow. "What about posterity?" asked Dr. Sproule.

Canada wanted nothing but the opportunity to work out her own problems, and to preserve the home market for Canadian farmers. In support of this demand Dr. Sproule pointed out that until the duty of three cents per pound had been placed on fresh meat the Canadian industry was dormant. So, too, the prohibition of the import of process butter and filled cheese had developed the native industry, and these Canadian products had a leading reputation in the markets of the world. In the horse-breeding industry he said that the splendid stock of the eastern provinces would be driven out of its natural market in the west through competition with the cayuse and broncho.

"Reciprocity can mean only one thing," said Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, "the development, progress and ultimate grandeur of both countries." He twitted Dr. Sproule for being sentimental, reminiscent and witty in propounding his "tale of woe."

"Granted," he said, "that we have good times, but our policy is to have better times. Granted that we have good markets, which we, of the Liberal party have created (applause), we want better markets still; and let my hon. friend (Dr. Sproule) add this line: Yes, and let Canada with better times and better markets work out its own destiny under the aegis of the British flag."

"Let us," he said, "rise to the proper height; let us not be little Canada; let us trust ourselves in this bargain with the United States."

"Canada can absorb the United States. The United States materially cannot absorb Canada. Mr. Borden's motto was to let well enough alone. In view of the wonderful heritage of Canadians we could afford to adopt as a substitute for that motto: 'Let us open wide the gates of the country; let us not be afraid to bargain and to trade with our neighbors.'"

Mr. Lemieux emphasized his point by declaring that Great Britain was not afraid to trade east and west, north and south.

Found Dead In Bed.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—Ovid Miner Gould, one of Montreal's best known business men, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning by his brother, Joseph, at the latter's home, 287 Peel street. The physician who was called, stated that life had been extinct several hours.

Mr. Gould complained the day before of feeling unwell and a doctor was called. It was discovered that one of the valves of his heart was affected.

About twenty years ago Mr. Gould formed the cold storage company which bears his name, and of which he was a director and general manager. He is survived by one brother, Joseph Gould, sr. Joseph Gould, jr., librarian at McGill University, is his nephew.

Radial Motorman Brutally Assaulted.

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 22.—Motorman Charles Anderson, employed on the Windsor, Sandwich & Amherstburg Railway, was found lying face downward in a pool of blood on the floor of his car in an unconscious condition by his conductor, Abraham Derbyshire, about 10.30 Monday night.

It is thought that Anderson was assaulted by some one who mistook him for the conductor with intent to commit robbery.

Failed to Consult Interests.

Washington, Feb. 22.—By adroit questioning Senator Hale of Maine yesterday in opposing the Canadian reciprocity agreement in the hearings given by the Senate committee on finance put into the record statements by witnesses that President Taft, Secretary of State Knox and the American commissioners had failed to consult the interests affected by the agreement negotiated.

Companies May Appeal.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The C.P.R. and the C.N.R. were yesterday given leave to appeal to the Supreme Court by the Railway Commission against the ruling of the board in the Regina rate case, judgment which was handed down on Dec. 19 last.

Burn Caused Open Sore

Zam-Buk Worked a Wonderful Cure.

Sometimes a bad burn, a deep cut or some similar injury, sets up a more permanent injury, in the form of an open discharging sore. In such cases Zam-Buk will be found of unequalled value.

Mr. J. Nixon, of 901 William Ave. Winnipeg, a blacksmith at the C.P.R shops, had his foot badly burned by some molten metal falling upon it, he says: "The burn was a very bad one and after the first few days it left an open sore, which showed marked signs of blood-poisoning. It discharged freely and caused me terrible agony. For three weeks I suffered acutely and could get no ease. At last I obtained a preparation from the doctor, which seemed to stop the discharging and made me quite hopeful, but finally the wound became as bad as ever.

"I was then advised to use Zam-Buk, and from the first application the balm gave me relief. The inflammation was thoroughly checked, and the poisonous matter cleared away in a very short time after beginning with Zam-Buk. Healing then began, and in less than two weeks the wound was thoroughly healed."

One of the main lessons of this case lies right here—try Zam-Buk first for any injury, sore, skin disease or wound. It is equally good for piles blood-poisoning, festering wounds chaps, cold sores, children's eruptions scalp sores, varicose ulcers, chilblains etc. All druggists and stores sell it 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful substitutes and inferior preparations which yield a bigger margin of profit and are sometimes pushed as being "just as good." [Nothing just as good.

Hon. M. H. Richey, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, died at Halifax.

The Grand Trunk will relay the line between London and the Falls with 100-pound rails.

The Government will take private members' day in the Commons owing to the necessity of transacting of important business.

Halifax Liberals gave a complimentary banquet to Premier Murray, at which the latter discussed the advantages of reciprocity to the Atlantic fishermen.

Nine Montreal families were driven out into the cold and biting wind last night when fire broke out in a three-storey stone front block on Hutchinson street. Twelve flats were damaged.

A bold attempt at robbery was made in the jewelry store of W. Wharin, 441 Spadina avenue, Toronto, at 4.30 yesterday afternoon, when he was struck on the head with the butt of a massive revolver in the hands of a masked man.

Annexation of Canada came before the North Dakota Legislature yesterday when Representative Sorlie introduced a resolution asking North Dakota members in Congress to use their influence in bringing about a peaceable annexation treaty.

To Break Up Steamship Combine.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—A despatch from London states that the Canadian Pacific Railway is threatening to break up the Atlantic steamship combine unless it receives a greater proportion of the emigrant traffic. G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the C.P.R., however, when interviewed on the subject yesterday, said that he did not believe that there was anything in it.

The substance of the cable is as follows:

"The Canadian Pacific states that unless it is allowed a larger percentage of the North Atlantic emigrant traffic, it will not consent to the continuance of the pool after its expiration next month. As a precautionary measure, this line has already given notice of the termination of all contracts."

A Follow Up Deputation.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Jas. Bower of Red Deer, Alta., president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture and of the United Farmers of Alberta, arrived in the city yesterday with representatives from Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario, to press upon the Government the necessity of granting in full the demands made by the farmers' delegation in Dec. 16.

Gift to Lloyd-George.

London, Feb. 22.—Rev. R. J. Campbell, writing in a monthly magazine, narrates that the Home Secretary told him he and the Chancellor of the Exchequer had received gifts from a Canadian workingman made by himself. The donor said he was sending it in gratitude for what the recipients had been doing for the poor here.

Minnesota Wants Delay.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 22.—The Minnesota Senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 26 passed a resolution requesting Congress to hold the Canadian reciprocity agreement over until the next regular session in order that the people may have an opportunity to study the question.

More Cruisers For France.

Paris, Feb. 22.—Admiral Boue de Lapeyere, Minister of Marine, asserted in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday that the French navy ought to be strengthened by the addition of two armored cruisers.

WATERED STOCK EVILS

J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., Presses For Vote on His Bill.

Stung by Taunt of Allan Studholme, West Hastings Man Refuses to Withdraw Measure Originally Brought Up For Discussion—W. J. McCart Wants Half Truths and Is Forced to Hear Both Sides of Story.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Lively passages between the Premier and members who were disinclined to abide by the traditional usages of Parliamentary procedure and a stirring debate on the question of watered stocks, afforded visitors to the Ontario Legislature an interesting afternoon yesterday at the Parliament Buildings. In addition, a number of bills were introduced, or given second or third readings.

Cabinet Ministers and the members paid close attention to the speech of J. W. Johnson, West Hastings, upon the question of watered stock. The sequel was an animated debate with the mover, a Government supporter, refusing to accede to his leader's suggestion to withdraw the bill. The Prime Minister said he had been given to understand that the measure was introduced to enable the mover and the House to discuss the position of affairs with respect to over-capitalization.

All might have gone smoothly but for the fact that Allan Studholme rose with a denunciation of anybody who would be weak-backed enough to withdraw a good measure just because his party didn't like it. Mr. Johnson resented quickly the imputation and declared that he would press the motion. When the vote was finally taken it was lost, of course, and Mr. Johnson did not call for a division, but it occasioned a very heated debate.

Mr. Johnson declared that watered stock made the poor man poorer and the rich man richer. It was an instrument of tyranny, the evil of which had been exampled in the United States. It was applied in effecting mergers and combines. The bait held out to the consumer was the promise of an increased production and a reduced price. The results were inevitably the reverse.

The Canadian Express Co. had, Mr. Johnson declared, with a capital asset of $212,000, watered its stock up to $3,000,000, and the Dominion Express Co. had beaten this a long way.

The Canadian Canners, he said, started by merging thirty-four factories, then the Dominion Canners added fourteen more. Thirty thousand dollars each would be a high valuation to put on the forty-eight factories, so that $1,440,000 would be the limit of their tangible assets. Yet the capitalization was $5,700,000. The difference of $4,260,000 is watered stock, and the company had, under its charter, the reserve power to issue $12,000,000 more of stock.

In 1910 the company made a profit of $400,000, which was 27 per cent. on its actual assets.

Hon. Mr. Hanna then asked that the bill be withdrawn. Studholme protested, and Mr. Johnson decided to let it stand. Several members joined in the debate, declaring that the bill was inadequate to meet the case.

When the vote was taken the roar of "No's" was like thunder compared to the "Ayes," and Mr. Johnson declared that he would not press for a division.

"Lost," announced the Speaker.

Hon. J. S. Duff moved the second reading of the pure milk bill, the provisions of which were recently published. The Minister of Agriculture said that the bill enacted into law the recommendations of the milk commission.

John Shaw, North Toronto, introduced the Toronto City Bill, which embodies the legislation asked for by the Toronto City Council.

A. E. Fripp, Ottawa West (Con.), again introduced his bill to permit municipalities to place a lower rate of taxation on improvements than on land. Mr. Fripp states that this principle is being extensively applied in the west with most satisfactory results in stimulating the holding of unimproved land out of the market.

W. J. McCart, Stormont, (Lib.), felt the crushing power of an adverse majority when he refused to accept a Government suggestion. The incident arose over his motion for an order of the House for a return showing the number of officials, clerks and employes in the various branches of the Provincial Secretary's Department on Feb. 1, 1905, and on Jan. 1, 1911, with the salaries in each case.

Hon. W. J. Hanna expressed a willingness to furnish the return if the "additional work and results" were included.

Mr. McCart objected to any addition to the order. It contained all he wanted to know.

Sir James Whitney said that probably other members of the House would like the complete information.

Let them ask for it was Mr. McCart's attitude.

Thereupon the sledge hammer fell. Sir James immediately moved Mr. Hanna's addition as an amendment and the order as amended was finally declared "carried."

On Dr. Lacklen's bill to extend the powers of tax collectors to follow taxable goods to any part of the same county, Hon. W. J. Hanna said that the bill as prepared might cause injury to innocent persons who had acquired the goods followed. The bill went to the committee.

G. Pattinson's bill to govern the construction of bridges by adjacent municipalities was given a second reading.

Geo. H. Gooderham, South Toronto, introduced a bill to confer on the Ontario Motor League the same powers respecting the erection of road signs as formerly enjoyed by the Canadian Wheelmen's Association.

John Shaw, North Toronto, introduced the Toronto City Bill, which embodies the legislative proposals of the City Council.

Hon. A. G. MacKay gave notice that he would ask the following:

"Has the Government cancelled the charters of any companies, incorporated under the Ontario Companies' Act, on the ground that they have failed to file their annual returns? And if so, how many?

It appears that the final reports of companies are required to be filed with the Provincial Secretary by Feb. 8 each year. If they fail to be received, letters of warning are sent to the delinquent concerns.

VETO DEBATE ON.

First Day's Feature Is a Great Speech by Mr. Balfour.

London, Feb. 22.—The first day's debate on the Government's bill to abolish the veto power of the House of Lords, while it failed to indicate definitely the fate of the measure in the hands of the House of Lords, left no doubt as to the attitude of the Premier.

Mr. Balfour's speech was the great event of the day. He said that he distrusted the policy of making the House of Lords a purely elective body. In no country, in neither the United States nor France, had that been found consistent with the predominance of the Lower House. If, therefore it was wished that the House of Commons predominate, the hereditary principle should be continued. He indicated that he would consent to no change of the constitution which would allow Parliament to pass the home rule bill without this bill having been voted on by the electorate. In other words, he would not acquiesce in the home rule question being submitted to a second chamber differing only from the existing House of Lords in being bereft of its absolute power.

The Unionists members cheered again and again when Mr. Balfour declared that he would fight against a revolution on which the people had not been consulted, carried out, not at the bidding of the majority of the House, but at the bidding of the Nationalist minority.

Creates Plumber a Lord.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—Harry Plate, a plumber of Hanover, who attained the great distinction of being raised to the dignity of life membership in the Prussian House of Lords on the emperor's birthday, is the first artisan who has ever attained such a position.

The new member of this most exclusive body is not a mere theorist, but a man who has had to work at his trade for his living, and he has passed through every grade. He served the usual four years' apprenticeship, then packed his tools and for several years tramped through the German states, Switzerland, Italy and France, working wherever he could find a job. Finally he settled in Hanover, where he eventually set up independently and became prominent in the plumbers' organization and president at several artisans' congresses.

The Prussian House of Lords has hitherto consisted exclusively of members of the nobility, great scientists and educators, manufacturers and commercial men, prominent bankers, mayors of cities and retired military and naval officers.

In selecting Harry Plate to join their councils his majesty has carried out a request formulated in a petition from the last artisans' congress for representation in the lawmaking bodies of Prussia, and this self-made man was indicated to him as the best possible choice he could make for the honor.

Ask Health Officer's Resignation.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The typhoid troubles of Ottawa have raised considerable criticism of the Board of Health and the medical health officer. There is an accusation of the dereliction of duty of both regarding the entrance of pollution in the water supply. Outspoken public opinion was retaliated to by a proposal by the Board of Health agreeing on its own efficiency and proposing to raise salaries all round in the department. This was the last straw, and the City Council, after a warm debate, asked the Board of Control to reorganize the discredited department.

Last night the controllers asked for the resignation of Dr. Law, medical health officer, around whose head the storm has raged.

Meantime there is a serious move in the city towards government by commission, owing to many acts of the aldermen recently. On this point one newspaper has taken a plebescite which gives 98 per cent. in favor of Ottawa being made practically a federal district under a commission.

Sing Sing Means Slow Death.

Albany, Feb. 22.—The annual report of the State Commission of Prisons, just made public, again calls attention to the unsanitary condition of Sing Sing Prison, and says a long sentence there is often a sentence to slow death because of the prevalence of tuberculosis.

The report further says that many prisoners are discharged incapacitated from earning a living, and frequently, on leaving Sing Sing, spread tuberculosis.

Town Hall on Fire.

Brockville, Feb. 22.—Fire was discovered at an early hour yesterday morning in the basement of Brockville's Town Hall. The police on duty detected the smell of smoke, which soon filled the premises, and on investigation located the blaze. Plumbers had been at work on the premises, and a pot of hot lead ignited the woodwork adjoining.

Ex-Banker Off to Sing Sing.

New York, Feb. 22.—Wm. Montgomery, former president of the Hamilton Bank, which failed in 1907, was sentenced yesterday to no less than two years and two months and not more than five years in Sing Sing Penitentiary for grand larceny. The judge said that crimes of this sort were becoming too prevalent.

Had Fortune, Didn't Know It.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 22.—When J. E. Herold, a local barber, found an unaddressed but official looking envelope on the street a few days ago, he picked it up and put it in his pocket. Yesterday he was startled to find it contained checks from the State Treasurer's office aggregating $80,565.

A LEGAL INVENTION.

That Is What Mr. Warren Calls the Charge Against Him.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—J. J. Warren, general manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., has made a statement regarding his alleged connection with the Farmers' Bank, which he regards as only an ordinary business transaction.

He said, in part: I have lived in this community for almost twenty-five years, during which period, while no doubt I have made mistakes, yet never knowingly did I injure anybody. Without any enquiry or request for information from me, I find myself charged with two offences. One that I conspired with Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, the provisional board of directors and others to do an illegal act. The other that I accepted a pledge of the notes (circulation) of the Farmers' Bank, and therefore made a loan of them as security.

The offences charged are of a technical character. The first one in particular is undoubtedly the invention of a legal mind, whose I do not know yet. The other I am advised is based on a misunderstanding of the Bank Act.

At the time of the alleged committing of the first offence I did not know nor was I acquainted with Dr. Nesbitt or any member of the provisional board. I did not meet Dr. Nesbitt until he ran for mayor. I have never yet met the provisional directors, except Dr. Ferguson.

In the fall of 1906, as an official of the Trust Co., I made W. R. Travers personally a call loan on the security of a large number of satisfactory promissory notes. Counsel advised us that the business was perfectly legal and proper. Ultimately the loan was paid off in full. Moreover, the notes that formed the security were also paid in full.

I was no party to the representations Mr. Travers made at Ottawa. I did not know what they were.

In regard to the other offence, the Farmers' Bank was in the habit of depositing with us their notes (circulation), which we paid out in the ordinary course of our business. The amount of each deposit was placed to the credit of the bank which could and did draw against it by check. We never loaned $5 against the circulation of the Farmers' Bank.

Further, I never made five cents personally out of the Farmers' Bank business, every cent of profit went to the Trust Company, to whom it belonged.

Irish Boycott Coronation.

London, Feb. 22.—At a meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party last night it was decided to abstain from participating in the coronation ceremonies. A statement was issued to the effect that the party greatly regretted that the time had not yet come when it would feel free to join other representatives of the King, although the cause of Irish liberty was on the eve of victory. Promise was made that when the King visited Ireland the people would welcome him with generosity and hospitality.

Hardware Men Convene.

Peterboro, Feb. 22.—The sixth annual convention and exhibition of the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association was formally opened here yesterday in the armories, with a registered attendance of nearly 400 hardware men and 80 exhibits. Many delegates are due to arrive by to-day and the convention has every indication of eclipsing all former years in success.

Wall Street Against Reciprocity.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Congressman E. J. Hill, of Connecticut, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, delivered an address before the local Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon yesterday, in which he charged Wall street as the source from which all opposition to the reciprocity measure has sprung.

Hull's Chief of Police Accused.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Charges were made against Chief Marcoux of the Hull police force yesterday. Mrs. Jos. Canadien, during the hearing of a non-support claim against her husband, alleged that Marcoux had made improper overtures to her. He is an ex-member of the Dominion police. He denies the charge.

organic disease is the result. Natural secretions of organs are put in check and abnormal secretions ensue, such as uric acid and other poisonous secretions. Extreme nervous excitement has been the cause of poisonous secretions in the milk of mothers nursing infants.

Therefore, when the great central nervous system is irritated and robbed of its power, by excessive eye strain, it is impossible to say what part of the body may be made to suffer, and it is also impossible to determine what relief will naturally folow a correction of these visual defects.

One of the principal effects sought with glasses is to check the waste or loss of energy from useless brain strain, this energy being needed for functioning other parts of the body.

POLISH BLUEBEARD HAS TWENTY WIVES

CRACOW, Feb. 21.—David Kochmel, known throughout Austrian and Russian Poland as "the king of beggars," is about to be tried on charges of polygamy. Curious revelations of the beggars' underworld are expected.

This "Polish Bluebeard," as he is called, started his begging career at the age of 14. An intelligent lad, he travelled from town to town gathering precious hints from flourishing mendicants of various categories.

Gradually he evolved an admirable organization, which, it is alleged proved very lucrative. In several towns he is said to have started schools for beggars, clever children being trained in the theory and practice of imposing on the charitable public.

Kochmel's downfall resulted from his polygamous disposition. In his travels he observed the special success of young beggar women, and it is alleged that he married a considerable number of the wealthiest, and thus obtained their savings. The police allege that he had a home in every town in the land, and state that they have already traced twenty of his "wives."

INJURED WIFE'S TERRIBLE REVENGE

TANGIER, Feb. 20.—A rich and middle-aged Moor of Alcazar recently put away his wife, by whom he had several children and married a pretty girl of 16, who was already a widow. A week after the wedding he left his home on business, the first wife and her children remaining in the house with the second wife.

No sooner had the husband gone than the first wife and her children seized the bride, flung her down, rubbed cayenne pepper in her eyes and mouth, branded her with red-hot skewers and set fire to her hair. The husband returned just in time to save the victim's life, though she was disfigured and maimed for life when he arrived.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN WEIGH 900

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 20. Though history proves that kings and potentates have been hauled off their thrones, there is little likelihood that any one will attempt this feat against the person of King George II. of the Friendly Islands, in the South Seas, according to the officers of the Schooner Albert Meyer, which arrived recently.

If weight be any sort of a factor King George is safe, for when His Majesty had his last official weighing, two months ago, the beam would not balance until it had registered within a notch or two of 500 pounds. A moment later his young bride mounted the platform and came within a hundredweight of the quarter-ton mark.

His Majesty was interested to learn that thousands of miles from his palace at Nukualufa, Truba Island, there are persons who would give much to learn the secret of the royal diet which has produced such tremendous results.

The diet is no secret in the islands. His Majesty owes his huge bulk, as does the Queen to fondness for dogs—not as pets, but as food. They must be fat, and there must be plenty of them.

His Majesty says the best food for fattening dogs is the meat of the cocoanut and the flesh of the shark.

HE DIED FROM CARBOLIC ACID

KINGSTON, Feb. 21.—Drinking an ounce of carbolic acid, Cornelius Buddpen, aged about thirty years, and a popular young Kingstonian, took his life Monday night, about ten o'clock. He took the poison in a hotel. No reason can be assigned for his rash act, other than he was in ill-health and was suffering from a fit of despondency.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Advices to the Ministry of Colonies assure the Goverment that peace has ben restored in the Ouadai region of Senegal, French West Africa, following a fight near Dorothe on November 30 last, during which 200 Arabs were slain. The French forces sustained no losses.

The foment was due to the ravages of the native army under command of the former Sultan Doud-Meurah of Ouahai. In earlier battles the punitive expedition lost a number of officers and men.

The Minister of the Colonies also received advices of another French victory in the Darkouti region of equatorial Africa on January 12. Captain Modat routed the hostile tribe of the Sultan and three of his sons, several chiefs and 300 tribsmen were killed and 400 wounded. The French lost eight native soldiers and eighteen wounded, none of them seriously.

SIR JAS. WHITNEY GIVES HIS VIEWS

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Sir James Whitney cables The London Daily Express that "President Taft struck the keynote on the reciprocity question when he said: 'Canada is at the parting of the ways.' The idea hidden under this expression indicates the view held for many years by all intelligent Americans, namely, when the proper time comes Canada will drop away from the British Empire like ripe fruit from a tree. Champ Clark said nothing more than has been said from day to day by the best men in the United States. Obviously I cannot quote them in this short statement, but the language of Beverage, Hill and many others puts the desire and intention and belief of the American people beyond a doubt. Canada's manhood began after, and perhaps on account of, the abrogation of the old reciprocity treaty. We have grown to nationhood, our interprovincial relations are complete and satisfactory, and there is an intense desire indeed a determination, on the part of our people to elaborate and strengthen the ties which bind us to the Empire, with a view to the continuity of British rule and British institutions in North America. Reciprocity will mean the undoing of the work of years."

Our transportation facilities, continues Sir James, which cost hundreds of millions, will be, perhaps fatally injured and the aspirations of Canadians for Imperial and national unity throttled, and as the American Press declares, this latter question will be headed off and settled for ever. Our interdependent Provincial trade will be ruined and the progress and growth of our great cities stopped. In fact, the orange will be sucked dry and the skin left with us. As The Washington Star thoughtfully observes: "The isolation and humiliation of the colonial position will not be forever endurable." Meanwhile there is full reciprocity in the exchange of citizens and products, and the steady Americanization of Canada. "However, Canada," concludes Sir James, "will not submit tamely to being wiped off the map."

Gage, who made an address explaining that it was the purpose of the organization, to see that the oldest and wealthiest Province in the Dominion received the consideration in public matters to which it was entitled.

Trouble with reciprocity is that it won't "recipross" except to the exclusive advantage of that genial old grab-all, the Hon. Uncle Sam.

TO DEVELOP INTELLIGENCE

A New Left-Handed Movement Has Been Started

A movement has been started in Germany for the cultivation of ambidexterity. The idea is that developing the power to use both hands equally well means developing the intelligence in general and the memory in particular. It is said to have been scientifically ascertained that while right-handed people have the organ of speech on the left side of the brain, and vice versa, people who are ambidexterous have two language centres, one in each lobe of the brain. The infant begins life with two speech centres, but as the right hand is generally trained, and the left neglected, the right speech centre gradually grows torpid and useless. The extraordinary claim is now made that by the cultivation of the left hand the capacity of the right speech centre of the brain can be revived, and to that extent broaden the intelligence as ambidexterity increases the use of the human being's hand. Instances are quoted by supporters of the movement in which practising the left hand has rescued a power of speech until then paralysed. One patient in question was stricken by paralysis of the left organ of speech, and with it paralysis of the right hand. The doctors started teaching the patient to write with the left hand, with the astonishing result that in a short time the power of speech was awakened in the hitherto torpid organ of speech. An even more astonishing case was that of a boy, who, at the age of 13, lost his left hand, and soon learned to do fairly well with an artificial member. At the age of 30 he suffered a stroke of paralysis, which robbed him of the power of speech, but by means of a small ring with a pen attached to it, fixed to the artificial limb, he could practise writing, and thus not only recovered power over his original speech, but over French and Russian, which he had forgotten. As a matter of fact, ambidexterity is necessary in several professions and occupations, of which surgery and piano-playing may be given as examples.

A WELL-SUPPLIED PULPIT

There are various morals to this story of Doctor Clifford, the eminent English clergyman. One is that it is wise for public speakers not to put off their appearance at the meetings they are to address till the last moment. A writer in Woman's Life tells the story.

Doctor Clifford was once conducting a series of services in Birmingham. Arriving a few minutes before the commencement, the doctor was refused admission by the policeman at the door.

"I want to go in," said Doctor Clifford.

"Are you a seat-holder?"

"No, I am not."

"Then you can't go in."

"I think," remarked the famous passive resister, "that there will be room for me in the pulpit."

"I am not so sure of it," retorted the officer.

"But I am Doctor Clifford, and I am due to preach in another minute and a half."

"Oh, are you?" said the incredulous policeman. "I have let in two Doctor Cliffords already."

BALMORAL

King George is as fond of Scotland as was his grandmother, Queen Victoria, before him, and keen sportsman as he is, says the Gentlewoman, enjoys shooting and fishing nowhere so much as on Deeside. His children, too, are all devoted to Scotland, and it will be a great change for them, after having always stayed at Aebrgeldie, to be housed at Balmoral. The late King and Queen did so much for the castle that it needs no putting in order. The brown and yellowish paint that disfigured the passages, yet satisfied Queen Victoria, was made to go, and Balmoral, all white, and rose, and green, the colors beloved in juxtaposition by Francis Bacon, and adopted by Queen Alexandra in many of her schemes of decoration, hardly knew itself.

EXTRAVAGANCE

"When young fellers gets a courtin'," said the rural resident, "they sure goes plumb crazy, an' that boy Sam o' mine ain't no exception."

"So Sam's started, eh?" queried the nearest neighbor.

"Started? I should say so. Why, didn't he go inter town yesterday an' blow in half a dollar for a toothbrush."

Some people try to substitute a pleasant smile for honesty.

The German Reichstag has passed the unearned increment tax, which, it is estimated, will add $5,000,000 to the seventh order.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

LOST HIS LINEN JOB.

The Salesman Who Made a Caricature of A. T. Stewart.

A. T. Stewart was shown one day by one of his confidential employees an amusing caricature of himself done in pencil.

"Good, good!" he laughed. "That's excellent. Who did it?"

"A young salesman at the linen counter. He scratched it off as you passed the other morning. I managed to get it from him, and now he's scared stiff for fear you'll see it," was the laughing reply.

"Scared stiff, is he?" said Mr. Stewart, with a twinkle in his eye. "Just send him to me, will you?"

A little later a slim youth entered Mr. Stewart's private office and said he understood he had been sent for. "Yes," said Mr. Stewart gravely and holding up the sketch asked, "Did you do this?"

The lad grew pale and stammered: "I beg your pardon, sir; it was only a bit of fun. I meant no offense."

"That's all very well, but you'll have to give up your job here."

The youth humbly protested, when Mr. Stewart burst out laughing and said: "Don't say any more, my boy. I'm only joking. Your sketch is excellent, and as it would be a sin to keep a man of your artistic talent behind a linen counter I propose to supply you with the means to study art."

Mr. Stewart's proposition was gratefully accepted, and it was thus that John R. Rogers, the sculptor, began his artistic career.—New York Press.

His Little Joke.

A well known German who is something of a wag walked into one of the public offices in Cincinnati the other day, and from the noise it was plain that he was wearing a pair of new shoes or ones that had recently been repaired.

One of the clerks remarked about the shoes, and the German said:

"I comes pretty near selling dese shoes the other day."

"How is that?" asked the clerk.

"I had 'em half soled," said the German as he walked out of the office.

A deep groan was heard as he slipped through the door.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Were All the Sleuths of Scotland Yard Bent on Finding You?

The case of Dr. Crippen and Ethel Leneve and their attempt to escape in disguise from Europe leads a London newspaper to make the following interesting observation:

"For most fugitives the only permanent resource—helped, perhaps, by the temporary adoption of a disguised physical appearance—is normal disguise.

"The more audacious the plan the more likely is success. Criminals are commonly betrayed not by too much daring but by vanity or ineradicable talkativeness, which may be the same thing. If congenital criminals could only keep quiet more of them would get finally away by undertaking some resolute change of life; by joining a ship short of hands at the last moment—by what sailors call a pier-head jump—or by some such exotic occupation as one of the accomplices in Lincoln's murder is said to have embraced when he became a member of the Papal Guard at the Vatican.

"But if a man does not betray himself, as by a fortunate dispensation of Providence regular criminals generally do, how could he most successfully be audacious? The extreme of audacity would be to become an employe in a prison, a warder, or a policeman. Another line of safety would be to commit a minor offence and be safely locked up under the care of the law in some strange district till the hue and cry was over. In fact, one of the best refuges is to keep himself well before the public in some new capacity. If he were to do something preposterously different from his crime, if he were to give exhibitions in a life-saving suit of his own invention like Captain Boyton, or wheel a barrel from Naples to Nijni-Novgorod to advertise a new diet with a marvelous percentage of proteids or set up a private detective agency, he would be exerting in his own case something comparable to the counter-irritant in medical treatment.

"One is led to imagine the art of disappearance—we are not now thinking of crime—as a fascinating game. How many of us who pride ourselves on our sagacity could remain hidden for a month with Scotland Yard and all the gossip of the country and all the newspapers bent on ferreting us out?"

Punished by Promotion.

The Florentine republic had a unique method of dealing with its too ardent democrats. In 1293 the state passed the famous "Magna Charta of Florence" to curb the cruelty and rapacity of the lawless nobles, who in defiance of the law courts, were accustomed to flog and torture their dependents at will. The act practically disfranchised these titled harpies by a clause which excluded them from the signory, a body in the state corresponding to the British Cabinet, unless they renounced their nobility. This curious provision prepared the way for a still more extraordinary clause, which enacted that any member of the democratic party who made himself obnoxious to the Government and was by them declared to be "guilty of treason to the commonwealth" should be given a patent of nobility and thus at the same moment be raised in the social scale and reduced to a political nobody at the will of the state.—London Telegraph.

The Book That Fitted.

This masterpiece was handed in one day to the librarian of a public library:

"Dear Lady—Please send by Bertha a book that will agree with her pa. He is forty-five years old, has never been much of a reader, is laid up with a lame back, no appetite, but terrible thirsty all the time, a quick pulse and temperature that stays at about 100. Please send something that will not excite him and send his temperature up any higher."

It took a consultation of all the highbrows in the library to prescribe a literary dose for pa that would not conflict with the medical bulletin. They sent him "The Swiss Family Robinson." His temperature did not go up.

Well Developed.

Phrenologist (examining subject)—This bump indicates caution. I should say you are a very cautious man.

Subject—You're right there. I'm very cautious now. I got that bump falling downstairs.

Travers Says He Put Up More Collateral Under Pressure.

Manager of Farmers' Bank Declares That When Trust Company Threatened to Withdraw Its Deposit He Put Up Further Securities and Had Loan Enlarged — More Warrants May Arise Out of Evidence.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—For just about ten minutes at the close of the hearing of the conspiracy charge against the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, J. J. Warren and J. R. Stratton, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and C. H. Smith in the Police Court yesterday afternoon, those present in the court room had one more view of the old dominant Travers, who drove through the organization of the bank, crushing all obstacles before him. And out of the evidence of the closing moments of the hearing it is possible that further charges will be laid to-day.

On a sudden the air of the court-room grew tense. Matthew Wilson, K.C., counsel for J. J. Warren, had been pressing Travers on cross-examination, seeking to have him say plainly and without qualification that the deposit slip given by the Trusts & Guarantee Co. to the bank at the time of the visit of Secretary Knight of the Bankers' Association represented a bona fide transaction.

"Yes," with the added qualification, "as far as it goes," was as far as he could get Travers to go. A moment later Crown Attorney Corley took the witness for re-examination.

"It might as well all come out," said he as he took the witness. He then proceeded to draw from Travers the statement that, in its closing days, the bank owed the Trust company, on a loan secured by Keeley Mine and other stocks, the sum of $175,000, and also a deposit of $120,000, which would rank as an unsecured claim upon the same basis as any other deposit.

Travers declared that he needed more money and went to the Trust company's office to negotiate a further loan. He discussed the affairs of the bank and company with S. C. Morden of the company, and Matthew Wilson, K.C., who was acting as its solicitor. The company proposed to withdraw its deposit of $120,000, but Travers says that he told them that the bank could not meet the withdrawal, but needed more money.

Either Mr. Morden or Mr. Wilson told him that they were not satisfied with the security for the loan, nor with the unsecured condition of the deposits, and someone, Travers could not say whether it was himself or one of the others, suggested that the loan and deposit be consolidated in a new loan for which additional security be put up and that then further moneys might be forthcoming.

Travers pointed out, he said, that under a section of the Bank Act, it was an offence to give one creditor an undue preference over other creditors by way of added securities. He was told that, if this was done under pressure, it would relieve him of criminal responsibility, and that, as they were supplying the pressure, he would be relieved. The loan and deposit were consolidated as a new indebtedness of $295,000, and $300,000 worth of notes were called into the head office of the bank from the branches and put up as security for the consolidated debt.

No money was then advanced nor was Travers able to secure any further advance, but he says that on one of two occasions Mr. Wilson and Mr. Morden told him, when he urged that the bank must have money or close its doors, that it might as well suspend one day as another. This was the story drawn from Travers by Mr. Corley.

At the close of the hearing Mr. Warren stated that the company had been paid the full amount of the loan by Mr. Clarkson. It was afterward stated that this had been done under protest. Mr. Warren asked that it be stated that the Trust company is well and strong financially.

President Munro comes up in the County Court to-morrow.

A Venetian Fashion.

Fashions were no less eccentric four centuries ago than they are today. "Before the streets of Venice were paved (in the thirteenth century)," says Mr. William Boulting in "Women in Italy," "ladies went though the mud and filth on pattens. The custom was retained, and in spite of sumptuary laws the patten became heightened until women of rank stood on false feet half a yard high in the sixteenth century. They were unable to walk without the support of one or two gentlemen or servants."

A curiosity in banquets is mentioned by the same writer. It was a wedding feast at Milan and consisted of fifteen courses, "each being introduced by living specimens of the animals that composed it."

Patti at Fifty-two.

Adelina Patti wrote in a letter to Mr. Klein in 1895: "Do you not feel proud of your little friend, who was fifty-two last month and has been singing uninterruptedly every year from the age of seven? I am really beginning to believe what they all tell me—that I am a wonderful little woman!"—Musical Life in London.

Patronizing.

MAY HAVE TO SPEND HER LIFE ON SEA

NEW YORK, Feb 22.— "A woman without a country," is on board the steamship, Korona, due here to-night or to-morrow. She is Mrs. Helena Soloff, a wealthy Russian, deported from New York some weeks ago. Unless some compromise is effected, Mrs. Soloff will have to spend the rest of her life aboard the ships and at the expense of the Lamport & Holt line which originally brought her here.

Mrs. Soloff sold a flourtshing millinery business in Para, Brazil, about three months ago, and after stopping at Barbadoes, sailed for New York. Upon her arrival she was taken before a "board of sjecial enquiry" and the immigration officials ordered the steamship company to take her back to Barbadoes. When the British authorities learned the woman had been deported to New York they would not permit the captain of the Korona to land her there, so she is again on her way to this port. She will not be permitted to enter the United States, and the immigration officials will try to induce her to go to Russia. She will appeal to the Russian embassy for relief.

Cold coffee may make the boarders hot.

UNPRECEDENTED VOTING IN THE INTELLIGENCER'S CONTEST

All Candidates are Well Under Way and Interest Waxing Warmer Every Day—Onlv Two Days More of the Large Bonus Vote Offer—Special Prize Offer Closes 8 30 P. M. Saturday Feb. 25th—Miss Maud Fleming and Miss Louise Shorey Still Lead Their Respective Districts

The closing days of the extra bonus vote offer on subscriptions for one year or more and the special prize offer are bringing out a tremendous vote, and if the balloting continues to increase in the ratio of the past few days, to-morrow will see a perfect avalanche of ballots.

Not only are the candidates turning in many thousands of votes daily, but practically all of the young ladies are accumulating a reserve which they plan to use at sometime later in the contest, when it will do the most good. This fact is responsible for just enough uncertainty as to the actual strength of the various candidates to lend a more than usual fascination to the competition, and each contestant is leaving no stone unturned to strengthen her position.

Many of the candidates in this big contest are just gathering headway, and have made their best showing within the last few days. If you have been intending to help some one among the candidates by giving her a subscription or extending your subscription to The Intelligencer, bear in mind that this is the best time in the contest to assist her. Your subscription given before 8.30 p.m. Saturday night, Feb. 25th, will help her win a special prize, which is to be won on that night, and it will also, if a subscription for one year or more and handed in this week, entitle her to double votes. Every cent turned in up to 8.30 p.m. Saturday night on subscriptions for one year or more will bring double votes.

We repeat, a bonus vote offer as large will not be given during the contest, so act at once when the subscriptions count for most.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

Toronto Jeweler Struck Down In His Store by a Masked Burglar

TORONTO, Feb. 22.— A bold attempt at robbery was made in the jewellry store of W. Wharin, 441 Spadina Avenue, at 4.30 yesterday afternoon when he was struck on the head with the butt of a massive revolver in the hands of a masked man.

In its nature the occurrence resembles the burglaries in Mrs. Davies' liquor store, North Yonge street and in Wellwood's fruit store on Yonge street, near Richmond, for which Alex Rose was sent to the penitentiary for life.

Mr. Wharin had just finished waiting on a customer, when he heard a shuffling sound in the rear of his shop He stepped to the doorway, and beholding a masked man, started back He asked the man how he came in and was told by the front door.

As he turned to go again to the front, Mr. Wharin was floored by a blow on the back of the head. But the blow did not stun him sufficiently to permit his assailant to rob the till He staggered to his feet and the man struck out once more and fled.

It is the police theory that the man had made the noise for the purpose of attracting the old gentleman to the back room with the idea of laying him out there. This would leave a clear opportunity to loot the till unobserved.

The man was described as being 5 feet 7 inches tall, medium build, wearing a cap and black overcoat. On account of the mask Mr. Wharin could not say whether there was a beard or not.

The police have a clue that may lead to apprehension.

PAID TO MANAGE THE WHITE MAN'S HOPE

SAPULPA, Okla., Feb. 21.—Lock the doors and close the blinds, there's a live one in the house! Meaning that F. B. Ufer, ex-plainsman, miner and oil man, has bored into the fighting game by paying W. F. Stone $25,000 for his contract with Carl Morris and hereafter will be dinrector-general of Oklahoma's original "white man's hope."

He went into the business of managing fighter with both eyes open . He is willing to spend part of his fortune to make Morris a champion, but he isn't buying any yelow-plated bricks, thank you.

He has made good now by investing $25,000 in the big fellow.

Ufer will equip a gymnasium for Morris. He says he will get the best men he can get to handle his man and send him alon gthe heavyweight line until he has had experience enough to make a challenge to Johnson something more than a joke. He tried to get Joe Choynski, but Joe is booked up to a vaudeville contract. He wanted Bob Armstrong, but Bob is in Europe with Thammy Langford. He may get Tommy Ryan.

Morris has enjoyed a metecric career. In six months he has jumped from obscurity to a sport page feature. He is an ideal specimen of manhood, the result of clean living, and green as he is, has shown he has a head as well as hands and feet, in the ring.

Plans are under way for a carnival of sports to be held here in April, and it is expected that Morris will be matched to meet Jim Barry or Jim Flynn. Ufer hopes to have Morris meet many men, picking them one after another until he has cleaned up the brigade and then send him after the champion—that is, if Morris isn't discouraged in the meantime.

FRAUD ON GOVERNMENT AIDED BY OFFICIALS

NAPLES, Feb. 20.—Elaborate octrol frauds to the extent of over $200,000 have been perpetrated by a Roman alcohol company, with the connivance and active help of government inspectors. The tempering mixture, instead of being added to pure spirit intended for transfer within the boundaries of the city of Rome, was dexterously poured into a neighboring vat, whence it flowed into a number of reservoirs concealed underground. The society thus defrauded the customs.

When the police raided the works they were attacked by the desperate employes, who broke the bottles in which the authorities were collecting samples from subterranean tanks. They also got a hose to work and flooded the tanks in order to destroy all incriminating traces.

One of the distillery officials shut himself up and attempted to commit suicide. A number of tightly placed political personages are inplicated in the frauds. The managing director and ten others were arrested, and to-day the ministry of justice has demanded the authorization of parliament to capture the Italian deputy, Signor Montagna, for complicity in the affair. His residence is surrounded by the police.

ROYALIST RISING IN NORTH OF PORTUGAL

Minister of Public Works Was Riddled With Bullets—Many Others Killed—Grave Monarchist Upheaval Feared

LONDON, Feb. 22.—A private cable despatch, dated January 15, delayed in transmission, reached London this morning to the effect that there has been a serious outbreak of Royalism at Guarda, in Northern Portugal, a fortified garrison town, 209 miles east of Lisbon, where General Franco, military governor of the northern provinces, is in command.

According to this cable dispatch, the Minister of Public Works, who has been visiting Beira Province, on reaching Guarda, went to the barracks and addressed the people from the roof. The crowd at once fired upon him and the Minister fell to the ground, riddled with bullets. A Monarchist uprising ensued. There was much indiscriminate firing, and men women and children were killed. The shops were all closed.

The message adds that quiet was afterwards restored, but the situation is reported to be critical, and it is feared that there will be a royalist upheaval.

It is further reported as indicating the condition of things in the neighborhood, that a man who took a telegram from London to deliver in Guarda was stabbed to death on the road.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING OF CITY MISSION

Another Highly Successful Year—All the Organizations Are Doing Good Work

The 20th anniversary services of the City Mission, Dundas Street, were held on Tuesday evening, there being a goodly number present. Rev. Dr. Bishop occupied the chair and gave a very helpful, encouraging and inspiring address.

Mrs. (Dr.) Goldsmith rendered very acceptably a temperance reading full of pathos.

The various organizations in connection with the Mission, such as Mothers' Meetings, Sabbath School, Mission Band, Sewing School, etc., fill a much needed want in that locality. We heartily commend this very good work to the sympathy and support of our citizens.

The published report in connection with the Mission will appear in the local dailies in a few days.

SERVED 50 YEARS AND SAVED $30,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—By opposing an assessed valuation of $25,000 on the estate of Mrs. Maria Christina Spieker in the Tax Office yesterday, the executors brought out the fact that the woman, who died last summer in her eighty-first year after spending fifty years with one family as a servant, had left property valued at $31,000.

This money, which represented her savings, compounded many times in investments, brought her an annual income of about $1,200 a year for the last five or six years of her life.

The woman had no relatives in this country, but many abroad, most of whom live in England, and numerous letters have been received from these asking that Mrs. Spieker's "automobiles and gems" be forwarded to them at once.

These requests, the executors said, indicated that the impression existed among the heirs that Mrs. Spieker died possessed of something like a million dollars.

She had, however, disposed of her belongings on a graduated scale, those nearest to her getting the larger amounts and the others receiving bequests on a descending scale. The executors except to make a division in a short time, as the assets are easily convertible into cash.

GENERAL MASSACRE IS ON IN HAYTI

KINGSTON, Ja., Feb. 21.—The usual crop of exiled Haytien generals is beginning to arrive here. They declare that President Antoine Simon is not having it all his own way, as the revolutionary party is strong in the north. They also state that Simon's "butchers" are, in turn, being murdered in their homes at night by revolutionists, in fact, that a general massacre is on, and that it is extending even to the women and children.

THE BRITISH TYPE 170,000 YEARS OLD

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Dr. Arthur Keith, lecturing before the Royal College of Surgeons to-day, expressed the opinion that a human type, whereof the modern Englishman is a type, existed at least 170,000 years ago. He discussed the probable age of the skeleton found recently in Northfleet, and deduced its antiquity from calculable geological changes in the Thames valley.

The skeleton, although differing in several features from the Englishman of to-day, was, the professor said, essentially modern in type, and the only known representative of the thousands of human generations which dwelt in England from the glacial to neolitic times.

It Depends.

"Do you think a man should take his wife into his confidence regarding his business affairs?" asked the man who had just been married.

"If he isn't making any money, yes," replied the experienced one cautiously. —Philadelphia Record.

MISFORTUNE CAME TO AN ENGLISH FAMILY

After Being Befriended the Father Fell and Broke His Arm in Belleville

The Peterborough Review says:

A story of a case of misfortune in which a former local boy played the part of the good Samaritan, comes to hand.

A young English emigrant with his wife and child got as far as Belleville last Sunday on their way to Peterborough.

Mort. Mowry, formerly of Peterborough, but now of Belleville, went down to the station on Sunday morning at Belleville and got into conversation with the family. He learned that they were financially embarrassed and invited them up to his home. On the way the father slipped and broke his arm. He was taken to the hospital in Belleville and attended to and on Monday morning was sent on here, where Mr. Howson, the immigration officer, had a position awaiting him.

The circumstances of the case came under the notice of Finch Miller, the relief officer, and the family is now in the Protestant Home until the father recovers sufficiently to proceed to work and support the family.

IS ROUSED TO GREAT ACTIVITY

PEKIN Feb. 20.—There is a noticeable activity on the part of the Chinese government to stay the spread of the plague and sanitary measures are being enforced in all various towns where a few weeks ago the disease was allowed full swing unhampered. Instructions have been issued that every village must burn its dead. The panic and fear of the plague have overridden the Chinese superstition against cremation of the bodies of the victims and now almost daily the torch is applied to piles of hastily-constructed coffins, among which are often seen bodies wrapped only in shrouds.

In the town of Kwang-Changtse, near the Manchurian railway, where the daily death-list has numbered a hundred or more, masked men go about with sleds and pick up the bodies lying in the streets, where they have been placed by relatives. The sleds transport them to the West Gate, and from there they are removed in carts in lots of four or five to the cremation grounds.

SPRAYING CUSTOMERS IN SHOPS.

Every house is inspected daily. The important shops keep a man at the door with an atomizer, and with this he sprays all persons entering the shops with a solution of carbolic acid. The refuse, which was formerly thrown into the streets, is now removed each day from the houses.

The Mukden authorities are promptly despatching physicians and nurses, with all the requisites for taking care of the sick, to villages where new outbreaks occur, and this precaution, it is believed will result in checking the spread of the disease.

TRADE DISORGANIZED.

A correspondent who visited House Lan, which is thirty miles north of Harbin, found that town sorely afflicted. For many weeks the governor, with the customary fatalism, was indifferent to the awful work of the plague. He has now been suddenly roused into activity, and clad in mask and bandages personally superintends the cremation of the accumulated bodies. In one village near by where formerly seventy people lived, there are now thirty-four, thirty-six having died from the plague and been cremated. The dread of death seems to have set in throughout the afflicted regions, and the people, fearing infection at the inns, refuse to go any distance from their homes. Trade and commerce have been therefore greatly affected in all parts of the country where the disease has appeared.

According to the government statistics, there have been few deaths in Pekin and Tied Tsin.

NAPLES, Feb. 20.—The Chinese government has selected Prof. G. Calcotti, director of the Pathological institute of the University of Naples, to combat the plague in Manchuria. Prof. Calcotti is the discoverer of an anti-toxin plague vaccination serum which is considered better than that now being used at Harbin.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The government today ordered a medical inspection of all ships and crews from Chinese harbors to prevent the appearance in this country of the plague.

GRIFFIN'S OPERA HOUSE.

"My Cinderella Girl," a musical comedy, the book by Richard Walton Tully, co-author of the "Rose of Ranch," with David Belasco, with a musical score by William Frederick Peters, composer of "The Mayor of Tokio" and other popular comic operas, will be presented for the first time in this city at Griffin's Opera House on Friday night.

The attraction comes to us with a record of over three hundred nights at the Whitney Opera House, Chicago and with the endorsement of the critics of St. Louis, Kansas City, and other large cities where the company has recently appeared.

The cast is composed of well known musical comedy favorites, who appeared with the leading musical comedy and comic opera productions. They are assisted by an extremely young and active chorus and the many musical numbers are said to be particularly well rendered. Seats on sale at Doyle's drug store.

VANHORNE "SICK AND ASHAMED"

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—Sir William Van Horne, just back from Cuba, says of reciprocity:

"I am too much disgusted to talk about it. Just think of it. Our Government returns show that the commerce per capita of the people of Canada is $97 per head, while the commerce per capita of the people of the United States is $33 and some cents per head. Naturally, they look upon us with a covetous eye, and this proposal for reciprocity is the result.

"Now we are actually proposing to remove the mill-dam, and you know what happens when the mill-dam is removed. The waters find a common level.

"It is humiliating and disgusting to find such a deal as this one proposed by Messrs. Fielding and Paterson being seriously entertained. I won't trust myself to say another word of it. Just say this,'" and Sir William wrote: "I am sick and ashamed; too sick and too much ashamed to say anything about the subject."

A CORRECTION

"The Intelligencer regrets that in its issue of Feb. 13th, 1911, it made use of certain expressions reflecting upon the character of the Frontenac hockey team of Kingston in calling them Sutherland's Pirates and in leading its readers to believe that there were any dishonest tactics used in connection with Marchand's age certificate. As a matter of fact, the Intelligencer finds that the mistake in regards to this certificate arose not from anything done at Kingston, but from failure of the hockey authorities at Toronto to translate the baptismal record of Marchand correctly, this record being written in French."

Profitable Asset

Although Belleville has an apparent indebtness of something over a million of dollars, yet the city has assets to show for every dollar of that large sum, in one form or other, and some of the indebtedness is merely nominal—in fact a profitable investment. We allude particularly to the water department and the gas department, which public utilities were purchased several years ago, and the sums charged against each, respectively, are, omitting cents, $193,111 and $83,559—a total of $276,670, or, as a arly as possible, one-fourth of the total indebtedness.

The operation of these utilities has been highly satisfactory. They have not only paid interest and sinking fund, but have yielded annually a considerable surplus after paying out of current revenue a considerable amount for extensions, which, of course, add just so much to the value of the investment.

The annual report of the gas department for the past year, which is given below, will be found highly satisfactory. It will be seen from the figures presented that, in face of very strong competition from the electric light, the department, after paying interest, debentures and sinking fund to the amount of $6,573.56, namely $3,504.80 for interest, $2,510.54 on debentures and $558.22 for sinking fund, besides $1,500 out of revenue for mains and extensions, returns a surplus of $2,082.80.

It is also gratifying to note that the number of consumers increased by 56, and a much greater increase may be looked for during the current year, not only because there will be many new dwellings erected, but because the use of gas for fuel is rapidly spreading. The only apparently unsatisfactory item in the report is an increase in the average percentage of loss; but this is accounted for by a necessary addition to the pressure owing to the increase in the number of consumers.

Following is the report of Manager Gardiner, who is to be congratulated on the showing made by the department under his charge:

Total gas made	20,330,000 cubic feet
Total gas sold	17,106,300 cubic feet
Unaccounted for	3,223,700 cubic feet
Percentage of loss first quarter	15.24
Percentage of loss second quarter	18.67
Percentage of loss third quarter	17.46
Percentage of loss fourth quarter	13.40
Percentage of loss average for the year	15.87
Percentage of loss average for 1909	11.97
Average candle power for year	18.00

Service renewals on Front Street	33
New mains and renewals, 6 in. 4 in. to 2 in.	21,994 ft.

AMERICANS SEEKING THE ANNEXATION OF CANADA

North Dakota Legislature Discussing the Project--New Hampshire,s Ex-Governor Favors it

BISMARK, N. D., Feb. 21.—Annexation of Canada came before the Legislature to-day, when Rep. Sorlie introduced a resolution declaring that the measure pending before Congress and the Canadian Parliament, relating to the free exchange of farm products, shows that the two countries have interests in common.

It is also contended in the resolution that the people of the two nations can best be served under the same Government.

Pointing to the fact that Western Canada is largely populated by citizens of the United States, the resolution asks "North Dakota members in Congress to use their influence in bringing about a peaceable annexation treaty."

WASHINTON, Feb. 21.—Ex-Governor N. J. Bachelder of New Hampshire, master of the National Grange, speaking today before the Senate Committee on Finance, suggested that the only fair way for free trade to be established would be to let the Stars and Stripes float over Canada.

A reception to the young people of Christ Church was last evening tendered to them in the new Parish Hall and proved to be a most enjoyable affair. The hall was filled with young people, all of whom appeared to be happy. The Rector, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, presided over the gathering, and, in opening the evening's proceedings, gave a brief but appropriate address. A brief programme was rendered, consisting of solos by Miss Fletcher and Mr. H. McKay; piano solos by Mrs. (Dr.) MacColl and Mr. Percy Henthorn, and a piano duet by Mrs. (Dr.) MacColl and Mr. Robins. Games were also indulged in, after which dainty refreshments were served.

ROYAL TEMPLARS HAD FRATERNAL MEETING

Last evening a number of Royal Templars and other temperance workers from Trenton visited the city and were entertained by the Royal Templars of this city. The gathering took place in the Templars' hall an Front street and a most enjoyable time was spent by all present. The visitors voted thir Belleville friends most hospitable entertainers.

TEN THOUSAND DRUGGISTS.

Unite in Their Opinion Regarding a Certain Medicine.

Druggists should know better than any one else the value of every medicine.

Therefore, when over ten thousand recommend Vinol, the cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, over their own signatures as the greatest tonic reconstructor and strength creator—and offer to return the purchase money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, it must indicate that Vinol is a pretty reliable medicine.

We could publish columns of such testimonials as the following:

C. A. Potterfield the leading druggist of Charleston W. Va., says he used Vinol for every member of his family and has never been disappointed with the results.

Mr. J. F. Bradley, druggist of New Brunswick, N. J. says, "Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine.' He has proved it from personal experience.

The many years that Vinol has been on the market has served to strengthen its popularity, and proved by continued tests that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not build up your strength and give you an added interest in life.—J. S. McKeown.

THE CRESCENT.

Legend of Its Adoption as an Emblem by the Turks.

The crescent has been known since time out of memory. In ancient mythology it decorated the foreheads of Diana and of Astarte, the Syrian Venus. In the days of Rome's greatest glory the ladies wore it as an ornament in their hair.

Since the foundation of Constantinople, the ancient Byzantium, it has been the emblem of the city and as such adorns its walls and public buildings, besides being stamped on its coins and postage. The legend which accounts for its universal adoption in Turkey, and Constantinople in particular, is as follows:

Philip of Macedon laid siege to the city in the year 340 B. C. He chose a night of unusual darkness for the proposed assault, but was foiled by the moon suddenly breaking from behind a cloud. In commemoration of this providential deliverance the crescent was adopted as the symbol of the city. The Mohammedan sultans were slow to assume this emblem until some one mentioned that it was the symbol of increasing greatness, power changing as rapidly as the phases of the moon.—Westminster Gazette.

Federal Homestead Laws.

The federal homestead laws begin with the act of 1862, now a part of the United States revised statutes. Their policy is to give portions of the public lands to those who will settle, cultivate and make permanent homes upon them. Any person who is the head of a family or who is twenty-one years of age and is a citizen of the United States or who has filed his declaration of intention to become such may acquire a tract of unappropriated public land, not exceeding 160 acres, on condition of settlement, cultivation and continuous occupancy as a home by him for the period of five years and the payment of certain moderate fees. It is expressly declared that no lands acquired under this statute shall in any event become liable to any debt contracted prior to the issuing of the patent therefor by the government to the settler.—New York American.

Cheap Family History.

Even in political defeat there are compensations. A Washington heights man who aspired to office tells of one that he discovered.

"Must have cost you a pile of money to run, didn't it?" a friend asked.

"About $1,600, but still I came out $400 ahead."

"How?" said the friend.

"On genealogical research. My wife has a society bee in her bonnet and had about agreed to pay a man $2,000 to look up my family history, but when I became a candidate my opponents did that for me and saved us the money."—New York Times.

Eight Lions.

There are eight lions known the world over—the lion of St. Mark's in Venice, the four lions at the base of the Nelson monument in Trafalgar square, the lion of Waterloo, the lion of Lucerne and the lion of Chaeronea. Ruskin in his "Stones of Venice" said that the lion of St. Mark's was the one lion the fierce expression of which no artist had ever been able to reproduce. The beast of bronze has the distinction also of wearing a pair of wings.—London Graphic.

Why He Left.

Long—Why did you leave the place where you formerly boarded?

Short—Because the landlady had too much curiosity.

Long—In what direction?

Short—Oh, she was continuously asking me when I was going to pay my board bill.—Chicago News.

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

You see the statement every day that the one cause of baldness is dandruff. But is it?

True, dandruff often precedes the departure of the hair.

It is equally true that you know men with a shock of hair you can hardly pull a comb through, who have carried around a dandruff laden collar as long as you have known them.

You have also seen men whose scalp was kept as clean as a baby's whose hair was surely departing.

That dandruff talk sounds well and convinces a good many of us, but let us not fool ourselves.

Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an indication.

The same trouble that causes the hair to fall out usually causes dandruff, so if you get at the cause and arrest the loss of hair, you will stop dandruff too.

Those who use Nyal's Hirsutone find it the most satisfactory hair healer and hair dressing they have ever used.

It does stop the hair from falling out.

It will also stop dandruff.

Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends it—$1.00 and 50c in sprinkler bottles.

Sold and guaranteed by J. S. McKeown, J. [illegible] Doyle, Albert L. Geen, The Belleville Pharmacy, Ltd., Belleville.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 1000 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1220 hogs and 700 calves. There was no actual change in the condition of the market, prices being well maintained by drovers on account of the fact that the bulk of the stock came from Toronto, for which high prices were paid, consequently sellers could not accept lower bids and get out even. This tended to check the demand some from butchers and in consequence trade was rather slow.

Choice steers, sold at 6¼c, good at 6c to 6¼c, fairly good at 5½c to 5¾c, fair at 5c to 5¼c per lb. The demand for good fat cows was fair at 5c to 5½c, and the commoner ones brought from that down to 3¼c per lb. A few good bulls sold at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades ranged from 3¾c to 5c per lb.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices declined 25c per cwt., which was attributed to the more liberal supplies and the fact that packers were not anxious for stock, having sufficient on hand for the balance of the week. Sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Calves were more plentiful and cheaper with prices ranging from $4 to $12 each, as to size and quality. The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet and prices were unchanged, with the former selling at 4¼c to 4½c, and the latter at 6¼c to 6½c per lb.

At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, there were 350 cattle, 25 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 200 calves. The only important change in this market was the decline in prices for hogs of 15c per cwt., and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.60 per cwt., weighed off the cars. The trade in cattle was quiet at steady prices.

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

not yet disillusioned. And, if his judgment were at fault, he erred in good company, for Sir Henry Lawrence, Chief Commissioner at Lucknow, was even then resisting the appeals, the almost insubordinate urging, of the headstrong Martin Gubbins that the sepoys in the capital of Oudh should be disarmed.

Meanwhile the boat lurched onward. Soon a red glow in the sky proclaimed that they were nearing Cawnpore. Though well aware that European houses were on fire, they were confident that the Magazine would be held. They helped Akbar Khan, Chumru, and the two troopers to rig a pair of long sweeps, and prepared to guide the budgerow to the landing-place.

Winifred was stationed at the rudder. As it chanced the three sowars took one oar and Chumru helped the sahibs with the other, and the two sets of rowers were partly screened from each other by the horses. Malcolm was saying something to Winifred when the native bent near him and whispered:

"Talk on, sahib, but listen! Your men intend to jump ashore and leave you. They have been bitten by the wolf. Don't try to stop them. Name of Allah, let them go!"

Frank's heart throbbed under this dramatic development. He had no reason to doubt his servant's statement. The faithful fellow had nursed him through a fever with the devotion of a brother, and Malcolm had reciprocated this fidelity by refusing to part with him when he, in turn, was stricken down by smallpox. In fact, Frank was the only European in Meerut who would employ the man, whose extraordinary appearance went against him. Cross-eyed, wide-mouthed, and broken-nosed, with a straggling black beard that ill concealed the tokens on his face of the dread disease from which he had suffered, Chumru looked a cut-throat of the worst type, "a hungry, lean-fac'd villain, a mere anatomy." Aware of his own ill repute, he made the most of it. He tied his turban with an aggressive twist, and was wont to scowl so vindictively at the mess khamsamah that his master, quite unconsciously, always secured the wing of a chicken or the best cut of the joint.

Yet this gnome-like creature was true to his salt at a time when he must have felt that his sahib, together with every other sahib in India, was doomed; his eyes now shot fiery, if oblique, shafts of indignation as he muttered his thrilling news.

Malcolmn did not attempt to question him. He glanced at the sowars, and saw that their carbines were slung across their shoulders. Chumru interpreted the look correctly.

"Akhab Khan prevented those Shia dogs from shooting you and Mayne-sahib," went on the low murmur. "They said, huzoor, that the Nana wanted the miss-sahib, and that they were fools to help you in taking her away, but Akhab Khan swore he would fight on your honor's side if they unslung their guns. They do not know I heard them as I was sitting behind the mast and I took care to creep off when their heads were turned toward the shore."

"Here we are," cried Mayne, who little guessed what Chumru's mumbling portended. "There is the ghat. If it were not for the mist we could see the Magazine just below, on the left."

Assuredly, Frank Malcolm's human clay was being tested in the furnace that night. He had to decide instantly what line to follow. In a minute or less the boat would bump against the lowermost steps, and, if Akhab Khan and his companions were, indeed, traitors, the others on board were completely at their mercy. Mayne was unarmed, Chumru's fighting equipment lay wholly in his aspect, while Malcolm's revolvers were in the holsters, and his sword was tied to Nejdi's saddle, its scabbard and belt having been thrown aside while Abdul Huq was robbing him.

The broad-beamed budgerow presented a strangely accurate microcosm of India at that moment. The English people on her deck were numerically inferior to the natives, and deprived by accident of the arms that might have equalized matters. Their little army was breathing mutiny, but was itself divided, if Chumru were not mistaken, seeing that all were for revolt, but one held out that the Feringhis' lives should be spared. And, even there, the cruel dilemma that offered itself to the ruler of every European community in the country was not to be avoided, for, if Malcolm tried to obtain his weapons his action might be the signal for a murderous attack, while, if he made no move, he left it entirely at the troopers' discretion whether or not he and Mayne should be shot down without the power to strike a blow in self-defence.

Luckily he had the gift of prompt decision that is nine-tenths of generalship. Saying not a word to alarm Mayne, who was still weak from the wound received an hour earlier, he crossed the deck, halting on the way to rub Nejdi's black muzzle.

The sowars were watching him. With steady thrust of the port sweep they were heading the budgerow toward the ghat.

He went nearer and caught the end of the heavy oar.

"Pull hard, now," he said encouragingly, "and we will be out of the current."

He was facing the three men, and his order was a quite natural one under the circumstances. Obviously, he meant to help. Stretching their arms for a long and strong stroke, they laid on with a will. Instantly, he pressed the oar downwards, thus forcing the blade out of the water, and threw all his strength into its unexpected yielding. Before they could so much as utter a yell, Akhab Khan and another were swept headlong into the river, while the third man lay on his back on the deck with Frank on top of him. The simplicity of the manoeuvre insured its success. Neither Mayne nor Winifred understood what had happened until Malcolm had disarmed the trooper, taken his cartridge pouch, and thrown him overboard to sink or swim as fate might direct. He regretted the loss of Akhab Khan, but he recalled the queer expression on the man's face when he read Bahadur Shah's sonorous titles.

"Light of the World, Renowned King of Kings, Lord of all India, Fuzl-Ilahi, Panah-i-din!"

That appeal to the faith was too powerful to be withstood. Yet Malcolm was glad the man had been chivalrous in his fall, for he had taken a liking to him.

Chumru, of course, after the first gasp of surprise, appreciated the sahib's strategy.

"Shabash!" he cried, "Wao, wao, huzoor! May I never see the White Pond of the Prophet if that was not well planned."

"Oh, what is it?" came Winifred's startled exclamation. It was so dark, and the horses, no less than the sail, so obscured her view of the fore part of the boat, that she could only dimly make out Malcolm's figure, though the sounds of the scuffle and splashing were unmistakable.

"We are disbanding our native forces—that is all," said Frank. "Press the tiller more to the left, please. Yes, that is right. Now, keep it there until we touch the steps."

The shimmering surface of the river near the boat was broken up into ripples surrounding a black object. Malcolm heard the quick panting of one in whose lungs water had mixed with air and he hated to think of even a rebel drowning before his eyes. Moved by pity, he swung the big oar on its wooden rest until the blade touched the exhausted man, whose hands shot out in the hope of succor. After some spluttering a broken voice supplicated:

"Mercy, sahib! I saved you when you were in my power. Show pity now to me."

"It is true, then, that you meant to desert, Akhab Khan?" said Frank sternly.

"Yes, sahib. One cannot fight against one's brothers, but I swear by the Prophet—"

"Nay, your oaths are not needed. You, at least, did not wish to commit murder. Cling to that oar. The ghat is close at hand."

"Then, sahib, I can still show my gratitude. If you would save the miss-sahib, do not land here. The Magazine has been taken. The cavalry have looted the Treasury. All the sahib-log have fallen.'

"Is this a true thing that thou sayest?"

"May I sink back into the pit if it be not the tale we heard at Bithoor!"

By this time Mayne was at Frank's side.

"I fear we have dropped into a hornets' nest," said he. "There is certainly an unusual turmoil in the bazaar, and houses are on fire in all directions."

Even while they were listening to the fitful bellowing of a distant mob bent on mad revel a crackle of musketry rang out, but died away as quickly. The budgerow grounded lightly when her prow ran against the stonework of the ghat. Again did Malcolm make up his mind on the spur of the moment.

"I will spare your life on one condition Akhab Khan," he said. "Go ashore and learn what has taken place at the Magazine. Return here, alone, within five minutes. Mark you, I say 'alone.' If I see more than one who comes I shall shoot."

"Huzoor, I shall not betray you."

"Go, then."

He drew the man through the water until his feet touched the steps. Climbing up unsteadily, Akhab Khan disappeared in the gloom. Then they waited in silence. The heavy breath of the bazaar was pungent in their nostrils, and, for a few seconds they listened to the trooper's retreating footsteps. Frank leaped ashore and pushed the boat off, while Mayne held her by jamming the leeward oar into the mud. It was best to make sure.

They did not speak. Their ears were strained as their tumultuous thoughts. At last, some one came, a man, and his firm tread of boot-shod feet betokened a soldier. It was the rebel who had become their scout.

"Sahib," said he, "it is even as I told you. Cawnpore is lost to you."

"And you, Akhab Khan, do you go or stay?"

"Would you have me draw sword against the men of my own faith?" was the despairing answer.

"It would not be for the first time," said Malcolm coldly. "But I could never trust thee again. Yet hast thou chosen wrongly, Akhab Khan. When thy day of reckoning comes, may it be remembered in thy favor that thou didst turn most unwillingly against thy masters!"

Akhab Khan raised his right hand in a military salute. Suddenly, his erec-

THEY EAT NO BREAD.

Places Where the Poorer People Have to Use Substitutes.

There are regions wherein the poorer classes or peasantry eat little or no bread. Baked loaves of bread are practically unknown in many parts of southern Austria and Italy and throughout the agricultural districts of Roumania.

It is said that in the village of the Obersteiermark, not far from Vienna, bread is never seen, the staple food being sterz, a kind of porridge made from ground beech nuts, taken at breakfast with fresh or curdled milk, at dinner with broth or fried lard and with milk again for supper. This dish is also known as heiden and takes the place of bread not only in the Austrian district named, but in Carinthia and in many parts of the Tyrol.

In northern Italy the peasants affect a substitute for bread called polenta, a porridge made of boiled grain. Polenta is not, however, allowed to "granulate," like Scotch porridge or like the Austrian sterz, but is boiled into a solid pudding, which is cut up and portioned out with a string. It is eaten cold as often as it is hot and is in every sense the Italian's daily bread.

A variation of polenta called mamaliga is said to be the favorite food of the poorer classes in Roumania. Mamaliga is like polenta in that it is made of boiled grain, but it is unlike the latter in one important respect—the grains are not allowed to settle into a solid mass, but are kept distinct, after the fashion of oatmeal porridge.—New York Herald.

COMPRESSED ICE.

Sinks In Water and Crumbles Into Powder When Warmed.

All know that ordinary ice will float. This relative lightness of ice with respect to water is due to expansion of the water at the moment of freezing. If water is frozen under immense pressure it seems that this expansion is prevented and ice heavier than water is produced.

G. Tamman has prepared this modification, which he calls Ice III., as follows: He compressed water to 3,000 kilograms (6,614 pounds) and cooled it in solid carbon dioxide snow and finally in liquid air. Under these conditions a colorless, transparent ice is formed. It is much denser than ordinary ice and heavier than water; consequently it sinks when placed in water. Ice III. is very unstable, and on slight warming it swells out and breaks up into a dense white powder. The volume of the resulting powder is apparently four to eight times that of the original ice. This powder formed by the breaking up of the dense form is nothing more than ordinary ice in the form of fine crystals, which, of course, on further warming melt at zero degrees centigrade.

Experiments on Ice III. show that it is impossible to obtain it by separation from water at atmospheric pressure and then suddenly cooling. There would never be a possibility of this unstable form of solid water being formed in nature.—New York Tribune.

A Prosaic Interpretation.

Professor Brander Matthews of Columbia in one of his brilliant addresses on the drama said of an unimaginative and prosaic dramatist:

"He it was, I am sure, who in his youth on being asked in examination what Shakespeare meant by the phrase 'sermons in stones' wrote in reply:

"'When passing by a tombstone you may learn the name and the dates of birth and death of the departed one and also from the inscription a valuable moral lesson from his or her life. Walking along a road you may see from the milestones the number of miles to the nearest towns and thus acquire geographical information. Heaps of stones by the roadside indicate that repairs are to take place and so indicate a lesson in neatness.'"—Detroit Free Press.

An Author's Insight.

There is no surer mark of genius than the intuitive insight into characters and social conditions of which the author has no personal experience. "What does Ben know of dukes?" asked homely old Isaac Disraeli when he heard the title of his son's latest novel. Trollope wrote inimitably of bishops and deans when he had never been in a cathedral close in his life. Young Disraeli wrote so well about the great ones of the earth whom he had never seen that the critics busied themselves in finding "keys" to "Vivian Grey" and "The Young Duke."—London Saturday Review.

A Touch of Family Life.

When the country youth proposed to the city girl he received the conventional assurance that she would be his sister. It happened that this youth had sisters at home and knew exactly his privileges. So he kissed her. At this juncture she availed herself of the sisterly right to call out to father that brother was teasing her. Father responded in good, muscular earnest. Then the new brother and sister relation was dissolved by mutual consent.—Judge.

Only That.

"I don't know whether I ought to recognize him here in the city or not. Our acquaintance at the seashore was very slight."

"You promised to marry him, didn't you?"

"Yes, but that was all."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The only failure a man ought to fear is failure in cleaving to the purpose he sees to be best.—George Eliot.

When a girl tells her chum a secret she gets awfully mad if the chum doesn't break her word and give the secret away.

IRELAND'S POOR.

Belfast the Only City Which Has Tried to Face the Problem.

Reviewing the present-day conditions in Ireland F. X. Cullen writing in a Chicago paper says:

Every now and again something occurs which calls attention to the deplorable sanitary condition of most of our Irish towns. This time it is Waterford which is under review. The local government board is holding an inquiry into the refusal of the corporation to appoint a sanitary officer who shall devote his whole time to the work of looking after the public health and the revelations which are being made only form another chapter in the history of Irish slumdom.

Dr. Kennedy, the medical officer of health, declares that in one year he issued certificates condemning 16 houses as unfit for human habitation, but they still are inhabited and the corporation has done nothing to close them or destroy them. A few days ago he found a case of typhus fever in a room 12 x 12 in which a father, mother and four children lived. There was no isolation house for contagious disease and if the occupants of this room were forced to leave it there was no place he could send them to but the workhouse and that was impossible on account of the danger of infection. From 1890 to 1904, Dr. Kennedy declared, every recommendation he made for the sanitary improvement of the city was opposed on the ground of expense.

Waterford is not alone among Irish towns in its disgraceful sanitary conditions. I know large towns both in the north and south without any public sewerage system or any adequate water supply. In most of the smaller towns cesspools under ground, into which the sewage is discharged, are the rule and there are still many places of importance that take their water direct from a river without filtering or other treatment.

Dublin can boast of no superiority over the smaller places in the housing of its poor. It is notorious that the Irish capital possesses the worst slums in Europe and that the death rate is higher than in any other city of its size and importance. Modern tenement houses are almost unknown. The poor live in mansions once occupied by the rich, but now woefully fallen from their high estate and cut up into single rooms, each of which is let to a family. In many cases the larger rooms are subdivided to accommodate more tenants.

The only Irish city which has anything to boast of in regard to dealing with its slums is Belfast and it still has much to be ashamed of. As long as 25 years ago, however, the Belfast corporation wiped out a big slum area and replaced it by a group of fine business streets, while the inhabitants of the slums were provided for in modern buildings in other parts of the city. Belfast still, however, can show the visitor slums that would be a disgrace to any American town, but it must be admitted that the authorities are constantly at work improving or abolishing them.

One reason for this backward condition is the fact that Ireland is not allowed to manage her own affairs. There is constant friction between the Irish local authorities in the towns and the English officials of the local government board in Dublin, who want everything done in the English way, which often doesn't suit Ireland at all. Then in many cases the towns simply haven't the money for the necessary improvements and won't have it until home rule brings a revival of Irish trade.

Lawsuit 562 Years Old.

A law case which was begun in London in 1348 and was interrupted because Richard de Maundeville had to leave England for the war in France, was resumed recently in the London Chancery Court. The point at issue was the right to hold a market at Stowmarket, Suffolk, and the suit was originally brought by the abbot of St. Osylth, Essex, in the 22nd year of Edward III., against Richard de Maundeville. According to the abbot, who claimed to be lord of the manor, Richard had wrongfully obtained the grant of the right to hold a market in Stowmarket, and his claim was "to the grave damage of the said abbot." Richard claimed the King's protection, and eventually the case was adjourned sine die because of his departure abroad.

The Language of Flowers.

Some men were telling dog stories after a day's shooting. After some time, when the tales had got very tall, one little man said:

"I have got a dog that makes all yours seem fools. I generally feed him myself after dinner, but the other day a friend dropped in, and the poor beast slipped my mind. After the meal we went into the garden. The dog scratched up a flower and laid it at my feet, with the most yearning look in his eye—it was a forget-me-not."

No more dog stories were told that evening.

We think we know our affairs best, but it is hard to bring our friends to agree with us.

Josh Billings said of Niagara Falls, that the reason people liked it was "Becaws nobody kin make wun jest like it." For the same reason people like Four T's, that great guaranteed cough cure. It is the only lung remedy made that cures coughs and colds in two days with perfect safety. Children like it and it cures croup and whooping cough. At all drug stores. Price 25c. ENLARGE THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

(From the Canadian Courier.)

Two members only now comprise the Civil Service Commission of Canada. These men conduct all examinations for entrance to and promotion in the Inside Service at Ottawa. During the three years of its existence the Commission have worked out the details of the system as they had previously been worked out at London and Washington. They seem to have done their work well though neither gentleman had had previous experience with the civil service conditions.

Now that the time is ripe to bring the Outside Service under the Commission it is probably advisable to consider what increase will be necessary in the personnel of the commission itself. The Outside service is much more numerous than the Inside Service and it is widely scattered. To look after this great body of public servants provide candidates for new positions and for vacancies arrange examinations for the necessary promotions and to do justice to every public servant and every public service a larger commission will be necessary. Three commissioners there certainly should be; five may be advisable.

The first new commissioner should be one who is thoroughly familiar with the Outside Service, someone who has shown throughout his career exceptional ability and exceptional zeal. His practical experience should be a guarantee to the Outside Service itself, that the new regulations and the new administration would be sympathetic. At the same time his record would be a guarantee to the Government that his attitude will be politically friendly and that fads and innovations will not disturb a quiet and amicable working out of the new regulations.

If it is intended to bring only the larger cities under the Commission at first, one new commissioner would be sufficient, provided that the one is wisely chosen. In that case he might be selected from among the best and most prominent civil servants in Montreal, Toronto, or Winnipeg.

How She Knew.

"Jessie," Mabel began, hesitating with coy shyness.

"Yes, dear. What is it you have to tell me?" Jessie encouraged.

"Jessie—er—did—you—know—I—was—engaged?"

"No, dear. Are you? How lovely!"

"Y-e-s. I'm—I'm—engaged, and—and—oh-h-h, isn't it fine!"

"Well, I've never been, so I don't know. To whom are you engaged?"

"Why—I'm—I'm—engaged to—to Harold."

"What! My old chum Harold of public school days?"

"Yes—I'm—I'm—engaged to Harold—but, Jessie, I don't want you to think that I accepted him the first time that he proposed, dear. I wouldn't have you think that for the world."

"No, Mabel, dear," said Jessie, with her sweetest smile; "you couldn't have—you weren't there."—Success Magazine.

Beautiful Fans.

The most exquisite fans for evening have either paintings or reproductions of old prints in color, says the Philadelphia Times. The sticks are quite ornamental and are made of pearl, sandal wood, and carved ivory.

Kid Trimmings.

White kid trimmings for hats are seen everywhere, cockades, buttons wheels, flowers, etc., says the Philadelphia Times, but the prettiest ornament lately seen was a white kid butterfly, made over wire and placed at the side of a hat.

Sitting Room Curtains.

For sitting rooms and unpretentious parlors, the net curtains with hem and a row of cluny lace insertion are a new and pretty model when something on the order of lace curtains are desired.

Pressing Silk.

Dont dampen silk when pressing; a moderately hot iron with cloth or paper between the garment and the iron when the pressing is on the right side should be used.

Lemon Cheese Cakes.

Three eggs, two lemons, six ounces of caste sugar, three ounces of butter and any scraps of pastry are required.

Roll out the pastry, stamp it into rounds slightly larger than your patty tins, grease them and line each with a round of pastry. Then fill in the pastry with split peas, rice, or if you prefer it, small bits of crust of bread. These are put in to prevent the pastry from rising up in the centre when being baked. Put the pastry cases in a quick oven and bake from ten to fifteen minutes. Meanwhile beat up three yolks, but only two whites, put them in a saucepan with the butter and sugar, the grated rind and strained juice of the lemons. Stir these over a slow fire until the mixture gets thick. Be careful that it does not boil or it will curdle and be quite spoiled. When the cases are baked empty out the peas or rice and put about a teaspoon of the lemon curd in each. Pour any that is left into clean, dry jars, and when cold cover down like jam.

Dressed Meat.

A cheap nourishing, delicious and easily digested meat for luncheon is made by boiling a "shankbone" of veal, one of beef, and one of mutton together until the meat will fall off the bone. Carefully remove all bone and gristle shop fine or put through meat chopper. Season to taste and sage or savory may be added if desired. Place half the mixture in a bread tin, have ready five or six hard boiled eggs. Cut each end from them so that they can be placed close end for end in a row on the meat in the centre of the tin. Then add the balance of the meat, press closely, and set away until firm. Slice in half inch slices so that each piece will have a slice of egg in the centre, garnish with parsley. This never fails to be an attractive dish and once made well is in constant demand. The stock can be used for soup.

A woman is seldom satisfied with anything she buys unless she can convince herelf that she got more than her money's worth.

THE LOST ART OF RAISING BABIES.

Kansas has a new idea—a good one, of course. One of her educators cries aloud for a school for mothers to revive the lost art of rearing babies. And this is the curriculum proposed for the young women of Kansas.

How to cure the colic.

What to do when the baby is teething.

How to avert forced marches at night.

What to reply when the baby first says "da,da."

How to come through the second summer without nervous prostration.

Who says Latin and Greek are more important to the future mothers of Kansas than the knowledge implied by such suggestions as these?

Why, this question of knowing how to take care of babies, and how to bring them up into strong men and women, is more vital to the general welfare than half the masters taught in schools and half the issues that divide men at the polls.

There's another side to it, too. The school for mothers may make babies fashionable once more by reviving the material instinct. There was a day when every home was such a school—when the home swarmed with children, and when the biggest took care of the next biggest, and so on down the line to the 2-year-old, who helped care for the baby in long clothes.

But now even Kansas complains of race suicide. In fact, they've got to borrow the babies for the proposed school from a foundling home.

Did it ever strike you that soceity may sometime have to protect the real infant industry in order to keep up the stream of competent human beings. It could be done by pensioning mothers so that their health would be guarded and their children brought forth in comfort, to be reared in sweetness and light.

And this would be done for the sake of the mother? No. For the sake of the child? No. For whose sake, then? For the sake of the State!—Omaha News.

EVENING WRAPS.

Evening wraps of all kinds are as ample in width as gowns are scant. Wonderful blendings of rich materials in garments fashioned on classic lines characterize the luxurious outer coverings of extravagant price. Furs, exquisite laces, silk velvets and brocades combine in furnishing materials suitable for the season's demands. Everything is costly and everything is regal in appearance. The richest velvets and brocades together with flimsiest gauzes often unite in a single garment. Styles are so enveloping that often the wrap seems to be twice too large for the wearers, but still they fall in almost straight lines, as fashion decrees. The wide bands of fur or heavy bead trimmings at the hems of such coats bring them into the desired lines.

For wear in the limousine when short distances are covered gauze and messaline wraps swathed in elegant furs flourish. White fox is by far the most in evidence in this particular capacity. Many of the handsomest evening wraps are fashioned of gorgeous old brocades or tapestries veiled with sheer gauze in a dull tone. More or less gold galloon and metallic embroidery is seen on elaborate garments of this character. Gold bands finish the inside where the lining meets the outer material, and often the seams are finished with gold cord or flat braid.

A sumptuous affair seen at the opera the other evening was of old rose velvet shot.

SNOW PUDDING.

Half box sparkling gelatine. One cup sugar. Whites of two eggs. Three-quarters pint boiling water. Rind and juice of two lemons. Soak the gelatine in the cold water, five minutes. Dissolve in boiling water and add grated rind and juice of lemons and sugar. Stir until dissolved. Strain and let stand in a cool place until nearly set. Then add the whites of the eggs, well beaten, and beat the mixture until it is light and spongy. Put lightly to glass dish or shape in mould. Serve with a thin custard made of the yolks of the eggs or cream and sugar.

HIS FIRST WIG.

John D. Rockefeller Was Timid About Wearing It in Public.

When John D. Rockefeller first donned a wig be was apparently somewhat timid about showing himself with it in public. H. M. Briggs, who was for a number of years very closely connected with Mr. Rockefeller as his personal bodyguard, writes in the American Magazine of the oil king's debut in his new hirsute adornment:

"One morning Mr. Rockefeller came to church in a wig for the first time. As he arrived some time before the services very few were present. Dr. Eaton, the pastor of the church, laughingly said, 'Mr. Rockefeller, we love you with or without it.' I went with him into the Sunday school, and we passed a reporter, who did not recognize him. I told Mr. Rockefeller of this, and he said, 'You surprise me.' He inquired if there was a mirror in the church, and I took him into Dr. Eaton's office. He stood in front of the glass, and, finally getting it adjusted, he asked me if it looked all right. I asked him if it was comfortable. I really did think the wig made a great improvement in his appearance. He said that it was going to be quite an ordeal to enter the church for the service. I said, 'Mr. Rockefeller, you have gone through worse.' He shrugged his shoulders, and we passed into the church together. If his presence on previous occasions never failed to attract attention the stir that followed his entrance on this particular morning must be left to the imagination. After the service, when the 'ordeal' was over, he seemed as tickled with his wig as a boy with a new pair of red topped boots."

The Trouble.

"So she doesn't return your affection, eh? Well, I shouldn't get mad about that. What's the use of bothering about a girl who doesn't love you?" said Watkins.

"I don't mind her not returning my affection," said Dobbleigh; "but, confound it, she won't return my diamond ring either!"—Harper's Weekly.

Collateral.

"Can you offer any security?"

"Well, I'm willing to leave my wife."—New York Press.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

LYDIA E PINKHAM

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

Tea Time Talks

Tea Spoils with Age

No tea is fit to drink after it is two years old. That is the age limit of tea quality and benefit. The best tea is the freshest.

"Salada" Tea owes much of its world-wide reputation to its sale fresh from the plantation. The leaves are fresh picked every week the year 'round; then dried, sorted and packed in air-tight lead packages. Every five weeks a new picking of "Salada" comes fresh from plantation to purchaser.

Bulk teas, carried year after year, lose their freshness.

CHATHAM'S HOCKEY TEAM EXPELLED

At a meeting of the O. H. A. sub-committee, held yesterday, the Chatham club, officers and players, were expelled from the association.

The same punishment was meted out to Arthur D. McLean and Daniel McDonald, of Goderich, who played under assumed names for Chatham against London last week. Chatham lost the round but that didn't minimize the offence in the least.

The players of the Chatham club are—H. Dennis, K. Marges, Norman Gildner, C. Brundage, E. C. Briscoe, Clarence E. Stringer, H. C. Higginbotham H. Cowan, W. C. Livingstone, Earl Miers, W. Gemmill, Miller Begley, F. D. Heyward and R. H. McRae. F. C Smyth is the Secretary.

It was also proved that Miers, Dennis, McRae, and Gildner were not properly qualified under the residence rule.

This was the Chatham club's first year in the O. H. A and the last.

HOCKEY NOTES.

At Midland last night the Intermediates beat Whitby 4-2 and won the round by 3 goals, thus putting the lakeside team out of the running.

Argonauts and Parkdale played a tie game at 3 to 3 on fast ice in the first of home-and-home series in the O. H. A. senior semi-finals.

Preston intermediates beat London 10 to 3 at Preston and have yet to lose a game at home or abroad. They will doubtless meet Midland in the final.

Parkdale and Argos meet again on Saturday night.

Galt and Waterloo are neck and neck for the pro. league championship.

SPORTS IN GENERAL.

Canadian skaters qualified for the finals of the eastern indoor championships at New York.

The Baltimore four which wished to compete at Henley have been notified that their entry is not desired.

The final in the Cobourg bonspiel will be played to-night.

"I see," responded one of the antiquarians. "And what's the name of the street we are passing now?"

"Perry."

LINED UP ON LOYALTY

House Unanimously Affirms Its Devotion to Empire.

When Mr. Monk Suddenly Moves a Resolution Expressing Love For Britain In the House of Commons In Tariff Debate, Liberals Who Have Been Arguing Reciprocity Support the Motion.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The resolution, moved by Mr. Monk, pledging loyalty to the Empire, was precipitated unexpectedly when the House of Commons was about to resume the discussion of the reciprocity agreement yesterday afternoon. For a second time the Nationist leader in the House intervened in the debate in a sudden and spectacular manner.

It brought the leaders on both sides back to the firing-line, roused a spirit of acrimony among members that for a time kept the Speaker busily engaged in interpreting and applying the rules.

The motion was unanimously approved.

"The opponents of this agreement," said Hon. Mr. Fielding in summing up before the motion carried, "have, unwisely and unjustly I think, sought for party reasons to convey the impression that there is a portion of the people of Canada who are not loyal to the institutions of our country and the Empire. I believe that every man of them, and every man on this side, and every citizen of the Dominion is bound to maintain the position of Canada as an integral part of the British Empire. But since my hon. friends opposite think that, in view of their record, it is necessary to make a declaration to that effect, I am going to help them make it."

Mr. Monk sought to trace back the origin of the public feeling of unrest in regard to annexation to alleged secessionist sentiments of many years ago on the part of members of the Government. The charges met with prompet and explicit denials from Messrs. Fielding and Lemieux. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, amid great Liberal enthusiasm, promptly accepted the resolution as expressing a truism which no Liberal doubts, but which might help the Conservatives to harmlessly flaunt their loyalty. Mr. Borden, who was confessedly taken by surprise by his lieutenant's latest move, could only cite in support of the annexation fears he himself expressed isolated excerpts from the recent speech of Champ Clark in the United States Congress.

Sir Wilfrid replied briefly, and concluded with the statement that "there was no necessity for this motion. It affirms a principle of which everybody is persuaded, and which no one needed to affirm. But in order to make it doubly sure, in order to affirm not only to this country, but to the other side also, that this discussion in which we are engaged does not mean what has been stated by my hon. friend. Mr. Monk, it may mean, I shall for my part vote for his motion, and I hope all on this side of the House will vote for it also."

Mr. Borden, who followed, stated that the Prime Minister should have brought in such a resolution himself. "I can tell him this," declared the Opposition leader, "that if this proposition means anything, it means commercial union in the end." He claimed that the U. S. House of Representatives had not accepted the proposal on economic grounds, but for the reason that it would lead to political absorption.

W. F. Maclean declared there were annexation germs in the agreement. It was a surreptitious agreement, and removed from Parliament the right to make the tariff. It was concocted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "the new czar of Canada, and Taft, the czar of the United States."

Following approval of Mr. Monk's motion, Mr. Ames continued the debate, its adjournment being moved by Dr. Clark of Red Deer.

Dorothy Arnold Still Missing.

Atlantic City, Feb. 23.—"I am confident that Miss Dorothy Arnold is alive. I have tried to reach her since my return from Europe, but I have failed. I have not given up hope." Geo. S. Griscom, jr., suitor for the hand of the missing New York heiress, made the foregoing announcement here. He spoke through Roger O'Mara, the Pittsburg detective, who for ten days has conducted for the Griscoms the search for Miss Arnold, who is the daughter of a New York millionaire, and has been missing since mid-December.

Is Pool Cornering Rubber?

New York, Feb. 23.—Financiers supposed to be identified with the leading rubber companies of this country and Europe, have formed a bull pool to corner the supply of crude rubber in the United States and Europe. Crude rubber has advanced to $1.60 a pound, a jump of 47 cents a pound since Jan. 19. The syndicate already has taken, it is said, in Wall street, 2,200 tons of the crude Para product out of the market and stored it in Brazil.

Population of Germany.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—The official census concluded in December last shows the population of Germany to be 64,896,881. The figures in 1905 were 60,641,278.

The population of Prussia, the chief state of the German empire is 40,157,573.

Attempt at National Suicide.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—J. S. Willison, editor of the Toronto News, addressing the Women's Canadian Club here yesterday on reciprocity, described the proposed agreement as being an amazing attempt at national suicide.

75,000 Barrels of Potatoes Burned.

Eadton, Maine, Feb. 23.—Eight potato store-houses containing 75,000 barrels of potatoes were burned yesterday. The total loss is $100,000, divided among a dozen buyers and farmers.

RECKLESS CHAUFFEURS.

Valentine Stock's Bill Before Local House.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Automobile and assessment law amendments held the floor at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. Toronto members were rather startled by the motion for the second reading of the bill to amend the Assessment Act, as they thought it was not to come up for another two weeks. The actual understanding was, however, cleared up by a Ministerial explanation.

Valentine Stock, South Perth (Lib.), spoke at length in moving the second reading of his bill to require that chauffeurs and drivers of automobiles to convey with them their permit or license, the same to be endorsed upon conviction for violation of the statute, and to the Provincial Secretary for cancellation on the second conviction.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said that substantially the regulation called for was already embodied in the present act. He thought the third conviction preferable for cancellation of the permit.

S. Clark, West Northumberland, favored cancellation on the third conviction.

The bill was allowed to go to committee to consider the question of when the conviction should entail cancellation.

W. Proudfoot, Centre Huron, introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act. It provides simply that in cities of over 50,000, where a passenger has to stand, through all the seats on a street car being occupied, the passenger shall only be bound to pay a fare of two cents. Half fare was not proposed because of the half-cent difficulty. The objects is to prevent overcrowding by striking at the company's revenue.

MERCHANTS PROTEST.

Associated Boards of Trade Condemn Reciprocity.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—By a vote of 97 to 18 the Associated Boards of Trade, before the close of their convention in the City Hall yesterday afternoon, passed a strong resolution protesting against the ratification of the reciprocity agreement with the United States.

The resolution was moved by R. S. Gourlay, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, and seconded by Hon. E. J. Davis of Newmarket, a member of the late Liberal Government of Ontario. Mr. Gourlay said the reciprocity question was one that should be discussed by Boards of Trade. He did not wish the members to deal with it in a political way.

The resolution was a lengthy document. It stated, in substance, that the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of the policy pursued in the developments of her trade and natural resources, involving the expenditure of millions of dollars upon railways, canals and other means of transportation between the east and the west.

If the reciprocity agreement went through, further development along these lines would be handicapped and the present expenditure would to a great extent be lost. Reciprocity with the States would greatly tend to check the growth of trade between the various parts of Canada and of the rest of the Empire, and it would be a disturber of trade and commerce generally. There were also the million or more foreigners to consider. If such an agreement went through they would in time become in sympathy with the United States, and it would become more and more difficult to preserve the autonomy of Canada.

A Rude Jolt.

London, Feb. 23.—A sub-committee of the education committee of the London County Council presented a report at a meeting of that body yesterday, containing a revised list of books for the school lending libraries. Among the books struck off the list by the sub-committee were biographies of Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin and George Washington, and the book "From Log Cabin to White House."

Asked to explain the reason for this elimination, John Dennison Pender, chairman of the committee, said that the books were regarded as objectionable on account of "their extreme lack of refinement and also because they were written in American and extremely vulgar American at that."

The report was referred back to the sub-committee.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Defendants in Farmers' Bank Case Await March Sessions.

Two More Informations Are Made Out Against Messrs. Matthew Wilson and C. S. Morden of the Trusts & Guarantee Co.—They Are Charged With Conspiring to Secure Undue Preference as Creditors.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—While the hearing of the conspiracy prosecution of the provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, J. R. Stratton, J. J. Warren, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and C. H. Smith in the Police Court yesterday morning was brief, it was fraught with interest, inasmuch as it was immediately followed by the committal of all the defendants for trial at the March sessions when Assistant County Crown Attorney Monahan declared that the crown will be ready to proceed with the case. Immediately following the hearing an information was laid by Inspector of Detectvies Duncan charging Matthew Wilson, K.C., who has acted as counsel for Mr. Warren and C. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., with conspiring with Travers to procure Travers to give an undue preference to the company as creditor of the bank as against the other creditors, by altering the nature of their claims.

The basis of this charge was disclosed in Travers' evidence at the close of Tuesday's hearing of the case in which he declared that he had been pressed to consolidate a secured loan of $175,000, with an unsecured deposit of $190,000, and induced to put up an additional security of $300,000 in notes to secure the consolidated debt. A summons was issued returnable to the Police Court to-morrow morning.

The charge of illegally taking the currency of the bank, as a pledge against Messrs. Stratton, Warren and Morden was called and the two former were arraigned while Mr. Morden appeared by counsel. All pleaded not guilty, and it was arranged to have the case adjourned from week to week to allow Mr. Warren to go west on the understanding that all agreed to appear in person or by counsel whenever called, and, if the former, to allow a committal to be made in their absence.

Another important development of the day was the statement of Inspector Duncan that he would require the presence of Travers in the city for at least three weeks, and perhaps longer. Travers will be heard again to-day in the case of Col. Munro, former president of the bank, who comes up before Judge Winchester in the County Judge's Criminal Court upon the charge of making false returns to the Government. It is understood that Mr. Dewart, counsel for Col. Munro, intends to admit that the returns were false and that they were signed by his client and will confine his defence to the contention that there was no knowledge of their incorrectness or wilful deception. In this event, F. W. Stair, proprietor of the Star Theatre, will be the crown's star witness, as he has said that he warned Col. Munro about a year ago that the bank was in an unstable condition and advised him to look into the matter. The case will not go on, as Mr. Stair is in Florida and will not return for some time. But Col. Munro will be arraigned and asked to plead to the charge.

Yesterday a proceeding was begun on behalf of the liquidator to have it declared that the alleged consolidation of the loan to the bank by the trust company and the deposit of the company with the bank, whereby it is alleged by Travers that an unsecured deposit of $120,000 was secured by notes and other, was placed as a secured claim, and which is said to have been since paid by the liquidator was a fraudulent and improper transaction whereby the Trust Company received an improper preference, and that it be set aside and the proper transaction established. This will be heard by Referee McAndrew.

At yesterday morning's hearing Mr. Corley rose to say that he had no further evidence to offer and to ask that all the defendants be committed for trial.

"Then all will be committed," replied the magistrate.

"Just a moment," exclaimed Matthew Wilson, K.C., counsel for Mr. Warren. "I want to cross-examine Mr. Stockdale. This he was allowed to do and Mr. Stockdale, manager of the Toronto office of the Trust Company, was put in the box.

Mr. Wilson led him over the points touched upon by Travers in the closing of his evidence on Tuesday.

He led him over various matters which had been touched upon before.

"Regarding that $295,000 loan, was it a consolidation?" enquired Mr. Wilson.

"It was a new loan," replied Mr. Stockdale. "This was on Nov. 2, 1910."

"Were there any subsequent loans?"

"Yes, four. Nov. 11, $3,575; Nov. 15, $7,000; Nov. 17, $15,000; Nov. 18, $8,000."

"That indebtedness to the company has since been all paid off?"

"Yes."

In cross-examination, Travers admitted that Mr. Warren did not know that any illegal act was in contemplation in connection with the loan to Travers. He further said that Mr. Warren was not a party to the misrepresentation or fraud made or practiced on the Finance Department, which led to the issue of the license to the bank to do business. When Travers went to Mr. Warren he presented a letter from Mr. Thomas Fyshe, general manager of the Merchants' Bank certifying to Mr. Travers integrity and ability as a banker.

Would Strengthen Garrison.

Kingston, Feb. 23.—During the debate in the Legislature yesterday on the question of organization of a local defence force, one of the chief military officers intimated the probability that the Jamaican garrison would be considerably strengthened by Imperial troops in event of the Panama Canal being fortified.

GETS FIRST READING

Veto Bill Passes Primary Stage Amid Wild Cheers.

In Debate In British Commons on Measure, the Unionists Says the Public Will Never Stand For It and Opposition Will Soon Move For Its Repeal—Argue For a Compromise, But Asquith Refuses.

London, Feb. 23.—Premier Asquith was the recipient of a tremendous ovation from his supporters in the House of Commons last night when the Parliament bill, otherwise known as the veto bill, a measure designed to curtail the power of the Lords, was passed on its first reading by the Government's full majority of 124, the vote being 351 to 227.

The Nationalists first rose in their places, cheering wildly and waving their hats. The Liberal members quickly emulated their example. This exhibition of enthusiasm was repeated a few minutes later as the Prim Ministr quietly left the scene of his victory in his initial action against the Lords.

The debate yesterday maintained a good oratorical level, but presented few new points. The dominant note of the Unionist speeches was an invitation to the Government to settle the matter by agreement. Fred. T. Smith, in a slashing attack, accused the Government of outraging the convictions of half of their fellow-countrymen on a matter that could never be settled except by consent. The British people, he said, would support the Opposition in any resistance, however desperate, they might offer to the bill.

Right Hon. George Wyndham also urged the Government to accept the invitation to settle the question by agreement. Otherwise, he declared, sooner or later the Opposition would repeal the bill.

To these persuasions, Winston Spencer Churchill, the Home Secretary, concluding the debate for the Government, replied that the Ministers would not have 50 supporters left if they agreed to enter such a conference now. He contended, as compared with the referendum, the Government's moderate proposals were the veriest Toryism, and no step would be neglected to carry the bill swiftly into law. The Government did not fear the referendum as a check on progressive legislation, but regarded it as a vicious system, especially unsuitable for this country, and its adoption would lead to Jacobinism, Caesarism and anarchy.

Russia Is Satisfied.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—The Foreign Office announces that China's answer to four out of the six points in the Russian note relative to the treaty of 1881, is wholly satisfactory, and the remaining two can be easily adjusted. Further pressure on China it is stated is not contemplated, and the idea of a military demonstration has been abandoned.

Canadian Navy In Action.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The Department of Naval Affairs has received a message to the effect that the new Canadian cruiser Rainbow, while rounding Cape Scott, had caught the steamer Cedric of Seattle fishing within the three-mile limit, and was proceeding to Esquimault with the Cedric in tow.

Stops a Cough In One Night

The Story of Sufferers from Bronchitis Asthma and Catarrh Proves the Value of Catarrhozone.

A cough may be Catarrhal with a dry tickling in the throat, it may be accompanied by partial stoppage of the nostrils and shortage of breath. Often there is a gagging in the throat and every cough tears and hurts.

Coughs have a hundred different causes, yours may be due to any one of the following:

Asthma	Inflamed Throat
Exposure	Bronchitis
Inflammation	Croup
Enlarged Tonsils	Pneumonia
Stomach Disorders	Pleurisy.

The one remedy upon which physicians are relying to-day is Catarrhozone. It removes the cause of the cough, doesn't smother it. Catarrhozone is a soothing, healing, "direct cure" and cures the conditions that cause the cough.

Catarrhozone is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which for the most part are of no practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhozone you take no drugs—you employ Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhozone's healing vapor and relief and sure follow promptly.

It is simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured with Catarrhozone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath to the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes and chest making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat old standing coughs are removed.

REMEMBER THIS, you breathe Catarrhozone and it will cure any Winter ill. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00 and last two months, smaller sizes, 25 cents and 50 cents. Beware of imitations and insist on "CATARRHOZONE" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Power by End of Week.

Hamilton, Feb. 23.—The power situation here has not changed, and few of the factories are working.

The Board of Control has received an assurance from W. C. Hawkins, the general manager of the Cataract Power Co., that power will be on for everybody at the end of the week. The board will wait until then before deciding upon insisting upon the company securing an immediate introduction of power from Hydro-Electric Commission.

The trouble about the latter is that it is not of the same cycle as the Cataract, and an expensive transforming station would have to be built before power could be supplied that would operate the plants of the local factories.

If conditions do not improve, the erection of this station will be considered.

Sentiment Against It.

New York, Feb. 23.—Col. E. Pryce-Jones, M.P., who has been in Canada and the west for several weeks, says that the general feeling in Eastern Canada is against reciprocity, as it is feared that the trade from Western Canada would be diverted to the United States.

In the western sections the farmers generally were uncertain as to the benefits, and Col. Pryce-Jones said he thought that if the matter was put up to a vote at the present time it would be defeated.

Canadians generally, said the colonel, ridiculed the talk of annexation.

BOGUS SMOKED FISH IS DYED

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—The dairy and food bureau of the state agricultural department has discovered that a large number of the delicatessen and other stores of the city have been for a long time selling "dyed" fish as a substitute for smoked fish. When Harry P. Cassidy, the agent of the bureau told the retail store proprietors what they were doing they were surprised, as they had purchased the stuff as genuine smoked fish.

Cassidy's attention was attracted to the food article by the rich red color. Purchasing some of this fish he had it examined and an expert reported that he could dye wool with the coloring matter extracted from it.

In smoking fish there is a loss of 15 pounds in evry 100, it is said, but in dyeing the article there is no loss at all.

This permitted the violators of the law to undersell their competitors in the smoked fish industry. The dairy and food bureau promises prosecution against certain wholesale dealers this week.

FOR THE INVALID

Some Helpful Words to Those Who May be Cut Off From Everyday Matters

Some women are so constituted that if their little fingers ache the whole household is upset, and not even the greatest effort of relations and friends can induce the patient to respond with a cheerful mein.

Yet even an invalid can be invested with charm. Even an invalid can be a pleasure to her friends, and incidentally will be a very potent aid to herself in getting better. For it is good to be cheerful under all circumstances, and a smile will often lighten the load that ill-health heaps upon its victims.

A Change of Thought

One good plan to remember is not to talk too much about the symptoms of a complaint. There are a few people in the world—a mother, sister, husband or brother—who will really want to know exactly how your head feels, and what kind of a night you have had. But the average visitor, though she may ask these questions out of politeness, is not inciting you to embark upon a long list of ailments. What she wants to do is to take you out of yourself, as the homely phrase has it; not to make you focus all your intelligence on the details of your case.

Try not to lose your interest in everyday matters, though you may be cut off from them for the time being. Invalid people are apt to lapse a little out-of-date; their horizon is for the time bounded by the four walls of one room. But those who come to them fresh from the outer world, and full of all sorts of plans and excitements, will not easily understand their lack of interest in these matters. If you can take a real hearty interest in your friend's new hat, or her latest triumph in dressmaking, you will not only gratify her, but will do yourself good; for the change of thought will be as refreshing to you as a change of air.

Don't Fight Too Hard

In some cases it is as well to offer this advice: "Give in."

Don't fight too much against illness, and try to go on in your everyday ways, regardless of the fact that you have no strength for them. Many people who are usually well and active resent illness almost as a degradation. They won't consent to be waited on; they won't consent to let others think and work for them. "I can't bear to let you do this for me!" they say, in their prideful way, to some friend who is kindly trying to help them.

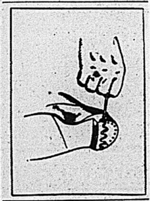
Remember that nearly everyone has sufficient kindliness to be glad of a chance of rendering service to a frined, and don't spoil their unselfish pleasure in waiting on you by keeping up a constant fire of laments that the services should be necessary.

One last hint, as these remarks are intended for women, is this: Don't neglect your appearance. Because you are ill is no reason why you should wear unbecoming attire, forget to do your hair, and make yourself an eyesore generally. On the other hand, if you can obtain a new dressing-gown and some pretty lingerie, do so at once. They will help to make you well.

SAVES FALLS ON ICE

Steel Creeper on Heel of Shoe Makes Wearer Sure-Footed

With the days of icy pavements here the creeper designed by a Philadelphia man leaps into the limelight. It is said that a person wearing a pair of these devices on his shoes need not fear the slipperiest sidewalk or street. The creeper is made of spring steel, and the illustration shows the design. The ends terminate in hooks which engage the heel of the shoe on the sides. There are no screws or straps to hold the device in position, and it requires only a few seconds to put it on or take it off. So easy is this operation, in fact, that a person may conveniently carry a pair of the creepers in his pocket and put them on when he approaches a particularly dangerous stretch of pavement, taking them off again as soon as this is passed. The corrugations on the steel spring keep it free from accumulations of ice or hard snow.



BRUSHING THE TEETH

If your teeth are sound and strong, you will find it best to use a moderately hard brush and cold water, but if they are inclined to be brittle, use a soft brush and lukewarm water. It is well to remember that the tooth-brush should always be well dried and aired, and only the best kinds should be used, as in cheap brushes the hairs come out very quickly after using, and sometimes cause trouble to the throat.

THINGS TO AVOID

It is very unwise to take a hot drink immediately after having come into a house out of the cold or wind; it is also a bad thing to leave the house in cold weather directly after taking a hot drink.

The German Reichstag has passed the unearned increment tax, which, it is estimated, will add $5,000,000 to the seventh order.

THE CURSE OF THE NATION IS CONSTIPATION

"Fruit-a-tives" Alone Cures This Disease

A famous scientist states that Constipation, or non-action of the bowels, causes more deaths than all other diseases combined. Constipation inflames the Kidneys, ruins digestion, is the foundation of Rheumatism, poisons the blood, causes Headaches, Neuralgia, Nervousness and Insomnia.

Constipation is caused by a weak or sluggish liver. Bile, the only purgative of the body, is secreted by the liver, which in turn should pour out into the intestines sufficient bile to move the bowels. Unless the liver is active, there cannot be enough bile to move the bowels regularly, and Constipation is the result.

"Fruit-a-tives", the famous fruit medicine, will always cure Constipation because it acts directly on the liver—relieves the congestion—increases the quantity of bile—and strengthens the bowel muscles.

WHITE WOMEN PREY OF NATIVE AFRICANS

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 20.—A series of cases of criminal assault and indecent assault by natives on white women has been reported during the last few days from different parts of South Africa.

There have been five cases in the Witwatersrand alone. Two of these occurred yesterday. The worst was committed in broad daylight.

A native felled a woman teacher cycling homeward in the suburb of Orchards, assaulted her and attempted to murder her. He then decamped. The police are securing the countryside for him.

Mr. Madeley, a member of the Labor party, to-day gave notice that he would ask the government to instruct judges to inflict the utmost legal penalty, which is death in all cases of conviction for criminal assault, whether actually carried out or only attempted. He also asks for an increase of the police force .

While it is not suggested that this epidemic is the outcome of the Umtali reprieve, the fact of so many crimes occurring simultaneously, and on the heels of the Umtali agitation, is attracting widespread attention, and Mr. Mcdeley's noice is sympathetic of the growing sentiment in favor of stern measures.

This sentiment is especially apparent in Johannesburg, where public feeling on the subject is becoming strong, and vague hints are being uttered of public executions by vigilance committees though the general sentiment of the country is as it always has been, against lynching and other mob-law methods.

THE LUMBER INDUSTRY

Snow Is Too Deep in the Northern Woods for Profitable Lumbering

OAATAWA, Feb. 22.—Gangs of shanty-men are arriving early from the woods this year. A big party came in to-day from the Montreal River vicinity and other lumber districts up north Most of them were employed there with the J. R. Booth firm and the Hawkesbury Lumber Co.

This year the break-up of some of the lumber camps has come much earlier than usual. Ordinarily the closing of the camps does not take place until about the end of March but this year the snow has been so deep in the woods as to make the work of cutting and hauling too hard on the men and an unprofitable operation for their employers. In several of the districts up north the men had to walk through snow four feet deep in order to get to their work.

It is said that the drive of logs down the river will commence in the course of a few wreks, and that will revive activity in the woods, but none of the men who have just come down will return for that.

THE PACT HITS TORONTO HARD

Aemilius Jarvis of Toronto has just returned from the old country, bringing back with him a telling indictment against reciprocity.

"A large elevator and flouring mill corporation was being organized," said he. "One of its projects was to erect a very large mill in Toronto. We completed the underwriting of the bond issue in London, amounting to $1,500,000. On the announcement of the proposed agreement, a cable was received that the negotiations were all off.

"Some of the largest underwriters showed a strong disposition to withdraw from their underwriting ,and as we were advised by our financial friends that in the present spirit of the British investing public it would be hopeless to expect any response to a public issue, we withdrew the business, returning all the applications which had been received, together with the 5 per cent. deposit that was made upon the applications.

"The company was the Imperial Flour Milling Company, whose plant was to be built on the Esplanade on the 133,000 square feet held by the Brown Milling Company, the lease of which the city had just agreed to extend for another 21 years.

"The business in London has been left in such condition that if the reciprocity agreement does not pass, the business will be taken up again."

THAT FAMOUS FIGHT FOR THE SOCIETY CHAMPIONSHIP

How the Burly Briton Knocked Out the American Bruiser and Won a Silver Cup—Britisher Hangs "K. O." Sign on American in the Third With a Left Hook to the Jaw

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Bob Beresford easily wrested the society boxing championship from Tony Drexel, putting it all over him for three fast rounds at George Gould's Lakewood fight club. It was a merry mill, but the Britisher, opening with little steam in the first, had the shade in the second and dealt the dreamland punch in the third, when Drexel, outweighed five pounds, came up groggy. A large crowd of sporting people from Fifth Avenue and London saw the mill. Lord Camoys and Lord Graham were in the winner's corner, and Jay Gould and Herbert Moffatt wielded the towels and arnica bottle for the American. It is believed that Bob's seconds did not tell their real names. There was no purse nor gate money, the winner getting a large silver cup.

ROUND ONE.

ROUND TWO.

Drexel rushes and swings right and left Beresford feints, sends right tap to body which Drexel dodged cleverly. They feint. Drexel wades in and lands hard with right to jaw. They dodge and feint Beresford slashes in with right and left, and floors Drexel with right uppercut to cin. Again the gong rang. Beresford's advantage.

ROUND THREE.

Drexel rushes, but terrific right to heart stops him. Drexel counters cleverly. Beresford sidesteps a quick rush and sends a smashing left swing full force to adversary's jaw, flooring him. He went down for the count of six, then got hard lefts and rights to jaw and body and his seconds threw up the sponge.

Altogether, it was a pleasing mill, fast from the tap of the gong.

Expert Advice on Hair Culture

HOW TO STOP FALLING HAIR AND DRIVE AWAY DANDRUFF

Once a day if only for a minute every woman and every man too, for that matter, ought to rub the scalp vigorously with the tips of the fingers.

The blood supplies nourishment to the hair just as it does to the skin and frequent massaging gently stimulates the scalp and causes the blood to flow more freely.

Both men and women should be careful in the choice of a hair dressing. A good one used regularly, not only destroys dandruff garms, but keeps the hair from falling and causes it to grow profusely and lustrous.

Parisian Sage is the hair dressing grower and beautifier most in demand by discriminating people. So certain is its tonic action on the scalp and hair, and so sure is it to give the limit of satisfaction that J. V. Doyle guarantees Parisian Sage to abolish dandruff, to stop falling hair, itching scalp or refund your money.

Parisian Sage is free from grease or stickiness and once used will never be displaced by any of the ordinary commercial hair tonics.

A large bottle costs but 50 cents at J. V. Doyle's and druggists everywhere The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled charges prepaid by Giroux Mfg. Co. Fort Erie, Ont.

"I have used Parisian Sage for some time and I think it has no equal as a hair beautifier and scalp cleaner."—Mrs. William Hoglund, Sault St. Marie, June 2, 1910.

IT'S FOOD

THAT RESTORES AND MAKES HEALTH POSSIBLE

There are stomach specialists as well as eye, ear and other specialists. One of these told a young lady of New Brunswick, N. J., to quit medicines and eat Grape-Nuts. She says :

"For about twelve months I suffered severely with gastritis. I was unable to retain much of anything on my stomach, and consequently was compelled to give up my occupation.

I took quantities of medicine and had an idea I was dieting, but I continued to suffer, and soon lost 15 pounds in weight. I was depressed in spirits and lost interest in everything generally. My mind was so affected that it was impossible to become interested in even the lightest reading matter.

"After suffering for months I decided to go to a stomach specialist. He put me on Grape-Nuts and my health began to improve immediately. It was the keynote of a new life.

"I found that I had been eating too much starchy food which I did not digest, and that the cereals I had tried had been too heavy. I soon proved that it is not the quantity of food that one eats, but the quality.

"In a few weeks I was able to go back to my old business of doing clerical work. I have continued to eat Grape-Nuts for both the morning and evening meal. I wake in the morning with a clear mind and feel rested. I regained my lost weight in a short time. I am well and happy again and owe it to Grape-Nuts." Name given pkgs. "There's a Reason."

While He Spoke.

The gentleman with the well fed appearance who had motored over from the narest town to deliver his lecture, "The Art of Getting On," in the village schoolroom, concluded with a fine burst.

"Effort is the keystone of success," he said. "The successful man is the man who strives persistently. His motto is, 'Push and keep pushing,' for by that, and that alone, he reaches his goal."

Before the bulk of the audience made much headway with their clapping a small man at the back got in a laugh that might have come from a megaphone.

The lecturer held up his hand for silence.

"You, too, my friend, will have to push"— he commenced.

"So'll you, I reckon," interrupted the small man. "There's 'arf a dozen youngsters been pinchin' the petrol out of yer motorcar ter light a bonfire, cocky!"—Tit-Bits.

LONELY BACHELORS WANT TO MARRY

Whilst clerks in the London offices of the Canadian Northern steamships are being besieged with letters from girls wishing to come to Canada to be married, the Canadian offices are beginning to feel a thrill of sympathy for their overworked English confreres, for every mail brings in letters from young Canadian men anxious to marry the girls who are coming. They write from all parts of Canada do these lonely swains, and ask in all kinds of tones to be placed in touch with the girls they are sure will make them happy, and who they promise to make happy in return. All trades and professions are represented by the applicants, who are of all ages, builds and colors, the latter of course merely relating to eyes and hair.

One blushing bachelor, who lives on the Central Vermont line, in the Province of Quebec, states that he is a farmer, owning his own farm of many acres, although but 23 years of age. The description of his loneliness and his own good qualities, modestly set forth, should bring a thrill of reciprocating sympathy to some fair maid in the British Islands, even if she does not cast an eye towards the broad acres.

Other young men write from the cities throughout Canada, but the majority are from the farms in the West. Some paint glowing pictures of the life and fertility of the West, and show an inclination to follow the words of the song that "Any little girl who's a nice little girl is the right little girl for me." Some with memories of baking days in the Old Country stipulate for good cooks, but most of them are prepared to take even that on chance and trust their digestions to the "right little girl" if only she will sail soon.

A woman can almost love a man when he tells her that he is going to intrust her with a secret.

A stranger can make a hit in any town by telling the natives there is absolutely no room for improvement.

Elastic currency may be all right but what most people need is adhesive coin.

MANY CONTESTANTS MAKE HEAVY GAINS

Others are Slowly but Steadily Climbing in the Vote Column—Time is Short—Best Licks Should be Put In Now—But One Day Remains in Race for the Special Prizes—Double Vote Period Ends Tomorrow Night 8.30 P. M.--All Subscriptions Must be in at That Time to Receive the Extra Votes—Miss Theda Barragar Takes Lead in District No 1—Miss Louise Shorey Still Leads District No. 2

As the time is drawing near you had better put your best licks in now. The special contest that closes to-morrow night affords the only chance that our contest girls will have to win bonus votes of as great a value. The work until 8.30 to-morrow night counts three times—once in the special contest, once in the general contest, and once in the bonus vote, if for one year or more. The special contest offer is an exceedingly generous one for our contest girls. The prizes given for the ten days special contest are beyond dispute as to their value. The special prizes themselves are worth working for, leaving out of account the large bonus vote, which counts again in the general contest. These special offers are putting The Intelligencer to large extra expense, but this expense it freely takes upon itself to give the contest girls something handsome to work for and it keeps them in a happy frame of mind. Young ladies, do not let these few remaining hours slip by unimproved. The special prizes and the general prizes will be won while this special contest is on. Every girl in the contest should get busy now. The votes that win the special prizes will go a long way toward winning the regular prizes.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

WINNIPEG OPPOSES

Board of Trade Resolution Condemning Trade Agreement Carried by Big Majority

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.—By a vote of 69 to 13 the Winnipeg Board of Trade this afternoon passed a resolution condemning the reciprocity agreement as not in the best interests of the Dominion, particularly that portion lying west of the great lakes, and expressing the urgent wish that the proposals be not ratified. Between ninety and one hundred members were present, about a dozen abstaining from voting. There was no discussion of the subject, the question being called for the moment the resolution had been presented by Mr. W. H. Cross, a prominent capitalist, and seconded by Mr. D. C. Cameron. The vote was not political, but practically every man voting was a representative of important interests. The railways were represened by executive agents and traffic officials, the millers were represented by managers and shareholders the banks by their Winnipeg managers, the trust companies and big financial corporations by managers and directors, the eastern manufacturers by their Winnipeg agents or resident managers, the western manufacturers were present in person, the big implement firms were represented by leading officials, while even the insurance companies, closely allied with the big money interests were represented by their managers.

"It went through nicely," was the significant remark overheard from a prominent lumberman as the meeting broke up.

But one voice was raised in protest. Mr. James Foster declaring that reciprocity would be a good thing for all of Canada. He was reminded that he was technically out of order, his dues to the Board being unpaid, and when asked to continue, on a vote of the meeting, merely reiterated his former statement.

EMPIRE DAUGHTERS CONDEMN THE PACT

A special meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, which represents 10,000 women of Canada was held on Wednesday afternoon at Toronto with Mrs. Nordheimer, President of the Order, in the chair. Reciprocity with the United States was discussed, and fear was expressed of the effect of reciprocity between Canada and the United States on the Dominion of Canada and Great Britain.

Indignation was exhibited at the discussion in Washington of even a possibility of annexation.

The following resolution, moved by Mrs. H. S. Strathy, and seconded by Mrs. E. F. B. Johnston, was mailed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Senate and members of the Government and the Cabinet :—

Resolved that this Order fears that the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States of America will, if ratified, tend to weaken the ties that bind Canada to the British Empire, of which we are proud to form a part, and will also tend to destroy our Imperial ambitions and firm determination to assume our share of the responsibilities of the Empire;

"That the detrimental tendency and ultimate effect of the proposed agreement upon the Empire and upon Canada are vastly more important than any temporary financial benefits which may be secured;

"That this order earnestly hopes that the Government, Parliament, and the people of Canada, will put aside all party, sectional or individual advantages and carefully consider the inevitable effect of the proposed agreement upon the great broad, vital interests of the British Empire."

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE REPUDIATE PACT

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.—The Manitoba Legislature by a straight party vote of 26 to 19 to-day defeated the resolution of Mr. T. C. Norris, leader of the Opposition, approving the reciprocity pact, and passed an amendment thereto advocating Imperial preference and free trade within the Empire.

At the close of the vote the national anthem was sung, followed by cheers.

Mr. Norris wound up the debate and urged that reciprocity would benefit western Canada. He claimed that it would not injure interprovincial trade, and would result in a great flow of capital to the west and increased immigration.

Messrs. Fielding and Paterson went to Washington with the idea that they were going to catch a weasel asleep The result was as usual in such cases

The Ontario Boards of Trade, representing the business community of this province, have passed by a vote of 97 to 18, a resolution strongly condemnatory of the proposed tariff arrangement. "And still there's more to follow."

For once we agree with the Toronto World in the declaration that the adoption of so momentous a measure as the proposed tariff arrangement with the United States without an appeal to the people is a crime against the constitution.

No change in the date of municipal elections will be made at the present session of the Legislature. Mr. A. E Donovan's bill to provide for the holding of nominations on the second Monday in January and elections on the third Monday, was defeated in the Municipal Committee, which is to be regretted.

The ladies, through their organization, the Daughters of the Empire have pronounced against the pact They could hardly do otherwise, having regard for the fact that they are desirous of preserving their present social conditions rather than run the risk of more intimate relations with our southern neighbors, whose laxity in regard to morality is notorious.

"Hon. S. H. Blake," says the Toronto Star, "sees no disloyalty in freer trade with the United States." Nor does any other person. If the Americans desire it they can secure it by lowering their tremendously high tariff barrier which they raised against us many years ago, with the object of forcing Canada into annexation.' But in the words of the resolution adopted by the Ontario Boards of Trade, an agreement that threatens Canada is a very different thing from freer trade. It is to be said further, that the Toronto Board of Trade, the Manufacturers Association, the Montreal Board of Trade, the Liberal Captains of Commerce of the Winnipeg Corn Exchange and the hundreds of other organizations representative of the commercial and industrial interests of the country are much more competent to judge of the effect of such an arrangement as is proposed than is Hon. S. H. Blake, or even the Toronto Star or Globe.

GREAT SLIDE UPSETS PLANS FOR BUILDING PANAMA CANAL

500,000 Cubic Yards Slid Into the Cut and the Whole of the Hill May be Leveled

COLON, Panama, Feb. 23.—Without warning, upsetting all theories and estimates, opening up an ugly vista of possibilities, 500,000 cubic yards of rock and earth slid into the Pioneer Cut, just opposite the town of Culebra last Thursday. It is one of the worst slides the Canal Commission engineers have had to contend with, and it is worse than any previous slide from the fact that the others could be explained, even where predicted.

The latest avalanche of dirt changes the canal plans materially. It makes it seem necessary that the entire prism shall be enlarged sufficiently to prevent any occurence of the sort after the completion of the canal. There seems to be no doubt that all of Gold Hill will have to be removed, in itself a considerable undertaking. And 335 000 yards of the slide itself represents the waste. The remainder it was intended to remove.

Most disconcerting of all, theories which have heretofore served to explain slides to the satisfaction of the engineers' brains are pricked like a toy balloon.

A few weeks ago a large amount of earth and rock slid into the canal at Las Cascadas, a few miles north of the great Cucharacha slide, which has been giving trouble. This makes it appear that the entire cut will have to be widened sooner or later, to a large extent, in order to avoid serious difficulty when the canal shall have been completed.

No estimate of the damage has been given out by the Canal Commission but it will mount up to a handsome figure.

Since Gold Hill was regarded as slideproof no mortal man can now say where a slide may not occur.

A year ago cracks appeared upon the crest of the hill extending above the Culebra Hotel. The hotel will be taken down at once and a new one constructed.

THE MEN OF ST. ANDREW'S

Had A Meeting Last Night—Stirring Address on Laymen's Missionary Movement

An enthusiastic meeting of the men of St. Andrew's church was held last evening in the Lecture Room of the church, when John A. Paterson, K. C. of Toronto, gave a stirring address on Aspects of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. In opening his address he spoke in glowing terms of the work the women of the churches had done in the interest of missions. "But," declared the speaker, "the man who puts his religion in his wife's name does that which is illegal in the courts of Heaven." He may put his property in his wife's name and do what is perfectly legal, but it is not so with religion. The laymen who met in St James School House, Toronto, three years ago adopted as their motto: "We can do it if we will." For the time being it appeared altogether adequate but on closer examination there was found to be a defect in it It was the weak, cowardly little Anglo-Saxon word "if." No man ever establishes a successful business or enterprise on an "if." The watchword was changed to "We can do it, and we will." This was felt to be more satisfactory. But even this does not seem to altogether satisfy. It savored too much of man and too little of God. The watchword the laymen now have adopted is "He (God) can do it if we will." That puts the responsibility where it belongs and gives God his proper place. There is virility, enthusiasm, grit and intuition in the word 'layman'. These are the things that make for success in the business life of the world. They are just as successful in the business of the church. "God ~~only~~ had one son and He made Him a Missionary. To be properly called sons of God, we also must be missionaries. If we cannot go ourselves we can send others to take our place. In ancient warfare the motto in regard to those who kept watch over the ammunition and the provisions was, "They that stand by the stuff have as great honor as they that go down into the battle." So in missionary work. But there must not be the keeping of the stuff to ourselves only. In that case there is no honor—only credit. The Scriptures are missionary throughout in their teaching. "Go ye, and make disciples of all nations," is not the only missionary text. Every petition in the Lord's prayer has a missionary background and significance. The church that is not missionary is not a church but merely a club. Is there a man who is not bound to give to missions? Yes. He is the man who believes that man is not lost and consequently has no need of a Redeemer. He is the man who is sorry the missionaries ever came to the shores of Britain and Canada. He is the man who declaims the fact of his obligation to be his brother's keeper. But is such a man to be found among the Christian laymen of our church? The speaker doubted the existence of such a man We need to learn to contribute to missions in proper proportions "as the Lord prospers us." Not to give as little as we can to be decent about it We may not always do what is fair with others, but let us be fair with God. To contribute to missions may not be regarded as a legal debt, but it is a debt of honer. Even a gambler pays his debts of honer. Shall Christians do less? Why, then, should there be such a small interest in missions? The average giving throughout the Protestant churches of Canada is $2.50 per member a year, or 5c per week. How can this condition be altered? By every man doing his level best. The L. M. M. has been doing good work. In the Presbyterian church $160,000 more was given to the schemes of the church than in the year previous. But this is far below what it ought to be. A church to be evangelical must evangelize. We need to evangelize the east for our own safety in the west. Napoleon said "If China wakes up let the world beware," and it will make all the difference in the world for us whether she wakes up heathen or Christian

After a hearty vote of thanks had been tendered Mr. Paterson for his masterful address, a new missionary committee was organized for the year's work. The following names constitute the committee: W. J. Campbell, chairman; W. J. Thomson, treasurer; T. Byam, secretary. The committee is held responsible for a canvass of the whole congregation in the interests of missions, and the goal aimed at this year is the raising of $1,000. The meeting was closed by singing the Doxology and the Benediction by the pastor

AMERICAN BOY'S BOGUS MESSAGE CAUSES BRITISH ARMY'S CAPTURE

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—How a ten year-old New York boy caused the defeat and capture of a whole British army during the annual "war game" in Bermuda last week is told in letters which have just been received here.

The boy, William Stokes, jr., is in Hamilton, Bermuda, with relatives and when the three regiments that constituted the Hamilton garrison were ordered to conduct their maneuvers he was very much interested The garrison was divided into a "blue" army and a "red" army.

Young Stokes, who is a wireless telegraph amateur, amused himself by deciphering the heliograph and wigwag messages sent by the scouts of the rival armies. Then one day, having acquired a fairly accurate knowledge of their code words, he determined to end the mimic war.

He took his pony and rode to the top of Hamilton Hill, near which the "blue" army was entrenched. Secreting himself, he heliographed to the "red" army on the opposite hill at St George: "Now is your chance, proceed to Devil's Hole, and up the foot path." This he signed with the "red" scouts' code pass word.

The commander of the "reds" was confident that the signal came from one of his spies and followed it implicitly. An hour later he found his troops surrounded and technically captured ignominious fashion.

The assault showed so amazing a lack of tactical skill that the chief of staff made an investigation and found out the American boy's part in the denoument. He was summoned before the garrison commander but the latter considered the matter a huge joke and took the boy to dinner at the home of the governor that he might tell the story to that official.

INDIAN PRINCE WEDS DAUGHTER OF A LORD

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—A Herald cable from London says: The Rajah Mudah or Crown Prince of Sarawak, Charles Vyner Brooke was married this afternoon to the Hon. Sylvia Brett, daughter of Lord and Lady Esher, in St. Peter's Church, Cranbourne, Windsor Forest.

The bridegroom is the son of the reigning Rajah, who is a descendant of James Brooke, a young English naval officer, and the hero of one of Charles Kingsley's novels, who received Sarawak as a present from the Sultan of Borneo, whose life and Crown he saved when the Chinese and pirates sought to overthrow him.

AN INSOLENT DRUNK PICKED UP

Said He Was An American Citizen But That Did Not Scare the Police

At 1.30 this morning the police were notified that a man, apparently intoxicated, was lying on the walk at the corner of Dundas and Pinnacle streets An officer responded and found the party, who subsequently gave his name as Bert Clancy and said he was an American citizen. The man was very indignant after being arrested and is said to have used most insulting language towards members of the police force.

When brought before the magistrate this morning Clancy admitted the charge of drunkenness and disorderly. He stated that if he used insulting language towards the police officers he was not aware of it. A fine of $5 was imposed.

Before Magistrate Masson this morning a stranger named Peter Brown admitted he was drunk and acting in a disorderly manner. He had to contribute $5 to the city treasury.

The locale of "My Cinderella Girl" is the mythical Siwash College which has been exploited to considerable extent in the Philadelphia Saturday Post. It is a co-educational institution, but stage license has been taken and the girls in the play out-number the boys two to one. The first act occurs in Mother Pinney's College Boarding House, and the many pranks played on poor old mother Pinney keep the audience in constant laughter throughout the entire act. The second act shows the athletic team at the training table, while the third and last act transpires in the dressing room of the Athletic Club House on the baseball diamond in front of the grand stand, where an exciting game of baseball is played. The farce has been given an exceptionally tuneful musical score by William Frederick Peters, composer of "The Mayor of Tokio."

"My Cinderella Girl" enjoyed a run of over thre hundred performances in Chicago, and is now en route to Broadway, New York, for an extended engagement.

DEVIL IN THE BASEMENT

While the Methodist choir were leading the large congregation on Sabbath evening in singing, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," and other gospel songs, the devil was in the basement going through the pockets of their coats and muffs and pocketing everything of value. What Mandate Had They

It would be interesting to learn how many of the ninety-seven anti-reciprocity delegates to the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario had a mandate from the bodies they represented to vote against better trade relations with the United States. By many of the thirty-three Boards represented the question never was discussed at all, and the bulk of them assuredly have not discussed it in the concrete, with the terms of the Fielding-Knox agreemest before them.—Toronto Globe.

Our contemporary must be woefully hard pressed for an argument when it resorts to the use of one which naturally turns against the members of Parliament—including the Cabinet Ministers—who are at present engaged in forcing the measure through the House of Commons.

What mandate have Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his colleagues and their supporters in Parliament for dealing with a subject of such vast importance as the tariff pact The people alone can issue such a mandate, and that they have not done so is undeniable.

"What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If the representatives on the Ontario Board of Trade ought to have a mandate from their constituents before pronouncing on the tariff arrangement, how much more ought it be required for the representatives of the people in Parliament, who have a much wider constituency, asd who are to decide whether the proposed arrangement shall be entered into.

Why not, then, appeal to the electorate to pronounce upon the subject by means of a general election? That is the only constitutional method of deciding so momentous an issue.

Will Sir Wilfrid Laurier adopt this, the only constitutional course, or will he attempt to govern in the same arbitrary manner as did Charles I., in defiance of the people's will? King Charles' attempted tyranny cost him his throne and his head. In these days, and in highly civilized countries, rulers who try to govern unconstitutionally are not beheaded, but lose their official heads, as did the Lieutenant-Governors of Quebec and British Columbia; and such will be the fate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the next election if he now acts in defiance of the popular will by refusing to take the verdict of the people on the matter in question.

Hill Speaks Truly

There is no more ardent advocate of reciprocity than Mr. James J. Hill, whose interests in reciprocity are greater than those of any other living man, because of his railway lines in our western provinces and in the northwestern States. He effectually and logically disposes of the argument that reciprocity will advance the price of wheat for the Canadian farmer by simply telling the plain obvious truth. He says:—"The price of any commodity of which a country produces a surplus for export is fixed in the market where it must be sold. The demand of the whole world for wheat meets the supply of the world in the Liverpool market. This Liverpool quotation regulates wheat prices in all the markets of the world. It is cabled daily to New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, Winnipeg and other primary markets of wheat-exporting countries. The price in each of them varies daily with the Liverpool advice. It is, therefore, impossible that this price should be affected by the trade relations of any two of the countries to each other."

The price of wheat in the Canadian west will not be affected by reciprocity. Canadian transportation companies and Canadian exporters will be the chief sufferers.

CAVALIERI SETTLES WITH CHANLER FOR 50,000; WILL OBTAIN DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—It was given out yesterday by friends of Lina Cavalieri, who are thoroughly conversant with her domestic difficulties, that the singer has at last succeeded in obtaining a financial settlement from her husband, Robert Winthrop Chanler and that all court proceedings in respect to the ante nuptial settlement have been dropped.

Cavalieri has agreed, it is said, to accept $50,000 from Chanler in full settlement of all her claims and to apply for a divorce.

Oreste Cavalieri, brother of the prima donna, visited New York for the second time about four weeks ago and at a meeting between him, as representative for his sister, and lawyers for Chanler, the agreement was reached.

Before his marriage to Cavalieri Chanler was the "gentleman sheriff" of Dutchess county and spent much of his time painting freak pictures which he decorated with gold leaf and aluminum. He is a cousin of John Jacob Astor.

The marriage ceremony took place in June, 1910, in the Mairie of the Eighth Arrondissement of Paris, which is the fashionable Elysee quarter. An ante-nuptial agreement signed by Chanler gave his wife practically his whole fortune and people were amazed at his sentimental liberality.

Mr. and Mrs. Chanler began their life together at the home of Cavalieri 21 Avenue de Messine, Paris. She had it appeared on the surface of things enough funds to keep up appearances. He borrowed from almost everyone he knew and did nothing to support the household. At last the singer began to ask when Chanler proposed the fulfillment of some of his promises. She could get no definite answer.

It was in the middle of last September that news reached New York of a fearful row which resulted in the departure of Chanler from the home of Cavalieri. He returned to this country via Bristol and Canada and so far as he could avoided being seen.

Chanler has never said one word in explanation of his own conduct or anything in defence of his wife's position, although hundreds of stories were told about her at the time which have since proved to be unjustifiable.

NEW GOLD FIELD AT HOBSON

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. p2.—Mr. J. J. Byrne, who has been interested in the gold and silver discoveries at Cobalt, Porcupine and Gowganda, returned to the "Soo" this afternoon from Hobson, a new gold field discovered by William Moquist of the "Soo" last November Bryne with J. Hollinger, who with his brother Ben staked the Timmins claim at Porcupine, which was sold for $330,000, have staked 16 claims at Hobson adjoining the Moquist claims and all show rich values. Bryne says the formation at Hobson is similar to that at Porcupine and that values are equally as good. The fields are only 156 miles apart. The new field is easy of access, the C. P. R. running within 11 miles of the most important claims and the N. C. R. when forming a junction with the C. P. R. at Hobson, will run directly through one of the richest gold fields on the continent. Assays made on Hobson ore run from $6.60 to $400.00 to the ton. It is expected that with the advent of spring a rush will be made to Hobson, the finds having created considerable excitement among the mining men of the North.

King's Daughters and Sons and Belleville Y. M. C. A. Must Pay Certain Taxes

No exemptions from taxation were granted the Association of King's Daughters and Sons when the bill incorporating this organization was dealt with by the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature at Toronto yesterday. The association is to have powers similar to those enjoyed by the Y. M. C. A. Hon. I. B. Lucas, chairman of the committee, informed A. J. Keeler, solicitor for the applications, that the association would have to pay local improvement rates and school taxes.

The Protestant Orphans Home, Toronto, will now be allowed to hold property worth an annual rental value of $25,000 per year.

Belleville's Y. M. C. A. was ready to pay local improvements but asked exemption from shcool taxes. W. C. Mikel, K.C., on behalf of the association, urged special consideration, but the committee refused to depart from the principle it laid down at the beginning of the session.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes affected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifying the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

LUCKY SWISS HOUSEWIFE.

She Lets the Rain Do All the Family Washing For Her.

Swiss methods of laundering are original, practical and labor saving. The women there have learned well how to make the best use of their opportunities with the least exertion. How they use the tourists every one who has traveled in the country of the Alps knows. They also know how to make nature do their housework.

In most of the towns everything that is washed or cleaned is washed or cleaned in one of the big watering troughs that stand at regular intervals along the main thoroughfares. Into it goes everything from potatoes to human beings, and the only sanitary regulation existent is that it must be cleaned out with a large broom made of bush or twigs after the potatoes have had their bath. But when it rains then everything else gives way to the family wash, no matter if it is Thursday or Sunday or Saturday or Wednesday, for in Switzerland they seek the rainy days for wash days, instead of deploring a cloudy Monday.

The steady downpour provides running water in the village washtub. Into the sweeping current the family linen goes, and there it is whirled and twirled about until every speck of dirt is thoroughly rinsed away. The scrubbing board is not put into commission at all. Occasionally the good housewife, protected under the family umbrella held over her head by one of her youngsters, who is allowed to enjoy the drips from that same umbrella, takes a look at her wash and encourages it with a gentle poke with her husband's best cane. But the rest of the day she enjoys to the full in her snug chalet, while the elements do her work. In fact, with her conscience at rest that her day's tasks will be done, she can spend her time gossiping with her neighbor, whose conscience is also at peace.

On the next day the wash goes through a process of bluing and starching—all in that same basin—and finally, when the sun shines, it is laid out on the wonderful green grass of the Swiss matten and is there bleached to a snowy whiteness. If the glaciers and the landslides were to accommodate her by rolling down over her wash and ironing it out without soiling the Swiss housewife would not be at all surprised. In fact, it is not to be doubted that she now regards as an oversight the failure of Dame Nature to provide an ironing board.—New York Post.

LIFE OF THE SHEPHERD

IT IS NOT ALL ARCADY IN THE HILLS AND DOWNS.

In the Districts In England Where Sheep Are Kept the Farmer Has Given Up the Soil For a Bad Job and Very Little Can Grow—Snowstorms Are the Dread of the Guardian of the Flock.

Standing alone on the edge of the bleak, bare down, the shepherd's cottage, with its white-washed walls and smoking chimney, makes a conspicuous feature in the landscape. It is the only habitation within an area of half-a-dozen square miles of open country, and there is no building within sight of it except the long, low barn that lies in the hollow 100 feet below. The evidences of man's handiwork are, indeed, few and far between in these deserted parts. Away to north and south, and east and west, stretch the great rolling hills—bare and desolate to-day as they have been for centuries past, though here and there a clump of wind-trained trees or a patch of stunted gorse is struggling to maintain a precarious existence on the chalky soil. Only in the valleys, where the rainstorms of a thousand years have washed down what little soil they could gather from the hills, does the farmer now find it worth while to drive his plow, and one may see, says The Globe, the product of his labors in the little round stacks of corn and the long neat heaps of mangolds that are dotted about here and there. But the work of the fields is practically over for the time being.

What little arable land there is has already been sown with wheat or thrown up into furrows, which make a warm brown contrast to the cold grey-green of the downs, and until the spring, when the whistling plowboys will come this way again, the valleys will be as silent as the hills around. Only one man among the solitude of these unfettered acres is always busy, and he is the shepherd who lives in the lonely cottage. Week in, week out, winter and summer, autumn and spring, he dwells among these hills, tending his sheep, either on the hillside or in the dale. In the morning he drives them slowly out of the fold in the valley where they spend the night, on to the uplands where the short sweet herbage grows, and leaving them there to be guarded by his dog, comes back again to pitch a fresh fold against their return at nightfall. That finished, he fills up his time in slicing roots and chaffing hay down in the barn, and carries a sackful of each out to the troughs in the hurdled enclosure. His watchful eye keeps wandering to the flock of ewes upon the hill, and ever and again, when they become too scattered for his liking, he waves his hand to their four-footed keeper to round them up. The dog obeys instantly, and having done what is required of him sinks down once more upon the velvet turf to doze with one eye open until his services are next required. A break in the monotony of the shepherd's day arrives at noon, when his dinner is brought down to him from the cottage on the hill. Generally speaking, it is his daughter who comes with her father's midday meal, and the appearance of her white apron on the hillside is the signal for the shepherd to straighten his back from toil and don his big blue cloak.

Then he repairs to the hut by the corner of the fold, and seating himself on a bundle of sacks, stirs the coals of the tiny stove into a blaze. His meal does not take him long, and the girl waits while her father empties the steaming bowl. Then, taking the vessel from him, and bidding him be home in time for tea, the girl starts back again up the steep hillside, singing as she goes. The shepherd fills and lights his pipe, and shouldering his crook, sets off to join his flock. He spends an hour walking round about and in among the black-faced ewes, sometimes passing his crook round the leg of one to examine it, paring the ill-grown hoof of one and cutting off a piece of matted wool from another. Then, as the watery sun begins to cast long shadows from the hilltops, he begins to drive the sheep down into the valley, and has them all safely hurdled by the time that dusk creeps on. For some weeks to come the shepherd and his dog will share the full responsibility of the flock, but presently, as the days grow longer, extra help will be needed to make ready for the coming of the lambs. It is then that the real work of the year begins, and days will be spent in the thatching hurdles and building separate pens all round the big strawed enclosure by the barn. Soon afterwards the erstwhile peaceful and contented flock will be transformed into a noisy assemblage of anxious mothers and complaining offspring. All day long, from morning until night, the valley will be filled with a mutitude of voices pitched in every key, and the shepherd, or one of his assistants, will need to be in constant attendance.

During this long and anxious period the shepherd never goes home to his family for more than an hour or two at a time. Most of his meals are taken at his hut, and all his nights are spent there for three months on end. His sleep he takes in snatches during the daytime, never trusting anyone but himself to look after the flock by night. It is a hard and trying time, and the shepherd confesses that he is always glad when the lambing season is over. But what the shepherd dreads most of all is a heavy and sudden fall of snow, especially in the night. When that happens it is a case of all hands to the rescue, and incessant toil is necessary to keep the snow from drifting into the pens. The shepherd's calling is by no means so easy as it sometimes seems when we fall in with him on a summer's day lying on the downs, with his flock grazing peacefully around him, and the air filled with the tinkling of sheep-bells and the humming of bees among the downland flowers.

You may have observed that a man who always laughs at his own joke seldoms has any laughter left for the jokes of others.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

form became indistinct, and faded out of sight. The boat was travelling down stream once more. Around her the river lapped lazily, and the solemn quietude of the mist-covered waters was accentuated by the far-off turmoil in the city.

The huge sail thrust its yard high above the fog bank, and watchers on the river saw it. Some one hailed in the vernacular, and Chumru replied that they came from Bithoor with hay. Prompted by Malcolm he went on:

"How goes the good work, brother?"

"Rarely," came the voice. "I have already requited two bunnniahs to whom I owed money. Gold is to be had for the taking. Leave the budgerow at the bridge, friend, and join us."

The raucous, half-drunken accents substantiated Akhab Khan's story. The unseen speaker was evidently himself a boatman. He was rejoicing in the upheaval that permitted debts to be paid with a bludgeon and money to be made without toil.

Mayne caught Frank by the arm.

"We are drifting towards the bridge of boats that carries the road to Lucknow across the river," he said, in the hurried tone of a man who sees a new and paralyzing danger. "There is a drawbridge for river traffic, but how shall we find it, and, in any event, we must be seen."

"Are there many houses on the opposite bank?" asked Malcolm.

"Not many. They are mostly mud hovels. What is in your mind?"

"We might endeavor to cross the river before we reach the bridge. By riding boldly along the Lucknow Road we shall place many miles between ourselves and Cawnpore before day breaks."

"That certainly seems to offer our best chance. We have plenty of horses and we ought to be in Lucknow soon after dawn."

"What if matters are as bad there?"

"Impossible! Lawrence has a whole regiment with him, the 32nd, and plenty of guns. Poor Wheeler, at Cawnpore, commanded a depot, mostly officials on the staff, and invalids. At any rate, Malcolm, we must have some objective. Lucknow spells hope. Neither Meerut nor Allahabad is attainable. And what will become of Winifred if we fail to reach some station that still holds out?"

The girl herself now came to them.

"I refuse to remain alone any longer," she said. "I don't know a quarter of what is going on. I have tied the tiller with a rope. Please tell me what is happening and why a man shouted to Chumru from the bank."

She spoke calmly, with the pleasantly modulated voice of a well-bred Englishwoman. If aught were wanted to enhance the contrast between the peace of the river and the devildom of Cawnpore it was given in full measure by her presence there. How little did she realize the long drawn-out agony that was even then beginning for her sisters in that ill-fated entrenchment! It was the idle whim of fortune that she was not with them. And not one was destined to live—not one among hundreds!

But it was a time for action, not for speech. Malcolm asked her gently to go back to the helm and keep it jammed hard-a-starboard until they arrived at the left bank. Then he took an oar and Mayne and Chumru tackled the other. The three men pulled manfully athwart the stream. They could not tell what progress they were making, and the Ganges ran swiftly in mid-channel, being five times as wide as the Thames at London Bridge. Yet they toiled on with desperate energy. They had crossed the swirl of deep water when a low, straight-edged barrier appeared on the starboard side, and, before they could attempt to avert the calamity, the budgerow crashed against a pontoon and drove its bows under the superstructure. It was locked there so firmly that a score of men had to labor for hours next day ere it could be cleared.

Nevertheless, that which they regarded as a misfortune was a blessing. The shock of the collision alarmed the horses and one of them climbed like a cat on to the bridge. Frank sprang after him and caught the reins before the startled creature could break away. And that which one horse could do might be done by seven. Bidding Chumru arrange some planks to give the others better foothold, he told Winifred and Mayne to join him and help in holding the animals as they gained the roadway. A couple of natives who ran up from the Lucknow side were peremptorily ordered to stand. Indeed, they were harmless coolies and soon they offered to assist, for the deadly work in Cawnpore that night was scarcely known to them as yet. In a couple of minutes the fugitives were mounted, each of the men leading a spare horse, and advancing at a steady trot; though the bridge swayed and creaked a good deal under this forbidden pace, they soon found by the upward grade that they were crossing the sloping mud bank leading to the actual highway.

Thirty-five miles of excellent road now separated them from Lucknow. The hour was not late, about half past ten, so they had fully six hours of starlit obscurity in which to travel, because, though the month was June, India is not favored with the prolonged twilight of dawn and eve familiar to other latitudes.

They clattered through the outlying bazaar without disturbing a soul. Probably every man woman and child able to walk was adding to the din in the great city beyond the river. Pariah dogs yelped at them, some heavy carts drawn across the road caused a momentary halt, and a herd of untended buffaloes lying patiently near their byre told the story of the excitement that had drawn their keeper across the bridge.

Soon they were in the open, and a fast canter became permissible. They passed by many a temple devoted to Kali or elephant-headed Budhha, by many a sacred mosque or tomb of Mohammedan saint, by many a holy tree decorated with ribbons in honor of its tutelary deity. Now they were flying between lanes of sugar-cane or tall castor-oil plants, now traversing arid spaces where reh, the efflorescent salt of the earth, had killed all vegetation and reduced a once fertile land to a desert.

Five miles from Cawnpore they swept through the hamlet of Mungulwar. They saw no one, and no one seemed to see them, though it is hard to say in India what eyes may not be peering through wattle screen or heavy barred door. In the larger village of Onao they met a group of chowkidars, or watchmen, in the main street. These men salaamed to the sahib-log, probably on account of the stir created by the horses. Without drawing rein, they pushed on to Busseerutgunge, crossing the river Sai, and neared the village of Bunnee.

If only men could read the future, how Malcolm's soldier spirit would have kindled as Mayne told him the names of those squalid communities! Each yard of that road was destined to be sprinkled with British blood, while its ditches would be choked with the bodies of mutineers. But these things were behind the veil, and the one dominant thought possessing Malcolm now was that unless Winifred and her uncle obtained food of some sort they must fall from their saddles with sheer exhaustion. He and his servant had made a substantial meal early in the evening, but the others had eaten nothing owing to the alarm and confusion that reigned at Bithoor.

Winifred, indeed, in response to a question, said faintly that she thought she could keep going if she had a drink of milk. Such an admission, coming from her brave lips, warned Frank that he must call a halt regardless of loss of time. Assuredly, this was an occasion when the sacrifice of a few minutes might avoid the grave risk of a breakdown after day break. So when they entered Bunnee they pulled up, and discussed ways and means of getting something to eat.

It was then that Malcolm gave evidence that his devotion to the soldier's art had not been practised in vain. Mr. Mayne thought they should rouse the household at the first reputable looking dwelling they found.

"No," said Frank. "Mounted, and in motion, we have some chance of escape unless we fall in with hostile cavalry. On foot, we are at the mercy of any prowling rascals who may be on the warpath. Let us rather look out for a place somewhat removed from the main road. There we do not court observation, and we are sufficiently well armed to protect ourselves from any hostile move on the part of those we summon."

The older man agreed. Rank and wealth count for little in the great crises of life. Here was a Judicial Commissioner of Oudh a fugitive in his own province, and ready to obey a subaltern's slightest wish!

Chumru quickly picked out the house of a zemindar, or land-owner, which stood in its own walled enclosure behind a clump of trees. A rough track led to the gate, and Frank knocked loudly on an iron-studded door.

He used the butt end of a revolver, so his rat-tat was imperative enough, but the garden might have been a graveyard for all the notice that was taken by the inhabitants. He knocked again, with equal vehemence and with the same result. But he knew his zemindar, and after waiting a reasonable interval he said clearly:

"Unless the door is opened at once it will be forced. I am an officer of the Company, and I demand an entry."

"Coming, sahib," said an anxious voice. "We knew not who knocked, and there are many budmashes about these nights."

The door yielded to the withdrawal of bolts, but it was still held on a chain. A man peeped out, satisfied himself that there really were sahib-log waiting at his gate, and then unfastened the chain, with apologies for his forgetfulness. Three men servants, armed with lathis, long sticks with heavy iron ferrules at both ends, stood behind him, and they all appeared to be exceedingly relieved when they heard that their midnight visitors only asked for water, milk, eggs, and chupaties, on the score that they were belated and had no food.

The zemindar civilly invited them to enter, but Frank as civilly declined, fearing that the smallness of their number, the absence of a retinue, and the cavalry accoutrements of the horses, might arouse comment, if not suspicion.

Happily the owner of the house recognized Mr. Mayne, and then he bestirred himself. All they sought for, and more, was brought. Chairs were provided—rare luxuries in native dwellings at that date—and, this being a Mohammedan family, some excellent cooked meat was added to the feast. Before long Winifred was able to smile and say that she had not been so disgracefully hungry since she left school.

The zemindar courteously insisted that they should taste some mangoes on which he prided himself, and he also staged a quantity of lichis, a delicious fruit, closely resembling a plover's egg in appearance, peculiar to India. Nor were the horses forgotten. They were watered and fed, and if by this time the nature of the cavalcade had been recognized, there was no change in the man's hospitable demeanor.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—For the first time in nearly three years May wheat to-day sold under 90c a bushel. The market verged on demoralization. Disappearance of buying power was the chief cause. Decidedly nervous feeling prevailed at the close, which was at a net decline of 1⅛c to 1⅜c to ½c. The end of the day left corn ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c to ⅝c down; oats off ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c, and hog products at 2½c to 5c to 15c to 17½c advance.

The Liverpool grain exchange closed ¾d to 1d lower than yesterday on wheat and ¾d to ⅞d lower on corn. Antwerp wheat closed 1⅛c lower, Buda Pest 3⅛c lower and Berlin 1⅛c lower.

ENGLAND WANTS THEM

Preaching the Gospel of GIN PILLS in the Old Country

Canada's wheat fields are not the only things that are making our country talked about. A well known citizen of North Toronto has set the people of England talking about GIN PILLS, the great Canadian Kidney Cure. The old country has nothing like GIN PILLS and the missionary work done by Mr. and Mrs. Simpson is bearing fruit in the great demand which sufferers from Kidney Trouble are making for our own GIN PILLS.

DAVISVILLE, NORTH TORONTO.

"I have great pleasure in writing and recommending GIN PILLS. We have used them for the last two years and they have never failed us. We took GIN PILLS to the old country some time ago and gave some to relatives and friends and they have asked us to find out where they can buy GIN PILLS over there. Everyone was pleased with the pills and said that only two pills were needed to give relief. Will you let me know if you have any agents in England? I had a few pills left on my way back here and we gave them to a woman on board ship and she was much pleased with them. If I can be of any help to those suffering from Kidney Trouble in spreading this wonderful remedy—GIN PILLS—I am only too willing to offer my services."

A. SIMPSON.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50. If your dealer does not have them, send direct to us. GIN PILLS are only mildly laxative. For Chronic Constipation, Bilious Attacks and Sick Headaches, something more active is required. If you feel the need of a gentle yet effective laxative and liver tonic, take NATIONAL LAZY LIVER-PILLS. They are highly recommended and guaranteed by the largest wholesale drug house in the British Empire. 25c. a box. 70

WILSON'S INVALIDS' PORT

(A la Quina du Pérou)

The following are appreciations from practising physicians who have personally tested the merits of Wilson's Invalids' Port—hence their testimony is all the more significant:

Dr. CHAS. L. BARNES, L. R. C. P. & S.
Murray River, P. E. I., says:
"Good Port Wine is a notedly hard article to secure, and I believe that "Wilson's Invalids' Port," which is admittedly a good wine, is a safe article to prescribe in cases of debility or convalescence."

Dr. H. R. MACKAY, M. B., C. M. EDIN,
Rapid City, Manitoba, says:
"I very rarely indeed give a testimonial beyond prescribing the article, which is, after all, what you want, and the best form of testimonial. This I frequently do with your Invalids' Port, and I think it is all that it claims to be and excellent of its kind."

Dr. J. J. DAVIS, M. R. C. S. Eng., L. R. C. P. Lon, Gananoque, Ontario, says:
"I can recommend "Wilson's Invalids' Port." The patients like it and you get results. It is a good tonic."

LITERARY NOTES.

A PROTEST FROM ALASKA

Believing you to be a sincere friend of Alaska, I hope you will find room in your "Current Comment" page for this from Alaska. News has reached Valdez that the President urges Congress to provide a Commission form of government for Alaska, and states that Alaskans are only to be compared with the Filipinos. He claims that his commission government is a success in the Phillippine Islands. I should like to have the opinions of some of the American soldiers who have been putting down insurrections ever since Taft left them. I have a notion they might tell a different tale.

With regard to the President's recommendation of a commission for Alaska, Mr. Taft should have sufficent kowledge to be aware that every great colonizing power has tried that form of government for distant colonies, with a distressingly uniform result—the loss of the colony experimented on.

The President proposes, I believe, to appoint five men to form a commission to govern Alaska. I am at a loss to understand by what Divine Right he expects Congress to grant him—autocratic power over the fifty thousand Americans resident in Alaska, or by what unholy necromancy he figures on coercing the said fifty thousand Americons into standing for such despotic proceedings.—H. T. S., Valdez, Alaska

Woman's World

GOOD FORM CHIT CHAT

The fad for ornament in the form of the butterfly is probably due to the aviation craze. Fads and fancies being generally the outforming ripples of a striking splash of some new excitement, the butterfly wings itself over a wide area. The designs is shown in fabrics and laces and makes a striking corsage ornament in gold and silver mesh. The butterfly motif is shown alike in veilings and handsome garniture. It makes a charming hair ornament in gold and silver filigree and the milliners have been quick to see its possibilities for their ends. Butterfly bows of satin are used effectively on smart frocks. And lastly rhinestones in the wings are a novelty for black satin slippers.

Smart tailored stocks are shown in the shops, for wear with the linen and madras shirtwaists, which are a special feature of spring apparel. One exceedingly smart stock has a linen collar, quite high, with a one inch turnover, divided front and back. With this collar a satin foulard stock tie with a bow is worn, and the white polka dot with black or navy blue is the most effective. This stock was seen early in the winter with the riding habit. It was especially remarked at the Horse Show. Ascot stocks in the new figured linens and madrases also look very attractive with the tailored street suit.

The cord and tassels seem about the only concession granted the waist-line at present. However, it is making the most of its opportunity, and we have it alike on evening gown and morning blouse. It is the distinctive finish for the citoyenne waist, that smart little model falling straight a few inches below the waist line and girded on by a heavy silken cord with loops and tasseled ends. And, again, a gold cord tied at one side made a most effective note for a handsome tunic robe.

On the Ice.

In letters on the silvery ice
We cut our names, sweet Maud and I;
When, with a blush, she said, "How nice
To cut a heart around them. Try."

I cut the heart, and then a ring,
And then the sentence, "I propose."
She answers: "I accept—next spring
The time. What fun! And no one knows."

But all the world a lover loves,
A schoolboy read our secret there.
And straightway called us turtle-doves
Now Maud blames me—but do I care?

Cretonne Upholstery.

It is astonishing what some women can do with a few tacks, a hammer and some lengths of cretonne! The appearance of a room may be entirely changed with a judicious handling of these three by a woman of taste. Not only the appearance of a room can be changed, but the atmosphere can be altered.

In the shops art cretonne and chintz can be bought at a reasonable price. Chairs and sofas can be made to look like new if these materials are used to re-cover them. This re-covering is not a difficult matter. Remove the old cover and use it for a pattern. In cutting the new one remember to have the thread run the right way and always in a straight line. If it is necessary to piece the material one should be careful to match the pattern exactly. And one should try to use wide material, as it always cuts to so much greater advantage and obviates the necessity for so many seams. It is better to have the stiching done on the machine as it makes it firmer.

One of the greatest difficulties to the amateur upholsterer are the edges. If the material used will not turn under neatly one can use guimpe with the most successful results. To apply it use brass-headed tacks; one can easily put them in at regular intervals by using a tape measure.

Happiest Woman.

Helen Pitkin Schurz in the New Orleans Times-Democrat says:

The woman who makes the best of things is generally the happiest of women. A sunny nature counts for much, and goes a long way toward compensating for lack of wealth. There are scores of individuals who though richly endowed with the goods of this world, are nevertheless discontented by reason of their naturally despondent pessimistic natures, and their desire for the unattainable. We see such cases over and over again, and are equally familiar with the cheerful spirit that, though pursued my misfortune remains hopeful to the end. It is a great thing to blessed with a cheerful nature, and see the silver lining rather than the cloud, to appreciate simple joys and privileges, and make the most of good things that befall, rather than magnify the worst.

Caramel Fudge.

A good, rich caramel, of the fudge order, may be made from one cake of cooking chocolate, two and three-quarter pounds of brown sugar, one-quarter pound of butter, one pint of cream or milk. Vanilla to taste. Boil all the materials, except the vanilla until it "strings" well, add the vanilla and stir well. Turn out into buttered pans before it gets too firm. Cut into squares like any fudge or caramel. This is a large rule and a rich candy.

Another fudge is made from a half cupful of brown sugar and one cupful of granulated sugar, two ounces of chocolate and two teaspoonfuls of butter, with a half cupful of milk or cream. Let all these ingredients boil until, if tried in cold water, a soft ball is formed. Take off the fire and add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Stir until it becomes creamy and smooth. Pour into pans that have been lightly and evenly buttered, and cut when cold into small cubes.

Curtains in Chalk.

If lace or net curtains are not too much soiled they can be nicely freshened by taking down and putting them away for several days, or at least over night in plenty of French chalk.

See that all of the curtain is thickly covered, with extra amount on badly soiled spots. Keep in the dark in a trunk or closet shelf.

When ready for use shake out the chalk lightly without stretching the courtain and it will be as clean as though washed. Many housekeepers put their curtains away in French chalk between seasons and find them clean when ready for use once more.

SILK QUILTINGS.

Quiltings of taffeta or soft silk are effective when used as a trimming on gowns. For outlining tunics or overdresses or for a similar purpose on sleeves and cuffs, they give a tone to a garment often impossible with a more elaborate trimming.—Philadelphia Times.

JADE JEWELRY.

An exceptionally pretty specimen of the new French jewelry is a pendant made of a single piece of jade, from which is suspended a smaller drop of the same stone. These are mounted on oxidized silver and hung on a fine chain of the same metal.—Philadelphia Times.

FOR THE TRAVELLER.

Coat racks that fold up neatly and fit into a small leather case will be found very useful for the traveller.

Small flat clothes brushes that also fit into a case are a novelty and take up much less room than the ordinary whisk.—Philadelphia Times.

HAT COLORS.

At least three shades of a single color may appear in the foundation of the hat as when one of brown is edged with a darker shade and faced with a lighter. Then the trimmings these shades.

THE NEW MINISTER.

Comments After the Best Sermon Preached in a Former Parish.

THE candidate had done his best. He had preached his crack sermon, the one that no less than two persons in his former parish had said was the best sermon they had ever heard him preach. He believed that it had made a deep impression on the church before which he was "candidating." He might have changed his mind had he heard the following comments on his effort by the people as they passed out of church or lingered for the afternoon tea sort of chatter that obtains in some of our modern churches:

"Well, how did you like him?"

"Fairly well, but he ain't no way up to what dear Pastor Elder was."

"Did you notice that he said 'eyether?' I always hate to hear a minister say that."

"His deliv'ry wa'n't none too good. I could not make out some of his words."

"I didn't just like him having that pink rose in his buttonhole. Looked a little vain to me. I like to see a minister dress rather soberly."

"Didn't his coat fit awfully? Did you notice that the sleeves were too long? And his trousers were too short. I think that a minister's dress has a lot to do with the impression he makes."

"I can't bear to see a man with his hair parted in the middle, and if he should be called to us I wouldn't make no bones of telling him so."

"I don't like to hear a minister quote so much poetry as he quoted. When a man quotes poetry all the time it shows that he ain't got no thoughts of his own."

"Wasn't some of that poetry he quoted beautiful? I do love to hear a minister express himself in poetry."

"Seemed to me he wasn't very deep. When you come to think it over, he didn't say much I hadn't heard before."

"Seemed to me he was rather singsong in his delivery. Didn't Pastor Fourthly have a beautiful delivery? He never said much of anything, but his delivery was so beautiful he held you with it."

"I didn't like the way he hammered the pulpit with his fist. I like to see a minister calm and dignified in the pulpit. Always makes more of a lasting impression."

"Did you notice the way he began so many of his sentences with 'and?' And I was just reading the other day that one should never begin a sentence with 'and.'"

"I didn't like the way he rolled up his eyes. It seemed so sort of sanctimonious."

"It didn't seem to me there was much real spirituality in his sermon, and I don't like a sermon unless it is downright spiritual."

"I don't believe that he is the man for us."

"Seems to me he's better suited to some church where they don't really expect much of the minister."

"If they called him I think that I should take my letter to some other church."

"Wasn't he just splendid? I think his sermon was just lovely. Seems to me he is just the man we are looking for."

"I wouldn't want it said as coming from me, but I have heard that he didn't resign of his own accord the last pastorate he had. If his resignation was asked for, seems to me we ought to know the reason why."—Puck.

Veteran Coachman Killed.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 24.—Edward Quade, for nearly twenty-five years coachman for the U. S. Secretaries of War, was killed in a runaway accident here yesterday.

He was driving Secretary Dickinson's little two-year-old grand-daughter Helen Dickinson, and her governess, both of whom escaped injury. The horses were frightened by a piece of paper blown by the wind, and the driver was thrown from his seat.

Called to London Church.

London, Ont., Feb. 24.—Rev. W. R. McIntosh of Elora has been called to the pastorate of the King street Presbyterian Church, to succeed Rev. Jas. Rollins, now of Peterboro.

IN 1898
The London Lancet, after a careful examination of Scott's Emulsion
reported that "the preparation fulfils ALL the requirements and presents ALL the conditions of a very satisfactory emulsion. In appearance and consistency it is not unlike cream and under the microscope the fat globules are seen to be of perfectly regular size and uniformly distributed. So well has the oil been emulsified that even when shaken with water the fat is slow to separate. The taste is decidely unobjectionable and the Emulsion should prove an excellent food as well as a tonic."
We believe no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil has received such weighty commendation and if the same high authorities were to examine it now they would find it even finer, more digestable, more palatable and more satisfactory in every way; in fact, SCOTT'S EMULSION has so long been the one satisfactory and perfect Emulsion that it is accepted as the standard by medical practitioners all over the world, by the public and by hundreds of imitators, for it is the one and only Emulsion imitated.
The imitations are in name only for no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil is so pure, so perfect and so beneficial.
SCOTT'S EMULSION
has become the world's Standard Body-Builder because of the perfect purity of its ingredients, its absolute freedom from ALCOHOL or any other harmful substance and because the results from it are uniform and far greater than from any other preparation.

BOXING BASKETBALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—"Jack" Johnson in Frisco to-day said: "Langford's victory over the Australian in London is not wonderful by any means. Still, if Langford wants to fight me he can have a match if he will make a big side bet, say $20,000. If he'll put up that much money I'll fight him anywhere."

Hugh McIntosh, according to the latest advices from London, will offer a purse of $15,000 at least for a battle between Langford and Johnson. If they can be brought together in London the bout will be limited to 20 rounds, but if they will agree to fight to a finish in the Paris Hippodrome, recently leased by McIntosh, the purse will be increased to $60,000, it is said.

Joseph Woodman, Langford's manager, sent a cablegram to a local sporting man to-day conveying the information that he has authorized McIntosh to make a match with Johnson and that Langford is ready to fight the world's heavyweight champion in England or France. Langford can get backing here to the extent of $20,000, as a well-known Bronx real estate man offered to furnish that money several months ago and is still ready to do so.

Langford's next fight will be with Sam McVey. They are matched for 20 rounds on April 11 at the Paris Hippodrome.

HOGAN GOT THE DECISION.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—"One-round" Hogan of California, gained the popular decision over "Knockout" Brown of New York, in a ten-round bout at the Madison Athletic Club here to-night.

Brown failed to make the showing he did against Ad. Wolgast in Philadelphia recently. Backed by the reputation he earned in that fight, Brown was easily the favorite when he stepped into the ring. But the first round served to raise Hogan several points in the estimation of the crowd. It was a hard fight, but Hogan got to Brown as no other fighter has been able to do.

CURLING.

The local rink of curlers skipped by Mr. H. H Morgan which was the only rink of the four in the final games was yesterday in the final of the consolation class defeated. The victorious rink was from Oshawa and was skipped by Mr. Smith. All the local players have returned home.

HOCKEY.

Guelph Feb. 23.— When seen this morning Manager Pete Charlton of the Guelph professional hockey team said that they have disbanded and the players will depart for their respective homes. The gate last night after the expenses had been paid, left $2.40 to be divided among the players, or thirty-five cents each. Though they might take chances on a bigger gate next game, they thought it best to disband. Accordingly the day after the team made its debut here it made its adieu.

Mr. Norman (Buck) Irving is at the back of the team, and after having made a poor showing in the Eastern Pro. league with the team at Belleville the whole bunch were transferred to Brantford, where they fared no better. As a last resort he returned to his old stamping ground in Guelph, with the result that he received poor encouragement at the hands of the hockey fans here, who demonstrated that if Guelph was not good enough at the start for a pro team, it will certainly not support one at the fag end of the season.

Halifax, Feb. 23.—In the most spectacular hockey match ever played in the Maritime provinces the Canadiens of Montreal defeated the Halifax professionals in the Arena to-night by a score of 6 to 3. The famous Canadien 7 excelled in team work and individual playing. In the first fifteen minutes of the opening half the local team had the better of the play, and the first half right through was lightning fast and even, ending 2 to 2. In the second half the superiority of the visitors was much more in evidence, and most of the time the Canadiens had it easy, but ten minutes before the gong rang the local players worked hard and scored their only goal in this half, while the Canadiens scored three.

Orillia, Feb. 23.—In the best local junior O. H. A. hockey match of the season to-night Orillia defeated Preston by 5 to 2. The first half was excellent hockey, only one goal being scored. In the last half the Orillia boys scored four, while the visitors scored two. Short and Ploethner starred for the visitors and the Jupp boys for Orillia. The return match will be played in Preston on Monday night after which the winner plays Kingston for the championship.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Mr. William Forin Stanley Cup trustee, announced tonight that only two of the challenges would be accepted. He received this morning from the Port Arthur club another formal application for dates. The Port Arthur team has won ten straight games, and considers itself entitled to a chance at the silverware. The team insludes Mike O'Leary, an Ottawa City League star, who was signed up last month, also Pat McDonough, of Toronto and Beaverton lacrosse fame. The Port Arthur team suggests that if it be allowed to play the Prince Albert team at Fort William or Winnipeg to decide which of the two should come down to play Ottawa. Mr. Forin is agreeable to this plan of elimination and will ask the Prince Arthur club to confer with Port Arthur. It is not thought however that the Saskatchewan champions would consent to this. They want to be beaten by the cupholders or not at all.

"We have not decided how many games will be played," said Mr. Forin, "but in any event we will not accept more than two challenges, and the teams which show the best qualifications will be brought along. Yes we have thought of sudden death games but it is doubtful if this would be fair to the visiting teams." The Galt team looks strongest on paper, and in any event it will get dates with the Ottawas.

Munro Trial Postponed.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The charge against Col. James Munro, former president of the Farmers' Bank, was called yesterday before Judge Winchester in the county judge's criminal court. The colonel did not appear, as his counsel, H. H. Dewart, K.C., was delayed by a late train from Ottawa. Later in the day it was arranged that, as the crown could not go on owing to the absence of F. W. Stair, the principal witness for the prosecution, who is in Florida, the case will stand until the March sessions, unless Mr. Stair be sooner here and both parties ready to go on.

Matthew Wilson, K.C., and W. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., will be called in the Police Court this morning upon the charge of conspiring with Travers to procure him to give an undue and unfair preference to the company as a creditor of the Farmers' Bank in respect of the alleged consolidation of a $120,000 deposit, with a secured loan of $175,000, for which additional securities were alleged to be advanced.

Yesterday Travers was not brought up from the jail until the afternoon. He was kept at the detective office, while Inspector Duncan spent some time with him. Inspector Duncan also spent considerable time at the bank offices.

Vote to Shorten Hours.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The dove of peace reigned over the second temperance meeting of the Canadian Citizens' League in Labor Temple last night, and the temperance workers of Toronto by a large majority endorsed the movement for a reduction in hours as instigated by Alderman McCarthy.

Rev. B. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, still contended that as all the temperance people were not agreed on the method that should be adopted to secure shorter hours, the question should not be made one of municipal politics, but that the Government should be requested to reduce the hours during which liquor should be sold throughout the province.

The resolution moved by Rev. Dr. Hincks and seconded by Rev. R. M. Dickey, was amended to include cities of over 100,000, as it was believed this would make it of effect in the larger centres where local option was not submitted, and it would render it a public bill and the Government would be able to discuss it.

Explosion at London.

London, Ont., Feb. 24.—With a terrific explosion, the sound of which could be heard all over the east end, a retort at the Toasted Corn Works blew the end out of the new large building recently erected here by the Kellogg people.

The explosion happened at 12.45 just when the fifty employes were out of the factory for their luncheons. But two men were in the building when it shook like a leaf. Both of these escaped.

The retort was blown from one end of the building to the other and is now hanging out of the hole in the wall it made for itself. The damage will be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Until the present typhoid fever epidemic is over, no new members will be initiated into the Independent Order of Foresters in Ottawa. An order has been received by each of the fourteen local courts from Dr. Millman of Toronto, supreme high physician.

This is the first time in the memory of old fraternal men that an epidemic has become so serious as to prompt action as above.

CANNOT RAISE RATES

U. S. Railroads Receive Severe Blow From Commission.

Interstate Commerce Board Decides In All Three Parts of the Most Important Problem Ever Set Before Them That No General Advance In Freight Rates Can Be Made Until Last Measure of Economy Is Tried.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission decides against the railroads in both the eastern and western cases. The decision, eagerly awaited by railroads and shippers alike, was handed down late yesterday afternoon.

The cases are the most important that have ever come before the commission. The decisions were in the nature of a surprise to railroad officials and other experts, who have followed closely the proceedings, a majority of whom believed the commission would grant some increase to the western lines, if not to the eastern.

After considering exhaustively the whole subject, however, from every viewpoint, the commission could not see its way clear to grant any advance in rates, although it concedes that in the case of some of the roads an increased revenue is needed.

In the so-called southwestern cases, the commission declines to disturb either the commodity or the class rates, thus in effect authorizing the advances recently made by the roads except as to the third, fourth, fifth and sixth classes, on which the old rates are ordered restored.

The carriers are ordered to cancel the advanced tariffs on or before March 10. If they fail to do this, the commission will order a suspension of proposed advances and fix the existing rates for two years. In the western case the carriers entered a powerful plea for increased revenue, to put into improvements and betterments.

Both the eastern and western cases were brought to public attention in the spring of 1910. Just prior to the enactment of the existing interstate commerce law, which, in part, became effective on June 18, 1910, the railways of official classification territory—41 in all—and those of the Western Trunk Lines Association territory filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission's tariffs making general increases in their freight rates.

The tariffs filed by the eastern lines increased the first class rate between New York and Chicago points. The proposed advances affected approximately fifteen per cent. of the total freight tonnage and amounted to $27,000,000 a year.

Approximately the same amount of tonnage was affected by the increases proposed by the western lines, but the class rates were not affected in any way.

Commissioner Prouty concedes that the increase in the labor accounts of the eastern roads during the last year has been from five to eight per cent. of their pay rolls, aggregating, for the forty-one lines, approximately $35,000,000 a year. The opinion holds, however, that "the carriers have not, by showing that the increases in wages more than equal the increases in rates, made out the reasonableness of the proposed advance in rates," because, it is indicated, "it appears that during the year ending June 30, 1910, the net earnings of these railroads aggregated $51,000,000 more than during the year 1909." While it is admitted that this is not conclusive against the propriety of the advances, "it does show that we cannot conclusively presume from an increase in operating expense that there should be a corresponding increase in transportation charge."

It is laid down as a principle that "no general advance in rates should be permitted until carriers have exhausted every reasonable effort toward economy in their business," and the opinion is expressed that railroad operators have not given to this subject the attention which it deserves.

Booksellers' Arrested.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Arthur G. Virtue, 339 Church street, and Albert Britnell, 241 Yonge street, were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning charged with offering for sale, selling and circulating obscene literature in the shape of Balzac's Droll Stories, the unexpurgated works of Guy de Maupaszant and the Arabian Nights Tales, unexpurgated.

Both pleaded not guilty and were remanded a week.

Glencoe, Ont., Feb. 24.—At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the G.T.R. freight sheds here were burned to the ground with heavy loss, the buildings being filled with goods. A spark from an engine is believed to be the cause.

PREMIER ON BONUSES.

He Will Give Short Shrift to Contravention of the Law.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Vigorous denunciation of municipal bonusing and Algonquin Park bills, and an animated discussion on the pure milk act, gave zest to the proceedings of the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Col. Matheson, in moving the second reading of the bill to authorize the expenditure of $500,000 for the re-purchase of Algonquin Park limits, said that over 300 square miles would be immediately bought back for $290,000. They were at the headquarters of large rivers.

J. J. Craig, East Wellington (Con.), made a fighting speech in support of his bill to prohibit bonuses by municipalities. The City of London, he said, was in danger of losing all her manufactories by tempting offers from rival municipalities. He would appeal to the Premier to give more backbone to the private bills committee to stop the enactment of special bonus bills, which were an open defiance of the general law and a crying evil. "It is up to the Premier to remove a condition of affairs that is intolerable."

Sir James was promptly on his feet to respond to his supporters' appeal. His tone was vigorous and determined and left no doubt in regard to the Prime Minister's attitude.

The Premier said he was very much interested in what had been just stated. He would be sorry to learn that the private bills committee showed a disposition to countenance evasions of the law. He would do his utmost to stop, as far as he could do so, both for the credit of the Legislature and the province, the passage of bonus bills which should never be carried in any well-regulated municipality in defiance of the laws of the land.

Hon. J. S. Duff moved the House into committee on the pure milk bill.

D. Reed, South Wentworth (Lib.), spoke strongly against the local option allowed with respect to municipalities making a higher standard than the minimum set by the bill. He declared the latitude allowed to municipalities made the bill a "freak" and a case of "checkerboard legislation."

Hon. A. G. MacKay supported Mr. Reed's contention.

W. K. McNaught and W. D. McPherson vigorously endorsed the bill as submitted.

Hon. A. G. MacKay declared it "one of the most hollow bills that had ever wasted the time of this committee."

The committee rose and reported the bill, which was given its third reading.

Dr. Pyne reported for the Department of Education to the members of the Legislature yesterday. The report shows that there were 779 first and second class teachers, with 96 fewer thirds than the year before, as the result of opening three more normal schools and closing model schools.

In urban schools the average salaries of teachers is $1,000 and $532 for male and female, increases of $14 and $16 respectively. In rural schools the salaries were $424 and $399, increases of $22 and $17 respectively. The teachers increased by 189.

The urban attendance increased by 6,078, but the rural schools decreased by 2,997.

Expenditure on the elementary schools was $8,161,423, an increase of $197,597, while the cost per pupil increased 32 cents, all for salaries.

Continuation schools continued from 128 to 135.

The salaries for high school teachers rose $56 on an average, with an increased attendance of 1,189.

STEP TOWARDS UNITY

Presbyterians Form an Association For Federal Union.

A Body Which May Soon Be Paralleled In Other Denominations Is Launched In Toronto With a View to Bringing About Co-operation In Lines of Endeavor Upon Which the Supreme Council Shall Agree.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—A movement which will undoubtedly take rank as tory of the most important in the history of the churches of Canada for many years, was launched yesterday when at a meeting of about fifty representative ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian Churches of Toronto, and other centres, held in the schoolroom of New St. Andrew's Church, a strong organization, to be known as the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches, was effected.

The movement is the outcome of decided dissatisfaction with the proposed basis for organic union of the Protestant churches and if hopes are realized, similar organizations will soon spring up in the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and Congregational Churches.

Among those present were: Rev. F. Crawford Brown of New St. Andrews, Rev. B. Strachan, Rosedale; Rev. A. Robertson, St. James' Square; Rev. A. L. Geggie, Parkdale; Rev. D. T. McKerroll, Rev. Dr. McLeod, Barrie; Rev. R. G. McBeth, Paris; Rev. Dr. Smith, St. Catharines; Principal McKay, Westminster Hall, Vancouver.

Rev. D. McLeod acted as chairman, and A. H. McGillivray, Weston, as secretary.

In the course of the discussion there was revealed an increasing feeling throughout the church against the union of the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches on the basis at present proposed. It was felt that one of the strongest arguments against the organic union of these three churches was its limitations.

The view that obtained among those present was unanimously in favor of a federation of all the Protestant churches that would prevent overlapping in the home and foreign mission fields, and that would stand for the ushering in of the Kingdom of Christ as the present movement for organic unity among three denominations merely could not. A strong organization was effected, the name to be the Presbyterian Association for the Federal Union of the Churches.

After considerable discussion a statement was adopted tentatively as an indication of the direction which the movement would take:

"We ministers and members of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, affirming our belief in the scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the primary source and ultimate standard of Christian faith and life; affirming our faith in Jesus Christ as the only head of the church, recognizing the value of the teaching of the great creeds of the ancient church and maintaining our allegiance in the evangelical doctrines of the reformations, desire to proclaim our love for the brethren of Christ's visible body and our assurance that the ultimate unity of the church is being brought nearer with every increase of spiritual life. Because of history, traditions, sentiments and convictions which have become a part of our nature, we do not think the time has arrived when the various evangelical branches of the church of Christ can give up their name and identity and their particular methods for the realization of the kingdom, without much needless injury.

"Yet we herewith proclaim our belief in and our desire for a closer union and a more definite co-operation of all the evangelical branches of the church of Christ in Canada. We propose that these shall form a federal union to conserve and further common interests at home and abroad; that each branch should preserve its identity and autonomy and should be allowed to carry on its work in a way best suited to its genius and outlook.

"In order that each branch of the church may have the fullest liberty and the largest opportunities to realize its ideal and at the same time to make its best contribution to the religious life of the world, there should be a general council, made up of representatives, lay and clerical, from the different branches entering into the federation. This council shall have the advisory oversight of the work of the churches within the Dominion of Canada in all matters upon which the various churches may agree to cooperate, having in mind the principle that the universal church is the divine agency for the establishment of the kingdom, and the various denominations are of value only in so far as they minister to its well-being.

"In the home field, the council shall seek to so arrange the forces of the federating churches that the best interests of the community and the church shall be concerned, that the increasingly complex problem of our national life shall be more adequately dealt with and that all people within the Dominion shall have opportunity of coming into vital contact with our Lord and Christ. The council should address itself as far as possible to the solution of the increasingly difficult problem in our great centres of population.

"We believe such a federation will hasten the kingdom of our blessed Lord and establish a right understanding among all those who are named according to the name of Christ."

It was agreed to defer the election of officers until a meeting to be held Thursday next at 1.30 p.m., in the schoolroom of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Reciprocity Evidence All In.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 24.—Hearins by the Senate Finance Committee on the Canadian reciprocity agreement were closed at 3.45 p.m. yesterday.

The committee met at 10.30 o'clock to-day to consider the question of making a report to the Senate.

ARE DRIVING IT HOME

Opposition Members Give Government a Bad Time.

Two Hours of Guerilla Tactics Bringing Up Resolutions and Protests From Outside Fairly Exasperate Messrs. Fielding and Paterson—Dr. Clarke, the Free-Trader of Red Deer, finds Himself In His Element

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The sudden change in the situation regarding reciprocity in the House of Commons brought about on Wednesday was continued yesterday. There was a splendid display of guerrila tactics by the Opposition. The Government, more than ever, was placed on the defensive, and on a question affecting the operation of the pact with nations signatory to the favored nation treaty, R. L. Borden completely worsted the Minister of Finance. For two hours the Opposition obstructed the House getting into committee of ways and means. One member after another spoke on the motion, until both Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson gave evidence of anger and exasperation.

The ball was started by C. L. Owens (E. Northumberland) reading a telegram from Washington that Senator Cummins would introduce an amendment to the tariff law of the United States admitting all Canadian manufactures free of duty.

On the motion to go into committee, E. Gus Porter (W. Hastings) started skylarking. He read a resolution of protest from the strawboard manufacturers of the country.

W. E. Knowles (Moose Jaw) responded with a resolution from the Swift Current Board of Trade, "Viewing with satisfaction that a reciprocal tariff agreement had been reached with the United States," as it would help agricultural interests and bring about closer relations between the two countries.

The Kootenay member, E. S. Goodeve, was next on his feet with protests from the Kootenay Farmers' Institute, and two other British Columbia organizations.

W. E. Middleboro (N. Grey) drew the attention of the Minister of Finance to the resolution of the associated Boards of Trade at Toronto, moved by R. S. Courlay and seconded by E. J. Davis.

Then followed other interruptions. Members produced more protests. B. B. Law (Yarmouth, N.S.), had one in favor of it.

At this point Hon. Wm. Paterson took a hand. As honorable gentlemen opposite had given the House some information, quoting from newspapers and otherwise, he would like to read an article from The Summerland Review, a fruit publication in British Columbia in support of free fruit. "The subject of the article is 'Sober Second Thoughts,'" said Mr. Paterson, while the members roared.

Geo. Bradbury (Selkirk), also contributed to the procession of protests.

After further cross-firing Mr. Borden said that apparently the Ministers did not understand the agreement with the United States, and had better hand it over to someone who did.

It was five o'clock when Dr. Michael Clarke, the Liberal orator from Red Deer, arose to continue the reciprocity debate. He quoted the president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the Grain Growers, of Alberta and Manitoba, and the Grange of Ontario, all societies representing many farmers, to prove that the farmers were in favor of the measure.

Touching on the annexation argument Dr. Clarke said that annexation meant revolution. It meant the dismantling of the Parliament buildings, the hauling down of the flag and the removal of the Canadian capital to Washington. Revolution had never taken place except where discontent prevailed. The restriction of trade, as in the case of the United States, had led to revolution.

Richard Blain (Peel) made a speech on behalf of the farmers.

Mr. Blain charged the Government with "taking away at one stroke of the pen, every vestige of protection that the farmers ever had." He read over the free list, comprising live animals, poultry, grain of various kinds, fresh vegetables, etc. "The Conservative party is in favor of protection for the farmer; the Liberals are opposed to it, but are charging a duty on those commodities that the farmers need."

Dr. Molloy (Provencher) followed with a racy western speech, in which he said that western farmers did not propose to be dictated to by a bunch of Toronto millionaires.

Hon. Clifford Sifton moved the adjournment.

Women His Victims.

London, Feb. 24.—Felix Franz Alfred Ogilive, who describes himself as a German engineer, is charged with a multiplicity of wives, and with defrauding his victims. Three illegal alliances are alleged.

According to evidence, Ogilvie in 1905, in San Francisco, married a widow named Louth before a magistrate. In a more recent case, it is asserted that he took his bride to a well-known hotel and next day drugged her and decamped with her jewels and cash. To a third victim he is accused of having represented himself as an engineer employed by the Standard Oil at $30,000 a year.

Duty unadorned is not a thing of beauty.

ENERGY—THE HUMAN POWER-HOUSE.

the conservation of energy is of greatest value, it is in the sick-room, when vitality is low and the various functions of the body are crying out for their lost functioning power.

Our clinical experience with glasses in the sick-room has been very encouraging. In many instances where there was a fevered condition, high temperature and abnormal heart action, which belongs to various diseases, we have used medium fogs with a small amount of prism base in, and in all cases there has been a lowering of temperature, a bettering of the heart action, and a more cheerful condition induced.

We have suggested the use of glasses for this purpose to several advocates of repression who are general practitioners, and their experience has been such as to make them exceedingly enthusiastic. We quote from a report by one of these med-

SOCIAL EVENING AT THE B. OF L. E. HALL

Time Passed Quickly With Cards, Music and Dancing—The Prize Winners

Under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Grand Trunk Railway Brotherhoods here, a most successful affair was held last evening at the B. of L. E. Hall on Pine Street. The spacious hall was filled by a crowd of persons who thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

In the early part of the evening the time was taken up with progressive pedro, the ladies' prize was captured by Mrs. Wm. Lottt. Mr. Wm. Logue won the gentlemen's prize, and the booby prize rather strangely went to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Teal, who were not partners Dainty refreshments were then served, after which dancing was indulged in for some time. Appropriate instrumental music was furnished by the Sprague Orchestra.

In Memoriam

(With apologies to Spokeshave.)

Friends, Bellevillians, countrymen, lend me your ears;
I come to heckle Marsh, not to praise him
The evil that men do lives after them
The good is oft interred with their bones;
So let it be with Marsh. The noble Corby
Hath hinted, Marsh was a grafter.
If it were so it was a grievous fault
And badly hath Marsh explained himself.
Here under leave of Johnson and the rest
(For Johnson is an honorable man;
so are Ackerman,
Mackenzie Bowell and Wills.)
Come I to expose this fellow's methods
He was our Mayor, faithful, smooth to us,
But Corby hints he was a grafter;
And Corby is an honorable man.
He hath sold many lots within this town,
Whose profits did his and Price's relations' pockets fill;
Did this in Marsh resemble grafting?
When poor taxpayers have cried Marsh hath wept;
Mayors should be made of sterner stuff:
Yet Corby hints he was not candid;
And Corby is an honorable man.
You all did see that at our meetings,
We thrice presented him a frosty mit
Which he did thrice refuse; was this shirking?
Yet Corby hints he was not candid;
And sure, he is an honorable man.
I speak not to disprove what Mike said,
But here I am to speak what I do know.
You all did trust him once,—without cause,
What cause withholds you then to slam him?
O Justice! Thou art fled by devious ways,
And men have lost their reason. Bear with me,
My pockets are emptied, likewise yours,
And I must pause till I can fill them
But yesterday the word of Marsh "might"
Have stood against the world; now "lies" he here,
And none so green as to endorse him
O masters! If I were disposed to stir
Your hearts and minds to mutiny and rage,
I should do Johnson wrong and Corby wrong,
Who, you all know, are honorable men
I will not do them wrong; I rather choose
To wrong the town, to wrong myself and you,
Than I will wrong such honorable men
But here's a letter with the signature of Marsh,
I found it with my mail, 'tis his statement;
Let but the people hear this quibble
(Which, pardon me, I do not mean to read.)
And they would frame the innocent vellum;
Yea, beg a hair from him for memory
And, dying, mention it within their wills,
Bequeathing it as a rich legacy
Unto their issue.
Have patience, gentle friends, I must not read it;
It is not meet. You know how Marsh finessed you.
You are not wood. You are not stones but men:
And, being men, hearing the will of Marsh,
It will inflame you; it will make you mad.
'Tis good you know not how he wronged you—
For if you should; O! What would come of it?

"AMIGO."

ANOTHER TRIUMPH

Mr. J. Nevin Doyle's Opera Won Great Triumph on Third Presentation

The comic opera "The Golden Age," composed by our well-known townsman, J. Nevin Doyle, was last evening presented for the third time at St. Michael's Academy, before a large and appreciative audience. This was a complimentary performance tendered by those taking part to the composer, whose efforts to present to the public something to demonstrate his ability and to please was fully appreciated.

Every seat in the academy was occupied and the liberal applause bestowed at intervals was evidence of the pleasing nature of the performance.

During the evening Mr. Wm. Cochrane, on behalf of Mr. Doyle's many friends, presented him with a handsome purse, on the outside of which, inlaid with gold was the initials of the recipient. Mr. Doyle, in accepting the gift, made a most suitable reply, Rev. Father Spratt was called upon and spoke in a complimentary manner of Mr. Doyle.

The cast of characters in the production was as follows:

INDIGESTION

If you are suffering from indigestion and the attendant distressed stomach, you should give Mi-o-na, the guaranteed remedy a trial. Mr. William Shafer of 230 Queen St. S., Berlin, Ont. says: "For years I have been a sufferer from acute indigestion, which caused the most distressing pains in my stomach. I decided to try Booth's Mi-o-na Tablets and they have done me more good than anything I have ever used, I am now more free from this trouble than I have been for years. I am pleased to endorse and recommend this remedy to all who suffer with stomach trouble."

Cold Weather Sores

Some people's skin is so tender that in winter they are never long free from cold sores, blisters, cracks, etc. For such Zam-Buk is really fine. Mrs. H. Drummond, of Thetford Mines, Que., writes: "For some years, as soon as cold weather has started, my little daughter's face and hands have been covered with rough watery patches, which before long turned into nasty sores. These would itch and smart terribly. They remained on her face from Fall until Spring for three successive years, and we could get nothing which did her any good, until a short time ago I started using Zam-Buk. Now, after Zam-Buk treatment, the sores have entirely disappeared, leaving her skin as smooth and clear as is possible."

Zam-Buk also cures eczema, ulcers, piles, abcesses, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box all stores.

SLEW HIS MATE AND RAN TO WOODS

KENORA, Feb. 22.—John Berillo, the Italian who murdered Matro Pritka in cold blood at Minnitaki this morning, was arrested and lodged in Kenora Jail this afternoon. He assigns no motive for the crime beyond stating that Pritka said he would kill Clark, a neighboring farmer, who had been good to Berillo. Pritka's remains were brought to Kenora and an inquest will be held on Friday. The suspicion has been suggested that Berillo is really Vescio, the Point du Bois murderer, who escaped the Winnipeg police.

The victim was a Galician track laborer on the C. P. R. named M. Pritka. Berillo struck Pritka a treacherous blow with the back of an axe while the latter's back was turned, and then ran away to the woods. Other sectionmen held Berillo at bay with rifles until his arrest.

ARCHBISHOP ENTHRONED

Great Gathering of Hierarchy and Prominent Statesmen At Ottawa

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The enthronement of Mgr. Charles Hughes Gauthier ,formerly Archbishop of Kingston, as the new spiritual head of the Ottawa Archdiocese, took place at the Basillica last night. He received four addresses of welcome, one the much-debated address from the French laity.

Three Archbishops took part in the celebration of the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament: Mgr. Bruchesi of Montreal, Mgr. McCarthy of Halifax and Mgr. Howley of Newfoundland. The Bishops were Mgrs. Emard of Valleyfield, Larocque of Sherbrooke, O'Connor of Peterboro, Archambault of Joliette, Macdonell of Alexandria, Scollard of Sault Ste. Marie, and Bishop Fallon of London. Two hundred and twenty-six clergy took part.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was present, as were Sir Elzear Taschereau, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Sir Richard Scott and Hon. Charles Murphy.

The address of the French laity was read by Mgr. Routhier and was greeted with interest, if not surprise, after the decision of the French Educational Society not to have one. Hon. Charles Murphy read the respects of the English laity.

The Basilica was crowded to-day when Mgr. Gauthier celebrated his first Mass as Archbishop of Ottawa. Among those present were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. Frank Oliver. The sermon, in French was preached by Bishop Emard of Valleyfield and that in English by Bishop Casey of Halifax.

BLACK HAND LETTER HAS GHASTLY SIGNS

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.— Mr Manetti a saloonkeeper at the corner of St. James and Chaboillez streets, who was the victim of a serious assault a couple of weeks ago, is living a life of terror owing to threats from members of the Camorra, or Black Hand Society. That he has reasons to fear is made evident by the fact that an attempt on his life which took place a fortnight ago last Sunday, had been predicted by letter.

The letter, a unique contribution to literature is addressed in characters to imitate print and the writing is evidently disguised, although it has the earmarks of having been written by a woman. On the left hand corner is drawn the black skull and crossbones which show in every epistle of this nature. But underneath these adornments may be seen the drawings of two coffins, a bomb, a dagger piercing a heart, a box marked "dynamite" a revolver, and the words "Viva la Mafia." On the right hand corner there is a circular crimson stain about the size of the thumb and across is marked in ink "Primo avertaria Menti," which means that this is the first warning.

The skull and cross bones are mixed with the name of father and son and the letter says that a sum of $1,000 will be accepted by the blackmailers as a guarantee that Manetti will escape.

It says that the money must be deposited in a certain spot in St. David's Lane. This is the place where Mittiga and Carbone has given as a rendezvous to their victims two years ago. Both these men were arrested when they came to gather the coin supposed to have been left there and they are now serving a seven year sentence given them by Judge Choquet but it seems strange that these blackmailers should select the very same spot.

Mr. Manetti has communicated the letter to the police and appears to-day to give evidence in the case of Pasquale Blango, the man who is charged with having stabbed him.

As He Heard It.

The young man stood hesitating upon the steps until the shrill girlish voices died away and Alice opened the door.

"Oh! Have you been here long?" she exclaimed.

"Only about five minutes," he replied, availing himself in a hesitating manner of her invitation to enter.

"Then you heard us?"

"Er—well, a little, you know. I really couldn't help it. I was just about to go, you know"— he stammered.

"About to go—why?"

"Thought I might be inopportune, you know. Realize that such things are bound to occur once in awhile, you know—really can't be helped—even most sweet tempered persons"—

"What are you speaking of, Mr. Softlaigh?" Alice demanded suspiciously.

"Why—er—of course I wouldn't have presumed to mention it, you know! My brother and I—every once in awhile—we do, really!"

"You do, really, what?"

"Er—quarrel, you know."

Alice looked coldly out of the window.

"When you came," she said evenly, "my sister and I were singing our new duet."—Harper's Bazar.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

R.V. Pierce, M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

IN THE HANDS OF A MANIAC

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 23.—Assemblyman, E. S. Burke, of Merristown was attacked by a lunatic yesterday while visiting the New Jersey State Hospital for the insane here, with other members of the Committee on State Hospitals.

Had it not been for prompt aid by attendants, he would probably have been strangled to death. Mr. Burke suffered considerably from shock, but escaped serious injury.

He had stepped into one of the rooms occupied by patients. He saw a man on a cot apparently asleep and walked towards the window. The lunatic leaped from the cot and grasped the Assemblyman by the throat. Mr Burke cried for help. The inspection party was near and Mr. Burke was soon released from the grip of the maniac, who thought he was an old enemy.

ALL CAPITAL HAS BEEN SUBSCRIBED

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—The Barque Generale du Canada, which will be the name of the new financial institution organized by Mr. R. Forget and allies, both here and in Paris, is now an assured success. A cable from the French capital received here to-day announces that the several million dollars to be taken by French bankers, out of the total capital of ten million dollars, were subscribed twice over to-day, showing the amount of confidence in Canada Mr. Forget has been able to inspire in the minds of the capitalists of the old world. Of the three millions given to Canadians, half that amount has already been underwritten without the least effort. To show how Canada is growing it may be said that several Russian, Swedish and Danish bankers cabled here to-day asking that they might be allowed to subscribe $2,000,000 to the new bank stock, but Mr. Forget was obliged to inform them that the capital had already been subscribed twice over in Paris.

ALL RED ROUTE CO. INCORPORATED

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—The incorporation by statute of an important enterprise was approved by the Private Bills Committee of the Commons this morning. The project contemplates an All-Red line from Britain to Canada and from the Dominion to Australia and New Zealand. The proposed designation of the incorporation was the All-Red Steamship Co., but a change was made to-day to the Imperial Steamship Co.

The proposal, as explained to the committee is to establish a line of ocean steamers plying between Blacksod Bay, on the coast of Ireland, and Halifax.

The vessels are to have a speed of 25 knots an hour. On such a route and with such steamers it is expected that the Atlantic will be crossed in three and a half days. Train ferries between England and Scotland are also part of the project.

For the Pacific service it is proposed to provide vessels of twenty knots an hour capacity, to ply between the ports of Vancouver and Auckland and Sydney.

The incorporators include Messrs. Vickers, Son and Maxim; Sir Thomas Tancred, Sir Thomas Trowbridge, Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson; The North British Locomotive Company, Glasgow; Chaplin Milne, Grenfell & Company, the Gloucester Waggon Company and Pickford & Black, H. G. Bauld, E. T. MacIlreath and J. A. Chisholm of Halifax.

BARONESS ARRIVES TO MARRY U. S. FARMER

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Reversing the usual order of international alliances the Baroness E. de Rotenburg arrived here last night on the steamer Laureatic to become the bride of an American farmer.

The bridegroom-to-be, Joseph Hutt of Warren County, Ohio, was at the pier to meet her. Mr. Hutt is an Englishman of middle age, came to this country in the seventies and has since waxed prosperous on his Ohio farm.

He has been a widower for several years and met the baroness during a vacation spent in his native village, Haddenham, Buckinghamshire. The pair announced that they would be married in New York to-morrow and immediately settle down in Ohio.

YOUNG WIFE TRIES SUICIDE IN CELL

MONTREAL, Feb 23.—Eva Laroque the sixteen-year-old wife of Albert Lachapelle, who, with her husband was awaiting transportation to jail from the Central police station, yesterday afternoon attempted to take her life, by saturating her handkerchief with gas and applying it to her mouth That she was caught in time and before she had lost consciousness was due both to the crudeness of the manner in which she was trying to get the poisonous ether into her lungs and to the promptness of the turnkey in discovering that there was trouble brewing.

The story of the marriage and subsequent arrest of the Lachapelles on various charges of theft appeared in The Herald at the time they were brought up in court. The honeymoon of the young people was spent in different boarding houses, the owners of which accused the bride and her husband of appropriating more than was paid for in the regular bills; and at the trial four charges of theft were preferred against them. One pleaded "not guilty," while the other confessed to the thefts, and both were remanded for sentence by Judge Choquet.

Jailer Noticed Gas.

Yesterday afternoon was the time set for the removal of the two from the jail, but about four o'clock, Turnkey Tobin, smelling escaping gas, located the leak, after a diligent and at first fruitless search, in the cell allotted to the young wife. She was found to have opened the jet and to be saturating her handkerchief with the gas and holding it over her face. Owing to the fact that the jet was too high for her to get her lips directly on the tube the prisoner had chosen the only other means which occurred to her of accomplishing the end she had in view.

A good deal of gas had poured out of the opened jet, but not enough to cause asphyxiation.

Will be Closely Watched.

It is not likely that Mrs. Lachapelle will have to stand trial for attempted suicide, but on Tuesday both she and her husband are to receive sentence for stealing, of which they were both found guilty and in the meantime they will be guarded in jail, where the sisters have instructions to maintain the strictest watch over their female prisoner as the authorities are afraid that she may again try to accomplish some desperate deed.

The general outcome of the occurrence will be the abolition of gas light in the police cells, and the installation of electric light. Yesterday's events have convinced Sheriff Lemieux that gas is not a safe light for the rooms in which offenders against the law are housed; and will take immediate steps to have all the cells furnished with electric lights, in order to prevent any possible tragedies of the sort which nearly happened yesterday.

CAPTAIN WEBB HAS GONE AWAY

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Captain Webb, employed in the Dominion Topographical Survey and who cut something of a swath in society circles here, has disappeared. Many creditors are seeking him and his wife.

George Charles Cuppage Webb, forty-six years of age, tall, handsome and debonair, made his first appearance in Ottawa in the summer of 1907. Being an expert draftsman and engineer he had little difficulty in obtaining a fairly lucrative position in the topographical branch of the Department of the Interior. He rented a house and furnished it on quite an extensive scale. He held under the cognomen of Captain Webb, but just what right he had to the title no one seems to know. He was a man of rather distinguished appearance, and pleasing address His whilom friends say he was a smooth talker and impressed those who came in contact with him rather favorably. His wife, too, was a woman of prepossessing appearance.

THE BRIDGE CONTRACT STAYS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—It is expected that the contract for the Quebec Bridge will be awarded in a few days. All of the papers, including the report of the outside experts are before the Government.

The St. Lawrence Bridge Company, a Canadian concern, is the successful bidder. It is a combination especially for this work of the Dominion Bridge Company of Montreal and the Canadian Bridge Company of Walkerville, and it is said a million dollars' worth of extra machinery will have to be installed. Two of the commission recommended this tender, while one dissented. Then two experts, Messrs. Butler and Hodge, were called in. Their report was favorable to the Canadian Company and the contract is likely to be executed very shortly. Representatives of the company are here now in connection with the matter.

The Next Question.

"Dora's invited to a swell party," said the mother.

"How much will the gown cost?" asked the father, who knew what was coming.—Detroit Free Press.

FOREIGN BIGAMIST IN TOILS AT TORONTO

Probably the first case the police have had to deal with in the matter of bigamy in the Macedonian quarter of Toronto happened on Thursday when James Tony, of 811, Queen street west, was arrested by Detectives Twigg and Sockett. The accused is charged with giving up his wife and two children in Macedonia after coming to Toronto, and after marrying a Canadian girl by the name of Violet Sutherland.

The man yeft his quarters in the East-end after having made enough money to get into a better locality He then became acquainted with Miss Sutherland, who was a waitress in a restaurant. The two were married on the 27th of September last.

The information which led to the arrest came from the British Consul at Monastir, Turkey. He was asked by the wife of the accused to seek information and the local police found that the man wanted had again been married. He lived with his Canadian wife on Gladstone Avenue for awhile but some days ago received information that he was wanted and left her to go alone to the Queen St. address.

His wife then returned to the home of her parents, at 35 Fenning street She was interviewed there by the police and said that she was perfectly innocent in the matter, as her husband had not even hinted that he had a wife and family. The man will appear in police court to-day. He has been in Canada about eight years.

SPECIAL PRIZE AND BONUS VOTE CLOSES 8.30 TONIGHT

All Subscriptions Turned in up to This Time Will Count on Special Prizes and the Regular Prize a Well—Be Sure You Take Full Advantage of the Double Vote Offer, as a Larger One Will Not Again be Given—Subscriptions Count for Votes—Vote Win the Prizes—See That You Secure Yours Today, While They Count for Most—Contest Dept Open Until 8,30 Tonight

At 8.30 o'clock to-night the special prizes will be won by the candidates who up to that hour have turned in the largest amount of money on subscriptions in each of the two Districts during the last ten days. And at the same hour the giving of double votes for subscriptions of one year or more will cease.

Nearly all of the contestants have profited by the bonus vote offer, which entitles them to double votes on all subscriptions of one year or more turned in during the ten day period ending to-night; the competition for the Special Prizes, the $35.00 merchandise order purchased from Sinclair's and the beautiful gold watch, has been spirited from the day these special prizes were announced. To-day the balloting has increased to a remarkable extent, and the closing hours of the special prize offers promises to tax the facilities of the contest department to handle and record the votes.

Don't fail to take advantage of the last few hours of the extra bonus vote offer that will be given in this contest.

Don't forget that every subscription of one year or more turned in up to 8.30 o'clock to-night receives double votes.

Miss Maude Fleming and Miss Louise Shorey seem to have a firm hold on the leadership in their respective districts. Many other, however are moving steadily to the front and indications are that the leaders will have close competition to retain their position during the next few days. The vote column shows many very interesting changes today. Many contestants that have to date practically been unheard of in the race for the prizes, have come to the front with many thousands of votes. Keep your eye upon the vote column. "Watch the girls climb."

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

WHEAT FROM NEW LANDS

Two Million Bushels Over New C. N. R. Line--Towns are Springing Up

Two million bushels of wheat of the 1910 crop has been shipped from the first seventy-six miles of the new territory in Saskatchewan opened by the Saskatoon-Calgary line of the Canadian Northern Railway. Kinsley which is on the Goose Lake branch of the railway, and the first division point on the line, and is ten months old, has a population of seven hundred.

This line has been graded almost to the Alberta boundary, and if the Railway Commission passes the present plans it is expected that it will be in Calgary by the end of the year and ready for operation, giving that city its first competing railway. Another line is being built from Vegreville on the main road to meet the Saskatoon Calgary branch at a point near where it will cross the Red Deer River.

These announcements were made in Canadian Northern Railway circles yesterday.

The new extensions of the railway are opening territory for settlement and creating business from the day that they are in operation. Settlers have already gone into the country to be served by the Calgary-Saskatoon line in advance of the steel to the projected junction point with the branch from Vegreville. This country is fairly well settled to Steller, a competing point with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Work will be started on the Canadian Northern line west of Edmonton to Lac Ste. Anne, and a settlement of 3,000 families of Crofters from the British Isles will be placed on the areas around that water.

The Canadian Northern has in all 548 miles in Saskatchewan graded and ready for the steel, which will be laid in the coming summer.

EGGED A LADY IN TROUSERS

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Incidents of public disturbance accompanying the appearance in the streets of women wearing the new trousers skirt occur daily.

The Avenue de L'Opera was the scene of one of the more serious outbreaks. A woman having been surrounded by a jeering crowd was unable to proceed, and a gentleman, taking advantage of the situation, purchased a basket of eggs and distributed them mong the crowd, who, to show their disapproval of what they considered unladylike conduct, pelted the helpless wearer until a squad of police aided her to escape in an automobile -Doubts have arisen among the leading Paris dressmakers as to whether the skirt will be adopted by the women as a general fashion.

The journals publish medical opinions on the new style. Some aver that the wide trousers afford the wearer freer movement in walking and furnishing less resistance to the wind are to be recommended from the standpoint of good health.

Prof. Debere, formerly dean of the Academy of Medicine, however, affirms in the Matin that women are not adapted for such garments.

Mobbed in Madrid too.

Madrid, Feb. 24.—Two women belonging to the most exclusive society circle of the capital, appeared on the streets last evening wearing the new Parisian trousers skirts, and were fairly mobbed. The crowd, which grew to great proportions, after insulting cries, threatened violence. A large force of police cleared the street Other demonstrations have occurred.

PERSIANS SLAIN BY RUSSIANS

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A despatch to The Times from Teheran says that Russian troops, after a skirmish with brigands, attacked the village of Veramum, near Astara, although the brigands were not there and burned housese and massacred inhabitants of both sexes. The victims are officially stated to number fifty.

The affair seems to have been due to the barbarity of the local military officers. The Russian Minister has expressed regret for the occurrence to the Persian Government.

THEY HAD TO PAY

The man who has charge of the bay bridge yesterday afternoon reported to the police here that two men had walked across the bridge and had refused to pay toll. An officer found the parties who were two strangers in the county and were not aware of the fact that a toll could be collected. When matters had been explained they readily paid the necessary toll.

TO THE CONGREGATION OF BRIDGE ST. CHURCH

At a united meeting of the Quarterly Official and Trustee Boards of the Bridge Street Methodist Church, held last night, it was unanimously decided to request the congregation to meet with the Tabernacle Church congregation, on next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock to participate in the re-opening services of that church. CURRENT COMMENTS.

Belleville will boom this year.

The assessment is likely to show a nice increase and so is the population.

The talk everywhere is of reciprocity and some of the newspapers are taking straw votes.

Belleville's lady curlers are winning renown and spreading the fame of our fair City of the Bay.

Buck Irving's professional hockey team lacked staying power. They made a short stay in Belleville, another short stay in Brantford and bade good bye to Guelph after a stay of one day.

In the act of throwing a snowball at a person across the street a Toronto man fell and broke his leg. That was retributive justice.

A bookseller named Virtue has been arrested in Toronto on a charge of selling obscene books. Which leads one to exclaim with Shakespeare,—"What's in a name ?"

Many properties have lately changed hands in view of the coming of the new railways and values have experienced a sharp advance in the southern part of the city.

In the debate on Mr. Monk's loyalty motion Mr. Borden said : "The Premier says there is no danger of this agreement leading to annexation. Let me tell him that if these proposals mean anything they mean that commercial union, for which he fought in 1891, and which in 1891 the man who was his leader for many years (Hon Edward Blake) declared over his signature afterwards it would mean political absorption—of which the Right Hon. gentleman says there is no danger to-day.

That tired feeling will disappear, and you will be able to eat well and sleep well by using Miller's Compound Iron Pills.

"A STUBBORN CINDERELLA."

"A Stubborn Cinderella," a musical play of quality, is booked to appear at Griffin's Opera House on March 3rd. No other musical comedy in recent years has achieved greater success than this attraction. For this season's tour Manager Chas. A. Goettler has engaged a caste far above the average and as pretty, nimble and tuneful a chorus as was ever seen in a musical comedy. "A Stubborn Cinderella" has been termed a positive hit wherever presented. Lovers of musical comedy and pretty girls can not afford to miss it.

TABERNACLE CHURCH HAS NEW AUDITORIUM

Repairs and Renovation Have Been in Progress for Months—A Complete Transformation of the Interior—Alterations are Neat and Imposing—Acoustics Have Been Greatly Improved—Sloping Floor Introduced—Pulpit Can be Seen From all Parts of the Auditorium

Some time ago the officials of the Tabernacle church in this city decided that they would have extensive repairs made to the auditorium of that sacred edifice. Since September last these repairs and renovations have been going on until at last they are completed and to-morrow the reopening will take place.

The members of the congregation who have not had the privilege of seeing the transformation will scarcely recognize that portion of the church where they worshipped previous to the commencement of the improvements. The work has certainly been done in an artistic and capable manner, reflecting alike upon the architect, Mr. G. M. Miller, of Toronto who supervised the work and the contractors, Messrs. T. G. Bell and R P. White, of this city.

Four arches of Grecian architectural design have been placed in the ceiling extending across the body of the church. Whilst somewhat imposing they are also neat in appearance. The object of these arches appears to have had to a large extent the desired effect, namely, of breaking the echo which previously existed. This portion of the work was done by Mr. F Slater, of this city. From the altar railing to the entrance of the church a new floor has been placed in position, being on a rising scale, that is at the farthest point away from the the pulpit the new floor is eighteen inches higher than the old floor. This rise in the floor has also been made at the sides of the church and is made uniform. This idea is certainly a great improvement.

While the seating arrangement has not been materially changed from what it was previously, namely, of the ampitheatre style, an extra row of seats has been placed in position by doing away with seats which were formerly along on either side of the wall. The old seats are still being used but they have been made lower having had three and one half inches taken off them. The three aisles leading to the pulpit have been made a few inches wider. The seating capacity of the church is estimated at 1000.

Upon the floor, pulpit platform and choir gallery has been placed a handsome new Brussels carpet, which is neat in design and which was placed in position by Mr. F. G. Baker, of this city. The carpet was procured from the Old Country throught the Ritchie Co.'s establishment.

At night the church will be lighted with electricity, and the centre piece in the ceiling, which contains a number of bulbs, is what is known as the Funston lamp. It is very pretty in design and sends forth a blaze of light. In the organ loft has been placed two electric lamps, each of which contains two bulbs of 100 candle power each. On the sides of the wall are also electric loghts, and in case of emergency, gas can also be used. The lighting will no doubt be all that is required.

The walls of the auditorium were painted a light terra cotta and the design is neat. This work and also the staining and varnishing of the woodwork was done by Mr. Cornelius of this city.

In addition to the work done in the interior of the church a new eave trough was placed around the church roof, which is of slate and also was repaired. The total cost of improvements made is about $5,000.

The officials and the congregation generally are to be congratulated upon the improvement which has been made to this well known place of worship.

To-morrow re-opening services will be held and the preacher of the day will be the Rev. A. Carman, D. D. General Superintendent of the Methodist church, who was for many years Principal of Albert College.

CANADA GRANTS MUCH BUT GETS NO RETURN

Mr. Fielding Compelled to Admit, Under Cross-examination by Mr. Borden, That While the Dominion Admits Goods Free From Favored Nations They Make no Reciprocal Concessions

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.— Hon. W. S. Fielding cut a pitiable figure in the House of Cammons this afternoon. He evaded and evaded, and finally refused point blank to answer an important question respecting the reciprocity agreemtnt, addressed to him by Dr. Reid of Grenville.

Mr. R. L. Borden then took the matter in hand. He fairly seized the Finance Minister and wrenched from him, piecemeal, the desired information until it was all extracted. "Just like pulling teeth," shouted some delighted Conservative and the House rocked with applause.

Dr. Reid desired to know whether all the concessions made to the United States were also granted to Argentina, Bolivia and other nations, thirteen in all, having favored nation treaties with Great Britain, and also the British possessions. He further asked whether these countries extended to Canada the reciprocal concessions granted under the arrangements to the United States.

Mr. Fielding contended that this information had been given in reply to a question put on the order paper some days ago by Mr. Sharpe (North Ontario). In vain Dr. Reid pointed out that the answer referred to dealt only with the reduction of duties. He desired to know whether under this arrangement agricultural and dairy products would come in free from British posessions and these foreign nations.

Mr. Fielding continued to evade the question.

Then it was that Mr. Borden began a cross-examination of the Finance Minister.

"I want to be told yes or no, whether wheat and other articles admitted from the United States free of duty under this arrangement will come into Canada from Argentina duty free."

Mr. Fielding parried again, saying he did not understand the question.

Mr. Borden—Then all I can say is that the Finance Minister is the only gentleman in the House who does not understand it." (Applause.) If he is not able to understand such a question he had better hand over the conduct of the measure to some one else.

Finally when the question was repeated again as to Argentina, Mr Fielding answered "Yes."

Mr. Borden—And from Bolivia ?
Mr. Fielding—Yes.
Mr. Borden—And from Columbia
Mr. Fielding—Yes.

The Conservative leader continued down the list, asking about France, Germany, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other countries, until at last, to Mr. Fielding's great relief, Venezuela.

Mr. Borden presented a striking picture as he stood well out in the aisle in front of his desk, firing question after question at the Minister, who presented all the appearance of a witness collapsing under a vigorous cross-examination. As the questions proceeded the Conservatives grew more and more enthusiastic, and each time Mr. Fielding faintly murmured yes he was greeted with ironical cheers from the Opposition.

Mr. Paterson, the Minister of Customs, made a feeble attempt to rescue his colleague about the time Norway was reached on cross-examination. He rose to a point of order, which Mr Speaker at once over-ruled, and Mr. Borden added : "The Minister of Customs evidently knows no more about the rules of the House than he does about this arrangement."

Mr. Borden then took up the question as to whether or not these foreign countries and British possessions admitted Canadian products free, as did the United States under the reciprocity agreement.

Mr. Fielding again showed a disposition to talk around the subject until brought up with a short turn by the leader of the Opposition who demanded a direct answer to his questions. The Minister showed no disposition to have his remaining teeth drawn one at a time. He admitted at last that no concessions would be made by the favored nations, or the British possessions.

CHARTER DAY AT ALBERT

Students Had a Varied and Highly Interesting Observance of the Anniversary

Charter Day, which commemorates the giving of the charter to Albert University was celebrated by the students yesterday by a skating party in the afternoon and an oyster supper and concert in the evening.

The first part of the programme began with an instrumental quartette by Miss Black, Miss Ketcheson, and the Misses LaVoie, at the piano, and Prof. Phelps at the organ. Miss Greenleaf delighted the audience with a selection from Mrs. McClung's "The Second Chance." One of the most pleasing numbers was the duet, "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit," rendered with spirit and artistic skill by Miss Stork and Prof. Cameron. Miss Field followed with an inimitable reading in Scotch dialect.

The last part of the programme consisted of a "Mock Trial," in which many local hits were indulged in, and everyone was amused by the clever impersonations.

If your tongue is coated, try Miller's Granules.

A Candid Confession

According to a despatch from St. Paul, Minnesota, under date February 23rd, Mr. James J. Hill, President of the Great Northern Railway, discussing an attack made on him through a letter from a North Dakota farmer, read in the United States Senate on Tuesday, said:—

> "The pending reciprocity treaty before Congress is the most important this country has had before it since the civil war. If, after having Canada waiting 40 years, we turn her down again, our country will suffer, and one of the hardest hit of our industries will be that of wheat raising.
> "England is waiting and watching for just that thing to happen. Within the fortnight Austen Chamberlain had called up for decision in the British Parliament the measure providing an Imperial federation for England and her colonies.
> "Suppose that Canada joins the Imperial federation of English colonies, as is proposed. A reasonable differential, that England might impose upon our wheat, would be 15c. a bushel, and that would mean our wheat growers would find their whole product lowered that much per bushel in value. Great Britain would take over practically all of the $200,000,000 in round numbers that Canada now pays us for manufactured articles, then add the six hundred and more millions we export to Great Britain, and we find that, if we fail to adopt the reciprocity agreement with Canada and drive it to an Imperial federation, we are cheapening our wheat crop annually, say 15 cents per bushel, and at the same time we are losing $800,000,000 of export business to England and Canada."

Mr. Hill is to be congratulated on the candor of his confession, even if it were intended for "home consumption." Surely no stronger argument against the tariff project, of which he has been the chief engineer, could be presented.

Confutes Itself

In its issue of the 24th inst. the Toronto Globe says, in its editorial columns:

> "With ruin from reciprocity just ahead, it is surprising to see C. P R. stock got kiting skyward."

In the commercial columns of the same Globe, on the same day, the following headings are published:

"CANADIAN PACIFIC MAKES A NEW TOP

As Stock Will Not Be Affected by Rate Decision."

The "rate decision" referred to is that of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States. The Commission, a despatch from Washington states, has unanimously decided against the railroads in the important increased freight rate cases that have been pending for several months. The decision of the Commission is sweeping beyond all anticipation, even by the shippers. It declines to allow a single increase by the 600 or more railroads in the East and Middle West. It throws aside as unsubstantiated the contention of the railroads that they must have increased revenues to meet the increased cost of equipment and operation, and by its decision cuts off between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year in revenue which the railroads had expected to realize from the proposed increases.

The Commission orders the carriers to cancel the proposed increases by March 10, and notifies them that in the event of failure an order will be entered continuing the present rates for two years, this preventing the carriers from making any changes in that period. The railroads may now appeal to the newly-created Commerce Court, and it is the opinion of many of their lawyers that this step will be taken.

While the decisions handed down apply only to the railroads in official classification territory and in the territory between the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, they indirectly affect practically every railroad in the United States.

In substance, the Commission holds that the carriers are prosperous under present rates, are making reasonable returns upon capital; that their business is increasing, and that the increased revenue has more than overcome the advanced wages granted by the carriers in the last year as well as the increased operating expenses.

The decision in the classification territory case was written by Commissioner Prouty. The territory affected by this decision is bounded by Canada on the north, the Atlantic Ocean on the east, the Ohio and Potomac Rivers in the south, and the Mississippi River on the west. This case involved a general increase in class rates by the 420 odd carriers operating in this territory.

So, while the Globe seeks, in its editorial columns, to lead its readers to believe that C. P. R. stock is soaring because of the prospect of the proposed tariff pact going into effect, it confesses, in its commercial columns, the fact the rise in the stock is because it "will not be affected by the rate decision" of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

We leave it to the political editor and the commercial editor of the Globe to fight out their own quarrel. The attempted deceit of the former has, so far as the public are concerned, been exposed—no doubt unintentionally—by the latter.

PRICES OF HOGS ARE LOWER TODAY

Eggs Are Also Lower--But There Are Few Changes In the Family Market

Whilst the market to-day was fairly well attended, it was by no means exceptionally large. There are but few changes to note in prices from those of a week ago.

Butter was quite plentiful and sold at from 23c. to 25c. per pound, according to quality.

Fresh eggs were offered for sale in considerable quantities and in consequence a lower price was reached. Basket lots were procured at 24c. per dozen, but in dozen lots the price was 25c. and 26c. Packed eggs were sold at from 18c. to 20c. per dozen.

Dressed poultry still commands good prices. Chickens sold at from 90c. to $1.60 per pair and were certainly dear at that price. Ducks sold at from $1.50 to $2.00 per pair and a few geese were sold at $2.

In potatoes and apples prices remain the same, the former selling at 75c. to 80c. per bag and apples at 30c. to 40c per peck.

During the past few days there has been a drop in the hog market prices Live hogs brought from $6.50 to $6.60 per hundred weight, and dressed pork is bought at from $9.00 to $9.25. The prices of other dressed meats remain the same.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Last evening at Griffin's Opera House, "My Cinderella Girl," a farcical play with music, was presented before a full house. It was staged in a most satisfactory manner and with Franker Woods in the leading role of "Tom Harrington," captain of the Siwash nine, who was supported by a most capable company, a highly pleased audience was the result. The play deals with college life in many of its phases, principally in the athletic line. The scene in the last act showing the progress of a baseball game, was of especial merit. The music on the whole was of excellent quality and bright and tuneful. The singing of Miss Tanner was enthusiastically applauded and was of a high order. As for the play itself it was very light in plot, being made up mostly of a series of bright and witty climaxes, which kept the audience in a continual laughter. On the whole it was a very successful performance, quite out of the ordinary, and fully up to the standard of the Griffin management.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The finals in the "Volley Ball" tournament were held last evening and the games were certainly well contested. The first set was between Sovereign's Gladiators and Hess' Bilikins. The former won two straight games. In the final game between Smith's Terribles and the Gladiators, the Terribles certainly put up a grand fight. Winning the first game in good style they set out to win the second and the result was some of the prettiest plays ever witnessed on the local floor. This one was finally won by the Gladiators and the final game was won by the same bunch. The Gladiators are the champions of the series.

The ladies will serve a luncheon to a number of young strangers to-morrow afternoon—after the 4.15 service for men in the Palace Theatre, where the Early Life of Moses will be illustrated and explained.

HEREDTIY

Can Be Overcome in Cases.

The influence of heredity cannot, of course, be successfully disputed, but it can be minimized or entirely overcome in some cases by correct food and drink. A Connecticut lady says:

"For years while I was a coffee drinker I suffered from bilious attacks of great severity, from which I used to emerge as white as a ghost and very weak. Our family physician gave me various prescriptions for improving the digestion and stimulating the liver, which I tried faithfully but without perceptible result.

"He was acquainted with my family history for several generations back, and once when I visited him he said: 'If you have inherited one of these torpid livers you may always suffer more or less from its inaction. We can't dodge our inheritance, you know.

"I was not so strong a believer in heredity as he was, however, and, beginning to think myself, I concluded to stop drinking coffee, and see what effect that would have. I feared it would be a severe trial to give it up, but when I took Postum and had it well made, it completely filled my need for a hot beverage and I grew very fond of it.

"I have used Postum for three years, using no medicine. During all that time I have had absolutely none of the bilious attacks that I used to suffer from, and I have been entirely free from the pain and debilitating effects that used to result from them.

"The change is surely very great, and I am compelled to give Postum the exclusive credit for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A SNEEZING EPIDEMIC

It's Not Influenza—But Catarrh That Comes With Change of Season.

Every second person that you meet seems to have a sneeze and stuffed feeling in the forehead and nostrils. To cure promptly, say, in half an hour, there is nothing worth using except Catarrhozone. You inhale its balsamic vapor, and feel as if you were among the Norway Pines. This is because Catarrhozone contains a healing medicine, light as pine air, which is breathed straight into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Away goes the cold, sneezing and catarrhal cough cease, bronchial irritation stops; in short, you are cured of catarrh by a pleasant, simple remedy, free from sedatives and irritants. Catarrhozone is a good, safe family remedy for coughs, taken by young and old with absolute certainty of swift, permanent cure. Try "Catarrhozone," but beware of the substitutor who may try to induce you to take something instead of "Catarrhozone." Large size lasts two months. Price $1.00. Smaller sizes 25c., and 50c. Sold by all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

TIM HEALY WINS ELECTION PROTEST

DUBLIN, Feb. 24.—The election contest in the north division of Louth was disposed of to-day by the court at Dundalk, which declared the election void, and awarded Timothy Healy costs, in his prosecution charges of corruption and illegal practices. The charge of general intimidation was found not to have been established and on this point each party was condemned to pay its own costs.

The action was brought by Mr Healy, who was ousted from the city which he had held for eighteen years by Richard Hazelton, a Redmondite In the early stages Hazelton's attorneys consented to have the election declared void without offering a defence, but Healy insisted upon introducing all of his evidence, which included that in support of charges of bribery, and the court decided to hear it. A new eection will be necessary.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING

For the Old People?

It may be your father, your mother, your grandfather or your grandmother who is very dear to you, but it is sad to see them lose their interest in life because their strength is fast ebbing away and they seem doomed to the weak, feeble and decrepit condition of the aged.

Now is the time for you to come to their assistance.

Call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, and see what a change it will make in your dear ones.

A case is recorded in Litchfield, Ill., of a man 72 years of age who seemed to be getting old and feeble, suffered from indigestion and a nervous trouble. His druggist asked him to try Vinol at his risk. He did and says he is better and feels younger than he has for fifteen years.

We wish every feeble aged person would try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not give perfect satisfaction. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown Belleville.

MR. BUSKIN AGAIN A WELCOME VISITOR

George Buskin, agent and missionary of the International Evangelical and Corportage Mission of Algoma and the Northwest, is making his annual visit to Belleville in behalf of its twenty-seventh year of disseminating Biblical literature among the men engaged in camp life and in rural districts.

There have been supplied by the missionary, which have been taken account of, over 46,000 copies of Biblical works in twenty-four languages, besides thousands of Biblical tracts, and about eighty editions of books and tracts have been published for the work in five languages, some of them costing many hundreds of dollars.

The donations of Belleville last year were $14.75 and gratefully acknowledged.

The depots are at 202 King St. E., Toronto and 17 Eagle St., Rochester, N. Y.

WELLING BURNED AT CANIFTON

Are Microbes In Youa Scalp

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it in Belleville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown.

Ruby Lips and a Clear Skin are guaranteed to any woman who takes Merrill's System Tonic. This marvellous medicine is especially adapted for women, supplying iron to enrich the blood, correcting constipation, strengthening the nerves, and regulating the monthly functions. Positively cures leucorrhoea, whites and falling womb. Invaluable for pale young girls. Takes away that tired, listless feeling and makes one strong and buoyant. In pleasant-to-take tablet form, 50 doses. Price 50c. Six boxes $2.50. All druggists or postpaid from The Merrill Medical Co., Merrill Building, Toronto.

Sold and recommended by R. Templeton & Co.

INCREASE IN SALARY FOR POLICE FORCE

Some time ago a petition was presented to the Police Commissioners signed by the members of the force exclusive of the Chief, asking for an increase in wages. A meeting of the Commissioners, composed of Judge Deroche, Mayor Ackerman and Police Magistrate Masson, was held this week, when the petition was considered. The Commissioners, whilst not granting entirely all the requests made in the petition, made an increase on a sliding scale, as follows: $25 to each of first, second and third; $50 to the fourth year men; $50 to each of the Sergeants and $100 to the Chief. The increases are to begin from February 1st, of this year. According to the new arrangement the salary of Officer Corrigan, being a first year man, will be $475, until May when he will begin to draw his second year increase. Sergeants Harman and Naphin will draw $650 per annum Officer Donovan will draw $550, and Officers Thompson and Deschane draw $550 per annum. The Chief's salary will be $950 per annum.

SAVE YOUR HAIR

While You Have Hair to Save, Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Every woman who is obliged to wear false hair or man, a toupee, feels that it is a misfortune. What makes the burden so doubly hard to bear is the knowledge that the loss of natural hair could, in most instances, have been easily avoided.

The arch enemy of good hair is the dandruff germ. This is now a well established scientific fact. There is one remedy on the market which, used regularly, will kill the germ and keep out every trace of dandruff.

This remedy is Newbro's Herpicide long known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. By keeping the scalp clean, Herpicide not only prevents the hair from falling out but allows it to grow as nature intended. Begun in time and its use persisted in, this valuable remedy insures a nice healthy head of hair.

Herpicide imparts a life and luster to dull, dead, brittle hair making it light, fluffy and beautiful.

Don't wait. Begin now to save your hair.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications may be procured at the better barber shops and hair dressers.

A nice sample and booklet on the care of the hair will be sent to anyone upon receipt of 10c. in postage or silver. Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

The management of the Palace Theatre have decided on and after Monday 27th inst. to cut vaudeville out altogether, as it has been one big disappointment, dissatisfaction and expense. If all vaudeville was good—that would be different—but our experience has been that nine out of every ten acts have been poor—and instead of spending our money to keep this class of people in existence, we will spend it on good pictures and endeavor to give the people a good wholesome show all the time. If we had been paying for cheap vaudeville the fault might have been ours, but on the contrary, we have been paying for the best acts, and have been getting from one of the best booking agencies in Toronto. The Star closes its doors to the public as a picture show house on Saturday night, leaving the Palace the only five-cent moving picture house in the city. Our prices will be 5 cents all week, with the exception of Saturday night, 10c., unless something very special as below. The great Passion Play will be shown here again for the last time at the request of many of our patrons on March 1 and 2.

Everybody knows something they would like to tell to somebody.

THE MEDAL CONTEST

Fine Entertainment At St. Andrews- Mr. Reid Was First- Miss Smith Second

The Sunday School room of St. Andrew's church was crowded, and a number were obliged to find seats in the gallery, so great was the interest taken in the Silver Medal Elocution Contest last evening. It was the first of a series planned by the Y. W. C. T. U., and was a splendid start, for the artists all displayed much skill and careful preparation, and the recitations were worth going far to hear. The following young men and women contested for the medal, in the order named:

Mr. H. A. Bragg, of the O. B. C.

Miss Edna DeLong, of Bridge St. Church

Miss Queenie Smith, of St. Andrew's church.

Miss Jean Thorne, of Albert College

Mr. W. D. Reid, of Kingston Road.

Miss Myrtle Fitchett, of the B. B. C

Between the readings Mr. Garvin Berkley sang a solo which was very much appreciated, and Miss Potter delighted the audience with a piano solo.

Rev. Mr. Kerr acted as chairman and at the close of the contest he asked the judges to withdraw to the vestry to determine the winner. The judges were: Prof. Geo. F. Stewart of the D. & D. Institute; Mrs. J. L. Hess, and Miss Guest, of the High School teaching staff. During their absence the superintendent of the medal contest took advantage of the opportunity to thank the press for their generous support and to thank the workers who had assisted him. Reference was also made to the other contests now in course of preparation and to the general educative purpose of the plan.

The judges then announced that Mr Reid had won the medal, and that Miss Smith had taken second place. This decision seemed to please the audience, and amid much applause Mrs. Alexander Rae, the Vice-President of the Y's pinned the medal on Mr. Reid and the silver Maple Leaf pins on each of the other contestants. It was further announced that the unsuccessful five were privileged to try again as often as they liked, until each one had secured the coveted silver medal, which would entitle them to try later for the gold medal.

Our clinical experience with glasses in the sick-room has been very encouraging. In many instances where there was a fevered condition, high temperature and abnormal heart action, which belongs to various diseases, we have used medium fogs with a small amount of prism base in, and in all cases there has been a lowering of temperature, a bettering of the heart action, and a more cheerful condition induced.

We have suggested the use of glasses for this purpose to several advocates of repression who are general practitioners, and their experience has been such as to make them exceedingly enthusiastic. We quote from a report by one of these medTo be continued.

WANTS DAM STOPPED

Col. Sam Hughes Says Now is Time to Check Long Sault.

E. N. Lewis Introduces a Bill to Provide a Penalty For "Baggage Smashing" on Railroads—Quebec Bridge Contract Not Yet Signed—Mr. Lemieux Announces Better Pay For Mail Clerks.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—An interlude in the reciprocity debate occurred yesterday when the House went into committee of supply. A number of items were brought up, the chief of which was a desultory discussion on the Long Sault dam project.

Col. Sam Hughes introduced the question, stating that although the bill had been rejected in Washington by the House of Representatives, it now appeared in an amended form in the Senate. As Congress ceased on March 4 he thought the Government should take active steps to prevent the passage of the bill, as it was an invasion of rights under the Ashburton treaty. He also stated that the rights under that treaty had been superceded by the international waterways treaty.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) continued the discussion. He complained that while Canada had always observed her treaty obligations, the United States had always found an opportunity to evade them. Canadian vessels could not use the state canals, such as the Erie, while armed vessels were stationed on the great lakes, nominally maintained by the States as training ships.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the Government had made proper representations to Ambassador Bryce, and the correspondence would be presented on Monday.

"Now is the time for this House to take action," said Col. Hughes.

Dr. Reid rubbed it in a little by saying that prominent friends of the Government were behind the enterprise, while Col. Hughes remarked that the Minister of Railways had blushed when the charge was made that it had friends among the seats of the mighty.

E. N. LEWIS,
Who Has Introduced His Tenth Measure This Session.

Mr. Graham thought that Canadian vessels could use the canals of New York State.

E. N. Lewis (N. Huron) introduced his tenth bill for the session, this time to provide a penalty for "baggage smashing." He proposes to inflict a fine on summary conviction of fifty dollars in excess of the damage done by baggagemen in handling trunks, etc., or in default, one month in jail.

Hon. George P. Graham said that the railways were liable up to the amount of baggage carried, but he had no objection to the bill having a first reading.

Replying to a question by Mr. Borden, the Minister of Railways said that the contract for the Quebec bridge had not yet been signed. He confirmed the retirement of Mr. Vautelet, chairman of the Quebec Bridge Commission, on account of ill-health.

During the discussion of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's postoffice estimates in the House of Commons last night the Minister informed J. E. Armstrong that he was preparing a bill which would give Canadian railway mail clerks, stampers and sorters an increase in pay.

Mr. Armstrong pressed the Minister for details, but Mr. Lemieux said that, while he and his Deputy Minister had made up their minds as to the amount of increase, the matter had not yet been dealt with by council. The increase, he assured the House, would be a substantial one.

Mr. Armstrong asked if the Minister proposed to place the mail clerks under the civil service act.

E. M. MacDonald expressed the hope that the Minister had no such intention.

Mr. Lemieux said that a year or two ago he was under the impression that this could be done, but the more he studied the act the less inclined he was to think it advisable. The act was too exact. Under its provisions it would not be possible to deal with the special conditions which exist, more particularly in respect of securing extra help at rush seasons. It was possible that the employes in the postoffices of the larger cities might be brought under the operation of the act.

Mr. Lemieux during the discussion of his estimates also made the important announcement that there would be a special issue of stamps to mark the coronation of King George. He did not give any details, but announced that a copy of the design would shortly be received from England, and would be submitted to the House.

On the discussion of the estimates of the Labor Department, Dr. Reid (Grenville) said that in most settlements of strikes by the Government, he found that the company got the best of it. It was that way in the Grand Trunk Railway strike.

Hon. Mr. King thought not. Strikes were difficult things to settle. The G.T.R. strike settlement was a fair one.

W. B. Northrup (E. Hastings) claimed that the Grand Trunk had not lived up to its strike settlement pledge, and said the Government should take action to enforce the settlement. The men were not all back in 90 days, as stated they would be.

Mr. King pointed out that the 90 days' clause was not in the written agreement of the strike settlement. But it was through the influence of the Government that Judge Barron was appointed, and his work had resulted in many adjustments being made that otherwise might have caused misunderstanding.

WILL NOT BE BOSSED

U. S. Senator Hale Says Reciprocity Will Take Its Turn.

McCall Bill Is Reported "Without Recommendation" by Committee on Finance and It Has Taken Its Place on the Calendar Where It Has a Small Chance of Being Put Through This Session.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Opponents of the Canadian reciprocity agreement attempted to put a quietus on legislation on the subject when the McCall bill to carry out the provisions of the agreement late yesterday was reported "without recommendation" from the Senate committee on finance. So far as the present session of Congress is concerned they took a long step toward accomplishing their purpose.

As only a few days remain to put the bill through a hostile body, the speeches against it were accepted generally as its death knell, until a resurrection should come in an extra session.

Senator Bailey, the Democratic leader, expressed the opinion that the best interests of the agriculturists would be served by the defeat of the bill. The Texas Senator said that while the agreement admitted wheat and cattle free, it retained the duty on flour and beef meat.

"Civilized people eat flour and not wheat, beef and not cattle," he said. True it was, he continued, that the agreement provided for free woodpulp, but this change in the tariff laws would mean the loss of almost $500,000 of revenue to the Treasury annually. He had been informed, he said, that this change would be worth $5,000,000 to the newspaper and magazine publishers, but for himself he could not consent to a measure which gave such a preference to the rich as against the poor and needy.

Senator Hale concurred in all that Mr. Bailey had said and added that while the bill had been reported without recommendation, the committee had done so in the face of the fact that an unquestioned majority could otherwise have been had for an adverse report. Coming to the consideration of the bill on its merits Mr. Hale said:

"It is my understanding that the bill will take its course in accordance with the feeling and desire of the Senate, whatever that may be. If the Senate does not choose to take it up, that course will be within its clear right, and any effort on the part of anyone, of whatever authority, to drive the Senate now or at anytime, would be an assumption of power which would be unwarranted."

Senator Stone of Missouri, minority member of the committee, announced his intention of supporting the measure on the ground that it would be in the line of wise and progressive statesmanship.

The bill went on the calendar, where it is subject to consideration whenever the Senate may decide to take it up.

Wilson and Morden Arraigned.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Matthew Wilson, K.C., and C. S. Morden, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Co., were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning, charged with conspiring with W. R. Travers to procure him to give the company a fraudulent preference over the other creditors of the Farmers' Bank in the matter of an alleged consolidation of $175,000 loan and a $120,000 unsecured deposit. Both pleaded not guilty, and the case was adjourned till March 3, when a day will be set for the trial, the matter will be ready for the grand jury of the sessions, which meets in a week.

An action has been begun by the shareholders of the Keeley Mines, Limited, by permission of Referee McAndrew, against the Farmers Bank for an accounting of the matters between them.

Heroine Gets Medal.

Washington, Feb. 25.—President Taft has awarded to Miss Nettie Caskey of Fairmount, Ind., a life-saving medal on recommendation of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The President sent a personal letter of commendation for Miss Caskey's bravery.

On March 19, 1910, Miss Caskey discovered her neice, Martelle Caskey, three and a half years old, on the railroad track in front of a rapidly-approaching train. The young girl of 16 ran along the track ahead of the train and, when all hope seemed lost, grabbed the little one and threw herself and the child down an embankment.

G.T.R. Agents Promoted.

Montreal, Feb. 25.—George W. Vaux, general passenger agent, G.T.R., has resigned to take an extended rest. Harry G. Elliott, his assistant, Chicago, will return to Montreal as general passenger agent; J. D. McDonald, Toronto, will go to Chicago as assistant general passenger agent, and A. S. Duff, Winnipeg, will succeed Mr. McDonald at Toronto.

The changes are effective March 1.

Found Eleven Bodies.

Tonopah, Nev., Feb. 25.—The rescue party in the Belmont mine, which caught fire on Thursday, found the bodies of eleven miners at the 1,100 foot level of the mine yesterday. It is thought more bodies will be found at the 1,500 foot level. The fire did not materially damage the mine.

Fight Cannot Be Held.

Hamilton, Feb. 25.—Mayor Lees yesterday instructed Chief Smith to stop the ten-round bout between Lang of Toronto and Wildfong of Berlin, here on Monday night. The mayor said: "The magistrate advises me it is absolutely against the law."

Army Officer Dies In Blizzard.

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 25.—Lieut. S. B. West, U.S.A., of Fort Davis, was frozen to death Thursday, five miles from Tishou, while out in one of the severest blizzards ever known here.

LEND THEM MONEY.

Allan Studholme Urges Advances to Landseekers.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Cabinet Ministers and the Opposition leader paid the Labor party the compliment of sitting attentive listeners yesterday afternoon to a lengthy address by the representative of labor. The back benchers were conspicuous by their absence, however.

W. H. Hoyle, chairman of the committee on standing orders, said that he was glad to be able to report to the House that, for the first time in its history, the committee would be able to complete its work with but the one extension of time, which expired yesterday.

Sir James Whitney stated that Hon. Col. Hendrie, chairman of the select committee, on the bill respecting the protection of scaffolding, had found a difficulty in securing a quorum. He therefore moved the addition of Messrs. Kohler, Fisher and Bradburn to the committee, five members to form a quorum. The motion was agreed to.

Hon. Col. Matheson moved the House into committee on the bill authorizing the expenditure of $500,000 for the re-purchase of timber limits in Algonquin Park.

Hon. Col. Matheson said the holdings to be immediately paid for covered 350 square miles. The annual income from matured timber would be $12,000 to $13,000 in perpetuity.

Sir James Whitney said that the Lieutenant-Governor had assented to an order-in-council for the limits to be immediately seceded.

Hon. A. S. MacKay asked for certain detailed information which is in the possession of the Minister of Mines, who was out of the city. The bill was accordingly left over.

Hon. A. G. MacKay, S. Clarke and D. Reed criticized the outlay of $5,000 for experimental fruit tree spraying as too limited to be effective. Mr. Clark said the amount should be $100,000.

Hon. J. S. Duff contended that, for educational purposes, $5,000 was sufficient, and the estimates were passed.

When the colonization estimates were reached, A. Studholme announced that he would probably take until midnight to express his views. He, however, confined himself to one hour and twenty-five minutes. The criticism was an earnest repetition of his budget debate argument that the true way to colonize New Ontario was to follow the example of New Zealand in advancing money to land-seekers whether Canadians or immigrants, to enable them to take up new territory.

He denounced the bonus of $5 a head on servant girls and farm laborers who were brought here with a lien on their wages, as a vicious and unnecessary method of lowering the scale of wages for domestic servants and agricultural help.

Rush a Temporary Line.

Hamilton, Feb. 25.—Following a conference with the Hydro Commission, Mayor Lees announced yesterday that Chief Engineer Sothman is prepared to come here with fifty men and erect a temporary line within two or three days to any of the factories to relieve the power situation if called upon to do so.

Hundreds of men out of the factories are still idle here but the Cataract promises to have everything in full swing by to-night and pending this the city will postpone action on the commission's offer.

Canada's Welcome of Connaught.

London, Feb. 25.—At a lecture in the Imperial Institute yesterday afternoon by Miss Cameron on "Canada," Lord Strathcona presided and there were also present the Duke and Duchess of Argyll. Lord Strathcona referred to the gratification with which the appointment of the Duke of Connaught had been received by the people of Canada, not only because of his connection with the throne, but on personal grounds. Canadians, too, had the pleasantest recollection of the sojourn of the Duke of Argyll at Government House.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 25.—St. John Exhibition directors at a meeting last night decided to abandon the proposed exhibition this fall and hold one next fall and open on Labor Day.

GREAT PAGEANT OF THE EMPIRE

With the Aid of a Miniature Railway Will be Able to Tour all Britain

The Empire in the making is a phrase often used, and perhaps little understood, but one may catch a little of its meaning at the Crystal Palace, where the Festival of Empire is now being built up. Mr Frank Lascelles, the master builder of the pageant, showed the writer something of the glories of the scheme that will furnish the chief attraction of the year to millions of the King's subjects from all parts of the world.

With the aid of a miniature railway one will be able to make a tour of the whole Empire. Already there are crude outlines of the chief towns and buildings of India, South Africa and Australia. Far down in the grounds below the terrace there are growing the Canadian Parliament Buildings, at present but an outline of woodwork. The treasure to be shown will be worth seeing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has cabled the Canadian Government's assent to the spending of $350,000 on the Canadian section. The De Beers Company will lend several million dollars' worth of diamonds to add to the sparkling brilliancy of the South African section. As for India, one of King Edward's last acts was to go through his collection of Indian trophies and select some of the most remarkable, to be exhibited in the Indian section. As a pageant, the festival will be still more ambitious than the original plan. In addition to the tableaux representing the history of London—to be presented by 12,000 Londoners—there are to be pageants representing scenes from the history of the colonies. Those who took part in the scene of the Tercentenary of Canada, enacted before King George on the plain of Quebec, will reproduce it before an Empire audience. A scene of South African history will be given by the men and women who acted it before the Duke and Duchess of Connaught under the shadow of Table Mountain. The Delhi Durbar of 1887 will be reproduced by Indian visitors; and other colonial visitors will take their part in historical tableaux of Newfoundland, Australia, and New Zealand.

MARIE CORELLI

The celebrated novelist, who has branched out as a dramatist. Her first work in this new field of literary endeavor is a playlet written for a London music hall. The theme of the work is woman's suffrage, and although the piece has not yet been produced, it is believed that the authoress has not handled the subject with gloves. Miss Corelli is personally supervising the production of the sketch.

AFTER THE MORMONS

A Crusade in the Old Country Against Their Elders Who Are Proselityzing

The crusade against the Mormons is being actively carried on in England. Mr. P. Freece said he had succeeded in locating over a hundred Mormon meeting places and 325 Mormon priests, who had come direct from the United States for the purpose of inducing young women to emigrate to Utah. He had also collected signed statements from the parents of those women who have been lured to America, and is in possession of evidence that the Mormon Church bears the cost of transportation of converts from England to Utah. Mr. Freece is now endeavoring to interest the Archbishop of Canterbury in the campaign. The Bishop of Liverpool and several members of Parliament are already supporting the movement, and a mass meeting will shortly be held in London. In the meantime a special committee of various organizations in London will wait upon Mr. Winston Churchill and submit to him the complete evidence of the work which is being carried on by Mormons in Great Britain. Mr. Freece entertains great hopes that a measure will be put through Parliament prohibiting Mormon elders from proselytizing in this country. That, he said, had already been done in Prussia and Hungary.

GREAT PLAGUE TERRIFIED THEM

A German Tradition Gives Royalty Some Concern—Will the Prince Be a Victim

Superstitious persons see in the breaking off of the German Crown Prince's voyage a sign of the intervention of Providence. There is a Hohenzollern tradition that a great plague will some day carry off a junior member of the family. This, to many persons, means the heir. Hitherto as plagues never extend to the German Empire, the tradition has been regarded as foolish. It was a subject of joke with the Emperor Frederick. When the Kaiser was a child his parents and tutors used to talk of "the great plague which will carry you off" in the sense in which English nurses threaten children with giants and ogres. Some persons interpreted "great plague" to mean foreign invasion, an earthquake, or other national calamity, but hardly anyone associated it with an epidemic. The fact that plague has broken out at Harbin, which is directly on the route the Crown Prince would have traveled home via Manchuria and Siberia, delights persons who believe in legends and prophecies. The Prince's return, they hold, was indispensable to his safety. Germans who know the Crown Prince declare that he will be very dissatisfied with the decision to recall him. He is not at all nervous as regards illness, but is keenly sensitive to criticism, and would probably have preferred to take the risk and complete the voyage as planned.

Why is a man who runs into debt like a clock?—He goes on tick.

Prizes in Our Great Popularity Contest

When we decided to offer the ladies of Belleville and vicinity the chance to win prizes in a popularity contest, we took great pains to select prizes that would be of value to them. We thought of trips to Europe and a great many other things, but after due consideration decided on the prizes we are giving, because they are prizes anyone will be proud to win, and at the same time many of them are prizes that will last a lifetime. Everyone understands that the circulation of a newspaper is the foundation on which a newspaper stands, the stronger the foundation the better the newspaper. We are able to take care of a great many new subscribers, thus accounting for our decision to put on a big popularity contest. The prizes to be given away are as follows:

1ST GRAND PRIZE.

The first Grand Prize, and most valuable of all the prizes in this great Contest, is a handsome $400.00 Ionic Heintzman Piano. It was purchased from W. B. Riggs and can be inspected at his store. Here is what the manufacturers have to say about this grand instrument:—Pianos are like men, they have character; likewise, too, this character is reflected in every detail of construction. It is the cumulative value of little things in the making of a piano that in the end will secure the symmetrically developed instrument. We want the details of this instrument to be inspected because we know they will be creditable to the makers. The Heintzman Piano Co. is composed of men who have built up an industry on a solid foundation, who have distinct ideals in their undertakings. We invite the inspection of this grand instrument at Mr. Riggs' store.

2ND GRAND PRIZE.

The second Grand Prize is a beautiful $300.00 Kohler & Campbell Piano. This piano is conceded by experts to be the best value on the market at this price. It is truly a grand instrument, and is fully guaranteed by Mr. W. B. Riggs, from whom it was purchased.

DISTRICT PRIZES.

There are ten other prizes, which will place five in each of the two districts, making a total of six valuable prizes for each district, including the Grand Prizes. They are as follows:

Two beautiful $100.00 Diamond Rings. The gems are perfect in every respect. They were purchased from Angus McFee and can be inspected at his store.

Two handsome $75.00 Bedroom Suites; one purchased from S. B. Sills & Co.; the other, a beautiful Brass Bedroom Suite, purchased from W. Thompson & Co. Both of these suites can be inspected at the above dealers.

Two $65.00 complete Business, Shorthand and Typewriting Courses in the Ontario Business College. This includes a complete unlimited course.

Two $35.00 complete Shorthand and Typewriting Courses in the Ontario Business College.

Two Ladies' beautiful Gold Watches. These watches were purchased from Mr. McCurdy and are fully guaranteed by him. They will be on display at his store.

THE WAY THE PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED.

The contestant receiving the largest number of votes in the whole contest territory, that is in both districts combined, will be awarded the 1st Grand Prize, the beautiful $400.00 Heintzman & Co. Piano.

The contestant receiving the largest number of votes in the remaining district after the award of the 1st Grand Prize will receive the $300.00 Kohler & Campbell Piano. One piano will be awarded to each of the two districts.

The third highest candidate will have her choice of the remaining five district prizes.

The fourth highest will have her choice of the remaining prizes, and so on down, after the other higher candidates have selected their prizes. This applies to both districts.

Every one has an excellent chance to win one of these valuable prizes. Just think, there are fourteen regular prizes and special prizes will be added from time to time during the term of the contest.

Any young lady who desires to enter this great contest and win one of the magnificent prizes offered should see that her name is sent in to the Contest Manager. All that is necessary to win a prize is to receive the largest number of votes, according to conditions mentioned elsewhere in this announcement.

A nomination coupon is printed in this paper, which, when sent in to The Intelligencer office with the prospective candidate's name and address, is good for 1,000 votes. Only one nomination blank for each nominee.

The easiest and quickest way for a candidate to win is for the candidates to ask their friends to pay and prepay their subscriptions in advance. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to do this, and they have saved the annoyance of weekly and monthly collections. By so doing the candidate receives a special vote voucher, which is good for votes, according to the schedule, and will count at any time during the contest.

Any young lady residing in the territory mentioned is eligible to compete in this contest. Any one who desires to vote in this contest may do so by ballots cut from the paper, or by special vote coupons by subscribing for The Intelligencer.

The coupons secured by subscribing to The Intelligencer may be held as long as desired and voted at any time up to the close of the contest, but the ballots cut from the paper are only good for a few days from the time of publication and wil not be counted after date printed on ballot.

This affords the girls of Belleville and outside territory an excellent opportunity to receive valuable prizes with very little effort on their part.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR VOTING.

Enter the name of the young lady whom you wish to secure one of these valuable prizes in this contest at once. Better still, get the young lady to enter her name and then vote for her. Those who get in at the start have the best chance of winning, so it is desirable that the names be entered at once. Candidates who enter this contest do not necessarily have to be subscribers to this paper. Enter your name and your friends will do the rest.

The first announcement as to who are the young ladies competing in this contest will be made Thursday, Feb. 2nd. We will then publish the names and number of votes each one has to her credit. After the first announcement of candidates the votes will be published daily.

Any person has the privilege of nominating one or more candidates.

Nominations should be mailed to the Contest Manager before Feb. 2nd. Candidates can be nominated after that date, but it is of great advantage for each candidate to have her name in the first list published, so that her friends will not agree to work for some one else before knowing who are entering the contest. It costs absolutely nothing to nominate a candidate. In all cases where ballots are issued subscriptions must be paid. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestants or brought to this office.

GETTING READY FOR CONFERENCE

Colonial Premiers Will Meet in London on May 22—Some Big Questions for Discussion

It is announced that arrangements have been made for opening the Imperial Conference on May 22, while the Imperial Education Conference will be held from April 25 to April 28. The former of these is, of course, incomparably the more important of the two, and will be at once the fifth of its kind and the first of a new series. These conferences, it may be recalled, began as Colonial Conferences, and bore the name of Conferences of Colonial Premiers. The first was held in 1887, advantage being taken of the presence in London of the Premiers for Queen Victoria's Jubilee. Similarly, the second took place at the Diamond Jubilee, and the third during the year of King Edward's Coronation. But at the third meeting a resolution was passed providing for a regular periodical assembling of the Conference, and the fourth was held in 1907. It is to be noticed that the Conferences have grown much smaller in numbers, owing to the consolidations that have taken place among the Colonies. In 1907 the Premiers attending came from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Cape Colony, Natal, and the Transvaal. Meanwhile the Union of South Africa has been formed, and General Botha will come this year as President of the Union of South Africa. Cape Colony, Natal, and Orange River State will lose their special representation, as did the Premiers of the States forming the Commonwealth of Australia. Newfoundland, therefore, is the only small colony which will have a representative of its own.

Early in 1909 Lord Crewe sent out letters to the various Governor-Generals and Governors, asking them to invite their Ministers to take into consideration the subjects which could profitably be discussed at this year's conference, and the various Dominion Governments are ready with their resolutions. For example, New Zealand's proposals include:

1.—The setting up of an Imperial Council;
2.—The reconstruction of the Colonial Office;
3.—Extension of the powers of High Commissioners;
4.—Universal penny postage;
5.—Development of telegraphic communication within the Empire;
6.—An All-Red mail route between England and Australia via Canada;
7.—An Imperial Court of Appeal, and
8.—Wider legislative powers for the over-seas Dominions with regard to shipping.

Australia appears to be specially interested in the establishment of an Imperial Court of Appeal, the regulation of emigration, and the Constitution of the Conference Secretarial, with which considerable dissatisfaction appears to prevail.

In addition to the above list of subjects, Imperial Defence is sure to be once more a prominent subject of discussion, and it is understood that no final decision will be taken by the Home Government as to the ratification of the much disputed Declaration of Landon until the Conference has had an opportunity of expressing its views.

DRINK PASSION AT ITS WORST

The Age at Which It is Most Likely to Overcome a Man or Woman, According to Statistics

At what age is the drink passion most likely to overcome a man or woman? At what age may the danger of such a fate be said to have passed? The answers are found in a bulky Blue-book dealing with London Police statistics issued recently. Between the ages of thirty and forty the largest number of habitual drunkards were received into inebriate reformatories, namely, ninety-six, and between forty and fifty the number fell to fifty-seven.

But it must be borne in mind that these figures deal with the age on reception, and, in view of the reluctance of magistrates to commit, and the fact that several convictions must take place before the magistrate has the power to commit, it is certain that each inmate must have been an habitual drunkard for many years before entering a home. It would seem, therefore, that very few persons fall a victim to the drink habit after the age of say, forty-five, and practically none after fifty. The ages at which the danger of failing a victim to the drink habit is at its greatest seem to lie between twenty-five and thirty-five.

Crime figures were high in 1909, and especially noticeable was the increase in burglary and house and shop-breaking. Thus in 1909 there were 12,075 such cases against 11,619 in 1908, 10,584 in 1907, and only 9,141 in 1906. It was estimated that there were only 4,064 habitual criminals at large in April, 1909, against 4,255 the previous year, and 4,197 in 1907, though, it is pointed out, 1909 was a year of many crimes. Debtors committed to prison numbered 19,155, while persons imprisoned in default of payment of fine numbered 92,699.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

USE THE BOYCOTT IN THEIR CAUSE

The Latest Method of the Suffragettes in England Explained by Mrs. Despard

A boycott of the census is to be the latest method of the militant suffragists for calling attention to their claims to the vote. The announcement was made by Mrs. Despard at a meeting of the Women's Freedom League, held in the Caxton Hall, London. The census would cost a great deal of money, said Mrs. Despard, and involve an enormous amount of labor. So far as they were concerned, this census should not be taken. "We shall prove," said Mrs. Despard, "whether there is a people, or whether there can be a people, without the women. We shall call upon women householders and women lodgers all over the country to refuse absolutely all information when the census takers come round."

"Women," she went on, "had been proud to belong to the nation, but they had been denied their citizenship. Was it not logical, therefore, that they should say, 'Very well; citizens we are not, and we shall not register ourselves as citizens?' That was logical, as a protest should be, and it would be effective." Speaking of the preparations for the census, Mrs. Despard asserted that the officials were trying to get cheap labor; little girls from the schools at six and seven chillings a week. Mrs. Despard added that they would stop the census boycott only when they had the promise of the Prime Minister that a Women's Suffrage Bill would be introduced this session. Tax resistance is to be another method of obstruction, and Mrs. Despard, who has already been "sold up" twice for refusing to pay taxes, produced a third summons to which she intimated that she would pay no attention.

THE DUCHESS OF NORFOLK

One of the great ladies of England, who has resumed her place in the exclusive social circles since King George's accession to the throne. During the reign of King Edward a number of these old families held aloof from the smart set on account of the large foreign element that went to make it up. The Duchess of Norfolk, Newcastle, Buccleugh, and Wallington are a few of those who have flung open their doors and will entertain on a magnificent scale during the coming season.

THE LAST TOLL-GATE

They Originated as Early as 1200 at Dulwich

London may soon lose its only remaining toll-gate, situated at Dulwich. Toll-bars originated as early as 1200 in London, when one was put up at St. Giles to take toll of all traffic going to Temple Bar. In 1346 one was established at Holborn Inn-lane to defray the cost of the road thence to Martin's-lane, Aldersgate. Turnpikes were set up about London in great numbers in 1663. Their destruction began in 1823, when twenty-seven were swept away, an additional eighty-one being demolished about North London in July, 1864, and sixty-one in South London the following year.

A VERSATILE GENIUS

LOUIS TRACY HAS ESSAYED LIFE IN MANY FIELDS.

English Journalist and Novelist Was at First Headed For the Army But He Turned to Newspaper Work and Has Traveled All Over the Empire —His Novels Are Characteristic of His Love of Strenuous Life.

More distinguished men — from presidents and premiers, to savants and social reformers—have come out of journalisms than out of any other calling or class, says a writer in a London paper discussing Louis Tracy, the novelist. One would not think so from a review of the world's press. Journalism has been the Alma Mater of nearly every well-known writer of modern times, among the ten foremost nations of the earth, and this is the excuse, if excuse were needed, for the inclusion in this series, as journalists, of men who are known to the world by their books, and are popularly styled novelists. We would not have had Dickens the novelist if we had not had Dickens the journalist.

Though best known by his books, Louis Tracy is a many-sided man. His career is so typical of the class of novelist occupying the van of literary activity in this first decade of the twentieth century that it deserves some detailed attention. Like the majority of his contemporaries, he took his first degree in journalism. He joined the staff of The Northern Echo in 1884. He was then a youngster of 21, with a hearty relish for hard work and sport, characteristics which usually produce a clear-headed, clean-souled type of man. His earlier years belong to Yorkshire, with a collegiate passed in a French lycee. In the county of broad acres he imbibed the honest love of horses, dogs and guns which leaves its impress on every line he has written.

Before he took to journalism as a profession he practically divided his time between field sports and the work of the 1st Volunteer Battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment. At the age of eighteen he passed, with distinction, the examination for an officer's certificate, and would doubtless have obtained a commission had he remained in the regiment. This experience, joined to subsequent Indian service in the Allahabad Light Horse and the Punjab Light Horse, gave him the knowledge of military matters which he has used so well in such books as "The Final War," "The Invaders," and "The Sirdar's Sabre." Here we have the genesis of one side of a prolific intelligence.

In 1885 he was transferred from the Northern Echo to the South Wales Daily News, where he became chief of the staff. In 1889 he went to India to edit The Morning Post, Allahabad, and in 1892 he was driven back to England by ill-health. Next year he was appointed assistant editor of The Sun when that brilliant evening newspaper was founded by T. P. O'Connor. Between them, those two fairly-established the signed leading article. They substituted "I" for "we" in the editorial column, and The Sun's leaders were either signed "T.P." or "L.T."

Hence, it was Tracy who, one fine morning, fairly electrified politicians by introducing a new phrase to the English language that claimed the right of labor to earn "a living wage." Here, too, he wrote the stirring appeals for starving wives and children of Yorkshire and Midland colliers which drew $40,000 from the pockets of sympathetic Londoners, though those same long-suffering Cockneys were paying $15 per ton for coal owing to the strike in the mining districts!

A year later he was associated with the purchase of The London Evening News, but unfortunately, having made some money during the South African boom, he "dabbled in mines," with the result that, in 1889, he took his first trip to the United States to "see the hole" in Colorado in which the bulk of his fortune was sunk. That was a shrewd blow, then. But how can a man describe city company promoting and the vagaries of life in a mining camp if he has not studied these quaint topics at first hand? And, indeed, how can a man write at all unless he has gone through the mill of experience?

Meanwhile Tracy had written "The Final War," that remarkable and prophetic romance which stirred Great Britain and had its interest further afield. It is odd that its phenomenal success did not encourage him to continue on the road so obviously marked out for him. But, like Hans Andersen, who wrote fairy-tales merely to pass the time, Tracy refused to accept his mission. Back he went to India for three more years, and thence to America, ready and willing to do anything but produce novels, preferring the fascination of living, practical journalism. The man was a foredoomed wanderer over the face of the earth, and he had to go east and west and south and north ere he settled down near the hub of things and began to give public utterance to the thoughts and impressions he had garnered from many lands.

A visitor to Whitby during twenty years, Whitby, the little old-world nook on the northeast coast of England, which he loves as did poor Du Maurier, Irving, Birkett Foster, and many another brilliant member of the artistic family, he pitched his tent there for a decade. One says "tent" advisedly, because he journeys far a-field even yet when the mood takes him, and though he has a house in Surrey, Whitby often sees him. The result of settling down to hard work at the desk revealed itself in a series of book gradually but surely gaining in literary grace and range of vision. "The Revellers," "Rainbow Island," "The Pillar of Light," to mention a few, are novels of which any author might be proud.

Curiously enough, Tracy is one of the half-dozen English novelists most widely read in the United States and Canada.

A BRILLIANT FOP.

The Youthful Disraeli, Elegant and Eloquent.

AN INTELLECTUAL EXQUISITE.

His Airs and Graces, His Frills and Laces and His Dazzling Oratory In His Early Political Battles—A Pen Picture of His Remarkable Face.

Benjamin Disraeli's career in practical politics began with a series of reverses that might have discouraged a less persistent fighter. Five times the youthful novelist and versatile budding statesman attempted to break into parliament before he succeeded in winning an election, going down to defeat three times at Wycombe and once at Taunton.

In William Flayvelle Monypenny's "Life of Benjamin Disraeli" the author declares that tales are still told in Wycombe of Disraeli's famous first speech from the portico of the Red Lion:

"The youthful orator was now at the height of his dandyism, and his 'curls and ruffles' played no small part in the election. Standing on the top of the porch beside the figure of the lion, with his pale face set off by masses of jet black hair and his person plenteously adorned with lace and cambric, he must have seemed to the spectators better fitted for his role of fashionable novelist than for that of strenuous politician. Great, then, was their surprise when this 'popinjay,' as a hostile newspaper called him, began to pour forth a torrent of eloquence with tremendous energy of action and in a voice that carried far along the High street. He had an instinct for the dramatic effects which hold the attention of the mob. 'When the poll is declared I shall be there,' he exclaimed, according to a Wycombe tradition, pointing to the head of the lion, 'and my opponent will be there,' pointing to the tail. By the admission even of the opposite party the speech was a complete success, and his popularity with the crowd was thenceforth assured."

As to the young orator's appearance at Taunton, Mr. Monypenny gathers these comments of an eyewitness from an almost forgotten book of that time:

"Never in my life had I been so struck by a face as I was by that of Disraeli. It was lividly pale, and from beneath two finely arched eyebrows blazed out a pair of intensely black eyes. I never have seen such orbs in mortal sockets either before or since. His physiognomy was strictly Jewish. Over a broad, high forehead were ringlets of coal black, glossy hair, which, combed away from his right temple, fell in luxuriant clusters or bunches over his left cheek and ear, which it entirely concealed from view.

"There was a sort of half smile, half sneer playing about his beautifully formed mouth, the upper lip of which was curved as we see it in the portraits of Byron. He was very showily attired in a dark bottle green frock coat, a waistcoat of the most extravagant pattern, the front of which was almost covered with glittering chains, and in fancy pattern pantaloons. He wore a plain black stock, but no collar was visible. Altogether he was the most intellectual looking exquisite I had ever seen.

"He commenced in a lisping, lackadaisical tone of voice. He minced his phrases in apparently the most affected manner and while he was speaking placed his hands in all imaginable positions, not because he felt awkward and did not know, like a booby in a drawing room, where to put them, but apparently for the purpose of exhibiting to the best advantage the glittering rings which decked his white and taper fingers. Now he would place his thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat and spread out his fingers on its flashing surface; then one set of digits would be released and he would lean affectedly on the table, supporting himself with his right hand; anon he would push aside the curls from his forehead.

"But as he proceeded all traces of dandyism and affectation were lost. With a rapidity of utterance perfectly astonishing he referred to past events and indulged in anticipations of the future. The Whigs were, of course, the objects of his unsparing satire, and his eloquent denunciations of them were applauded to the echo. In all he said he proved himself to be the finished orator. Every period was rounded with the utmost elegance, and in his most daring flights, when one trembled lest he should fall from the giddy height to which he had attained, he so gracefully descended that every hearer was wrapped in admiring surprise. His voice, at first so finical, gradually became full, musical and sonorous and with every varying sentiment was beautifully modulated. His arms no longer appeared to be exhibited for show, but he exemplified the eloquence of the hand. The dandy was transformed into the man of mind, the Mantalini looking personage into a practiced orator and finished elocutionist."

Her Declaration.

"Have you anything to declare?" asked the customs inspector.

"Yes," replied the lady who was returning from Europe. "I unhesitatingly declare that it is an outrage the way this government permits things to be mussed up in one's trunk."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PUT DOWN CRIME WITH FIRM HAND

More Sympathy Is Expressed Towards the Criminal Than Any Previous Generation Has Shown

That compassion for the criminal is a main cause of the growth of crime in the last ten years, is stated in a remarkable preface to the Blue Book on Judicial Statistics issued by the Home Office. This preface is written by Mr. M. B. Simpson, C.B., of the Home Office, but Sir Edward Troup, the Permanent Under-Secretary, explains that the suggestions which Mr. Simpson puts forward must be taken not as the official views of the Department but as conclusions to which he personally has been led after long experience and close study of criminal questions.

Increase in Crime

In 1909 the number of persons tried for indictable offences was 67,149, considerably larger than in any year except 1908, when it was 68,116. The increase is not accounted for by trade depression. Indeed, owing to reluctance to prosecute for small offences it is probably much greater than the mere figures show. Nor is it due to an increase of habitual criminals. In short, criminality has been more prevalent in the community. Why? The report says: No intelligent person can have failed to notice the marked growth since 1898 of a strong sentiment of compassion for the criminal. Mitigations of prison discipline, the Probation of Offenders Act, and the establishment of the Borstel system have been the outcome of this sentiment. These, it may with considerable confidence be hoped, will in the long run help to diminish the total amount of crime. The main object of the amendments which have been effected during the last ten years in our penal system has been to facilitate an offender's return to the path of honesty and to make the punishment imposed on him an aid rather than a hindrance in his way. But public sentiment, or, at any rate, the sentiment that finds public expression, has gone far beyond this.

In the magazines and newspapers, that are ordinarily regarded as reflecting public opinion, articles on crime and punishment are commoner than they were, and the sentiment that is expressed towards the criminal is almost universally compassionate and often sympathetic to an extent that no previous generation has shown. From some of the expressions used it might almost seem that the reading public is on the side of the criminal as against the law. Tales that would be unhesitatingly rejected if they were told by a beggar in the street appear, when urged from the dock as an excuse for theft, to be received with much readier credulity.

Influence of Public Opinion

Now of all influences for the repression of crime the most potent is exercised not by the courts, nor the police, nor the prison authorities; but by public opinion. A community that no longer resented crime and had learned to feel nothing but compassion for the criminal would in time inevitably find itself faced by a flood of criminality against which police and prison authorities would struggle in vain. And though we are far at present from any such catastrophe, it is permissible to suggest that the steady increase of crime during the last ten years, is largely due to a general relaxation in public sentiment with regard to it.

"Crime is sometimes spoken of as if it were the outcome of a revolt of the poor against the rich; and the feeling of dissatisfaction with the inequalities of our existing social system at the present time is so deep and so general that anyone professing to take part in such a revolt may count on securing a good deal of public sympathy. The Press does much to encourage this view of crime. The public is told much about the high-class burglary carried out with the latest appliances that science can suggest, the "Daring Robbery at a Country House," or the ingenious fraud on a bank, while it takes little or no notice of the hosts of humbler thieves who would be as incapable of crimes like these as they would be of the feats of a Turpin or a Claude Duval. Fiction, too, plays its part by beguiling the lieges with fantastic pictures of a Raffles or an Arseno Lupin, and the modern criminal is too often vested with some of the romance that with more reason belonged to the highwayman of old.

The Average Thief

But the average thief is not very different from the rest of the world except, perhaps, in having less moral principle than others, and none of that terror of prison which marks the criminal of fiction, finding crime "an easier means of living than any other." Such a belief will certainly be confirmed if he is encouraged to regard himself as the victim rather than the enemy of society. Such a pose is growing much commoner than it was among convicted criminals.

The report then shows that the real victims of the majority of thieves are the poorer classes, not the rich. Crime on a large scale is possible only for the few, while the vast majority must adopt as their motto, "Small profits and quick returns." The propertied classes can fairly well protect themselves against all but the more enterprising criminals. If the comparative defencelessness of the poor against the professional thieves and swindlers were more fully realized by the public, it is possible that there would be less sympathy with the convicted criminal and consequently less crime.

Chivalrous Lady

MEN WHO TOILED IN THE ATTICS

Masterpieces That Have Been Produced in Garrets—Paderewski Drummed His Fingers There

Even within human memory great men have dwelt and worked in attics; and have often enough hungered and starved there. Yet, most curious of all, many of the world's most noble masterpieces have been produced in humble, slope-roofed garrets. Imagine writing an epoch-making novel at a table the position of which you have continually to shift to dodge the large drops of rain that come through a faulty roof, and on the other side of the door an irate landlady declaiming against you having not paid your rent.

That is just what happened to Oliver Goldsmith when in Green Arbor Court, Old Bailey, he was preparing his immortal "Vicar of Wakefield." Besides a ramshackle bed and a table, the only other piece of furniture the room contained was a chair. Nor did Goldsmith reap any of the rewards of his genius; he was born poor, and lived and died in London garrets, with swallows his only companions.

Coming nearer to our own times, Thomas Carlyle occupied a top-back room in Cheyne Row, Chelsea. It was lighted from above where no sight or noise penetrated. He could have lived there all his life without anyone ever knowing of his existence.

If the question as to who is the greatest living woman were given to ten people, nine of them would unhesitatingly answer, Mme. Curie. Now, Mme. Curie and her husband lived for years in apartments in Paris which would not favorably compare with many a London attic. Except for half a dozen acquaintances, few knew of their existence; but in that tumble-down dwelling (it was not even rain-proof), these two, husband and wife, were doing a work that was eventually to revolutionize science. They discovered radium, and it was not until the news had been shouted from one end of the world to the other that the neighbors began to take a sort of interest in the quaint couple who kept the light going all night long in their window.

A Young Inventor

Strange, too, is the story of the young inventor who one day walked into the office of the famous Commodore Vanderbilt, the founder of the Vanderbilt millions. He had devised an air-brake, he said, and wanted to interest the multi-millionaire in it—in short, he wanted money.

"Do you mean to tell me," cried Mr. Vanderbilt, "that you claim you can stop a train by wind?"

"That is exactly my intention, sir," replied the young fellow.

"Go away," said the elder man; "go away. I've no time to waste on fools."

The inventor went back to his attic, where for weeks, nay, for months, he had existed on the most meagre of allowances. Among his friends he became known as "Crazy George." One day a railroad manager good-naturedly allowed him to experiment.

Capitalists who had snubbed him and who were present at the trial were staggered, dumbfounded, when "Crazy George" demonstrated by actual fact that a train could be brought to a dead standstill by air.

That was forty years ago, and to-day that man, whose name is George Westinghouse, is himself responsible for over a hundred patents, and is the head of a corporation having a capital of $100,000,000.

For days and weeks and months Paderewski drummed his fingers on a plain deal table in a Paris garret. He knew he could play the piano as few others could, but the information was unfortunately native to himself. All he wanted was the opportunity to convince people what he was capable of; but who would dream of looking for a musician in a damp, out-of-the-way attic near the Seine?

But one day somebody did go there and engage the young Pole to play some accompaniments at the house of a society lady. So overwhelmed was his employer with his performance that she offered on account of the rain, to send him home in her own carriage.

"No, madam," said Paderewski, "are not my own carriage and coachman waiting for me at the end of the street?"

And overcoatless and umbrellaless, through the rain and the slush and the mud, he walked home. That night the tide turned, and the young Pole soon found himself with no further use for such things as garrets.

It's not so long ago that the doctors bled a man to make him strong.

"Stuff a cold and starve a fever" is miles behind our to-day's knowledge of curative science, yet our fathers had it preached to them time and again.

You may not know it, but to-day there are just as ineffective methods of cure being preached and practised.

All because most people do not know the real cause of disease.

There are two kinds of corpuscles in the blood—red and white.

The red corpuscles contain nutrition, the white destroy disease germs.

If for any cause the white corpuscles become depleted and are not sufficiently strong to destroy the germs of disease, then disease controls the body.

That's the cause of disease.

A Misunderstanding With Cupid

An Item In the Newspaper Brings a Lover to His Senses

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Brownell crossed his feet comfortably on the brass rail of the fender and yawned at his host.

"I may be a hardworking benedict with my nose to the grindstone, but I wouldn't change places with you, Dick, old man!"

"Why not?"

"Because you're so rich," said Brownell calmly.

"I've never found that a disadvantage," said Dick lightly.

"How can you be sure that a girl really loves you or your money? As for me, I was such a beggar that there was never any doubt about the reason why Edith married me."

"I must be going home," yawned Brownell. "It's after 11."

For a long while after Brownell departed Dick Rodman sat in silent meditation. Jinks, the bulldog, rested his ugly head on his master's knee and studied the handsome, perplexed face with wistful brown eyes.

"LOVED," INTERRUPTED DICK FORCIBLY.

"Jinks," confided Dick at last, "I'm not conceited—you know that. But there must be some girl who likes me well enough to marry me for myself. The trouble is to find the right one. There are only three girls I ever thought seriously of in my life besides Edith, and I got over that in my calf days. I eliminate Amy Packard from the three because I am not in love with her. She's the jolliest little friend a chap ever had, but no love about it on either side. That leaves Alice Brayton and Eleanor Lee. I thought I was in love with both of them, but for the life of me I can't say which one I like best!

"I wish Peter hadn't said that—about girls thinking of my money! Hang it all! I sometimes wish I were poor to prove what I could do!"

The next day Richard Mortimer Rodman, the millionaire, disappeared from his usual haunts. Ten days afterward a rather shabby representation of that fastidious young gentleman appeared at a quiet downtown hotel and registered as "R. Rodman."

One fine morning the plainly dressed Mr. Rodman sallied forth with a worn leather suit case and proceeded toward the quiet uptown street where Alice Brayton lived.

He sent up his visiting card to Mrs. Brayton and waited meekly in the hall while the supercilious butler kept a wary eye on him. When a servant returned from above stairs the young man was ushered reluctantly into the drawing room. He waited, a light of expectancy in his gray eyes, his heart thrilling with the element of adventure. He was on the track of true love, and the sand that Brownell thought might clog his way had been thrown aside. "Brushed off, by Jove!" grinned Dick, just as the door opened to admit Miss Brayton herself.

"Mother is away. I am very glad to see you," she said cordially as he bent low over her hand.

After he had made the usual polite inquiries Dick looked hesitatingly at the lovely face of the girl, and he shot a regretful glance at his own shabby reflection in a long mirror. He thought he detected a puzzled inquiry in her blue eyes, and he plunged boldly into his errand, swinging the suit case from behind his chair with a professional air that he had secretly practiced.

"I have taken the liberty of coming, Miss Brayton—er—you see, I'm agent for the celebrated Flagg brushes. I am sure you have heard of them. There are brushes for every purpose you can think of. Let me show you."

Before Miss Brayton's astonished eyes Dick Rodman demonstrated the efficiency of every brush in his bag.

When he had concluded, hot and dusty, he reached for a shiny new order book and awaited her order. He was prepared to be snubbed—to be sent to the housekeeper or the butler. He was quite unprepared for Miss Brayton's graciousness. She examined the various brushes with keenest interest, asked many intelligent questions, some of which Mr. Rodman could not answer, and finally gave him an order that took his breath away.

"Now that business is concluded," she said when he had tucked away the order book and was closing his sample case. "Do tell me what became of that delightful Mr. Fletcher."

So Dick fell to talking about the events of the past summer until he quite forgot his role of agent and made many a slip that caused Miss Brayton's blue eyes to sparkle with suppressed mischief. He went away quite positive in his own mind that Alice Brayton was the girl he really loved. He had promised to come again in the evening, and he had run the blockade of the butler's disapproving glance and was once more on the pavement when he recollected Eleanor Lee's dark eyes and proudly poised head with its weight of blue black hair.

"I might as well make a go of it," he muttered, and, referring to his address book for Miss Lee's street and number, he was soon ushered into the Lees' drawing room under very much the same circumstances as had marked his earlier call.

"Mother is shopping," announced Miss Lee, her quick glance taking in the shabby figure, the incriminating suit case and the conspicuously displayed order book. As her hand dropped from Rodman's grasp he went through his ceremony of polite inquiries and then plunged into his rapid fire talk of brushes with such good effect that Flagg & Flagg's order book was swelled visibly.

And afterward Eleanor had deftly changed the subject from brushes to motoring, and thus launched on his favorite topic Mr. Rodman proceeded to give a very fair illustration of how a young millionaire may go forth intending to play the poor youth working hard for a living and giving himself and his secret away in every other sentence he uttered.

Once more he went forth, cheered by smiles and even invited to stay and lunch. Quite relieved in his mind concerning the power of his own personality when stripped of his usual atmosphere of wealth, Dick Rodman hied himself to a dairy lunch room and proceeded to order a meal that might be within the limits of a brush agent's income.

As he unfolded the morning paper which had protruded from his coat pocket during his visits he was more puzzled than ever over the situation. He blushed furiously that he should be so weak as to love two girls equally well. He glowed with enthusiasm as he recalled the gentle courtesy that each had extended to the humble brush agent.

"Peter Brownell's all wrong," he muttered, turning the pages of the paper. "There are plenty of nice girls that might fall in love with a fellow even if he was burdened with a few millions. Why"—

Richard Mortimer Rodman's jaw dropped in amazement and something else. All the healthy color fled from his face, and his brows knitted fiercely. His fingers clutched the paper as his burning eyes read and reread a brief paragraph that had challenged his careless glance. It was in the "society" column:

"It is understood that an interesting romance will soon come to light when the engagement of Miss Amy Packard to Franklin Barnes is announced."

Five minutes afterward a rather disheveled young man plunged into a Fifth avenue stage and was slowly conveyed to the Packard abode. Simms, the butler, smiled on the shabby millionaire, while his hand received a crisp five dollar note.

"Into the small drawing room, Mr. Rodman. I'll speak to Miss Amy at once."

Rodman was still pacing excitedly up and down the room when Amy flitted in, small and dainty, with soft masses of bronze brown hair, eyes the color of brown and gold pansies and a delicate rose color flickering in her cheeks.

"Why, Dick, what is the matter? Simms quite frightened me! He said you wanted to see me on business of importance!"

Dick crushed her little hands in his own. "Is it true, Amy?" he demanded fiercely.

"Is what true, Dick?" she asked in a puzzled tone.

"What I read in the paper this morning—that you're engaged to Barnes? Never mind, it can't be true, because I love you, and you've simply got to marry me. Why, you've only known Barnes a few weeks, and I've loved you—I have loved you all my life."

"When did you find it out, Dick?" she asked softly. "I mean find out that you liked"—

"Loved," interrupted Dick forcibly.

"Loved, then," blushed Amy. "When did you?"

"A half hour ago—after I read that in the paper. You must break it off, Amy. Why, blame it all, I've got to have you and nobody else!"

"There, there, Dick," soothed Amy, between tears and laughter. "If you hadn't spent all your summer at that horrid old sea resort you might have been up at the camp and noticed that Mr. Barnes had eyes for nobody else but Lena. Just a stupid newspaper mistake, that's all, and I've been receiving congratulations all the morning over the telephone and trying to explain the mistake."

Then he told of his morning escapade.

"I know both the girls," said Amy after she had wiped away her tears of laughter at his recital. "You were wise to come to me, dear Dick, for you would have had scant show with either one. You see, Alice Brayton is engaged to some man out west, and Eleanor Lee is to marry my cousin, Tom Packard. I don't wonder they were interested in buying brushes!"

Even as Dick joined in her laugh at the expense of his own conceit the telephone bell rang sharply.

"Another congratulation," hazarded Dick, smiling.

LITTLE WORDS OF IMPORTANCE

"No" is a still smaller word than "Yes," but it is very nearly as powerful. Here are a few of the good things it has done:

It has firmly refused to cheat lie, and sin.
It has boldly declared its opinions of right and wrong.
It has denied many unjust accusations, and opposed endless mischievous gossip.
It has done away with scores of false ideas, superstitions, and ignorant beliefs.

And here are some of the bad things:
Like "Yes," it has told thousands of lies.
It has been uttered roughly and harshly, and so has wounded the feelings of the hearer.
It has refused charity and declined to lend a helping hand.
It has obstinately disregarded wise counsel, and has even gone against the conscience itself, recklessly leading the way to folly and ruin.

Little three-letter "Now" is one of the greatest words in the language. It has a message for everybody, and a good sound message, too. But it has also a sort of twin-brother called "Never," who always carries the other half of these messages and the two work together. The following furnishes a good example of their wise precepts:

The time to do a good deed is "Now";
The time to do a bad one "Never."
The time to lend a helping hand "Now";
Or it may be too late and the chance return "Never."
The time to succeed by hard work is "Now";
But dishonest methods, in the long run, pay "Never."
The time to do that job you are shirking is "Now";
Is it any the less unpleasant through putting it off? "Never."
If you are going to reform your ways, do it "Now";
Or the chances are you will do it "Never."
Concentrate your energies on living your life well "Now"; for the future may come—"Never."

HOW TO KEEP A FRIEND

To keep a friend don't get too intimate with her.

Have your own thoughts, and permit her to have hers.

Do not demand too much of her in the way of confidence.

And do not be too aggressive, wanting to know why she hasn't done this, and why she doesn't think as you do.

If her style of dress is not beautiful, don't tell her; it will only offend her, because deep in her heart she is convinced she knows a great deal more about it than anyone else.

Do not find fault with a friend's friend, and do not expect to be the only one given a corner in her heart.

Be as considerate of her feelings as if she were a stranger, and remember that politeness is an every-day garment, and not one intended only for holidays. To sum up in a sentence, preserve the courtesy of the beginning to keep the friendship to the end.

The happy married woman and the happily married woman are entirely two different states.

The German Reichstag has passed the unearned increment tax, which, it is estimated, will add $5,000,000 to the seventh order.

BRIGHT CULORS AT CORONATION

Blue, Crimson, Gold, and Purple—Ermine the Only Fur that Now Finds Favor

The Coronation year of King George is likely to be remarkable for the clash of bright colors it will see. In some measure this will be the result of the reaction consequent on last year's mourning. Practically speaking, the only shades that will find favor with the really well-dressed woman will be those what have what may be termed a "Coronation flavor" about them. Thus, the chief vogue will be for Garter Blue, Ducal Crimson, Princely Gold, and Regal Purple. Already a foretaste of this is given by the wonderful popularity of ermine, which is the only fur that now finds favor. For the moment sable and silver fox are both removed from that pedestal of popularity they have so long occupied, and a stroll through the park of a morning is sufficient to show the supremacy of the Royal fur. This is also to be a year of lace. It will play an important part not only in the Coronation dresses, but in the trains to be worn at the Courts to be held at Buckingham Palace. Lucky indeed is the woman who has had a careful mother or grandmother to dower her with valuable old lace; she, at all events, is above criticism.

His Family Story

It Explained About the Wreath on the Photograph

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

While dining with my friends Jack Rathbone and his wife I noticed hanging on the wall a photograph of a young man about twenty-two years of age and, judging by his likeness, as fine looking a fellow as I ever saw. What struck me especially was a garland of fresh flowers running around the frame. I was thinking of asking about the original of the picture, when it occurred to me that I might be treading on some delicate subject, and I concluded to restrain my curiosity till I had Jack alone. His wife doesn't like tobacco smoke, so when the coffee was brought on she followed the custom of other days, when men were left to smoke alone after dinner, and excused herself. Soon after her departure I said to Jack:

"Who's the handsome man over there, Jack?"

"Why do you ask?"

"Well, in the first place it isn't usual, as you know, to decorate any one's photograph unless there is some very especial reason for it. Then the fresh flowers that encircle the frame give an impression one gets from seeing flowers on a grave. Furthermore, I am interested in the young man pictured there. The expression on the face indicates one of noble impulses, one capable of some remarkable act of magninimity, some marvelous sacrifice. Then too"—

"I'LL DO IT FOR HER—BOTH OF YOU."

"Stop!" Jack laid his hand on my arm. I turned from the photograph on which my eyes had rested while I was speaking to him and saw that he was moved by some overpowering emotion.

"I beg a thousand pardons for trespassing"— He stopped me again.

"That's all right," he said. "You haven't trespassed or intruded or done any harm. It is the correctness of the inferences you have drawn from the photograph that moved me. I wish Alice had been here while you were speaking."

My curiosity was all the more excited by the way my comments were received, but I dared not advance further in a matter at the bottom of which there was such deep feeling, so I waited for Jack to speak again. He was silent some time, during which he seemed to be framing something in his mind. Finally he said:

"I'm going to tell you a story."

"About the original of the picture?"

"Never mind the picture till I have finished my story. Then I'll not need to explain anything. I shall use assumed names, partly because I wish you to draw your own inferences at the end and partly for other reasons which will appear to you.

"Ten years ago two students, chums, were preparing for graduation in a state university. One of them, John Harbeson, was an ordinary sort of fellow—that is, an average man without anything very good or very bad about him. The other, Treat Marshall, was a noticeable figure from the day he entered college. He was an athlete, and his interest in athletics interfered with his standing in his class so that he was not an honor man. Nevertheless such honors as his classmates could give him were heaped upon him.

"There was a girl in the place who caught the fancy of both chums. It isn't necessary for me to go into the details of the affair further than to say that neither of the young men knew the other was in love with her on whom he had set his heart. She was gracious to both and never told either the other's secret until she had accepted one of them. Then she said to him that she felt she should refuse him, for her acceptance of him would destroy the affection the two chums felt for each other.

"That was the summer of the Spanish-American war. As soon as Harbeson and Marshall finished their college course they took a train together for Tampa, Fla., where troops were collecting, and enlisted in a regiment about to sail for Cuba. It was Harbeson the girl had chosen, with that perversity of girls who when they choose for love alone pay little or no attention to that excellence which is recognized by the world. Either they know better than the world in such matters, or they think they do, which is the same thing. At any rate, when a girl marries for love nobody knows what fine fellows she's going to pass over to take some one the rest of the world has but an ordinary use for. On their way to Tampa and from there to Santiago Harbeson felt as though he had been stealing from his chum. Marshall, on the other hand, didn't dream that Harbeson had won the girl who had turned him down.

"Perhaps he would have never known the secret if it hadn't been for the letters. The men hadn't been on the island very long when Marshall, who was delivering letters that had just arrived to members of his company, handed one the handwriting of which he recognized to Harbeson. When two or three more letters came with the same superscription Marshall knew that his friend had won the prize on which he had set his own heart.

"Of course Harbeson knew the secret was out, but his chum did not mention the matter to him and he couldn't make up his mind to mention it to his chum. He didn't know whether Marshall had turned against him or not. It was perfectly natural that the matter should bring about some constraint, but, you see, Harbeson, not having made a clean breast of it in the first place, was accountable for this. As it was his friend felt obliged to ignore it.

"Strange to say, the events of a bloody and wearing campaign were not sufficient to obliterate this shadow that had fallen between these two friends. Harbeson couldn't but feel guilty and assumed that Marshall, whom he dearly loved, blamed him. It didn't matter that Marshall failed to show that he blamed him or that he had changed toward him. All through the campaign Marshall suffered more from this position in which he had been placed than from the heat, the exposure, the dread of missiles and, more than all, the overhanging pall of epidemic.

"In one of the fights in which the chums were engaged their company was cut off from the rest of the command and most of the men taken prisoners. Some eight or ten of them managed to get away where they could hide either among trees, long grass or bushes, but they were hunted and instead of being made prisoners were shot down as they ran. Harbeson and Marshall never failed to stand by each other when it was possible. They were among the men who were trying to avoid capture and had got into a clump of bushes. By lying low they hoped the Spaniards would finally tire of the hunt or think they had found all the fugitives. But the outlook was discouraging. Every now and again they would see some one of their comrades make a dash for liberty, only to be shot down by the Spaniards, who paid no attention to any signal of surrender.

"Finally a Spanish soldier in proximity to the bushes where the friends were hiding was heard to say:

"'There's one left, and he's hiding in here.'

"Then it was evident that they were about to beat the bushes for their covey.

"'John,' said Marshall in a low voice, 'I am going to run; you stay where you are!'

"'You'll certainly be killed,' replied his friend.

"'But they think there's only one of us, and they'll leave you unnoticed.'

"'I protest'—

"'John,' said his friend, putting his hand on the other's arm, 'I'll not only do it for you, I'll do it for her—both of you!'

"Marshall's words 'I'll do it for her' paralyzed action in Harbeson, who felt that he should die with his friend. He suffered Marshall to go out to his death that he might live."

Rathbone paused. He was right in saying that when he had finished his story there would be nothing to explain. It was plain that he was John Harbeson and was suffering and had doubtless for years suffered from a feeling that he should not have accepted this sacrifice. I could understand how the position in which he had been placed would affect a sensitive man.

I turned from him to look again at the photograph of the man who had given his life for him and the woman both loved. What I had seen in the picture before had been intensified by the story of his sacrifice.

And yet I could understand why Rathbone's wife had chosen him. Surely his modesty was very engaging. This sensitiveness at the position he occupied excited sympathy.

"Jack," I said, "your friend's sacrifice was noble, and I don't wonder that you and your wife adorn his picture with ever living flowers. But I fear your high sense of honor and your sensitiveness have somewhat marred your friend's gift. It is no fault of yours that you are the subject of his sacrifice. You should strive to throw off the pain connected with it, that it may have the effect that was intended."

"I have often thought of that," he replied gloomily. "It has appeared to me that I have been grudging him the opportunity of dying for us."

"And you must remember that had he been the winner in the game of love you might have been the one to make the sacrifice."

"I have often wondered if I would have made it."

"Certainly you would," I said encouragingly. "Now let us join your wife."

Going to the drawing room, we found Mrs. Rathbone. She cast a quick glance at her husband, and I saw by her expression that she knew he had been telling the story of the family. And I knew that her lifework was to destroy the effect of a noble act upon a sensitive man.

LIFE IN NEW YORK

How It May Run In a Deep Rut In the Matter of Locality.

LAMENT OF A MAN WHO MOVED

The Homesickness That Came With Working Uptown After Twenty Years of Routine Travel to and From and In the Downtown District.

There are thousands and thousands of men in New York city whose business has been confined to one district for twenty years or more, whose daily routine seldom fluctuates, who are punctual in traveling by a certain train every day in the week, who reach their offices, barring tie-ups, at a regular hour and take up their daily grind and hold to it until the hour of closing.

Many of these men unconsciously get to know and make friends of people whose names they never learn. They become attached to localities in a strange sort of way and do not realize how strong is the attachment. Here is the story of one of them into whose life there has come a change through moving that startles and surprises him and throws a quaint light upon some of the city's people.

"In the twenty years that I was downtown," the man said in telling his experience, "I was in the habit, weather permitting, of taking a walk after the luncheon hour every day in some street between City Hall and the Battery. I have footed every bit of unbuilt ground in that territory. What marvelous changes have come in those twenty years! How many signs on buildings have changed in that time! How many houses have been pulled down! How many new ones have gone up, some of them towering skyward, to take the places of the landmarks?

"I got to know the lower end of town so well I could shut my eyes and make a mental picture of many of the blocks and see the names on the buildings. If I wanted any article, from shoelaces to anything elaborate, I knew exactly where to get them. If some particular dish were desired I knew where it could be served and just what it would cost.

"A great city never stands still. It is as restless as the great deep. But the man who becomes a part of it does not think until he gets away from the part of it where he has done business what the changes are. When I began my strolls there were no tunnels under the two rivers. In the years that have drifted away great bridges have been constructed between Manhattan and Long Island. It does not seem long since I used to hear the restless puff of the coal fed locomotives of the elevated system, yet so gradually did the old order pass that I do not distinctly recall when the present system was installed.

"The changes that took place in business firms were interesting. Many, many times I have seen the name of the man who established a trade taken down and that of his son or sons take its place. So frequently were the same people met in the same place and at the same hour that we nodded as we passed, although none of us knew the name of the nodder.

"Not long ago the business with which I am connected made a jump uptown. Never until I took my traps uptown had I any occasion to walk in the street where our new building stands. The first day I went out to luncheon I had to search for a restaurant. It seemed odd. I saw people I never saw before. I read signs—one of my fool habits—I never read before. Many of the vehicles that passed were quite unlike those I used to see downtown.

"I had to change my hour and route for coming to business. For awhile I had to watch the street signs to know where to get off. How I missed the familiar call of the guard of the car—for I always came down in the same car in the makeup of the elevated train—the one I always boarded at the same hour.

"And that makes me think. I came to know by their faces most of the passengers who boarded that train at my station. I knew where most of them got off. Now that I am in new quarters in a new section I miss all these people with whom I traveled for years. Do they miss me, I wonder?

"And the many whom I came to know downtown—how they will be missed! There is the old street preacher who used to stand on a soap box near Wall street or on the stone steps of the custom house and talk to people in the summer days and again in the days that betokened the coming of autumn. Then there were the Lenten days when I spent a part of my hour at Trinity or in old St. Paul's. I came to know the regular attendants on those services so that the strangers became conspicuous. There are no street preachers in the new district to which I have gone. I wonder why the middle district of the great city doesn't need spiritual direction as well as the downtown districts.

"And so it seems sometimes that I am in a new town among new people, seeing new buildings, reading new signs, hearing new voices, but all in the same old New York. And when I think of the old walks I have taken downtown, the old buildings that I passed so often that they became as familiar as the faces I met and never knew by name, of the strolls along the two rivers, of the craft I saw so often coming and going—when I think of all these there comes over me that sort of feeling that a boy has when he misses his mother. I think it is called homesickness."—New York Press.

READ this OPINION Of the Largest Jack Manufacturer in the Whole World About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost."

AN IDOL IN COURT

Made to Serve the Ends of Justice in a Case in Japan.

THE RUSE OF A WISE MAYOR.

This Solomon-like Official, to Whom an Innocent Man Accused of Theft Appealed, Devised a Simple Scheme That Disclosed the Real Culprits.

One day a servant employed by the proprietor of a big store near Japan bridge, in Yeddo, was sent with a heavy pack of valuable cotton goods on his back to a dyer in Honjo district. When the store's messenger reached Yokogawa street he was ready to seek rest. What more safe than the little grove of trees set about the stone statue of the god Jizo, the patron saint of travelers and defenseless woman and children.

The somnolent porter awoke from a nap to find that his employer's cotton had disappeared. In great distress he went to the storekeeper and confessed that he had slept and that a robber had made off with the goods during his slumber. The master would not believe his story, saying that it would have been impossible for a robber to make off with so large a bundle in broad daylight. Unless the porter should pay for the lost goods he would have to go to prison, said the master. In despair the porter took counsel of Mayor O-oka.

"You are certainly to blame for having fallen asleep," reproved the mayor, "but Jizo is equally to blame, for he is a god bound to protect every one who trusts in him, and in this instance he has betrayed you. I will have him arrested and brought before me for trial."

O-oka gave immediate orders to his court officers to go and arrest the Jizo of Yokogawa street and bring him before the mayor's seat for trial. Three of the officers departed on their mission. They first bound the arms of the stone god with coils of rope; then they tried to lift him from his firm pedestal into a cart. A great crowd assembled before the Jizo, attracted by the unusual behavior of the court officers. When they were told that Jizo had to go before the mayor for trial the citizens marveled.

The task of unseating the god was too much for the three court officers, and they sought aid of those standing about. They promised that in return for assistance they would admit all volunteer workers into the courtroom to witness the extraordinary trial. Hundreds were spurred by curiosity to lend a hand, and when the stone god went through the streets strapped to a cart like an offender the crowd grew. It filled the great hall of justice when Jizo was placed before the platform upon which sat the mayor. O-oka addressed the god in stern words.

"You are a negligent fool, O Jizo!" he exclaimed in a voice loud enough for all to hear. "You are supposed to protect every one who believes in you and who renders tribute, yet this trusting porter here made a prayer to you, then fell asleep at your feet, and he was robbed while he slept. You stand accused of being an accomplice in this robbery. Have you anything to say for yourself before I pass sentence?"

Mayor O-oka waited for a few moments as if expecting the stony lips of Jizo to open in reply, but when no answer was made by the god he passed sentence immediately.

"Since you do not defend yourself I consider that you are guilty," said his honor, "and I shall imprison you."

At this remarkable spectacle of a mayor passing sentence upon a stone god there was a titter of laughter. O-oka thundered in a voice of brass.

"Who are all these people standing about here?" he inquired of his court officers. "Are they accomplices of Jizo or only plain thieves? They think this court is a penny show, and they laugh at the court's orders. Shut all the gates at once!"

The scared attendants hastened to shut the gates of the courtroom. Then Mayor O-oka adjudged every man in the great crowd in contempt of court and fined each of them one tan (a kimono length) of cotton cloth. The hundreds thus suddenly found in contempt were happy that their punishment had been so light at least, and under bonds they hurried to their homes to bring back the cloth fine. Before the day was done 700 pieces of cotton cloth had been presented before the mayor's court, the name of each culprit being set down upon the one tan of cotton cloth which he presented.

Before he would allow the 700 to go, however, O-oka retired with the porter who had been robbed to an inner chamber, and he asked the porter to look over the 700 pieces of cotton cloth and see if he could identify any of them as having been once in the pack he had carried. Since every manufacturer of cotton cloth in Yeddo always marked the selvage of each strip with a little red trademark stamp the porter searched the edges of the many strips of cloth for a stamp similar to that borne on the cloth of which he had been robbed. He found that two of the pieces of cloth brought to pay the mayor's fine bore the stamp of his plundered pack. Instantly Mayor O-oka gave orders for the arrest of the two men who had brought this cloth. They confessed to the robbery, and all of the cloth they had taken from the sleeping porter's pack was restored to him.—Japan Magazine.

LIVED ON 2D. A DAY

Apostle of Plain Living and High Thinking Cult

One of the most distinguished exponents of the simple life has passed away at Cambridge in the person of Professor the Rev. J. E. B. Mayor, professor in Latin at the University. Deceased was for a considerable period of his life a strict vegetarian, and had subsisted at one time on 2d. a day. Professor Mayor possessed one of the finest libraries in Cambridge—all of it, he was fond of saying, bought with the money saved on food. In his rooms up the tower in the second court of St. John's College this bearded scholar has simplified life to its utmost. A bachelor and a teetotaler, in his view one could live well on 6d. a day, and for some considerable time he reduced his nutrition bill to 2d. a day. Originally led to vegetarianism on humane grounds, he continued it for reasons of health and economy. Quite recently, at a dinner party in London, his host, who had forgotten his tastes, sent out for some bananas, of which a single fruit composed his dinner. The story of his starvation programme is well known. When he was completing his magnum opus—his edition of Juvenal—he decided to fast on a progressive scale for the last 48 days of strenuous work. He was to eat only every other day for the first week, every fourth day for the next, and to eat nothing at all for the last fortnight. When doctors compelled him to surrender the programme at the beginning of the last week, he said, "I never felt so well or so eager for work in my life, and I am convinced that I should have suffered no harm by persevering with it." In extent of learning and power of quotation he was compared by a fellow scholar with the Burton who wrote the "Anatomy of Melancholy," and one of Charles Lamb's favorite authors. He was, first of all, a great classical scholar, thought he was almost as great an authority in general philosophy and Sanskrit. He had a profound disbelief in the specialization of science. He held that the man of science rarely saw life steadily or as a whole. He was fond of lecturing, and was well known at the Victoria Institute in London. He was also an original preacher. It was once said that his studies in Juvenal of the excesses of Roman society drove him to the simple life, but it was a favorite thesis of his that the Romans at their heyday were, like other conquering nations, abstemious, and, at their worst, much surpassed by modern livers.

PASSION PLAY PROFIT

£85,230 Earned by Village Players—Salaries in Proportion

According to an official statement, the gross receipts of the Passion Play of 1910 at Oberammergau were £85,230. After defraying the costs of production and other incidental expenses the proceeds, £64,820, remain to be distributed, and the sum of £38,300 will be divided among the 860 performers. The managers of the play, the musical directors, the chief cashier, and the portrayers of Christ, Pilate, Caiaphas, Herod, and the speaker of the prologue will receive £125 each for their six months' services. Other salaries will be in proportion to the importance of the respective roles. The men and women who played so vividly as members of the crowds in the streets of Jerusalem will receive £6 each, and the school children 30s. each; £525 will be given to the poor, and, says the Mail, the balance of £21,750 will remain in the village treasury for communal purposes.

RIGHTS OF HOSPITALITY

Dr. Johnson, in his tour through North Wales passed two days at the seat of Colonel Middleton, of Gwyn Bagag. While he remained there the gardener caught a hare from among some potato plants. He brought it to his master, who was engaged in conversation with the doctor, and received from him an order to carry it to the cook. As soon as Johnson heard this sentence he begged to have the animal placed in his arms, which done, he hurried to the half open window, and restored the hare to her liberty, shouting after her to accelerate her speed. "What have you done?" cried the colonel. "Why, doctor, you have robbed my table of a delicacy, perhaps deprived us of a dinner." "So much the better, sir," replied the humane champion of the condemned hare, "for if your table is to be supplied at the expense of the laws of hospitality, I envy not the appetite of him who eats it. That, sir, was a hare which had placed itself under your protection, and savage, indeed, must be that man who does not make his hearth an asylum for the confiding stranger."

FIELD TELEPHONES

A Travelling Office Which May be Used in Future Wars

For many years the armies have had their field telephone and telegraph lines. The wire to construct these lines, the instruments, and all other necessaries, were carried in wagons; but development to that extent that permits of their being carried by a person or on horseback is of recent years. At first a fine wire was unwound from small reels as the advance was made. If this line was to become a semi-permanent one, the wire, says Major B. W. Atkinson, was elevated upon lances stuck in the ground by signal corps, men following the line as it unrolled, or it might be placed upon the branches of trees or other supports.

In carrying this delicate line of communication to the front it was necessary, whenever the person transporting the line wished to communicate with the rear, for him to stop and by driving a metallic pin into the ground and attaching the wire the connection was made and communication could be held. There were two great drawbacks to this system. Communication could not be made without stopping and making the ground connection. It occurred to an officer that it might be possible to make the horse the means by which the grounding of the wire could be obtained, and thus do away with the necessity of dismounting and driving the metallic pin.

After several experiments he met with success, and the moving "telephone and telegraph office" is the result. This is accomplished by placing a small piece of copper, properly connected with the instrument, against the body of the horse, and as the horse has always one or more feet on the ground while moving at any gait, except the gallop, which would seldom be resorted to, a connection is made through the animal's body by way of its hoofs.

Experience has shown that few horses object to the slight electric sensation after one or two trials, and they soon travel along without minding it at all. This moving office (it is both telephone and telegraph, for the telegraph buzzer is used) has played an important part in field manoeuvres held during recent years. When a mounted operator is sent out to accompany a reconnoitring party, a flanking detachment, or any body of troops whose duty takes them away from the main body, it is possible for the Commander of the main body, by means of this travelling office, to keep informed of what is going on in the direction of the patrol. The officer in command of the detached troops simply rides at the side of the operator and dictates a message to him to be repeated by telephone or sent by the telegraph buzzer, or takes the telephone receiver on this telephone it is both a transmitter and a receiver) and talks direct to headquarters. Of course, when the "office" is halted for some little time, the ground connection is made to relieve the horse.

This little travelling office will likely play an important part in future wars, for it will take the place of many mounted orderlies. The recent Russo-Japanese War presented the spectacle of one general commanding a force that operated over a front of 40 miles in length. The old-fashioned "wig-wag" of the signal corps would be unable to transmit orders so rapidly as necessary on such fields of operations, and therefore the telegraph will take the place of mounted messengers.

DON'T NEED UNDERTAKERS

Neither are Chemists or Doctors Wanted in Cobena, Spain

There is at least one spot in the world where everybody is happy, prosperous and well. The only people who don't get on there are chemists, doctors and undertakers.

In the village of Cobena, near Madrid, disease and death are practically unknown. Two years ago, the local chemist, in despair, gave up the sale of drugs, and took to selling sweetstuffs and confectionery. As there hasn't been a death for eight years, half of the cemetery has been turned into pleasure-garden and the undertaker has fled the place.

The doctor, who had been living for years on his capital, hoping against hope, recently decided to emigrate. The inhabitants generously decided to raise a subscription to help him on his way; but, no—he would not accept charity from those who had so persistently declined to oblige him in the usual way.

A stranger can make a hit in any town by telling the natives there is absolutely no room for improvement.

"GUARD, TURN OUT!"

How the British Soldier Deals With Spies

Nowhere is there such an Empire chain as that in which every link is a British "Tommy." Wherefore the latter is an expert on the spy, and, reading of the recent Portsmouth affair, will smile a little indulgently, then seek an obscure nook—not the sentry-box—and settle down to "watch with ever-peering eyes.

It is an Indian hill-station; rifle thieves are on the prowl. Or a Pathan spy. The two hours' term of duty is like eternity; the British "Tommy" has become a tamarisk—a tamarisk wiht ever-peering eyes.

The bull-frog's incessant croak is interrupted by the tiny tinkle of a stone in a can hung on barbed wire. Immediately something sinuous and shiny shows on the spot where an inexperienced recruit might have stood; a shuffle—it has gone. And in a twinkling the sentry stands, with fixed bayonet, imprisoning the Pathan in the sentry-box.

Not that dramatic turning of the tables, but the simultaneous, bloodcurdling shriek, "Gy-ar-rd, t'n out!" sends a quiver into the very marrow of the native's bones, and in less than sixty seconds he is forced by the business ends of bayonets, held in sturdy British hands, through the guard-room door.

Locked in the magazine-yard of a Mediterranean station, a few years ago, the sentry feared his two hours were lengthening into three; his shouts through the gate brought no response. Fighting his overpowering inclination to doze, he was soon startled by a rustle.

With a brisk, staccato challenge, he waited, with his bayonet at the "Charge." The hesitation, and then the defiant, strange-voiced "Frent!"—instead of the usual "Relief!"—put him on his guard. Waiting in the shadow, he saw two masked natives enter, knives glinting in their hands.

In a moment he had struck one to earth with the butt of his rifle, and then swiftly pinned the other with his bayonet. The guards were discovered drugged with chloroformed, administered whilst they slept. Papers found on the spies left no doubt as to the intended fate of the magazine—and of the unsuspecting sentry in it!

Deliberate intention of spying has occasionally been traced to foreigners in our ranks. With some ability as actor and linguist, the unscrupulous alien has little difficulty in entering our ranks; and, some years ago, an armorer-sergeant, of doubtful nationality, was detected at Jersey, Channel Islands, disposing of details of a new British rifle to the French authorities.

It recently came to light that a man had earned a pension in both the German and British armies.

At one of our most important foreign forts our soldiers were once badly trapped.

It was known that a Teutonic spy was in the vicinity, bent on making plans, and so the sentry on a magazine, one moonlight night, kept eager watch, and soon was startled by a loud rustling in the adjacent trees. Going cautiously forward, he suddenly observed the figure of a man perched high on the bough of a tree, half hidden by the leaves.

The sentry's first impulse was to use the business-end of his bayonet; on second thoughts, he determined to constrain his captive to his uncomfortable perch all night. The idea was thoroughly to the taste of the relieving sentries, each of whom, during his two hours' duty, stood right under the tree, gazing exultantly at the figure aloft, and indulging in satirical remarks, anything but complimentary or consoling.

At dawn, a triumphant guard proceeded to dislodge the captive. He responded not to their taunts; he did not budge an inch. A private at once climbed aloft, and in doing so, shook down a lifelike effigy!

By this clever ruse, the spy had effectually diverted attention whilst acquiring the information he required, and departed.—Answers.

A SMART BOY

Why the Office Lad Took his Master's Lunch

The English office-boy is generally voted a cheeky young rascal, as cunning as a fox. A few days ago a city councillor had, on the recommendation of a friend, taken into his employ a youngster just from school, who had credentials for being smart and—rare virtue—well-behaved. The lad had evidently been well-drilled, and his first day or two gave promise of being a valuable acquisition to the office. His employer one afternoon, called the boy and said, "Run over to the restaurant and get a cup of tea and some biscuits; here's sixpence, and be quick." A cheerful "Yes, sir," and the boy disappeared. Half an hour passed by, and no sign of the lad's return. Getting impatient, the employer went into the clerk's office, where he found the boy hard at work. "Did you get that cup of tea and biscuits, laddie?" asked the chief. "Yes, sir; thank you very much," beamed the lad and the nonplussed councillor went back to his sanctum ruminating on the folly of careless speech.

A GONDOLA FIRE ENGINE

It is obvious that, as the public thoroughfares of Venice are canals instead of streets, motor-driven or horse-drawn fire apparatus have no place. Consequently the latest Venetian fire department is composed in the main of gondolas, provided with hand pumps. The gondolas are driven through the water by means of long oars or sweeps, operated by the firemen. When the fire is reached, two of the crew work the pump, which draws the water up from under the boat, and the third member holds the nozzle and directs the stream. The water can be thrown as high as the second storey of a building. Fires in Venice, however, are few and fare between, owing to the stone construction of the buildings.

A woman can almost love a man when he tells her that he is going to intrust her with a secret.

RECIPROCITY NOT ASKED

Premier Roblin's Strong Speech Against Trade Agreement--Why He Opposes it

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24.—There was a most unusual scene in the Manitoba House to-day when, at the close of a speech by Premier Roblin, in which he unalterably opposed tre reciprocity agreement, the galleries broke into cheers. The Premier opposed the proal and Imperial grounds. He said the United States for thirty-five years had been endeavoring to cripple Canada commercially, and referred to the sacrifices which Canada, and especially Eastern Canada, had made to build up interprovincial trade by railway connection.

"Why this reciprocity?" he asked "No one asked for it," he added. It posed to the reciprocity agreement because it will unsettle and disturb our prosperity. I am opposed to it because it will lessen the securities of the Britishers who have poured their millions into Canada for her development. I am opposed to it because there is enough of individualty and enterprise amongst the Canadian people to maintain the enviable position we occupy to-day. I am opposed to it because it appeals only to the sordid and selfish side of our citizenship. I am opposed to it because it contravenes the spirit of our institutions; because it will destroy our great interprovincial trade; because it will darken the sun of our prosperity; it will cloud the future with uncertainty, and divert, as it is intended, the channels of trade to the south of us into ways we know not of, and which may be more disastrous than financially to us, namely, the loss of our independence as a Dominion of the British Empire."

NOTICE TO CONTESTANTS IN THE INTELLIGENCER POPULARITY CONTEST.

Belleville, Ont., Feb. 27, 1911.

This is to certify that the Contest Manager of The Intelligencer Popularity Contest has this day deposited with me an envelope (sealed) containing the names of the winners of the special prizes offered to the contestants turning in the largest amount of money on subscriptions in their respective districts between the dates of February 14th and 25th, inclusive.

I will deliver this envelope after 10 p.m. on March 25th, 1911, to the persons whose names are contained therein.

R. TANNAHILL,
Mgr. The Bank of Montreal.

The two special prizes—the $35.00 merchandise order on Sinclair's and the beautiful gold watch—given as special rewards to the contestants bringing in the first and second largest amounts on subscriptions between the dates of February 15th and 25th, inclusive, have been won. The names of the lucky winners, however, will be a mystery to all—until the close of the regular contest, March 25th. The names of the winners of these handsome prizes will be placedin a sealed envelope and will be deposited with Mr. R. Tannahill, manager of the Bank of Montreal. A receipt will be secured from Mr. Tannahill for the envelope and same will be published in to-day's issue of The Intelligencer. This receipt will be absolute proof to all contestants that the names of the winners are in the hands of Mr. Tannahill, to be placed in the vault of the Bank of Montreal, and cannot be disturbed or changed by anyone until delivery is made to the winners whose names are contained therein.

The keeping the names of the winners of these special prizes a mystery until the close of the regular contest—March 25—is done for the protection of the winners, from divulging their standing in the race for the prizes in the regular contest.

The Contest Manager and The Intelligencer would be pleased to announce the winners' names at once and deliver the prizes won, as they are purchased and ready for you, but this would be unfair to the winners, as well as the other contestants. This plan is used for the protection of all, and is the only fair way to announce the winners of the Special Prizes.

This also makes the closing night of this grand contest of great interest to all contestants, irrespective of their standing at its close, as it is possible for one of the Special Prizes to be won by a contestant who does not win a regular prize. Each contestant will now have an interest in the contest until its end.

The contestants at present seem to be endeavoring simply to hold their position in the vote column; the lower ones, of course, trying to decrease the distance between themselves and the leaders; but as the race draws to a close the sharpness of the competition will be evident. Many contestants will hold a large number of their vote vouchers until the last moment, in the hope of deceiving the other contestants as to their real standing in the race for the Grand Prizes.

New advances in the vote column are coming in daily, and surprises and changes in leaders will no doubt be frequent. We therefore advise all to keep a close watch on this column and read the contest news completely. We try and explain each detail carefully; if, however, you are still in doubt as to any of the conditions of this contest, call up the Contest Manager, or, if you prefer, pay him a visit at The Intelligencer office and he will explain to you in detail and tell you what you don't know about this contest.

The vote coupon that has been appearing in these columns daily, dated February 25th, is now void, and will not be counted unless already turned in. A new one appeared Saturday, which is dated and good until March 11th. Do not fail to collect as many of them as you can, as they all help in your grand total.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

BRITAIN WON AT THE HAGUE

Indian Student Who Was Arrested Will Not be Surrendered To France

THE HAGUE, Feb. 24.—The permanent Court of Arbitration to-day decided that Great Britain was not bound to surrender Vinayak Damodar Sevarkar, the Indian law student, to the French Government.

Sevarkar escaped to French soil when the vessel upon which he was being returned to India for trial following his arrest in London stopped in the harbour of Marseilles. He was arrested by the police and turned over to the British detectives. The matter of the rights of asylum for a political refugee was raised, and the question of whether the prisoner should be returned to the French Government was submitted to The Hague Tribunal.

The Belgian Minister of State presided. The arbitraters found that on the arrival of the steamship Moru which carried Savarkar, at Marseilles the French police, upon the instructions of the Department of Justice boarded the vessel and placed themselves at the disposal of its commander in regard to the safeguarding of the prisoners. Accordingly the sovereignty of France had not been infringed.

Even admitting that there had been any irregularity in the arrest and surrender of the student at Marseilles the court says that there is no rule of international law under which a power ought to hand over a prisoner because a mistake had been committed by the foreign agent who surrendered him.

MAN SUICIDED WHEN ARRESTED

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 25.—A sensation was created this morning when the news of the suicide of George Allan, in Buffalo, became known. Allan moved in the best society, was a member of St. Catharines' Club and generally esteemed. His brother, William B. Allan, is a prominent architect here, and two other brothers, Thomas and Alexander, are conneted with a manufacturing concern in Toronto. He was 50 years of age.

"I understand," said Police Chief Greene, "from private messages when were received by a friend of Allan's in the city, that Allan was arrested in Buffalo last night on my information to Superintendent Regan, and that he immediately too morphine and choral. He was rushed to the hospital, but died about 2.30 this morning.

"He was charged with stealing 2,100 shares of Trethewey mining stock from the William Chaplin estate."

The late Wm. Chaplin was practically owner of the large Welland Vale Manufacturing Works and Allan was for years his financial secretary, having for twenty years been connected with the company. It was during the lifetime of Chaplin that he is supposed to have taken the stock. It is understood he had a power of attorney. Last autumn Allan asked for a holiday and left the city. The Welland Vale Company tried to induce him to come back, not knowing then of the alleged defalation. Ald. G. D. Chaplin, a member of the company, it appears got him as far as Niagara Falls one night, but there Allan left him.

His wife is living with their son in California. The son was formerly connected with a bank in Toronto and in Winnipeg, but had to leave owing to ill health.

TUBERCULOSIS COST NEW YORK A GREAT SUM

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The annual monetary loss to the State of New York from deaths by tuberculosis in 1910 is placed at $61,000,000 by Prof. Walter F. Wilcox, the Cornell statistician, who spoke before a mass meeting here last night in connection with the week's tuberculosis exhibit conducted by the State Department of Health and the State Charities Association. Prof. Wilcox based his figures on the average money loss per death fixed by the International Congress on Tuberculosis in 1907, at $3,828. He said one-ninth of the deaths in the state last year were due to tuberculosis.

A plea for more tuberculosis hospitals in the rural districts was made by Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Statistics show that the death rate from tuberculosis is decreasing three times as rapidly in the cities as it is in the country.

Tax Lots Again

See Mr. Burrell's letter in this day's issue giving a flat denial to ex-Mayor Marsh's statement in reference to himself. Is it possible to get at the bottom of these tax sales to wife, son-in-law and mother-in-law? The truth must come to light ere long.

One form of annexation the Americans cannot deny that they are after hot-foot, namely the annexation of a great portion of Canada's trade which now goes to England.

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

If as has been intimated, there are some wealthy citizens who with-hold the payment of their taxes because they can secure larger interest for their money by doing so, they ought to be compelled to pay up at once and the Council will be to blame if they do not order immediate action in such cases

To-day is a triple anniversary in British Military annals, namely, the defeat at Majuba, the capture of the Boer General, Cronje and his army at Paardeburg in 1900 and of the battle which raised the siege of Ladysmith One small defeat and two big victories are the British end of the anniversary.

The re-opening of the Tabernacle yesterday was an event in the history of Belleville The interior of the sacred edifice was found to be up-to-date, the throng of worshipers taxed its capacity and the venerable head of the Methodist church was literally "at home" in this city the scene of his many years of arduous labor in the cause of education His sermons exhibited all his old-time power, and the services were of a highly inspiring character We congratulate all concerned

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

It is evident from the fact that Detroit is preparing to erect a very large hockey rink, that our national winter sport is about to spread into the United States in the same manner as base ball spread from the United States into Canada. The result will be the formation of professional leagues, with organizations, as in base ball, strong enough to place the sport on a proper footing. In the course of a few seasons the pinchbeck 'a'mateurism" of the O. H. A. and the irresponsible professionalism of the "bush league," of which experience was had here this season, will both be got rid of, excepting perhaps in small villages.

THE RECIPROCITY DISCUSSION WAXES VERY WARM ALL OVER CANADA

No Sign of a Disturbance in Financial Circles as Yet—Medical Jurisprudence in the Courts—Quebec Ahead in Temperance Legislation—Some Raw Spots in a Great City

(Special Letter to The Intelligencer.)

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—It seems no use trying to get away from it. Reciprocity dogs our every footstep, stares us in the face when we get up in the morning and is the last thing on our tongues or in our minds when we go to bed. In fact we are lucky if we do not dream about it. The papers are full of it, public bodies are passing resolutions about it and our friends pester us to say what we think about it. Tiresome as the naval discussion was many would welcome it back if it would rid us of the present talk, talk, talk.

The somewhat ironical motto: "All this too will pass away" confronts the visitor to the office of a famous police official in this city. It carries very little comfort to the criminal who stands on the brink of a long separation from society behind the grated windows of a penitentiary cell or perchance, stands in the shadow of the gallows, but it spells splendid significance to the man who is compelled to listen while the politicians rage and the party press howls about the evils which are sure to follow in the footsteps of the enactment now on the boards.

AN EXTENSIVE PROPAGANDA.

The big interests are well organized and can make their feelings known in very short order throughout the length and breadth of the land. They are all strongly against Reciprocity. They have thrown the full weight of their powerful organizations into the battle against the international agreement. Money is no object and there is very little doubt that a lavish fund is at the disposal of those who are making the welkin ring.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE.

Medical jurisprudence was distinctly at loggerheads this week in the trial of the claim for damages in the Superior Court and it was evident that medical men, like all other professions, are influenced by the commercial angle from which they look at a subject. Neuresthenia was the trouble from which the victim was supposed to be suffering and one side claimed that it was not that disease at all while the plaintiff's argument was all in that direction. Paul Dinowertz was injured in the Spanish River wreck on the Canadian Pacific about a year ago and the claim he put in totaled up to about $11,000 while the company was willing to settle for $1,500. There was much learned evidence on the nature of the alleged disease and the upshot was that judge and jury were practically at sea as to just what neuresthenia meant and what it was likely to do to a man when he was not looking. Ultimately the claimant was awarded $3,500 and costs and while he got more than the railway offered there is no doubt it paid the company to fight rather than pay the full amount demanded. Consequently both sides won.

The cards were received in answer to requests for replies from readers to the question, "Are you in favor of the proposed agreement with the United States?"

Tre replies received so far are mainly from Ontario and divide as follows:

For reciprocity, ... 28
Against reciprocity, ...27

The writers of the replies are all farmers, fruit growers, or dairymen.

The arguement of nearly all those in favor of the agreement is the hope for a bigger market and better prices.

DEATH OF INDIAN HERO OF THE MUTINY

The death is announced from India of Rajah Sheopal Singh, the loyal Rajah noblemen, two officers and two privates, who escaped from the massacre at Cawnpore in 1857. Of those who were allowed to leave the place in boats, all but these four were shot from the banks of the river or drowned. Mowbray Thomson and his three companions, when their boat was swamped, swam across. Thomson kept his shirt on, but the others were naked, they had no weapons, and their case seemed hopeless. A band of armed men was seen approaching, and the fugitives were staggering back to the river when the leader, Rajah Sheopal Singh called out that they were among friends. He took them to his father's fort, and there, though the Nana Sahib repeatedly demanded their surrender, they were kept in safety till they could join Havelock's force.

DIED TO-DAY.

MR. BURRELL SPEAKS OUT

Contradicts Mr Marsh as to Alleged Offer For Tax Lots--Bought Some Lots From Mrs. Smith

Editor of The Intelligencer.,

Dear Sir: On my return to this country I have just been shown a circular letter issued, as I understand, by Mr. Marsh.

Regarding the statement that I offered the committee $377.80 for 17 lots, I can only say that I did nothing of the kind.

I did however, buy some lots from Mrs. Smith for $75 each that she paid the city $25 each for.

Yourst truly,
HARRY BURRELL.

Chas. A. Goettler's revision of the $50,000 musical comedy, "A Stubborn Cinderella," will be the attraction at Griffin's Opera House on Thursday, March 2. "A Stubborn Cinderella" proved to be the greatest musical comedy hit of last season. All the dramatic critics in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, where the attraction had successful runs, were loud in their praise of this production.

A large chorus, ranging in all sizes from the pretty little "broiler" to the handsome show girl, is one of the features. The consensus of opinion is that there has been no production in recent years that has had a more magnificent display of costumes than are seen in "A Stubborn Cinderella."

The book is by Hough and Adams and the music by Joseph E. Howard, the authors of "The Time, The Place and The Girl," and other successes. The story is prettily told and has a complete, connected and laughable plot. There are twenty song numbers many of which are decided hits.

THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY.

Owing to the development in that part of Western Canada west of Edmonton and the business impetus that is now going on in that territory and in order to adequately take care of the trek into the Peace River Country where 15,000 new homesteads will be offered for free entry by the Dominion Government this year, a daily except Sunday passenger train is now operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Edson, Alta.

From the latter point the new government wagon road enables settlers with their effects to travel with ease and comparative comfort in about one week's time to the Grande Prairie as against the much longer and more expensive routes through gateways east of Edson, which occupy from a month and a half to two months.

The new train will leave Edmonton daily except Sunday at 6.30 a.m., arrive Edson (130 miles) at 1.00 p.m., returning leave Edson at 3.30 p.m., daily except Sunday, arrive Edmonton at 10.05 p.m.

False To Its Motto

In urging the passage, without reference to the people, of the tariff arrangement, the Globe is false to its motto, namely:

> The subject who is truly loyal to the Chief Magistrate will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary measures—JUNIUS.

Never was there a more arbitrary measure than that which the Government is now trying to force through Parliament. It is the duty, therefore, of the opponents of the measure in Parliament to "neither advise nor submit" to it, by opposing it to the limit of their power, and it is the duty of the people who condemn it to petition for a dissolution of Parliament.

Very Small Potatoes

Peanut politics seem to flourish on the Intercolonial Railway notwithstanding the fact that the road is now operated by a Board of Management. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier held his meeting at the Monument Nationale in Montreal last autumn two things were necessary. One requisite was to fill the hall—not in itself much of a task—and another was to fill it with Liberals who would not interrupt the Prime Minister with unpleasant questions. It will be remembered that Mr. Bourassa had addressed a monster meeting a short time before and public feeling in Montreal was running strong against the Government. It was therefore decided to bring the crowd from the City of Quebec, and for this purpose an excursion train was run on the I. C. R. which gave a rate of $1.50 for the round trip. That this was unbusiness like sufficiently appeared from the fact that neither the C. P. R. nor the Grand Trunk attempted to meet the rate. These roads, together with the I. C. R., belong to a traffic association whose rates are under the supervision of the Dominion Railway Commission. The lowest permissable rate for such an excursion would be $2.70 net to the railway. Had this rate, or any other usual excursion rate, been given all three lines would have competed.

Evidently the crowd to be brought from Quebec was a selected crowd and their fares had to be paid out of the party fund. Hence the Intercolonial, which is not subject to the Railway Commission, violated its traffic arrangement and ran a special train at the absurdly low rate of $1.50 per passenger for the round trip of 326 miles. Mr. Graham was asked about it in the House and defended the transaction on the ground that a Government railway, as a matter of public policy, should at all times carry the people cheaply to hear the Prime Minister and other leading statesmen of the country. He volunteered the information that a similar courtesy would be shown at all times to the leader of the Opposition.

This led Mr. Stanfield, the Conservative member for Colchester, N.S., to make a very pertinent remark. It appears that last summer there was a big political picnic held at Truro, N.S. This town owns a beautiful park containing the celebrated falls named after Joseph Howe. The meeting was to be addressed by Mr. R. L. Borden, and the Conservatives naturally asked for an excursion rate on the I. C. R. Needless to say, they did not get the astounding rate afforded to the Laurier meeting, but they were promised the usual excursion rate for a large gathering. On the day of the meeting people who went to the various stations along the I. C. R. to take trains for Truro found that no excursion tickets were to be had. Mr. Stanfield and others in charge of the Truro meeting telegraphed and telephoned the head offices of the I. C. R. at Moncton, N.B. The best they could get was an excursion rate which involved every passenger buying a ticket for a circus which happened to be performing at Truro at that time. In short, the people who went to Truro were fairly forced into patronizing a circus which they did not want to see and which they could only see by staying away from the Borden meeting.

Of course, the blame is now put on some nameless clerk, who, it is said, was punished for not having sent out the circular authorizing an excursion rate for the Borden meeting. It is significant, however, that the wrong-doing of this alleged clerk made so little impression upon the Minister of Railways that he was unable, in reply to a question, to state to the House whether the clerk had been punished or promoted.

PUBLIC OPINION ACROSS THE LINE

How Americans View the Tariff Pact—It is Looked Upon as the First Step Towards Annexation—It Is Welcomed on That Account—Concurrent Testimony from the North and South

The following letter, which was published in The Globe, gives an instructive idea of the trend of public opinion in the United States.

To the Editor of The Globe : Champ Clark let the "cat out of the bag." You now know the real United States idea. The others in the United States are misleading you. Champ Clark has told you the truth. I know, for I have lived for several years in various parts of the United States.

The statements made by Mr. Borden in his speech in the House of Commons, are absolutely correct. You can not drop the Fielding proposition too soon. It is very unfortunate that the matter has gone so far. There was no reason for such an arrangement as Fielding made. It is all against Canada and the British Empire, and The Globe should be the last to advocate such a proposition. Your editorials present the United States' side not the Canadian. You would understand thoroughly if you lived in the United States. Borden is talking in the interests of Canada; Fielding in the interests of the people of the United States. I have always supported the Liberals and I make the statement above after due consideration. This is a national issue, involving the interests of Canada and the Empire, and for the time being we must set parties aside.

United States papers are full regarding trade that will soon come to the United States that has hitherto gone to England. Keep your trade going to England, where it belongs.

The same papers point out that fruit which has been going from British Columbia to the Prairie provinces will soon go to these provinces from the north-western States. You are playing right into the hands of the United States.

A higher tariff than you have now would be a benefit to you, but for the sake of your country keep the tariff you have.

The idea of two or three men involving the people of Canada is absolutely absurd. Such a proposed treaty should be submitted to the people.

I sincerely hope the Globe will resume boosting Canadian interests and those of the British Empire, and stop advancing the interests of the chief competitor of your country.

Feb. 17. A. D. McLean,
Commercial Traveller, Philadelphia

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—"The people of the United States are opposed to reciprocity, except that they believ it will lead to the annexation of Canada. They are supporting reciprocity as a step towards annexation. They want Canada.

George Clare, M. P. for South Waterloo, made the above statement to the Telegram to-day, after talking to representative men from all parts of the United States.

Mr. Clare has been wintering in Florida, and is now on his way north He goes first to his home in Preston Ont., and then to Ottawa, where he will speak in the House against the reciprocity agreement.

While in the south, Mr. Clare met and talked with people from all parts of the Union.

"They all told me," he said, "that they believed reciprocity would lead to annexation. They would be opposed to it otherwise, but they think that annexation brought about in this way will be a good thing for the manufacturing interests of the United States.

"There is no doubt in my mind that this is the reason for the support which is being given to the reciprocity agreement in the United States. Only one man of the scores with whom I talked did not acknowledge it.

"These, mind you, were not the people of the south. They were from the north, many of them, and from other parts, and were in Florida for the winter, as I was."

Government Estimates

was made in Western Town Property during the year 1909

Did you participate in these huge profits or did you "pigeon-hole" the propositions submitted to you by your western friends for future consideration? In short, are you the man who made a profit or the unfortunate one who had the chance but did not possess sufficient judgment to recognize the opportunity or sufficient courage to close a deal? The man or woman entitled to sympathy is the one who says: "Five or ten years ago I had the chance to buy this or that property at $100 or $500, and now it is worth $10,000." The average persons sneers at the person who makes such a statement and says: 'I would have bought and made that money.' Are you going to say five years from now that you had a chance to buy a lot at Poe, Alta., at from $50 to $100 each, or are you going to be the man who will have from $1,000 to $10,000 in cash as a result of having bought property in this town in this year of grace, 1911?

POE A COMING COMMERCIAL CENTRE.

Poe is located on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Saskatoon. It is located in one of the finest farming districts in Western Canada. The surrounding country is settled by a progressive type of farmers and consequently will become the market centre for Northern Alberta. Poe district possesses rich coal mines, is close to rivers and lakes and large forests are easily accessible from this point. These natural resources insure for the residents of the town, first, low cost of living, and second, great commercial activity, two essentials in the upbuilding of a large town, thus creating valuable real estate.

POE AS A MANUFACTURING CENTRE.

This townsite and contiguous territory has the requirements outlined by large manufacturing concerns for the location of large factories or lareg enterprises of any kind employing large numbers of people. The rivers and lakes furnish water, the coal fields and forest furnish fuel and cheap building material, the fine farming lands furnish farm products, enabling the residents to live at a low cost.

The town is located on the main line of a transcontinental railway, assuring the necessary transportation facilities. These combined conditions will furnish cheap labor, one of the most important features of a manufacturing centre.

Poe townsite was recently placed on the market and already over 200 lote have been sold, and many of these lots have already changed hands at a substantial increase in price. Most of these lots were purchased by representative business men throughout Canada, who are now profiting by their foresight.

The townsite is high and dry and very suitable for building purposes.

OPPORTUNITY

is useless unless you possess the courage to act. You might possess great wisdom, you might read a good deal or travel much and thus see all kinds of opportunities to make money, but unless you have the courage to act on your judgment and wisdom all of these desirable qualities are entirely useless.

Lots in Poe are a good investment at present prices. The town is bound to grow rapidly. Owing to the easy terms of payment you have the ability to buy and if you do not buy now it is because you are lacking in courage, and the chances are you will never be like the man you now admire most, rich courageous and wise.

TORRENS TITLE

Poe townsite is held by us under the Torrens system of title. Under this system the title is guaranteed by the Government, therefore absolutely safe.

PRICES AND TERMS.

Prices of lots range from $50 to $100 each, and they can be purchased on terms of one-tenth cash, balance in eighteen equal monthly payments; or quarter cash, balance in six, twelve and eighteen months.

INFORMATION.

We have issued an attractive circular giving full information pertaining to the town and its prospects, together with map showing lots for sale. If you wish to receive this attractive circular cut out and fill in the attached coupon and mail it to us to-day.

Interesting Facts From the World of Fashion

Something chic and modish for evening and dinner wear does not necessarily mean something costly and extravagant this season and if one achieves the correct lines in an evening frock and is knowing in the matter of color one may eliminate all elaboration and go in for most pronounced simplicity.

EVENING HOOD.

FROM THE SUMMER ADVANCE GUARD.

Despite the snow-covered ground, the shops are all filled with summer materials and summer frocks, and the choice things are rapidly disappearing to early buyers. A majority of the new fabrics are two-tone effects or plain borders, and for such we show a charming pattern wherein the border is used to form the lower part of the bodice and deep skirt yoke and finish bottom of skirt. It appears again on the bodice, where it outlines the round neck and kimono sleeves. Undersleeves are all-over lace.

The liking for one-sided bodices is shown in the debutante frocks as well as in those for older women. A serviceable pink crepe meteor had one side of its short waisted bodice entirely of lace short sleeve and all, while the right side of the bodice was of the crepe draped softly across to the left front of the girdle and bordered by a narrow line of skunk. The skirt, fulled a little, was quite plain save for a narrow line of the dark fur at the top of a deep hem.

Silk frocks, even of the crepe order, are not considered so chic for the debutante as the sheer frocks, but they do wear uncommonly well and stand the wear and tear of a gay season better than the filmier things; moreover they are not of necessity so expensive. For the girl of few evening frocks, at least one frock of crepe or messaline is to be recommended, and provided, it is made simply enough it will have an air sufficiently ingenue and girlish.

The Geisha bow figures upon some of the modish, short waisted evening frocks, the big bow covering the back from waistline to shoulder blades. A square bow of moderate size and without ends is often posed in the middle back to finish the folded girdle or head a straight panel or train, for one does find a little square or pointed train upon some of the debutante frocks, even though dancing length is so popular.

Seamstress Writes Novel; Is Sensation of Paris

Two months ago Marguerite Audoux was unknown except to those for whom she sewed and the uninspiring neighbors in her tenement house in Paris, France. To-day she is the literary sensation of the year. She had been seamstress for many years, earning not more than enough to keep her in semi-comfort. At length what she felt was unconquerable misfortune came upon her—her eyesight began to fail and she was forced to give up sewing. It was then that she began her novel, "Marie Claire," which has won her reputation and money.

Mlle. Audoux is 45 years old. She was born in Normandy, where her father was a poor farmer. She was left to take care of herself at an early age, and received an elementary education at a convent. There she was taught to sew. Since she was 18 she had been earning her living by the needle. Her book tells the story of her life. She admits that she is much indebted to Octave Mirbeau, Francis Jourdain and Charles Louis Phillippe for their advice and editing.

The beginning of the book "Marie Claire" is unique and lays fast hold of the attention.

One day many people came to our house. The men entered as though into a church, and the women made the sign of the cross in going out.

I slipped into my parents' chamber and was astonished to see that my mother had a large candle lit near her bed. My father leaned on the foot of the bed to look at my mother, who was sleeping with her hands crossed on her breast.

Marie Claire and her sister were taken to an orphan asylum and we see through the child's eyes the life there with its emotional crisis and tragedies big and little.

Her first communion had a profound effect on Marie Claire. A superstitious servant had told the little girl that if in taking the communion she should chance to chew the Host "the blood of Jesus would flow from her mouth and nothing would stop it." Poor little Marie Claire is so afraid of such a dreadful accident happening to her that she cannot swallow at all, and when she finally manages it is unable to believe that her handkerchief is not stained with blood.

It is at the asylum that Marie Claire gets her first taste of solitude. For a fancied fault she is shut up alone—the first moment of isolation in the ten year of her life. She climbs to the top of the highest clothes-press and sits there in great content, swinging her feet and pretending she is a little girl lost on a mountain, and that a beautiful lady dressed like a fairy is looking for her sister. She is so delighted with her own imagination that she is quite disturbed when she is interrupted by Sister Marie-Ainee who comes to bring her some dainties of which her wrongdoing should have deprived her. Sister Marie-Ainee is the first person who seems really to have loved Marie Claire, or who aroused any affection in her. Though the jealousy of the superior toward the sister, and as a means of punishing her for a fault, poor little Marie Claire is sent to a farm to tend sheep.

The second part of the book shows Marie Claire maturing. She develops a love of nature and of books, and her life on the farm proves a very happy one. The farmer and his wife and the brother are all good to the little girl in their different ways, and she finds things quite different from the superior's forebodings. Longing to see Sister Marie-Ainee at last leads her to run away one stormy night. The timid child is terrified by the night noises, and her description of a wood through which she had to pass is vividly real.

In entering the forest it seemed to me that the wind was even more violent. It blew in gusts, and the trees, blowing against each other with great force, sounded as though they were lamenting. I heard long whispering and crashing and branches falling; then I heard some one walking behind me, and I felt some one touch me on the shoulder. I turned quickly, but saw no one. Just the same I was sure that some one had touched me with a finger. Then the steps continued, as if some invisible person was circling around me; then I began to run with such speed tht I could not tell whether my feet touched the ground. The pebbles flew under my shoes and fell back of me with a noise like hail. I had only one idea—to run to the end of the forest.

Who has not felt the same emotions when lost in a strange place—above all in a wood? Of course, she is brought back in the morning by the kind farmer.

FOR THE GOLFING GIRL.

Her life at the farm has many incidents, perhaps the most important of which was her friendship with Eugene, for he cultivated her love of books. It seems fate that as soon as she became thoroughly attached to anyone she must lose him, and it is no surprise that the farmer dies and his wife and Eugene go to another farm and Marie Claire is again alone.

The new inhabitants of the farm are not at all congenial, and she is quite alone until she at last makes a friend of Henri, the brither of her new mistress. She had formed a habit of wandering up to a deserted cottage not far from the farm and, at first accidently and then by design, Henri meets her there. A deserted garden and an old orchard made a charming setting for their idyll. In this third portion of the book the descriptions of naure are beautiful.

We chanced to stop one day near a field of wheat which seemed endless. Thousands of white butterflies flitted above the grain. Henri Delois did not speak, and as for me I gazed at the blades of wheat which swayed to and fro as though they wished to take flight. One would have said that the butterflies brought wings to help them. But the wheat tried in vain; it never succeeded in leaving the ground.

Henri's words of love and affection are vain, for he is weak and his strong-minded mother forces him to marry a bride of her choice. Marie Claire is again left friendless.

She goes back to the convent and the superior, who still hates her, sends her to work in the kitchen. Sister Marie-Ainee passes through the pages once more on her way to the leper colony, where she dies.

The last friend that Marie Claire makes—Sister Desire-des-Anges—dies of consumption. And she is alone again. At last a woman "with hard eyes" comes to the asylum, and after announcing that she is the sister of Marie Claire, gives her money and puts her on the train for Paris, where she can earn larger wages.

"The train whistled first as though to give me a warning, and when it bore me away the second whistle seemed prolonged, like a great cry," and Marie Claire leaves as abruptly as she entered the pages.

"Throw Up Your Hands."

London, Feb. 27.—"Throw up your hands," shouted twelve-year-old Earl Sloman, as he pointed an air rifle at his fourteen-year-old cousin, Sidney Solman, Saturday afternoon.

Sidney entered into the spirit of the game, but instead of doing as ordered, he grabbed a 22-calibre rifle from the wall and fired at Earl. The bullet entered his playmate's stomach, inflicting a wound which may result fatally.

Woodstock, Feb. 27.—H. N. SEVEN LIVED IN ROOM 12 FEET SQUARE

The Bancroft Times says: Mr Wrightmyer, of Belleville, an agent of the Children's Aid Society, was in Bancroft and vicinity for a few days last week, and when he left on Saturday he had twelve children under his care. Six of them, the oldest about twelve years of age, were taken from John Brathour of Faraday. Mr Wrightmyer found the family, consisting of seven children and the parents living in a room about twelve feet square. This constituted their dining room, kitchen and bedroom. The bedding consisted of one straw tick and one quilt, and a three inch hole under the door kept them supplied with plenty of fresh air. Brathour owns a fairly good farm, has considerable stock about the premises, and delivered a team of horses to a buyer here on Monday for which he received $300. There was, therefore, no excuse on his part for neglecting his family in this way and now that his children have been taken from him he should be given a term in the Central on a bread and water diet.

ANNEXATION BILL UP TOMORROW

The bill which it is proposed to have the Legislature endorse, annexing to the city the new G. T.R. round house and other property will be brought up in committee to-morrow. The County Council and the Township of Thurlow will oppose the bill whilst the city will endeavor to have it passed. Mayor Ackerman, City Solicitor, Mikel and Aldermen, Vermilyea, Parks and Begle will represent the city. It is expected that there will be quite a fight over the bill in the Legislative Committee.

Why Jesus Refused To Pray For the World

Election and Nonelection Viewed From a New Standpoint—Pastor Russell on God's Times and Seasons,

"I pray not for the world, but for them which Thou hast given me."—John xvii,9.

Feb. 26.—Pastor Russell thought that these words must sound strangely to those who still believe, on the one hand, that Jeus loved and sympathized with the world and came speedily "to save the world," and who, on the other hand, believe that all for whom Jesus did not pray and labor would surely at death be cast into eternal torment. Such inconsistencies, he claimed, were turning many noble men and women from God and from the Bible, neither of which are at fault. The fault lies with the unscriptural proposition that all except the "elect" all except the "little flock," who now have the hearing ear and understanding heart and who now receive the Divine Message, will be punished for their mental blindness and deafness with eternal totrture.

He asked, Can it be true, as our Westminster Confession teaches us, that God passed by the great mass of mankind without drawing them, without calling them, without giving them the hearing ear, without opening the eye of their understanding ? Can it be true that God, foreknowing all these conditions, predestinated and arranged for the eternal suffering of these thousands of millions of humanity ? His answer was emphatically, No !

Although trained in these doctrines of Election and Predestination, the Pastor, even in youth, felt somehow that Brother Wesley's teachings of Free Grace were more nobl eand more God-like than Brother Calvin's teaching of Predestination. Nevertheless he reasoned, would an all-wise God, knowing the end from the beginning prepare devilish tortures for his creatures from before their creation ? Why then would he bring them into existence at all ? Calvin's theory exhibits a wise and powerful God, lacking love Wesleys' theory exhibits a loving God lacking in widom and power. The true viwe, the Pastor reasoned, must show God possessed of wisdom as well as love; of power as well as justice; else he would not be the God of whom our hearts crave and whom we could realize as our Heavenly Father.

Christendom in general has erred greatly. Some take one part of the Divine message and some another. What we need is Calvin's God of Wisdom and Power and Wesley's God of Love and Justice. But how can these attributes be harmonized ? Is it possible that God could make an election and yet allow Free Grace to His creatures as a whole ? This, he declares, is the solution. God is selecting or electing a church now—since Pentecost. With its completion there will be no more Election, but Free Grace. And the elect Church glorified to the spirit plane of being and associated with the Redeemer in His "all power in Heaven and earth, will be the Teachers, Rulers helpers, of mankind out of sin and degradation, back to perfection, the image of God, and eternal life. For all lost in Eden by Adam's disobedience to God has provided redemption deliverance, blessings. The Election for the Church does not spell Condemnation for the world, but the reverse The glorification of the Church in Messiah's kingdom will mean the blessing of natural Israel, and through them all the families of the earth.

The Predestination of the Bible was not that all save the Elect should go to eternal torture, but that only those developing saintly characters in the School of Christ could be sharers with Him in His Kingdom. They were predestinated to be conformed to the image of God's Son (Romans, viii, 29

"Tasted Death For Every Man."

Although Jesus tasted death for every man he understood the Father's program— that His first elect bride class should be selected from the world that these, in turn might be with Him the Missionaries, Kings, Priests, Judges, of mankind in the great thousand-year resurrection day of Messiah's Kingdom. It is appropriate, therefore that he should pray for these Elect ones first and not pray for the world Of His disciples He said, "Ye are not of the world;" "If ye were of the world the world would love its own, * * * but I have chosen you out of the world." His disciples were sent to choose or draw others from the world and were instructed to preach a change of nature from earthly to heavenly, to all who would walk in the narrow way in the footsteps of Jesus. The world will be dealt with in another manner entirely when the due time comes.

"Ask Of Me and I Will Give."

In the second Psalm we are told that Jesus will pray for the world and His prayer will be answered. God said, "Ask of Me and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession" (Psalm ii, 8). But that time has not yet come—it will not come until the last member of the elect Body of Christ shall have attained a share in the glories of Messiah's Kingdom. "Changed in a moment in the twinkling of an eye," because flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God.

As our Lord asked blessings upon the elect Church at the beginning of this Age, so he will ask blessings upon the world in the beginning of the New Age to follow and now nearing. And the entire world will be turned over to him. His first work will be the binding of Satan and the overthrow of every human institution out of harmony with righteousness. Although the drastic treatment, the Scriptures tell us, will bring a great time of trouble nevertheless it will mean for the race as a whole the beginning of "the times of restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy Prophets since the world began" —the beginning of the reign of Messiah.

In harmony with this we read that Jesus, at his resurrection and ascension, was exalted to the right hand of God, there to await the time for the putting down of all enemies of righteousness and for the exaltation of himself and the Bride and for the fulfilling to Israel of all the blessings promised and as a result the blessing of all the families of the earth, through Abraham's seed, the Christ on the spirit plane invisible—Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets and faithful ones of the past to be on the earthly plane, perfect men and visible

This is the Bible Election which glorifies God and will bring blessings to all mankind in his due time—the highest blessing to the Elect, and through them a great human blessing of Restitution and life eternal to the world. None will suffer eternal torment; but all who reject the Kingdom and its privileges and opportunities will be cut off in the Second Death from which there will be no recovery "everlasting destruction."

IMMENCE HOCKEY RINK FOR DETROIT

Detroit will likely be represented in a hockey league next winter. Plans are already under way to complete an organization, including this city, Cleveland, Toronto, Chicago, Buffalo and one other city. Professional teams are to be engaged in each, and games would be played at regular intervals probably two or three times weekly.

Detroit men are already preparing plans for erecting an immense covered rink. Property has been secured, and a building containing galleries, a hockey pen, as well as a large pleasure rink is being considered.

During the past winter the league games in this city attracted considerable attention, and they were attended by large crowds The local team went to Cleveland in the early part of this month and played two contests. At each games there were between 2000 and 3000 people present, and it is claimed that if they had been league games, twice the number would have been present.

The Cleveland team went on a trip through the east and in Boston and other large cities drew large crowds. The septette, though not playing with the same degree of general skill that professional teams would employ, put up rattling contests and won a number of them.

Pittsburg for years has supported an excellent hockey team. Smoky City adherents put up several thousand dollars and secured a number of Canadian stars. This with the result that games with the Montreal Wanderers and other famous Canadian teams drew large crowds.

Pittsburg, though a considerable distnace from Detroitt, is seriously considered as being a likely contender for a place in the league.

"Although hockey is in its infancy in Detroit we already have a number of promising players, and they would be capable of giving professionals quite a run for positions, although it is hardly likely that more than two Detroiters could make a seven such as we plan," said one of the promoters of the league.

"The game has gained great popularity in the city during the past winter, and we consider that a league including six or eight cities in this district would be a good paying proposition."—Detroit Journal.

SPORT AT ALBERTA HALL

Clever Boxing Bouts on Saturday Night--Fine Exhibition of the Fistic Art

Under the auspices of the local branch of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tinworkers of America, a smoker and boxing bout took place on Saturday evening in Alberta hall, which was well attended. A good programme was provided and all present enjoyed themselves. The Denmark orchestra was present and during the evening rendered a number of selections. Piper James Clarke, in addition to rendering some selections upon the pipes, executed well some Highland flings which all appreciated Songes were rendered by W. Hayes, Jas. Brennan and David Phillips.

BOXING BOUTS.

Four boxing bouts were upon the programme, two being contributed by local men and two from outsiders. No decisions were given in any of the events.

The first bout was between Frank Bryant and George Taylor of this city They boxed three rounds and were evenly matched.

James Barry and James Hicks, two locals, gave an exhibition of boxing which was good. Although the former is comparatively a lad beside Hicks he nevertheless held his own and demonstrated his cleverness as a boxer. Hicks was also good.

The bout of the evening was between Kid Myers of Salt Lake City, and Tommy Daly, of Toronto. They boxed six rounds and certainly gave a fine exhibition of the fistic art without in any way being rough or attempting to place each other hors de combat. Both are clever boxers and are of the same weight. At the end of the sixth round both appeared fresh and no evidence of hard usage was visible. It was one of the best bouts ever seen in the city and the contestants were loudly applauded by the spectators.

The concluding bout was between Bert Hudson of Chicago, and Billy Turly of Toronto. They boxed five rounds and were clever. The latter appeared to have a slight advantage as to science and quickness upon his feet, but Hudson was by no means slow. It was a good bout and honors were rated about even.

Mr. Charles Lang of this city was referee, filling that position in an acceptable manner.

HOGAN PUT UP CLEVER BATTLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. — Knockout Brown had a shade the better of One-Round Hogan, the California lightweight, in a fast ten-round bout at the Madison A. C. in Harlem last night. Hogan surprised the fight fans in attendance by his cleverness.

He had a tremendous right-hand swing, and in the first round he landed it squarely on the jaw with so much power that Brown was both staggered and surprised. As the battle progressed Brown's great physical strength began to tell the tale. He rushed incessantly and put in smashes to the body and head that would have stopped an ordinary antagonist, but Hogan's vitality kept him on his feet, while his clever defensive tactics enabled him to avoid other wallops, which, if landed, might have worn him down.

Hogan was the better boxer, but he was up against a fighter pure and simple, who cared nothing for blows on the jaw or in the bread basket and stuck close all the way.

Brown began to get into his stride in the second round and had Hogan on aggressiveness. Hogan evened up the third and Brown took the fourth because of heavier hitting. Hogan's nose was bleeding in the fifth, but he held his own. In the sixth round Brown fought with neverceasing vigor, and the Californian went to his corner with a split lip.

With a wonderful rally Hogan came back for the seventh and shooting a right-hand swing to the jaw several times, he had Brown reeling into a clinch, but that was just a flash in the pan, for Brown after that did the harder work and drew away, but not before he received a rocking wallop on the chin a couple of seconds before the fight ended.

HOCKEY NOTES.

To-night's game at Preston will bring the survivors down to two teams in the O. H. A. Orillia goes to Preston with a lead of three goals and if the northern lads can stay in front they will be in the finals with Kingston Frontenacs, last year's winners. If Preston wins, last year's situation will be duplicated, Kingston and Preston battling for the final honors.

HOCKEY NOTES.

The Ontario Hockey Team of this city went to Trenton this afternoon where they will play a match this evening with a junior team of that town.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

WHEAT CARS WRECKED

Smash-Up at Toronto Ties Up Trains For Nine Hours.

Sixteen Cars Containing Sixteen Thousand Bushels of Wheat Reduced to a Pile of Rubbish—Two Men Have Close Call—Two-Thirds of the Grain at 90 Cents a Bushel Can Be Saved, Says Superintendent Farrel.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Sixteen box cars fully loaded with wheat were smashed to matchwood in a wreck on the main line of the Grand Trunk at the Humber yesterday morning and all traffic through this important point—Grand Trunk and C.P.R.—was cut off for nine hours.

It was as bad a wreck as could well be imagined. Sixteen cars, and 16,000 bushels of wheat were squashed into a beautifully scrambled heap, within a space of five cars lengths.

It occurred at 10.10 a.m., and, with a full auxiliary crew, with a crane, and three section gangs working like beavers, it took until 7 o'clock in the evening to get the north (west bound) track cleared so that trains east and west could be run over it between Mimico and Swansea. The other track was not cleared until early this morning.

No one was injured; but a brakeman and a Humber native had close calls. The brakeman was trotting over the top of the train and just hopped from the last car that was smashed when it mounted the heap of debris.

"Lefty" Macdonald, who is to pitch for the Toronto ball team this year, and who resides close to the scene of the wreck, was on the track—just going for a pail of water—when the train began to crumple up beside him and he had to step lively over the embankment to save his skin. He was right where the cars buckled, and one of them made for him endwise across the tracks.

Engine No. 674, with Engineer W. Perry and Conductor T. Stebbard, was hauling 35 box-cars laden with wheat from the Grand Trunk elevators at Point Edward to Portland, Me., for export, and two empties.

The front truck on the eighth car from the engine broke at a point 250 yards west of Billie Miles' hotel and trailed along the ties until it struck a switch frog about fifty yards west of the hotel. Then it tried to take the siding and in a minute sixteen cars were piled up in the hollow behind the hotel, over the tracks and down on the other side of the narrow embankment.

Wheat, worth about 90 cents a bushel poured out of every crack in streams, filing up the mud holes and burying the underneath cars. Superintendent W. H. Farrell and the auxiliary were soon on the spot and thought at first to have one line open in time for the International Limited to get through at 4.40 p.m.. But they couldn't do it. The pile was to dense.

The C.P.R. threw open its Mimico-Islington spur, and both companies used it, landing their trains into Toronto about twenty minutes late, and missing South Parkdale station.

When the north track was cleared in time for No. 2 from London to get through, the traffic came and went as usual, save for the fact that it was a single track service between Mimico and Swansea.

"Lifty" Macdonald, the twirler, seems to have been the only eye-witness. He says that he could hardly remember what happened. He was on the track, heard a scraping sound, saw fire flying up and ducked just as the cars piled up. One car plunged right at him as he went over the bank.

"They all piled up as quickly as you could fire off a gun," he said.

Superintendent Farrell said the train was not traveling faster than twenty miles an hour. He estimated that each car would hold 1,000 bushels of wheat and figured that about two-thirds of this could be saved.

Favor Fortification.

Washington, Feb. 27.—After nearly five hours of debate the House, shortly before 10 o'clock last night, voted overwhelmingly in favor of the policy of fortifying the Panama Canal, and appropriated $3,000,000 to begin the work, the total cost of which has been estimated at $12,000,000.

The erection of the House practically settles the question of fortification, for the sentiment in the Senate is said to be made than two to one in favor of protecting the Isthmian waterway by seacoast batteries.

The real test in the House came on an amendment proposed by Representative Downey of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations. It provided that no part of the money set aside for fortifications should be used until the President of the United States had attempted to negotiate treaties with all of the leading maritime nations, guaranteeing the neutrality and international protection of the canal. This was defeated by a vote of 130 to 63, after a slashing speech against the amendment by Representative Sherley of Kentucky, a Democrat. The appropriation was finally carried by a vote of 123 to 81.

Mardi Gras at Quebec.

Quebec, Feb. 27.—Over 90 allegorical and other cars have now been entered for the grand mardi gras procession, which is to take place on Tuesday evening, and the event promises to be one of the most spectacular ever seen in Quebec. There will be six bands of music in the procession, and thousands of gaily-garbed masqueraders are expected to participate.

Widespread interest is being taken in the event in and outside localities, and it is stated that no less than three special trains will be run from Montreal. The Montagnais Snowshoe Club of the latter city are coming down in full force to form the procession, and all the Quebec and Levis clubs will be seen, most of them turning out with handsome cars.

The Gas Was no Good.

Cornwall, Feb. 27.—Emile Barlatier, the Montreal aeronaut, and his venturesome wife, did not succeed in leaving Cornwall by their balloon yesterday, as was contemplated, in their effort to fly through the air from Ogdensburg, N.Y., to Montreal. The first stage of their journey was made on Sunday and Monday of last week, and they landed in Cornwall on the latter day, and have been here since waiting for favorable winds.

On Saturday night at 12 o'clock the work of inflating the big gas bag was commenced at the Cornwall Gas Works, and shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning the bag was filled. By 9.30 o'clock the traveling basket was attached and everything looked favorable for a magnificent start, as the weather conditions were ideal, when it was discovered that Cornwall gas was not suitable, being too heavy and damp, and the trip had to be abandoned.

The party returned to Montreal by the night train, and it is understood that the balloonists will go to Ottawa and attempt a flight from that city to Montreal, which will probably be made on Tuesday.

Neglected the Dominion.

New York, Feb. 27.—Here to join Mr. and Mrs. Fred. W. Vanderbilt as their guests for a four weeks' stay in Florida, the Duke and Duchess of Manchester arrived Saturday night on board the Lusitania of the Cunard Line from Liverpool. A representative of Mr. Vanderbilt was at the pier to meet them, and they were at once taken to the Pennsylvania station, where they started southward in Mr. Vanderbilt's private car.

Keen on the subject of reciprocity between the United States and Canada, the duke, asked about the outlook, said: "The English have only themselves to blame for the fact that they have not made an arrangement with Canada before this. For the last twelve years Canada has been begging for reciprocity with the Mother Country, and has been met with deaf ears. I shall have to be in England in May, when the subject of the veto power of the House of Lords will come up again."

Left Millions For Research.

Paris, Feb. 27.—Auguste Loutre Fil, who was born a peasant and became one of the richest French financiers in Russia, died recently. He had been impressed by the meagre endowment of science in France in comparison with the United States, and determined to set an example for his countrymen. His will, which has just been made public, discloses that he bequeathed $700,000 to the Academy of Sciences, $500,000 to the University of Paris and $20,000 to the Pasteur Institute for research work.

Afloat on Ice Fields.

St. Petersbrug, Feb. 27.—Despatches from Helsingfors and Narva report that a portion of the ice floe on which 500 fishermen went adrift in the Gulf of Finland several days ago, has been driven ashore at Heiskar Island. Forty of the fishermen had found safety on this floe. Another portion, with many men, grounded near Kolwisto, in Bjorko Sound.

Need Not Fast.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Owing to the amount of sickness in Ottawa during the typhoid outbreak, Archbishop Gauthier has announced that Roman Catholics will not be under the usual obligation to fast during the Lenten season.

Discovered Oil and Gas.

St. Thomas, Feb. 27.—Crude oil and gas were discovered during the week on the farm of Ed. Webb, near Middlemarch, at a depth of 300 feet, while a well was being bored. The extent of the find will be investigated at once.

Sixteen Killed by Avalanche.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—An avalanche overwhelmed a school in the village of Albee, in the Black Sea government Friday, and killed 16 persons.

BRIAND WILL RESIGN

Will Relinquish Premiership of France To-day.

Cabinet Holds Session After Narrow Majority of Sixteen on Friday Night and Chief Decides That He Is Sick of It All and Wants to Retire—Plotting In His Own Party Responsible For Move.

Paris, Feb. 27.—Premier Briand and the members of his Cabinet will resign to-day. They reached this decision on Saturday afternoon at a conference in the Premier's office, when the political situation was thoroughly canvassed from beginning to end. The bare majority of sixteen, which the Government received on Friday night in a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies, following the Premier's arraignment by the Radical Socialists, Louis Mally and Paul Meunier, was a sore blow to the Premier and his associates, who had been sustained many times in previous crises by much larger votes. In the end, M. Briand declared that he was "sick of it all."

The only reason for waiting until to-day to present their resignations to the President is that the Ministers wish to show their respect for the memory of their late colleague, Gen. Brun, whose funeral took place this morning.

There is much uncertainty to-day as to what will happen, whether President Fallieres, after taking counsel with the leaders of the Parliamentary groups, will ask M. Briand to stay in power, or whom he will invite to form a new Ministry. Leon N. Bourgeois, former Premier and ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs; Redmond Poincare, ex-Minister of Finance; Theophile Delcasse, ex-Foreign Minister, and former Premier Emile Combes are among the names mentioned, although it is understood that M. Delcasse is personally not liked by the President of the republic.

The decision of the Ministry to withdraw, has created an enormous political sensation. The conservative newspapers are sounding a note of alarm. They declare that the forces of extreme radicalism are triumphing over sane and progressive reform, regarding the clerical issue, which was raised Friday, as a mere pretext to attain Briand's downfall. They point out that it is ridiculous to accuse the man who constructed the separation law of clericalism, and now that the church and state are completely divorced, M. Briand has been merely following out a general program of "appeasement."

The vote in the Chamber of Deputies Friday night, therefore, is interpreted as the result of an intrigue among Briand's adversaries in his own party, who have been plotting his overthrow since the great crisis in the railway strike and blocking the Premier's program of arbitration in labor disputes in connection with the public service corporations.

Physically and mentally exhausted by several years of uninterrupted labors in official life, M. Briand is sincerely anxious to retire. Even now he is discussing with his friends the delights of a proposed trip to the Mediterranean. It is understood that M. Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is equally determined to withdraw, and would not accept a place in the new Cabinet if it were offered him.

The Temps, in summing up the situation, blames Parliament for taking too much interest in the railway employes, who imperilled the security of the country, and not enough in the measures designed to protect the nation from civil war.

"M. Briand," says The Temps, "has the support of public opinion. His departure gives all Frenchmen food for grave reflection, for France is menaced by moral disorder and a conscienceless Parliament."

Cups For Aviators.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Six new cups for ballooning records in New England during the year 1911 were offered on Saturday at the "College Night" dinner of the Aero Club of New England at the Boston City Club.

U. H. Dandurand, acting mayor of Montreal, and Eugere Tarte, editor of La Patrie of Montreal, were special guests, and brought greetings from the Canadian Aero Club. Mr. Dandurand, as vice-president of the Automobile Club of Canada offered a cup to the balloon pilot landing nearest Montreal during the coming year, while Mr. Tarte offered a similar cup on behalf of his paper. The other cups were offered by The Boston Herald, A. Leo Stevens, Charles J. Glidden and Col. Everett C. Benton of Boston.

Balloonists Go 800 Miles.

St. Joseph, M., Feb. 27.—The balloon Miss Sofia, which left San Antonio, Texas, at 6.47 o'clock Friday evening, landed on a farm near Gower, Mo., at 5.15 o'clock Saturday evening. W. E. Assman, the pilot, and J. M. O'Reilly, his assistant, of St. Louis, said they were tossed for ten hours in a severe snowstorm, which forced them to descend after an 800 mile flight.

G.N.W. Operators' Claims.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The investigation of the demands of the G.N.W. telegraph operators, which has been suspended owing to the death of Assistant General Manager McMichael, will not be continued until Wednesday. The committee requesting the men who returned to their homes when the announcement was made are expected back Tuesday.

Mob Law In Georgia.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 27.—Robert Jones and John Veazey negroes, charged with the murder of white men, were taken from the Warrenton, Ga., jail, by a mob at midnight, Friday night, and lynched. The negroes were strung up to the limb of a tree in the outskirts of the town and their bodies riddled with bullets.

BLAMES U. S. NAVY.

William Bradshaw Sentenced to Five Years in Penitentiary.

Ingersoll, Feb. 27.—After expressing willingness to "take his medicine right away," Wm. Bradshaw, who was arrested in London Friday by local detectives on a charge of raising Canadian Express Co. money orders, received a sentence of five years in Kingston penitentiary from Police Magistrate Patterson at Ingersoll Saturday evening.

Before Bradshaw received sentence, he signed his name to a statement in which he confessed that under the guise of being an agent for a bible firm he effectively raised money orders at a score of places in Ontario, and at a number in New York State and Michigan. So fully did the young man make clear his guilt that to the officers of the court and officials he made a complete demonstration of the methods he employing in erasing the so-called indellible ink of an original money order and increasing its face value to the limit of the marginal guards. The neatness and despatch of his work amazed the officials.

The navy of the United States was blamed by him as the cause of his downfall. Against the petty officers of Uncle Sam's ships of war the prisoner laid his education in ways that are dark. He made the statement that it was common practice in the navy to raise vouchers and pay orders and to put it in his own words the entire department was "rotten with graft."

Rumor Drew Crowd.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—Some person started a story last week that a baby had been born to Mrs. Alfred Plante, 411 Joliette street, Hochelaga Ward, with horns resembling a goat.

The family at first paid little attention to the report, and their neighbors were aware that nothing of the kind had happened. Mrs. Plante is the mother of eight children. the youngest of whom is a girl, eight months old, a healthy child of normal proportions.

The story of the baby with the horns spread until curious people were attracted to the house.

So bothersome did the curiosity seekers become that the father appealed to Capt. Murphy of the East St. Catherine street police station, for protection. Capt. Murphy said he could not prevent people from calling at the house if they wished to do so, but would stop them collecting in the street or blocking the sidewalk.

One policeman was sufficient Saturday to keep the crowd that gathered in front of the house from blocking the street, but yesterday it required two men and an officer to keep them in motion. Capt. Murphy stated that in the early part of yesterday afternoon there were between 500 and 600 persons in front of the house.

Brutality to Insane.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Feb. 27.—Dan Riley, an attendant at the Mattewan Asylum for the criminal insane, was arrested here Saturday night, charged with manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the death of John J. Nugent, a patient in the institution.

Nugent died on Feb. 3, and charges that he had been subjected to violence resulted in his body being disinterred on Long Island only a few days ago. The majority of the physicians were inclined to think that he was a victim of heart disease, but rumors of violence persisted, and Saturday County Judge Hasbrouck examined witnesses here and afterward ordered Riley's arrest. According to the testimony given yesterday by Geo. Galbraith, also an attendant at the hospital, Nugent was brutally treated two days before his death. He swore that Nugent had been brought under submission by winding a pillow case about his neck, after which he was thrown on a bed and "kneed."

Unhealthy for Fish.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—As a result, it is considered, of the hypochlorite that is being put into Ottawa's water supply to kill the typhoid germs, the Government fish hatchery station here has already lost a number of valuable fish and may lose thousands more.

Several complaints have been made to The Citizen by owners of gold fish that since the hypochlorite treatment has been commenced many had died. Precisely the same result has been met with at the Government hatchery, except that the loss there will be many times greater if, as is feared, the hypo has had a deleterious effect on the thousands of fish eggs that are being hatched out.

If, as feared, the eggs should be spoiled, the loss to the Government will be considerable, as the varieties being hatched include salt water salmon and other fish not easy to procure inland and the number of eggs is an enormous one.

A Lively Town.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 27.—One dead and several injured are the results of a number of brawls in the city early last night. Henry Dorsey is in jail, charged with the murder of John Brown, aged 60, by cutting his juggler vein, and biting off the ear of Ozzie Brown, son of the murdered man.

In a steel workers' riot a little later, Ald. E. L. Bowser and Pontus Heintz, a steel company officer, were injured by bricks hurled in the melee.

Washington, Feb. 27.—A memorial of Perry's victory on Lake Erie is contemplated in a bill passed by the Senate yesterday. The measure appropriates $250,000 towards a monument on Put-In-Bay Island, Lake Erie, near Sandusky, in conjunction with the centennial celebration to be held there in 1913. The bill has not passed the House.

TAFT FIXES THE DATE

Extra Session if Necessary Will Be Called on April 4.

There Is Now No Chance That Reciprocity Treaty Can Be Put Through This Session, and an Extra Sitting Is So Probable That the President Has Indicated the Time When It Will Be Necessary.

Washington, Feb. 27.—So probable is it that an extra session of Congress will be necessary in order to get action on the Canadian reciprocity agreement that President Taft has fixed April 4 as the date on which such a session may be called.

The April date was selected after consultation with Champ Clark, who will be Speaker of the next House, and Representative Underwood of Alabama, who will be chairman of the ways and means committee, which will have charge of and report the reciprocity bill in the House.

The President had intended to convene the extra session at an earlier date, but Representatives Clark and Underwood told him that they would like to have a month's time after the present Congress adjourns in which to map out the Democratic plans for the next session.

There was no change in the situation in the Senate Saturday regarding the Canadian reciprocity agreement, and the leaders see no hope of bringing to a vote at this session the McCall bill to carry the agreement into effect. Many rumors were circulated of moves to remedy the situation, but apparently they were all without foundation. The most persistent of all was one that Senator Aldrich, famed for winning legislative battles, which his colleagues thought lost, was speeding to Washington at the urgent solicitation of President Taft to take charge of the situation in the Senate.

The Aldrich rumor, apparently, was a distortion of a telegram which the Senator sent from Jekyll Island, Ga., asking that a pair be arranged for him in favor of the McCall bill if it comes to a vote this session.

As a matter of fact, no one believes that the coming of Senator Aldrich would alter the situation in respect to the McCall bill. The measure is opposed by Senators Cummings, Bristow, Clapp and many other insurgent Republicans. The arrival of Mr. Aldrich and any attempt by him to force the consideration of the bill upon the Senate would be like shaking a red flag in the face of a bull. It would serve, according to the consensus of opinion in the Senate, only to intensify the insurgents' fight against the measure. Not only that, but his friendship for the bill unquestionably would alienate some of his best friends, like Senators Hale, McCumber, Smoot, and others who aided him in framing the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, but who are opposed to the Canadian agreement.

Senator McCumber spoke against the bill Saturday, basing his argument upon the disastrous effect which he said its enactment would have upon the farming industry.

Robbed of $130,000 In Jewels.

New York, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Baldwin Drummond, formerly Mrs. Marshall Field, jr., of Chicago, was robbed of a fortune in jewels Saturday night on board a transatlantic liner. Diamonds, pearls and other gems to the value of approximately $130,000 disappeared mysteriously from her stateroom on the steamship Amerika of the Hamburg-American Line some time between 9.30 o'clock Saturday evening and 5.30 yesterday morning.

To the police Mrs. Drummond described the missing jewels as follows: Two strings of pearls of 273 pearls each; one string of 283 pearls; one large black pearl ring set with diamonds; one large white pearl ring set with diamonds; one pair large pearl earrings set with diamonds; one black pearl brooch set with diamonds, with a black pearl; pea-shaped pendant.

A wireless message sent from the Amerika as she neared port summoned detectives down the bay in a tug. They learned from Mrs. Drummond details of the theft and began a combing of the ship and a search of the crew. But not a trace of the jewel was found.

Viscount Wolverhampton was financial secretary to the treasury in 1886, president of the local Government board, with a seat in the Cabinet, from 1892 until 1894, and during the following year had the portfolio of secretary of state for India. He was appointed chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in December, 1905, and was lord president of the council from 1908 to 1910.

TABERNACLE CROWDED AT BOTH SERVICES

Great Congregations Listened to Admirable Sermons by Rev. Dr. Carman—The Venerable Divine Was at His Best—Several Other Clergymen on the Platform—A Memorable Occasion

Congregations which filled the auditorium of the Tabernacle church yesterday were present at both services being the occasion of the re-opening of the church after extensve improvements had been made. The preacher of the day was the Rev. A. Carman D. D., of Toronto, General Supt. of the Methodist church, who was for many years Principal of Albert College here

Although the noted divine has passed the three score and ten years, he is still hale and hearty and apparently has lost none of his old time vigor as a pulpit orator. Associated with the Gen. Supt. on the platform at the morning service were the Revs. Dr Bishop, A. Campbell, Dr. Dyer, R. N Adams, A. Martin, H. B. Kenny and J. Egan.

THE MORNING DISCOURSE.

After the usual devotional exercises Dr. Carman preached. His subject for the discourse was "God's Covenant," and the text was from Deut. 8:14.

"And thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth that He may establish His covenant which He sware unto thy fathers as it is this day.."

In his opening remarks the divine referred to the fact that God had made a covenant with mankind, which covenant was for man's welfare. There was genius, essence and power in that covenant When man grips the Christian faith and it grips him it is the greatest of all relationships on earth even greater than that of family or social relationships. It is a relationship with the eternal, a relationship that binds us from earth to heaven This is an inestimable blessing. The blessed Christian religion is a covenant; a covenant betwteen man and the Lord, Jesus Christ. When God was making His covenant what did He choose? A holy people, a people who would submit and carry out their part in the great covenant. He, (the speaker) liked to live under such a covenant, because it was a holy and a just covenant. God predestinated the adoption of His children into His eternal kingdom above. What a glorious privilege this was. There was no greater joy on earth than to know some things were settled, and one thing was a settled fact— that God would keep His part of the covenant and we were privileged to keep ours Get on God's indestructible foundation. Remember the Lord, thy God in all things. God had made every provision on earth for man's comfort This is pledged in His covenant and He has kept it. God's covenant has reference to the temporal as well as the spiritual welfare of mankind. Are our souls in covenant with His; are our souls in fidelity with His? In regard to temporal things he has provided lavishly. The earth is rich in gold silver, copper and coal, which was placed there for man, and would have been found out years before they were had those upon the earth then known the personality of the living God. God has given the natural resources and has implanted faith in man to find out and use those natural resources Edison found out the electric spark and Stephenson the power of steam Oh, the boundless covenant of God with mankind. God put force in the fertility of the soil and has put fruitfulness in our abounding plains of the west. He has placed us in the midst of wealth with silver in Cobalt and gold in Gowganda, and iron and coal elsewhere. We should think about God and His relation with the natural things of this world, which He has provided with abundance for our use. We should some into God's affinity, and forget him not in pleasure and worldly pursuits. Remember Him in truth and faith, in the taking and using the gifts which came from His hand.

During the service special music was rendered by the choir. Mr. James Dyer sang very acceptably and feelingly "The Beautiful City," and Miss Florence Emory, of Picton, rendered in fine voice, "Ninety and Nine."

MODISTES' CREATIONS FOR THE YEAR

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.— Because his Majesty of England is to be crowned three months hence, the prevailing theme in feminine headgear for 1911 will be "Coronation."

This pronounciamento comes from delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Milliners. Some five thousand delegates are said to be in Chicago to-day

Among the Easter creations are :—

Empire bonnet, a close-fitting affair; a glorification of the hoods worn by aviators and automobile racers.

Helmet hat; a reduced size of designs-usually given to large hats, resembles the hat of a London "bobby."

Louis XI turban; draped hood in two styles; (a) soft for dress, (b) high and round, of less clinging materials for the street.

Other styles include the classical Rembrandt, the Louis XIV shape which is turned up behind and down in front; the Reynolds hat of 1870 with the side front turned up; the Gainsborough and the Leghorn. For the out-of-door girl, burlap will be used.

As to trimming it is asserted that ribbon and lace flowers have come to stay. The latter must be white Among the flowers; roses, buttercups, daisies, dandelion and sweet peas find favor.

Coronation colors will predominate in the spring, but these will probably give way to individual needs as the season progresses.

ENERGY—THE HUMAN POWER-HOUSE.

ical gentlemen, who, after citing a number of successful cases, says:

"Life is so interesting nowadays that young and old are tempted, even when confined by illness, to use their eyes for close vision every waking hour, thus permitting the eyes to consume far more than their share of energy.

"I have found depression, in conjunction with other methods of treatment, to be of great value, not only in my office practice, but at the bedside as well."

Only the long-confined invalid can appreciate the glow, the cheer and happiness that pervades the whole being when he is first wheeled in his invalid chair to the window, where he looks off at the sky, clouds and distant objects. This thrill of pleasure is continued, strength grows until the patient is able to take out-of-door exercise, which usually results in still further advancing health.

COLLECTION OF THE CITY TAXES

Alderman Bogle Gives His Opinion on the Subject In a Vigorous Way

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir: There have been statements repeatedly made recently by responsible citizens with reference to thirteen influential property owners who have been for many years systematically robbing the community by refusing to pay thir taxes when due. If these statements are true there must be something wrong with the system of tax-gathering.

When an influential property-owner is under an obligation to a bank he is careful to meet his obligation promptly. He would feel and act the same respecting the payment of taxes as he does when considering his obligation to his banker if the implied command "You must pay" were equally strong in both cases. Tre corporation of the city of Belleville should command as much respect as any banker It is a deplorable condition of affairs that a large part of the time of the City Council must be given to the subject of tax-gathering. The collector has expended hundreds of dollars on stationery and postage dunning these tax-dodgers, and has been ignored and treated with contempt, and the council have been obliged to appoint a committee and a bailiff to help him.

At the time this committee of which ex-Ald. Robinson was chairman, was appointed, June, 1910, the tax rolls for 1907, 1908, 1909, showing about $40,000 unpaid, were in the hands of the collector. Since June 1910, the tax roll for 1907 has been returned, and the one for 1908 will be returned a few days hence. There is about $8,000 on the one for 1909, and on the one for 1910 about $23,000.

The chairman of the Executive Committee has done all that could be expected of any one man in the council to have the taxes in arrears collected There seems to be something wrong with the system, as it does not sufficiently impress the idea "You must pay" on the grey matter of the tax-evaders. A number of citizens who own valuable property have by their superior cunning, wolfish greed, and the aggressive assertion of their don't-give-a-d - - n-whether-it-is-right-or wrong souls, cheated the community on a scale that might be termed wholesale, as the amount is estimated at $100,000, and the victims number at least 10,000. A man who will not pay his taxes when due has no right by law to be honored by his fellow citizens. Should a prospecting party discover they had some of these tax-dodgers among them trying to shirk their obligations, there would be no soft, gentle talk, such as "Please do your share and we will ever pray," but on the contrary, they would be treated as mangy curs, and kicked out of the camp. Consider the large number of widows and orphans and poor citizens who have suffered by the heartlessness of these men. Surely it is in order to have a full statement prepared showing the names of the tax-dodgers, and in each case the amount of loss the community has suffered by their unscrupulous acts, to have action taken to compel restitution. $100,000 would materially help to lower the rate of our assessment

It is understood that all decent citizens and the Council of the city of Belleville wish to be considerate towards their fellow-citizens in distressed circumstances.

Yours truly,

ROBERT BOGLE.

SEE JAP WAR IN 10 MONTHS

Hobson Says U. S. Will Conquer Mikado's Kingdom—Urges Vast Standing Army

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—That the United States and Japan will go to war inside of ten months was the prediction of Rep. Hobson, of Alabama in a speech on the naval appropriation bill.

According to Mr. Hobson, the war will last 5 years, perhaps 10, the Panama canal will be destroyed and the United States will finally conquer the Mikado's kingdom.

"We will be struck," cried Hobson, "and we will find ourselves powerless The nations of the world will call on us to give up the war and not continue to disturb the peace of the world just as we did with Russia in her war with Japan. Our own financiers will demand that we end an apparently hopeless struggle.

"But we will not give up. We will fight on, angered and humiliated, until it becomes a mere question of resources. Ever since we went into Hawaii, ever since we took possession of the Philippines, declining to let Japan in there with us, their citizens came to this country and received the treatment from our people that the difference in race made inevitable Japan has been preparing for war with us, and the Japanese in this country are helping her."

Rep. Gaines, of West Virginia, asked Mr. Hobson if Japan would find it possible to finance a war with the United States.

"Japan," said Mr. Hobson, "is the only nation clever enough to finance a war before it begins. She is bankrupt to-day because she has already financed the war she will wage against us."

Hobson urged the creation of a vast standing army and the building of a great navy as the only solution of the problem.

Practically all the provisions of the naval appropriation bill were agreed to with the exception of the new building program, which will come up Tuesday and which is expected to precipitate a lively fight.

The bill provides for two battleships of the super-Dreadnought type carrying 12 1-4 inch guns; two fleet colliers, eight torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines. An attempt will be made both to decrease and increase this program, but the committee believes it has enough votes to carry it through.

A DOUBLE CURE FOR DOUBLE TROUBLE

Father Morriscy's No. 26 Cures Catarrh by a Combined Treatment.

The sudden weather variations in our climate result in a great many cases of catarrh—a troublesome disease usually considered hard to cure, and one which often leads to serious pulmonary and intestinal troubles.

A neglected cold in the head weakens the nasal membranes, so that at every future exposure the trouble returns. At length these conditions are fastened onto the system, and the sufferer undergoes the annoyance and danger of chronic catarrh.

Some doctors confine themselves to prescribing external applications, and thus do not reach the seat of the trouble. Others give internal treatment exclusively, and thus do not promptly relieve the affected parts.

Father Morriscy, the skilled priest-physician, rightly regarded catarrh as a double trouble, consisting of unpleasant local effects and their fundamental causes, the latter having to do with impaired general vitality.

His famous remedy, No. 26, is a combined cure for catarrh. It consists of tablets to be taken three times a day, and an especially compounded salve.

The salve is antiseptic, and quickly heals the inflamed membranes of the nasal passages. The tablets go to the seat of the trouble and restore the system to its usual tone. Together, they cure.

Instead of neglecting a disease that is unpleasant to yourself and to others, and one which often leads to pneumonia and consumption, it is surely the part of wisdom to take timely steps to do away with the effects and at the same time remove the cause. No. 26 does just that.

50c. for the combined treatment. At your druggist's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 25.—The market opened ¼ lower, being influenced by the disappointing American markets yesterday. Following the opening the undertone was heavy with realizing and prices further declined ⅛. Selling at this time was induced by the predictions of larger shipments to the United Kingdom this week and a poor inquiry here for both parcels and cargoes with a weakening in spot markets and free Australian offers. The decline, however, was checked by less favorable reports from Russia and a fair demand from the continent. At the close the market was easier, ⅜ lower than yesterday.

Corn market was quiet and unchanged. The predictions of large American shipments to Liverpool this week offset the covering of March shorts.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Wheat to-day slid under any down-grade record made in the last three years. Scantiness of domestic demand, no foreign outlet and reciprocity delay at Washington furnished plenty of reason. The close was weak at a net decline of ⅝c to a full cent a bushel. There also was a net loss of ⅝c to ⅛c in corn, ⅛c in oats, and 15c to 20c for pork, lard and ribs.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

Not for an instant did Frank's watchful attitude relax. While Mr. Mayne and the zemindar discoursed on the disturbed state of the country he snatched the opportunity to exchange a few tender words with Winifred. But his eyes and his ears were alert, and he was the first to hear the advent of a large body of horses along the main road.

He stood up instantly, blew out a lantern which was placed on the ground for the benefit of himself and the others, and said quietly:

"A regiment of cavalry is approaching. We do not wish to be seen by them. Let no man stir or show a light until they have gone."

He had the military trick of putting an emphatic order in the fewest and simplest words. A threat was out of the question, after the manner in which the party had been received, but it is likely that each native present felt that his life would not be of great value if he attempted to draw the attention of the passers-by to the presence of Europeans at the door of that secluded zemindari.

The tramp of horses' feet and the jingle of arms and trappings could now be distinguished plainly. At first Winifred feared that they were troops sent in pursuit of them by the Nana, and she whispered the question:

"Are they from Cawnpore, Frank?"

"No," he answered, placing a reassuring hand on her shoulder. "I cannot see them, but their horses are walking, so they cannot have come our way. They are cavalry advancing from the direction of Lucknow."

"Perhaps they are marching to the relief of Cawnpore?"

"Let us hope so. But we must not risk being seen."

"Your words are despondent, dear. Do you think the whole native army is against us?"

"I scarcely know what to think, sweetheart. Things look black in so many directions. Once we are in Lucknow, and able to hear what has really happened elsewhere, we shall be better able to judge."

The ghostly squadrons clanked past, unseen and unseeing. When the road was quiet again Winifred and her small bodyguard remounted. The zemindar was not a man who would accept payment; so Mr. Mayne gave his servants some money. It may be that this Mohammedan gentleman wondered if he had acted rightly when the emissaries of the Nana scoured the country next day for news of the miss-sahib and two sahibs who rode towards Lucknow in the small hours of the morning. Being a wise man he held his peace. He had cast his bread upon the waters, and did not regret it though he little reckoned on the return it would make after many days.

Reinvigorated by the excellent meal the travellers found that their horses had benefited as greatly as they themselves by the food and brief rest.

They had no more adventures on the way. Winifred did not object to riding astride while it was dark, but she did not like the experience in broad daylight, and when they met an Eurasian in a tikka-gharry, or hired conveyance, in the environs of Lucknow, she was almost as delighted to secure the vehicle as to learn that the city, though disturbed, was "quite safe from mutiny."

That was the man's phrase, and it was eloquent of faith in the genius of Henry Lawrence.

"Quite safe!" he assured them, though they had only escaped by a detachment of rebel cavalry by the merest fluke three hours earlier.

They were standing opposite the gate of a great walled enclosure known as the Alumbagh, a summer retreat built by an old nawab for a favorite wife. And that was in June! In six short months Havelock would be lying there in his grave, and men would be talking from pole to pole of the wondrous things done at Lucknow, both by those who held it and those who twice relieved it.

"Quite safe!"

It was high time men ceased to use that phrase in India.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wherein a Mohammedan Fraternizes With a Brahmin

"We seem to be attracting a fair share of attention," said Malcolm, as they crossed a bridge over the canal that bounded Lucknow on the south and east.

"We look rather odd, don't we?" asked Winifred, cheerfully. "Three mounted men leading four horses, and a dishevelled lady in a ramshackle vehicle like this, would draw the eyes of a mob anywhere. Thank goodness, though, the people appear to be quite peaceably inclined."

"Y-yes."

"Why do you agree so grudgingly?"

"Well, I have not been here before—are the streets usually so crowded at this hour?"

"Lucknow, like every other Indian city, is early astir. Perhaps they have heard of the fall of Cawnpore. It is one of the marvels of India how quickly news spreads. Isn't that so, uncle?"

"No man knows how rumor travels here," said Mr. Mayne. "It beats the telegraph. But the probability is that Lucknow has surprises in store for us. While we were bottled up in Bithoor things have been happening elsewhere."

His guess was only too accurate. Not only had Nana Sahib long been in treaty with the disaffected Oudh taluqdars, but Lucknow itself was writhing in the first stages of rebellion. Although by popular reckoning the mutiny broke out at Meerut on May 10, there was trouble in Lucknow in April with the 48th Infantry, and again on May 3, when Lawrence's firm measures alone prevented the 27th Oudh Irregulars from murdering their officers. There was little reason to hope that this, the third city in India, should not yield readily to sedition-mongers. The dethroned King of Oudh, with his courtiers and ministers, still maintained a sort of royal state in his residence at Calcutta, and his emissaries were active in the greased cartridge propaganda, telling Hindus that the paper wrappers were dipped in the fat of cows, while, for the benefit of Mohammedans, a variant of the story was supplied by the substitution of pig's lard.

It is believed, too, that the passing of a chupatty, or flat cake, from village to village in the Northwest Provinces early in January was set on foot by one of these agitators as a token that the Government was plotting to overthrow the religions of the people. The exact significance of that mysterious symbol has never been ascertained. Like the "snowball" petition of the West, once started, it soon lost its first meaning. Many natives regarded it merely as the fulfilment of a devotee's vow, but in the majority of instances it had an unsettling effect on the simple folk who received it, and this was precisely what its originator desired.

Lucknow was not only the natural pivot of a rich agricultural district, but it hummed with prosperous trade. Every type of Indian humanity gathered in its narrow streets and lofty houses, and excitement rose to fever heat when the local trouble with the sepoys was given force to by the isolation of the Meerut white garrison, the seizure of Delhi and the sacking of many European stations in the Northwest. On May 30, the 71st Native Infantry had the impudence to fire on the 32nd Foot, and were severely mauled for their pains. They ran off, but not until they had murdered Brigadier-General Handscombe and Lieutenant Grant, one of their own officers. The standard of the Prophet was raised in the bazaar and a fanatical mob rallied round it. They killed a Mr. Menpes, who lived in the city, and were then dispersed by the police.

Unfortunately, the 7th Cavalry deserted when Lawrence marched to the race-course next day to punish the mutinous sepoys who had gathered there. But despite the lack of a mounted force, a number of prisoners were taken and hanged in batches on a gallows erected on the Muchee Bhowun, a fortress palace situated near the Residency.

COURT DECLINES TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

Mr. Justice Clute, in deciding upon the suit brought by the parents of Annie Caine to have set aside her marriage with Max Birmen, has ruled that the case is not within the jurisdiction of the Non-Jury Assize Court His reason was that both parties to the marriage were over eighteen years of age, and that there was no duress employed as he interprets the statutory requirements. He admits the possibility of another court taking a different view in case of appeal, and therefore cites his finding of fact. He decides that the girl was of unsound mind and a moral imbecile. While she could answer questions rationally she had no moral sense. Birmen, he says, was a man of debased habits who went through the marriage in a spirit of bravado, and had no intention of living with the girl. His lordship expressed the opinion that the colored minister who performed the marriage should have been produced and examined in court. In conclusion he says the case is a deplorable one and one in which the parents of the child are entitled to sympathy, and he expresses his regret that having regard to the view he takes of the law he is unable to grant the relief asked.

MANUEL TO GET JEWELS

Examination of Treasure Chambers at Lisbon Reveals Wealth - Blocks of Gold

LISBON, Feb. 26.—The Minister of Public Works has made an inspection of the treasure chamber in the vaults at the Royal Palace of Necessidades in which are deposited the crown jewels and personal valuables belonging to the deposed royal family. In the inventory taken are a unique table service of silver, weighing more than a ton, King Manuel's crown and sceptre of solid gold and studded with precious stones, and several blocks of virgin gold, the largest weighing 41 pounds. The gem of the collection consists of a safe full of jewels among which is the diadem belonging to the Queen Mother Amelie and a necklace given her by her father, the Count of Paris. The necklace is valued at $200 000, and the whole contents of the treasure chamber have an estimated value of $3,500,000.

The reason for this inventory is that the British Government, through the Legation in Lisbon, informed the Portugese Government that King Manuel and Queen Amelie desired to have possession of their own jewelry. The Minister of Finance authorizes the statement that all the valuables that are proved to be the property of the members of the dethroned royal family will be returned to them, and the remainder, such as the crown and sceptre, will be placed in the national museum.

RUMOR OF RAILWAYS

They Are More or Less Probable and Concern the G. T. R., the C. P. R. and the C. N. O. R.

Of late various rumors have been freely circulated about the city in reference to where certain railways which propose to come into Belleville were going to erect stations and other buildings, and about the Grand Trunk's intentions consequent on the incoming of the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. Some of these rumors are feasible and probable, while others seem to the ordinary intellect to be vague and problematical.

Within the past few days it has been freely circulated that the Grand Trunk intended to make a decided change as to its present route in entering the city, and also having a down town station. It is stated that it is the intention of the company to divert its line in such a manner as to come down Mill Street and have the station where Marsh & Henthorn's foundry is now situated. The rumor has it that a bridge will be erected across the river just above the upper bridge and that the line would then branch off in a northwesterly direction until the present track is reached just north of Coleman's commons. The authenticity of such a rumor it is difficult to verify.

Another rumor is to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway contemplate erecting a station here north of Dundas Street in the vicinity of South John Street. That the C. P. R. will come into the city in the near future there is no doubt.

The C. N. R. Company have of late through their agents, purchased or obtained options on considerable property on the lower portion of Church Street, South John Street and other streets in the vicinity of the rolling mills. It is confidently expected that, within a short time, the work on this line will be commenced in the city. That there will be much activity here in railway matters in the immediate future is not a rumor, but a fact.

"WHERE WILL YOU BE WHEN THE CONTEST PLUMS FALL"

You Can be Under the Contest Prize Tree With a Basket if You Will But Try—Many Candidates on the Move Upwards In the Vote Column—Miss Louise Shorey Leads the List With Good Total of Almost a Million Votes

The heavy vote polled Saturday and the announcement last night regarding the awards of the special prizes, indicate the widespread interest that has been aroused by The Intelligencer's popularity contest.

This interest is growing daily and every day of the remaining few weeks of the contest will see the good-natured competition wax warmer.

Votes issued in large numbers upon the payment of subscriptions are easy to get once a candidate has demonstrated that she is in earnest.

And the case which one comes in as the leader of her district proves conclusively that those at the bottom of the list have just as good a chance as those higher up, if they will just make a real effort to get subscriptions and votes.

Voting to-day has been very spirited in both districts, Dictrict No. 2 being especially active. All candidates are climbing, some with leaps and bounds.

Now is the time to start.

Pitch right in with a firm determination to win, and give no thought to your competitor. Look after your votes; don't waste time or enthusiasm thinking of what someone else is doing.

That's the way—the only way—to win.

HOW BALLOTS ARE SECURED.

In all cases where vote certificates are issued, subscriptions must be paid in advance. The full amount of money must be sent direct by mail, paid to the contestant, or brought to this office.

Australia Serves Notice on the Business World That Beef Barons Cannot Operate There

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 27.—The commonwealth of Australia served notice on the business world to-day that it would not harbor foreign trusts. The following memorandum on the subject was given to the press by Sir R. W. Best, Minister of Trade and Customs.

"For several months past it has been an open secret that representatives of the American meat trust have been visiting Australia ostensibly with the object of extending its operations here. The government is determined to take immediate and drastic action to discourage, and if necessary, to prohibit its operations in Australia. It is not proposed to wait until the combine secures vested interests in this country.

"The Minister of Trade and Customs is consulting with the Attorney-General with the view to bring the full force of the present law into operation and if necessary obtaining further legislation.

"The action of the governmenth will extend to trust operations in Australia, whether conducted directly or indirectly, and will not permit the repetition in Australia of the scandals and merciless methods characterizing monopolies in other parts of the world."

POPE'S SISTERS AIDED RECOVERY

ROME, Feb. 26.—The Pope recovered from his recent attack of influenza in a comparatively short time, mainly owing to the nursing of his own sisters It is now known that, although the Pontiff's first symptons were unmistakably those of influenza, apprehension existed that they were associated with bronchial pneumonia. His temperature rose to 104 degrees and the inflamation was inclined to attack the lungs. Dr. Petacci, the Papal physician, insisted that the Pope remain in bed and take warm nourishment at intervals. It was only the influence of the sisters of the Holy Father that succeeded in overcoming his great distaste for food. They coaxed him to take sufficient nourishment. When his temperature was normal for three days he was allowed to sit up. Dr Petacci still insisted that he take plenty of nourishing food, as a change which would be the best treatment was of course impossible.

CURRENT COMMENTS.

THE MANUFACTURERS AND BUSINESS MEN OF CANADA ARE OPPOSED TO THE PACT.

The Toronto Telegram depicts reciprocity as a locust eating a maple leaf upon which it has alighted—a by no means inapt portraiture of the situation as it will be should Parliament pass the pact.

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

The meeting of the Board of Trade to-night ought to be most interesting as no doubt the live topic of reciprocity will be discussed and reports will be made by the delegates to the Associated Ontario Boards of Trade who did such good work in Toronto last week. A publicity campaign for the city will also be considered.

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

Who after this will venture the opinion that the Canadian Navy is useless? A telegram of Feb. 22nd says: "The Department of Naval Affairs, Ottawa has received a message to the effect that the new Canadian cruiser, Rainbow, while rounding Cape Scott, had caught the steamer Edric, of Seattle fishing within the three-mile limit and was proceeding to Esquimault with the Edric in tow."

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

The Peace Conference does not seem to have had much effect upon our neighbors across the line. A telegram from Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 22nd says: "During the debate in the Legislature to-day on the question of organization of a local defence force, one of the chief military officers intimated the probability that the Jamaican garrison would be considerably strengthened by Imperial troops in event of the Panama Canal being fortified."

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

The fabled wealth of Meyers' cave is again for the hundredth or more time exciting the cupidity of treasure hunters and the admiration of wonder lovers. And all on the most indefinite possible prediction of a female soothsayer. The cave in question is well known, but so far as can be learned the only silver it ever contained was silver-lead, which was mined a few miles from it, conveyed to the cove smelted there, the silver separated from the lead and coined into money The counterfeiters were caught, having been detected by the escape of smoke from their furnace and served a term in the seclusion which a prison grants.

LET THE PEOPLE PRONOUNCE ON THE PACT.

"Our policy has already driven American manufacturers across the Canadian border and has built large plants with American capital on Canadian soil, employing Canadian workmen to supply the trade. That capital should be kept at home to employ labor to supply the Canadian demand. We should admit Canadian wood pulp and paper free in return for Canada admitting our agricultural implements engines, pumps and other machinery free. We should admit Canadian lumber to American planing mills in return for Canada admitting other American manufactured goods to Canadian markets. This would mean millions of dollars of profit every year to Indiana's factories. Reciprocity would mean vast increases in Canada's purchases from us."—Senator Beveridge of Indiana.

BELLEVILLE'S ANNEXATION BILL BEATEN IN COMMITTEE

Grand Trunk and Township of Thurlow Won Against the City's Annexation Proposal—The Vote Was 8 to 1 Against the Bill—Arguments Advanced by Both Sides—Mr. Biggar Parried Questions as to Return of Bonus—Mr. Johnson Strongly Supported the Bill

PARLIAMENT BLDGS., TORONTO Feb. 28.—The township of Thurlow and the Grand Trunk railway won out against the City of Belleville in the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature this morning, and by a vote of probably 8 to 1 the Belleville bill to annex that part of Thurlow township in which the Grand Trunk roundhouse and shops are located was defeated

The Grand Trunk, through Mr. Biggar, opposed it, declaring it was a small piece of business.

Reeve Vermilyea, of Thurlow, said it was a case not of expansion but of absorption on Belleville's part, and finally won over the committee, by producing the company's agreement not to attach the land to the city.

At the start City Solicitor Mikel had had the committe with him by arguing that the company had violated the old agreement to refund $25,000 if they removed their roundhouse and shops.

Mr. Lennox, M. P., North York, suggested that the committee compel the Grand Trunk to refund the bonus if they remained out.

Mr. Mikel replied that the city would be quite willing to give up annexation if this was done.

Hon. Mr. Lucas asked Mr. Biggar if the company was not liable for the re-payment of the bonus, and Mr. Nickle, of Kingston, also pressed him but he parried by saying he had not looked into that point, and anyway this did not concern the committee If the company was liable the city could enter suit.

Mr. Hearst, Sault Ste. Marie,—"But you agreed to repay if you removed your works."

Mr. Biggar—"We would rather pay it and stay out."

Solicitor Masson at this point came to the company's rescue when the tide seemed against them and asked that the city should not be allowed to collect debts in this roundabout way "It is like robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Mr. Johnson, West Hastings, strongly supported the bill, but Mr. Clarke West Northumberland, declared that the rights of the municipality must be protected from forcible absorption Let Belleville sue the Grand Trunk to get its money.

"It is not the railway, it is the county we must think of," said Chairman Lucas, before calling for votes.

PAARDEBURG DAY AT THE ARMOURIES

Daughters of the Empire Celebrated the Anniversary By a Patriotic Musicale

Under the auspices of the Argyle Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, a patriotic musicale was held in the lecture room of the Armories last evening to commemorate Paardeburg Day. There was a good attendance, and a varied and interesting program was presented. Col. Stewart, commander of the 15th Regiment, presided on behalf of Mrs. Col. Ponton, who is Regent of the local Chapter. In his opening remarks the chairman, after speaking generally upon the occasion of the gathering and Paardeburg Day he read extracts of letters form the late General Buchan, who was second in command at that notable day's engagement. Col. Ponton followed, giving reminiscences of the Canadian militia during the North-west trouble and also in South Africa. Solos of a patriotic nature ware most acceptably rendered by Mrs. A. P. Allen, Miss Anna Ponton, Capt. J. V. Doyle, and Mr. S. R. Burrows. Instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. Col. Campbell, Mrs. Dr. MacColl and Bandmaster Robinson.

At the conclusion of the programme an impromptu dance was held which was thoroughly enjoyed by all who participated. Excellent music was furnished by the Regimental orchestra During the evening light refreshments were served.

"THE ENGLISH, IRISH AND THE SCOTCH"

Rev C. O. Johnson at the Tabernacle--Fine and Successful Entertainment

Shortly after eight o'clock Rev. Dr. Carman took the chair last night at the Tabernacle, and in his expeditious manner proceeded with the programme, after he had offered prayer, which he claimed should preface every church social gathering.

The order of the programme was: Solos, Miss May Terwilligar, (organ) Miss Lavoi, Miss Stork and Mr. Jas. S. Dyer. These vocal solos were sung in a finished style and Miss Lavoie's organ selection was much appreciated.

The chairman, on rising, said: "The time has come for the chair to show its good sense by being brief," and he was brief. In a few words he referred to his joy in being with the Tabernacle people again, the beauty of the building in its present state, the evidence of prosperity, and the co-operation and fellowship shown by the churches in closing their services on Sunday that they might be present.

In introducing the lecturer, Dr. Carman said Rev. C. O. Johnson had made a name for himself in Toronto. The subject of the lecture was "The English, Irish and Scotch."

Mr. Johnson said, in part:—One characteristic is "will power," which is the ability to gather up all the powers of our being and utilize them until we have accomplished our task. Another, judgment, the ability to see to-day what to-morrow will demand. A characteristic of the Irish is vivacity, the danger shallowness. He is great in sympathy. If there is but one to drop a tear with the suffering, it will be an Irishman. He is conscientious, but not self conscious; he acts instantaneously and always extends a helping hand. If he stopped to take in all things he would be as slow as others. Punning belongs to the Americans, who must laugh or go to the asylum. An Englishman is never thoroughly awake until he is struck; then he strikes until things are done to his liking. The lecturer gave utterance to many interesting and witty sayings and a few Irish bulls. He thought the Irish could never be set aside, outclassed or overlooked. The characteristic of the Scotch is cunning, the danger narrowness. When religious, he is religious through and through. He carries things to finalities. He is not witty, but he is humorous. He loves liberty and will fight for it. He likes big dinners and big cathedrals. By uniting the three, the English, Irish and Scotch, you have sympathy, carefulness, love of liberty and law abiding, which make a great people. The mingling of these bloods make Canadians a sturdy and noble people.

Mr. D. Cameron sang, to the delight of all, and he and Miss Stork sang a duet that brought forth loud applause.

Mr. Allan Chown, who is supplying in Miss Elliott's place, presided at the organ to the satisfaction of all.

Rev. Mr. Kenny, the pastor, was then called upon to say what he might desire. In his few brief remarks he referred to the satisfaction they all felt in carrying the work of remodeling and beautifying to such a successful completion, and the services connected therewith were all that could be desired. He said the financial success was quite up to expectations and entirely satisfactory to the officials of the church. He thanked, without formal votes of thanks, all who had assisted and those present for making the success that had been achieved.

The enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem, and many were the complimentary remarks made as the audience passed out.

THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY.

Owing to the development in that part of Western Canada west of Edmonton and the business impetus that is now going on in that territory and in order to adequately take care of the trek into the Peace River Country where 15,000 new homesteads will be offered for free entry by the Dominion Government this year, a daily except Sunday passenger train is now operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Edson, Alta.

From the latter point the new government wagon road enables settlers with their effects to travel with ease and comparative comfort in about one week's time to the Grande Prairie as against the much longer and more expensive routes through gateways east of Edson, which occupy from a month and a half to two months.

The new train will leave Edmonton daily except Sunday at 6.30 a.m., arrive Edson (133 miles) at 1.00 p.m., returning leave Edson at 3.30 p.m., daily except Sunday, arrive Edmonton at 10.05 p.m.

AS TO EGGS.

The sale of eggs in the United States is one of the means, Mr. Fielding says, which will enrich Canadian farmers. How do they relish the following quotations:—

> New York, Feb. 23.—The price of eggs in New York is the lowest February quotation in 41 years. Owing to unprecedented receipts from the west, market men are quoting fresh eggs as low as 20 cents a dozen, and the prospect, according to authorities in the trade, is for a fall of prices to 16 cents a dozen before March 1.
> The low prices, it is said, are due chiefly to the mild weather, and to a great increase in the number of henneries in the Western States.

> On the country produce market in Toronto new laid eggs are quoted at 23c. to 24c. a dozen; ordinary cold storage stock at 15c. to 17c., and No. 2 cold storage eggs, 12c. to 12 1-2c. On the retail market new laids are quoted at 30c. to 33c. a dozen.

A CASE IN POINT

A telegram from Winnipeg on the 26th says:—

> Donald A. Ross, Liberal M.P.P. for Springfield, and a member of the Winnipeg School Board, has been found guilty by the Royal Commissioners investigating alleged school board graft of improperly profiting by the sale of a school building site to the board.

Is it not the duty of the City Councillors of Belleville to follow the example set them by the municipal authorities of Winnipeg? If such were done, would not the result be the same in re sale of tax lots by ex-Mayor Marsh and Treasurer Price?

RECIPROCITY

Within the past few days has been condemned:—

At a mass meeting of Hamilton citizens.

By the Prime Ministers of Ontario and Manitoba.

By the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade.

By 18 prominent Liberals of Toronto.

By the Toronto and Montreal Boards of Trade in the East.

By the Winnipeg Board of Trade in the West.

By the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association, who appeal to the Senate.

By the Legislature of British Columbia.

By the Legislature of Manitoba.

By the Manufacturers' Association.

By business, political and patriotic organizations throughout the country too numerous to mention.

By W. K. George, one of the prominent Liberals who signed the protest against reciprocity and took part in the Board of Trade meeting, when an adverse resolution was passed by a large majority, and who has resigned the presidency of the Toronto Reform Association. This is the course which every man who values his country more than party should take.

As one of the many Liberals of the country who have taken a decided stand against the Government on the great international question, Mr. T. A. Russell, chairman of the Tariff Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, spoke his mind freely on Friday night in opposition to reciprocity with the United States, before the Laurier Club. As he himself put it, he was one of the many Liberals in Canada who were greatly worried over the consequences of reciprocal trade relations with the country to the south.

One hundred business men of Walkerville, Windsor and Sandwich rose and cheered, long and loudly, on Friday night last, when Hon. Justice R. F. Sutherland, formerly a Liberal M.P. and Speaker of the House of Commons, and now on the Ontario court bench, declared that Canada would always be a part of the British Empire.

The occasion was the first annual banquet of the Walkerville Board of Trade. Mr. Sutherland, to the disappointment of many, was unable, owing to his official position, to discuss in a direct way reciprocity, the burning issue among the banqueters. But he did, although indirectly, take a slap at the question of annexation growing out of reciprocity. He pointed out strongly Canada's duty to the motherland, what has been done in the past by England and what is being done in the present. And each point was enthusiastically applauded.

"Canadians should cultivate a spirit of loyalty to the Empire," he declared. "This great land has been given to us entirely by England. England has given us the benefit of her military strength; the benefit of her great constitution; her language, the spirit of the race itself.

"And now Englishmen should be given the preference in our country. There are millions of acres of land in the west that they should take Not that we have anything against the admirable immigrants from the south of us, but that is one way of repaying our debt to the mother country.

"Every effort should be made to build up our great transportation lines east and west. Millions have been spent on them in the past; millions should be spent in the future.

"And Canada should begin to shoulder the burden of national defence. We are becoming more and more a young nationality and we must maintain our position."

At a banquet held in Cooksville, in the County of Peel, on the 24th of February, at which some 300 farmers were present, a resolution condemning the proposed reciprocity agreement as inimical to the interests of the farmer was adopted by a standing vote. What has the Globe to say to this?

In view of these facts, it is amazing to read the following statement which appeared in the editorial columns of the Globe on the 27th inst.:

> It becomes more evident every day that the opponents of reciprocity in natural products find no ground for opposition within the four corners of the agreement. They have given up the fight, so far as the present proposals are concerned, and no longer seek to justify the earlier plea that the agreement is disadvantageous to Canada.

What is the matter with our contemporary? Has it "gane gyte"?

BOARD OF TRADE TO DISCUSS MANY MATTERS

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Mr. Editor: There are many matters coming up in the regular meeting of the Board of Trade this evening that might interest the citizens generally. Amongst them will be the reduction and re-arrangement of our representatives in the City Council. It has become recognized among our citizens that the system of municipal government fo our city is not productive of the best economical or progressive results and the Board of Trade feel if they can bring about a better system of municipal government than what we have been having for years, will do much in making a brighter and better Belleville. Everybody is welcome.

Sincerely yours,
W. B. DEACON.
President.

CEZARE GUYNATT WAS A GRAND CANADIAN CITIZEN

He Lived to the Age of 111 Years—Served His Country in the Rebellion of 1837-8—Was the Youngest of a Family of 16—Lived Under Six Monarchs—Was a Man of Irreproachable Character

Well-authenticated records make it abundantly clear that Cezare Guyatt—so long a well-known and highly respected resident of the west riding of the County of Northumberland, Ontario—lived longer than any other native-born Canadian since the discovery and settlement of what is now British-Canadian territory. Born in the Province of Quebec, in a parish forty miles north of Montreal, the oldest of a French-Canadian family of sixteen children, his boyhood days were spent upon his father's farm. To his sturdy parents much credit, no doubt, is due for the inheritance of a constitution capable of far outlasting the ordinary human span of life. His great age—one hundred and eleven years—puts even the Biblical span of life—threescore years and ten, or it may be fourscore—entirely out of comparison, and, indeed, unless Biblical records are to be taken literally, it may well be suggested that Cezare Guyatt may rival Methuselah. However that may be, when, as a lad, he was playing about his father's farm and minding some of his numerous brothers and sisters the mighty Nelson was only beginning the achievements which have made his name immortal. And doubtless this open-air life of his boyhood days was also a contributing factor to his length of years.

While he was yet a sturdy lad, "Trafalgar had not been fought nor Waterloo won." At the early age of twelve years, the family having moved from the outlying parish to the city of Montreal, Cezare Guyatt set out to work for himself, and after three years at one thing and another finally applied himself to the coopering business, and followed this avocation during a good many years. He was a loyal subject of the British Empire during the strenuous times of the Mackenzie-Papineau troubles, in what was then Upper and Lower Canada. He enlisted at Prescott and served for eight months. For this he got no pay, but an honorable discharge, and the records preserved in the Government department at Toronto will show that he was one of the veterans of '37 whose belated claim for recognition came too late.

After the war of '37 he spent some time in Ogdensburg, N. Y., but never abandoned his allegiance to Britain, and returned to Canada, resuming his coopering business north of Toronto at a point fifteen miles out on Yonge street. After disposing of business there he came to Northumberland County and continued the coopering business at Perry's Mills. He never abandoned his taste for farming, due to his youthful associations, and he removed from Perry's Mills to Cold Springs, settling on a small farm, where he remained for some years. Later he returned to Cobourg, and finally took up his residence at the village of Bewdley, on the shores of Rice Lake, spending the remainder of his days there with his son, visiting from time to time his eight grandchildren and nineteen great-grandchildren, who greatly mourn his demise, because to the end he was a cheerful and winning old man. Of irreproachable conduct throughout life, of good manners and habits, he died as he had lived, leaving no enemies and a host of warm friends. Just a few years ago he sold a small property in Cobourg that he had bought over fifty years ago.

That his age is established is beyond doubt, when it is known that the youngest of the family, a mrother now in his ninetieth year, lives in the city of Toronto, where his wife, now 93 years of age, still keeps house for him. As Cezare Guyatt was the eldest of 16 children of whom his brother living in Toronto was the youngest, it will be readily seen that the records which show Cezare Guyatt to have been 111 years and 9 months old at his death are not overstating his age.

To have been the subject of six sovereigns of Great Britain is certainly noteworthy. He bore allegiance to George III., George IV., William IV., Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, of revered memory; His late Majesty King Edward VII., and our present King George V., and was a loyal subject of them all. He died on Christmas Day.

CHAMPION HOPPE HAS BEEN EXPELLED

PARIS, Feb. 27.—The police have notified Willie Hoppe, of New York, the world's billiard champion at 18.1 and 18.2 balk line, that an order of expulsion is out against him, and have given him until Tuesday to quit the country.

The order was issued by Premier Clemenceau in 1907, but Hoppe left France before it could be served upon him. He returned to France recently.

Willie Hoppe, accompanied by his bride, sailed from New York on Feb. 11th for Paris, where he had accepted an offer of the Olympia Academy to give exhibitions against the leading French billiard experts, including Cassigoule and Adorjan, for three months. It was said he was to receive $1,000 a month during his engagement.

Hoppe is not the first American billiardist to be sent out of France by the authorities. In April, 1907, the same years that Clemenceau issued his order of expulsion against Hoppe, George Sutton was expelled for an alleged breach of the law for the prevention of gambling. Sutton had been playing at a well-known establishment on the boulevards wher it was said public betting was done on the game.

CORBETT SPEAKS HIS PIECE.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27. — James J. Corbett, former champion pugilist, arrived here last night and John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain followed him today. While all are engaged in theatricals, Corbett said a few things about the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

"If Jeffries had taken my advice," he said, "he probably would not have been defeated by Johnson at Reno last July. After Johnson had won from some second raters and Tommy Burns, a much smaller man, in Australia, Burns, by the way, giving him such a punching during their 14 rounds that Johnson was compelled to go to a hospital, I wondered whether he was such a formidable man as some people were inclined to believe he was.

"So I wrote a personal letter to Jeffries and asked him to let me fight Johnson first. My idea was to meet Johnson in the ring and in that fight Jeffries could get a line on him. Jeffries of course, would be at the ringside and would be in a position to judge his merits. Then Jeffries could have deferred meeting Johnson until he was in fit physical trim, probably not getting into the ring for another year.

"Jeffries did not like the idea of my meeting him first, as the press and the general public were clamoring for the fight."

FINISH FIGHTS IN MEXICO.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 27.—Louis Blot, the San Francisco promoter, announces that he has secured permission to hold boxing bouts on Mexican soil. Tia Juana, the little border town, is the site selected by Blot to hold finish contests and his plans are to give but three or four battles a year, confining himself to championship events only.

"I hadn't intended to go before the public for a few weeks yet but I guess there is no harm now in admitting the facts," said Blot yesterday. "I had a Wolgast-Moran contest in mind when I went to Mexico but since landing the permit I have been figuring on both a Johnson-Kaufman and a Johnson-Langford match.

COULON IS BANTAM CHAMPION.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 27.—Johnny Coulon's title to the bantam-weight championship of the world was firmly established yesterday when he won a clear decision over Frankie Conley, claimant, at the end of a 20-round bout at the West Side Athletic Club. Conley was outclassed, and in only two rounds did he have a shade the better of the contest.

The men weighed in at 116 pounds, three and a half hours before the fight. Six hundred persons witnessed the contest. Tommy Walsh of New Orleans was the referee.

The men were in frequent clinches. Here Coulon was superior and his short body blows told on the Kenosha kid. Conley's right and left swings went wild, except in a few instances. In the 15th round Conley sprained his left wrist, and after that the Chicago boy had little trouble in landing telling blows on Conley's face and body.

HOW TO TELL BRONCHITIS

Always Recognized By Dry Hacking Cough and Rough Breathing.

Any doctor will tell you that only by a remedy carried by air direct to the affected parts can bronchitis be cured. The very reason why Catarrhozone cures is because it contains a healing medicine lighter than air, which is breathed through the bronchial tubes and lungs, carrying soothing balsams and essences as it goes. No wonder after 20 years of awful suffering, Capt. James Dunlop, of Kingston, commander of the R. & O. str. "Bohemian" was cured thoroughly by Catarrhozone. "I suffered twenty years, and although I took treatment all that time permanent relief was not obtained till I used Catarrhozone, which is the best known cure for bronchitis on the face of the globe, pleasant to use, quick to relieve, and sure to cure." A truly wonderful treatment for Catarrh, Asthma, Throat Trouble and Bronchitis is Catarrhozone—thousands it has cured say so.

LEHIGH HOCKEY TEAM WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

The final hockey match between teams representing the city league was played last night and as a result the Lehigh Athletic club wins the championship for this season, and with it the handsome silver trophy. The opposing team was one representing the 15th Regiment. Although it was the championship game the attendance was meagre. In the first half of the game a good exhibition of hockey was given, the score at the conclusion of that period being 1 to 1. In the second half the Lehigh team secured 5 goals and the red coat boys were only able to locate the net once. The final result was 6 to 2, in favor of the L. A. C. It was a clever game throughout and much enjoyed by the spectators who were present.

Mr. Wm. Allen was referee, and "Billy" was certainly on the job, performing his duty in an impartial manner. The line up of the teams was as follows:

15th Regt.		L. A. C.

Duesberry,		McCrodan
	—Point.—

	Cover.—

SPORTS IN GENERAL.

An interesting announcement has been made to the effect that Miss Dorothy Campbell, the British lady ex-golf champion, will compete in this year's championship at Portrush, England, next May. Miss Campbell won the championship at Birkdale in 1909, and soon after that meeting she went to Canada. She has twice won the championship of the United States. It is probable that Miss Campbell will be accompanied to England by several leading lady golfers.

Hans Holmer, who recently won the Powderhall Marathon race in Edinburgh, Scotland, will return to England in April to race against Louis Boucard, who led in the race until the nineteenth mile. Helmer has also accepted a challenge from A. E. Wood, the 10-mile champion, to run him a race at that distance.

The motorboat race from Venice to Rome will be one of the events of the summer season abroad. The prize list will be $30,000 and to encourage small boats the restriction regarding eight miles an hour has been revoked, boats being allowed 24 hours to complete each day's journey. The longest stage is 135 nautical miles. The small launches, canoes, rowboats and other little craft will start from Turin on July 2 and run to Venice by way of Pavia. The big cruisers and seagoing motor yachts will go from Venice to Rome from July 10 to 20. All the boats will gather at Anzio on July 19 and on the following day run up the Tiber to Rome.

The Winnipeg senior four-oared shell crew which last July won the Stewards' Cup at the English Henley regatta, may defend the trophy this year.

It was Fred Bryant, not Frank Bryant, who took part in a boxing contest on Saturday night.

BELLEVILLE WON.

The Ontario Athletic Club Hockey Team went to Trenton last night and defeated their coming Junior O. H. A. Hockey Team by the score of 7-2. The game was inclined to be a little rough in places but on the whole was a very good game. The half-time score was 3-2 in the Ontario's favor and in the last half the Belleville Boys simply ran away from the the Trenton team. The Ontarios in the last half played great combination and this is what won them the game. For the Ontarios every man played a good game, Wardrope in goal did not have many shots but handled well what he did get.

Ontario's line-up: Wardrope, Marshall, Tuite, Moore, Wallace, Thompson.

CURLING.

At the rink last evening a club match took place between rinks skipped by Messrs. A. McGie and B. Iler. The former won by five shots. The players and score were as follows:

Dr. Day,	J. O. R. McCurdy,
A. R. Schryver	R. Rice.
T. E. Ketcheson,	F. Mitchell,
A. McGie, —Skip, 11.	B. Iler, —Skip, 6.

This evening three rinks representing the local club will meet Campbellford to play a friendly match with three rinks of that town.

ATHLETICS.

The Canadian athletes at Buffalo on Saturday night were keen contenders in their races, though only two of them were successful in landing prizes. The feature of the games was the 1½ mile reace, with Bonhag, Tait, and Knox on scratch. In this event Bonhag ran in superb form, and won easily, breaking the world's indoor record for the distance. The time for the ½ was 2.10 3-5, 1mile 4.20 1-5, 1½ miles 6.47.

BASE BALL.

Dick Rudolph pitched three innings for the New York National recruits at Dallas, Tex., Saturday against the Dallas team, and did not allow a hit.

MR. AND MRS. BURKITT AGREEABLY SURPRISED

On Tuesday evening, February 21st the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Burkitt was invaded by over one hundred and fifty of their friends and neighbors to spend an evening with them and their family before they took their departure for their new home near Frankford.

During the evening the company was called to order by Mr. Robert Vance, who after a few remarks called upon the Rev. A. S. Dickson to read an address, accompanied by a chair and hall rack.

In response to the address and presentation Mr. Burkitt thanked the people for their kindness in a few well-chosen words. A short speech by Mr James McComb followed. Mr. McComb has been a near neighbor of Mr Burkitt for the past twenty years and in his remarks spoke very graciously of the mutual good feeling that has always existed as well as the deep sorrow he feels in losing such good neighbors as Mr. Burkitt and his wife have proven themselves to be.

After the speech-making had ended the company joined heartily in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," followed by three rousing British cheers for Mr. Burkitt. Refreshments were then served and the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in social intercourse.

HOME WEDDING AT CONSECON

A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. Elon Parliment of Consecon when his daughter, Miss Alma Arthella Phillips was united in marriage to Mr. Bruce Irvine of Murray, Ont. The bride, in a gown of cream panama and silk, trimmed with satin ribbon and carrying a bouquet of white and pink carnations, looked charming as she entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father and attended by Miss Bertha Seeley of Wallbridge, who looked lovely in a green bread cloth skirt and silk waist. The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreen and flowers. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Earl Parliment.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Nichol of Consecon in the presence of about twenty guests, after the usual congratulations all proceeded to the dining room where ample justice was done to a bountiful wedding supper, the tables were tastefully decorated with myrtle, ivy and primroses. The rest of the evening was spent in games, music and songs and other pleasant amusements until an early hour. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful pin and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The esteem in which the bride and groom are held was shown by the beautiful gifts of glassware, china and silverware. Among the guests were Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Nallis of Murray, Ont., mother and sister of the groom; Mr. S. Seeley of Walbridge; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Catheral; Mr. and Mrs. Harford Seeley of Roblin's Mills, Mrs. G. W. Seeley of Semans, Sask. and Mrs. Albert Seeley of Stirling. Best wishes for the future happiness and prosperity attend the newly wedded couple.

LONDON PREPARES FOR FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Two interesting announcements were made yesterday regarding that great "all-red" object lesson, the $25,000.00 festival of empire, which will open under government patronage at the Crystal Palace in May.

The first announcement was that both the king and queen have intimated their intention to attend at least one of the concerts which are being organized by the Earl of Shaftsbury in connection with the festival.

Lord Shaftsbury is arrangng for the engagemnet of the services of choral societies drawn from every county in the kingdom, as well as from each of the self-governing colonies. It is proposed to include in the programme the folk-songs of the various counties and countries represented.

The second announcement, which was made by Frank Lascelles, the master of the pageant, before a number of guests who were entertained at luncheon at the Crystal Palace yesterday, was that the king will select a number of objects from his Indian collection for exhibition at the festival.

Mr. Lascelles stated that one of the last acts of King Edward was to choose many articles from his Indian treasures to be placed on view at the festival, which, it will be recalled was originally arranged for last year but was postponed following the king's death.

An army of more than 3000 men is now working with feverish energy to complete the exhibition in time for the opening in May.

Guests who visited the grounds yesterday were able to obtain an excellent idea of an exhibition in the making. Already there are striking indications of the miracle of splendor and loveliness which will spring up in the palace grounds between now and then

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 81, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman

London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it.—Mrs. WM. A. BUFFY, 905 Dame St., London, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has surely cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

WOULD BUILD A DENTAL INFIRMARY

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—A dental infirmary for the poor children of Boston and vicinity is to be erected here this coming spring as a memorial to the late James Bennett Forsyth and George Henry Forsyth, by their brothers, John Hamilton and Thomas Alexander Forsyth.

This institution will be devoted to the care of children's teeth, and will offer an opportunity to all deserving children under the age of 16 to obtain free of charge, expert advice and treatment, and there is no doubt its influence will be widespread.

It will cost the donors something like $2,000,000, but it will be of inestimable benefit to future generations and a lasting memorial to the Forsyth brothers.

Apart from the actual work on the mouths, the institution is expected to furnish valuable practical teaching in oral hygiene. Just as the sanitoria for the cure of tubercolosis have served as centres for the dissemination of wisdom concerning personal hygiene by the example and teaching of their patients, so it is expected that this institution will promote public education in not only oral, but also general hygiene.

The institution, say the founders, is not to be looked upon as a charity. The world recognizes the right of children to development mentally at the public expense. The question of their equal right to physical development is now receiving some attention.

The acute dental needs of the children have never been fully recognized outside of the profession, their importance has never been acknowledged. It is hoped that this institution will have an influence in making for a better looking, more perfectly developed human race.

Dental service will be supplied by a consulting staff made up of dentists who volunteer their services, and a permanent staff of graduates, selected for their ability, who will devote all of their time to the work. Post graduate courses will be offered. Students of duly authorized dental schools under the immediate supervision of competent instructors will be permitted to assist in the work.

Provisions are made for the placing of 104 chairs and the equipment of the institution will be the best that careful study and the unlimited use of money can secure. Upwards of 100,000 children will probably be treated free of charge.

The father of the donors of the Forsyth dental infirmary was William Forsyth, son of Capt. John Forsyth, of the English army. Wm. Forsyth was born in Ayshire, Scotland, Nov. 7th 1807, and died in Roxbury, Dec. 12 1876.

The Liver At the Bottom.

Defective liver action is the cause of a great many diseases. It is the liver which abstracts the bile. It is the bile which enters into the chemical composition of the digestive ferments, and also acts as a cathartic. Merrill's System Tonic makes a strong, healthy, active liver, hence is a positive and permanent cure for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Jaundice Congestion of the Liver and their consequent nervous symptoms. Woman and the Ballot.

"Women will be the great reformers of life just as long as they keep out of politics. The ballot, though, will rob them of all their power in the world."

The author of this remark is Mrs Wilson Woodrow, short story writer of note, and one of the deepest thinkers among women in the country.

"I can't understand," says Mrs Woodrow, "how any woman can want to vote. To me it is out of her province. What is to be gained by it? Women hold so much more power now than the men do in so many ways that I sometimes think it semi-intoxication through the realization of their power that has turned their heads and put this foolish voting business in their minds. Through real ability and intelligence they have arrived at a wonderful state of independence and influence, and now they want to spoil it all by voting.

No one needs voting power to accomplish a good if she be honest of purpose. Women think if they get the vote the road will be clear and smooth but instead of that trouble will begin.

"Why is is there is so much ridicule of the men reformers? What is the popular idea of a man who tries, for the good of his community or country to pass a reform bill? It is one of graft.

"You can rarely convince a person that this man is disinterested as far as money is concerned in his measure. That is what is going to happen to women the moment they get the vote and try to introduce reforms or work for the public good."

Prune Dessert.

When there are stewed prunes at hand a dessert which will give no hint of its humble origin is available in a few moments. Add a few drops of orange extract to the juice, unless flavor has been put in while cooking stone chop the fruit fine, add a dash of sherry, (the amount to be regulated by the quantity of the fruit, guided by the taste). To every cup of the prune pulp put two well-beaten whites of eggs. Set away in the ice chest to chill thoroughly and serve in tall glasses surmounted with whipped cream. It must be very cold or the flavor is lost.

Relieving Burns.

A free application of soft soap to a fresh burn almost immediately removes the fire from the flesh. If the injury is severe, as soon as the pain ceases apply linseed oli and then dust over with fine flour. When this covering dries hard repeat the oil and flour dressing until a good coating is obtained. When the latter dries allow it to stand until it cracks and falls off as it will in a day or two, and a new skin will be found to have formed where the skin was burned.

Boned Turkey.

A turkey, weighing eight or nine pounds, three pounds of pork sausage three hard-cooked eggs, one pound of ham, salt, pepper and nutmeg, and same sauce. Cut the skin from the neck to the tail, down the backbone. Work the skin and flesh gradually away from the bones until the thigh bones and wings are reached. Remove the bones from them, scraping back the flesh. Turn them inside out and remove as many sinews as possible. Gash the meat across several times to prevent it contracting. Finish working the meat from the bones until the breast is quite clear. Try not to cut the skin. Spread the boneless mass out breast downwards. Skin the sausage and season the meat well with salt, pepper, and nutmeg. Spread half of it over the turkey. Shell and cut each egg in eight parts and the ham in long strips. Arrange these alternately down the layer of sausage; spread over the rest of the sausage meat. Roll up the turkey from side to side like a roly-poly, then roll and tie it in a pudding cloth.

Simmer it gently in the stock pot for two hours. Then re-roll it tightly in the cloth, and press it slightly between two flat tins until cold. Trim the ends, pour the sauce over it evenly and decorate it with any pretty design with truffles, chillies or chervil. If liked chicken may be treated the same way.

For the sauce: Two ounces of butter, one ounce of flour, one pint of chicken or whit stock, one gill of milk, two gills of cream, two gills of aspic jelly, one level tablespoonfu of powdered gelatine, four teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, salt and pepper. Melt the butter and stir in the flour smoothly cooking it over a slow fire for five minutes. Add the milk and the stock, stir until it boils, and then let it simmer gently for five minutes. Then add the lemon juice and the seasoning. When it has slightly cooled, add the aspic in which you have first dissolved the gelatine. Re-heat the sauce, rub it through a sieve, and when it has cooled slightly, pour it over the turkey.

Cheese Sticks.

To serve with the cheese course. Use rounded or hollow white celery stalks full length. Scrape well and keep in ice water until ready to serve. Make a paste of Roquefort cheese, Worcestershire sauce, butter, salt and cayenne. Fill the stalks crisp on ice and serve. Other cheese may be used.

Feather Cake.

Cream one cup of sugar and one cup of butter, add one cup of milk, four cups of flour sifted with four level teaspoons of baking powder and the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Flavor with vanilla.

"Now that sweaters have become a staple article of dress and are custom made," says Helen Marvin in Woman's Home Companion, "big improvements have developed in their cut (if one may so speak of garments built up of stitches) and consequently they have a grace and shapeliness unknown to sweaters of former seasons.

"In the new sweaters any stretching of the shoulder seam is avoided by a length of strong tape, one end of which is sewed to the armhole, the other end to the edge of the neck. This tape simply forces the shoulder to keep its shape.

"Seams no longer are overhanded together with the yarn of which the sweater is made, but are closely stitched with cotton or silk which will never stretch. An excellent idea is to bind the seams with an extra strong cotton tape that is machine-stitched inh place."

The London Times, describing the breaking of spring on the Canadian prairies, says: Meantime the prairie sends up the first of the succession of flowers with which it is carpeted the whole of the summer. Sheets of brilliant blue crocus appear as if by magic patterned with great patches of yellow plants with silver leaves that in the distance look like cowslips. Dog violets, vivid anemones and small pink cyclamen follow, and in their turn are followed by and endless pageant of Gaillardias vetches and peas, tiger lilies, evening primroses of every color, wolf willows which smell like peach-bloom and carnations and countless others. They are not all joy and beauty to the farmer, for they like his wheat fields as well as the unbroken prairie, and at any moment the government weed inspector may appear and, surveying perhaps a hundred acres of wheat just approaching maturity, say "Waal, Mr. So-and-So, that's a pretty considerable lovely flower garden over there but what this dee-strict wants is wheat and I'll advise you to plow under these Dianthus multiflora as soon as convenient. You can keep the second lot on the north—it's none so bad—but the rest must go.

In the place of ruffles and frills we now see flat trimmings.

Allover nets, embroidered in crystal bugles or beads, in pearl, jet or steel, are used for entire evening bodices, sleeves etc., and beautiful new examples of such nets are being introduced in the shops, says the Philadelphia Times.

Some of these have embroidery in tiny designs at intervals, and corresponding embroideries are shown on chiffons and mousselines, as well as on net.

Every woman knows how annoying it is to use a new spool of glace thread on the spindle of the sewing machine. To avoid the usual tangling and breaking of the thread, use a small bag, with a wire around the top to hold it open. Suspend it from a tiny screw eye fastened under the back edge of the machine table. Drop the spool into this bag; then thread the machine as usual and you will find that the cotton will run freely without tangling or slipping—Spokane Chronicle.

Just the simplest form of buttonholed scallop is a very well liked form of decoration for all kinds of lingerie and towels, napkins and various pieces of bed and table linen.

The all-black frock for ball and dinner wear is very much in evidence, says the Philadelphia Times, but it is usually brightened with jet or rich embroideries in colors.

Cost of N.T.R.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—A return placed on the table of the Commons on Saturday, showed that up to December 31 last, a total of $89,553,740 has been spent on the National Transcontinental Railway construction. It is estimated that it will take $56,785,993 more to complete the road between Winnipeg and Moncton. The total mileage of track laid is 1,236.

SUMMER BARGAINS

She traveled a lot and she made many stops,
And picked up some things in the stores and the shops;
In London a gown made of spangles and lace,
But when she got back all her friend said: "Too dear,
You could have done very much better here."
In Paris she found things remarkably cheap,
A hat that she saw she determined to keep,
All ribbons and flowers and brilliants and braid
She had it boxed and the duty she paid.
Her friends said 'twas pretty, but made her feel queer
With: "You could have bought you a better one here."
They looked at the watch she had bought of a Swiss,
And smiled: "Here at home they are cheaper than this."
They fingered the locket she got in Berlin,
And vowed the price she had paid was a sin;
And this for the fan she had picked up in Rome;
"You could have done very much better at home."
And now she's returned from another long trip.
Bought a count that she wed, he has fuzz on his lip,
And he lisps when he sings, when he talks then he drawls.
When he walks he will stumble, when he's riding he falls.
Her friends still are candid, they tell her: "My dear,
You could have done very much better right here."

CHILDREN'S SCALP SORES ARE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK

Mothers are well aware how frequently children contract scalp sores, ringworm, etc., at school. Some little sufferer is sent to school with a sore of this nature. At play, the children change caps, and right there the infection is spread—the damage done.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 485 Amherst St., Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three year old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before, and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days, they ceased to trouble the child; and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk, they were completely healed. In view of these facts I feel it may duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam-Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc., etc., and rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations.

Conspiracy of Silence.

London, Feb. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Standard says: "The conspiracy of silence on the part of the American press cannot prevent the Canadian people from discovering what is being said and done on the other side of the frontier. Annexation sentiment may be dormant, but it has never been quite extinguished. The mere prospect of union with Canada fills ardent Republican Chauvinists with exultation which they are unable to repress. The President is naturally not anxious to frighten Canadians too soon, otherwise the agreement may be rejected. It is easy enough for Canadians to get into reciprocity, but getting out is different."

The Daily Express says that reciprocity leads to annexation. Canada seemed to have been lulled by Laurier into an utterly false sense of security. These delusions had been dissipated through Champ Clark's words.

Band Operated In Both Countries.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The report that one of the Anarchist burglars wanted in London had been arrested at Breslau grew out of an investigation of the operations of a criminal band in Breslau who used methods similar to those employed in London. The men rented a house adjoining one which they robbed, after affecting an entrance by tunnelling from one cellar to the other. They secured booty valued at $4,000. Two watches found in the possession of the men arrested in London have been identified as those stolen from a Breslau jeweler, and it is now supposed that the same band operated in both countries.

Tea Time Talks

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

"SALADA" TEA

MINISTER CHARGED WITH ARSON

MONCTON, N. B., Feb. 24.—Rev. Z. B. Grass, Reformed Baptist minister was arraigned in police court to-day charged with setting fire to his residence last Sunday. It appears from the evidence that he was left alone in his house on Sunday evening, the other members of the household going to the Central Methodist church where the accused appeared later. The fire was discovered in the attic, where kindlings, partly burned paper and a torch were found. Mr. Grass has not had any settled pastorate of late.

Before Magistrat Kay to-day, he was committed to stand trial at the next sitting of he Supreme Court in Dorchester next Tuesday. J. Sherman counsel for the accused, brought up the question of bail, as under the Act his honor stated that he could deal with the case.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The men's meeting held in the Palace theatre last Sunday was very well attended. The singing was exceptionally good and bright. Mr. W. Smith rendered a cornet solo which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mr. Root, upon being called to address the meeting was heartily applauded. The subject, "Early Life of Moses," was illustrated by stereopticon slides, and as the different scenes were shown, Mr. Root, in his usual bright style, explained them. We hope to have Mr. Root with us again.

After the meeting about twenty young men met in the Association Rooms at the monthly Strangers' Fellowship Tea, which the Ladies' Auxilary kindly furnished. After each one had introduced himself Mr. Hess gave a short address on what leaves woven into a crown would make success..

The Physical Department will hold a carnival at the rink on Friday night of this week. Beside the usual prizes for costume, a prize will be given for the most comic costume and three races will be held, only those in costume to compete. A potato race, open to all. A senior relay race, when six teams from Trenton, Albert College, Y. M. C. A., Lehigh Cement Co., and T. A. S., and others, it is expected, will compete. A Boy Scouts relay race between the A. C. L. and Y. M. C. A. scouts will also be held. It is expected a good big crowd will turn out and cheer the boys.

THE PILGRIMS' THANKSGIVING

THE pilgrims landed, worthy men,
And, saved from wreck on raging seas,
They fell upon their knees and then
Upon the aborigines.

In thankfulness they planned a feast
On all the country might afford.
(The grace consumed an hour at least,
Whence rose the phrase "The festive bored.")

And some through groves of pine and oak
Pursued the doe, and even so
All patriotic Yankee folk
Unceasingly pursue the dough.

U. S. LEGISLATURE FIGHT IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Not until Representative David J. Foster, of Vermont, had nearly strangled to death James Wickersham, a congressional delegate from Alaska, and four other members of congress had pinned Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, in his chair, while Representative Nicholas Longworth sat on Mondell's shoulders, yesterday afternoon, was the shedding of real blood, between two excited westerners an impossibility.

It was a warm affair while it lasted and it lasted nearly ten minutes, while the house was in an uproar.

It was all over the Ballinger-Pinchot trouble, which thus far has cost Gifford Pinchot a good job, has broken up the cordiality of the president and his best friend, and, in the opinion of James G. Garfield, as overturned the politics of the country.

Mr. Wickersham had read a letter from Mr. Ballinger, the secretary of the interior, on which he based the assertion that several coal land entries in Alaska had already gone to patent.

"He is a liar, that is all," declared Mr. Mondell.

"You are a liar if you say that, that is all," shouted Mr. Wickersham, and thereafter for several minutes, there were fisticuffs and cursing, and finally apologies.

The German Reichstag has passed the unearned increment tax, which, it is estimated, will add $5,000,000 to the seventh order.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

Ontario Government Outlines Its Educational Proposals.

Hon. Dr. Pyne Plans to Arrange For the Establishment of Three Kinds of Technical Schools on Similar Basis to Present High Schools—Allan Studholme Introduces Sweeping Eight-Hour Day Measure.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Monday records were broken at the Ontario Legislature yesterday, both by the length of the sitting and mass of public business cleared off the order paper. The sitting was equally notable for the important nature and popular interest of most of the measures under discussion. The Government implemented the promise made in the speech from the throne by introducing a series of proposals for the extension of industrial education, and Sir James Whitney spoke out with characteristic frankness in reference to amateur law reformers who desire the enactment of revolutionary changes in the general law as it now exists.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, presented the Government's plan for the extension of industrial training. The bill authorizes any urban school board to establish general industrial schools, special industrial and technical high schools, co-operative and industrial schools, schools for instruction in fine and applied arts, industrial and technical and evening art schools. The regulations for the schools are to be provided by the Department of Education in the same way as in the case of a high school, and, subject to those regulations, the Minister is to apportion all sums of money appropriated by the Legislature for the establishment and maintenance of such schools. The high school grant at present is apportioned according to the number of pupils, the equipment, and the qualifications of the teachers.

The classification of industrial schools follows the recommendations of Dr. Sneath. General industrial schools are those in which, to the regular course, there are added special classes calculated to prepare pupils for industrial life. Special industrial schools are those providing instructions in theoretical and practical work of particular trades carried on in the district where the school is situated. Co-operative schools are those in which an apprenticeship system is combined with the school course.

It is provided in the bill that every technical school, whether at present in operation or established hereafter, is to be under the management of a committee of twelve, six from the Board of Education, three persons not members of that board who are engaged as employes in manufacturing or other industries carried on in the district, and three employers of labor. This is to be known as the advisory industrial committee.

A. Studholme, Hamilton East, has drafted an eight-hour day and minimum wage bill. The lowest wage is placed at 20 cents an hour. The bill says: "Eight hours a day shall constitute a legal day's work for all workmen employed within the meaning of this act, and no workman shall be required or permitted to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by fire, flood, or danger to life and property.

Another clause declares that a man working more than 48 hours a week shall be deemed to be working overtime, and shall be paid at least one and a half times the rate per hour at which he is engaged.

"Notwithstanding any agreement or understanding to the contrary, made by a workman with his employer, no workman shall be employed and paid at less than 20 cents per hour, irrespective of any amount earned at overtime."

No male under 18 or female under 21 should, according to Mr. Studholme, be allowed to work overtime. A saving clause is inserted to except agricultural labor and cases where all the persons employed are members of the employer's family. This measure is to apply to any contracts made by the Government, and would void such contracts if the provisions of the act were not carried out.

Team to Go Early.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The Canadian Bisley team will arrive in England in time for the coronation. It was decided at the meeting of the D. R. A. council yesterday afternoon that arrangements would be made to give the riflemen a chance to see this great ceremony. Since this takes place on June 22, the team will sail about the 10th of that month for Montreal. The Bisley matches start early in July.

May Reduce Charge.

Brantford, Feb. 28.—Gistoni Diarado, the Italian charged with "intent to murder" in connection with the stabbing affair in which Mike Gerenci, a Hungarian, was stabbed in the abdomen, was yesterday committed for trial in Police Court. It is likely that the charge will be reduced to one of felonious wounding, in which case the prisoner will come before Judge Hardy.

Bold Bank Robbery.

Clover, Va., Feb. 28.—Five armed men rode into town before daylight yesterday, blew open the safe of the Bank of Clover and escaped with $4,000 in cash. Residents aroused by the explosion, rushed into the streets, only to be met with a fusilade of shots from the revolvers of two of the men who stood guard outside the bank. No one was wounded.

An Athenian Invitation.

Brockville, Feb. 28.—The Presbyterian congregation of Athens has extended a call to Rev. W. W. Montgomery of Sombra, in the Sarnia Presbytery. The matter will be dealt with by the Brockville Presbytery at a meeting to be held here shortly.

RADCLIVE IS DEAD.

Notorious Executioner Is a Victim of Paresis.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Donald James Rattley, better known as "Radclive the Hangman," for over twenty years the public executioner of Canada, died Sunday at his home in Fern avenue, of paresis. After sending 150 men over the great divide, Radclive has at last gone the way of all flesh. He had not been actively engaged for some time, though he had never been retired, and Ellis, the present encumbent of the position, has been listed only as his assistant.

In later years his terrible task preyed upon Radclive's nerves, and since he hanged Pavalt Stefoff two years ago, he had not been able to perform his duties.

The late hangman's neighbors all speak well of him, and this is his greatest tribute, that those who lived nearest to him and knew him as a man as well as a hangman, remember him kindly as a good neighbor and a kindly man, who numbered little children among his friends.

The man followed many ways of life before he settled down to become the hand of justice which should carry out the law of a life for a life. He had been a sailor and had engaged in the whaling trade. He had been a grocer and a cook. He was chef for the Sunnyside Club just before he took his appointment from the Canadian Government.

One of his neighbors had this to say of him: "He was a generous man and would rather give you a dollar than beat you out of a cent." He has lived in the neighborhood for 25 years and his chief characteristics were his openheartedness and his iron nerve."

Radclive's own statement of his view of his job is interesting. He said once when asked what was making him shaky: "Plenty of trouble and a —— of a life like mine." When asked if its was getting on his nerves, he said: "Not the executions, but it is the —— twaddle of the people, either before or after. I get the —— thing off my mind as quickly as I can."

Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 28—Fifteen thousand beds of various sizes, styles and make, representing a value of approximately $150,000, were destroyed by fire in the four-storey warehouse of the Ives Modern Bedstead Co., 117 Queen street, yesterday afternoon. The warehouse is completely gutted, the fire, which originated in the second storey, ravaging it clear to the roof. The ground floor was occupied by the offices of the concern, while the three floors above were given entirely to the storage of manufactured beds.

The fire was a fierce one, due to the fact that the bedsteads in storage were covered with many wrappings of paper and in some instances with slight wooden slats intended for protection in shipping.

Within thirty minutes after the first alarm there were 27 individual streams at work and one water tower. The force for these was supplied by seven steamers of the highest power, some of which can eject 1,400 gallons a minute.

Two firemen were injured during the fire. One came in contact with a live wire while at work on a ladder, and was thrown to the ground. He was attended to by the surgeons of Notre Dame Hospital. Another, A. Gauthier, had his hand cut and was also patched up by the surgeons of Notre Dame. There were several men who received minor cuts.

SHOULD GET TOGETHER

Sir Wilfrid Is Willing to Have Senate Reformed.

When M. Y. McLean of South Huron Brings Up His Motion to Make the Senate Elective, the Premier Declares That He Is In Favor of a System of Electing Half—To Probe the Shoe Trust.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Reform, the Senate, the merits of the Quebec bridge plans and the announcement by the Minister of Labor that the "shoe combine" would be investigated under the provisions of the act of last session, and the resolution of Major Beattie to prevent Americans from flaunting their flag in public places in Canada without, or in an in an inferior position to the Union Jack, furnished the chief bill of fare of the House of Commons yesterday.

The motion of M. Y. McLean (South Huron) to make the Senate elective was dropped, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced his willingness to consider with the Opposition a plan whereby the Legislatures might elect a proportion of the members of the Upper House.

The discussion on the Quebec bridge brought out the opinion from the Minister of Railways that the "Scientific American's" criticisms were not worth considering. It was not so much of an authority.

The shoe combine investigation will be the first under the new act.

The flag resolution of Major Beattie was rejected because of technical flaws by a majority of 40.

A debate on the desirability of making the Senate an elective body was initiated by M. Y. McLean (S. Huron), who moved "That in the opinion of the House the Dominion Senate as at present constituted is not in accordance with the representative institutions of this country, and the Government should take the necessary proceedings to have the Senate made representative of and directly responsible to the people."

Mr. McLean did not think it would be a wise thing to abolish the Senate, as suggested by E. A. Lancaster, because it was a legacy left by the fathers of Confederation. It was designed to protect the minorities of the smaller provinces.

The existing body, he said, consisted of three classes: (1) Those who valued their seats as a respectable refuge, where they may spend their declining years at the expense of the country. (2) Those who valued them for social position and for the facility afforded of advancing their personal and business schemes; and (3) those who gave freely of their time and long experience for the benefit of the country.

An elective Senate, said Mr. McLean, would result in the abolition of the first two classes.

Mr. McLean went on to say that Canada should be divided into Senatorial divisions, each division covering several Commons' electoral constituencies. The Senators should be elected for a period of seven or ten years.

The electoral qualifications, he thought, should differ somewhat from that pertaining to the Commons. Electors should have a small property qualification, and should be compelled to go to the poll and deposit a ballot.

Mr. McLean had also a proposal to make in regard to the veto power of the Upper House, and it was that any bill passed on three successive occasions by the Commons should become law, no matter what the Upper House might think about it.

In closing the discussion Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that Mr. Lennox would no doubt be satisfied if he were to appoint nothing but Conservatives to the Upper House.

The Premier remarked that Mr. McLean's motion had one advantage over those which had preceded it, in plan of reform. He did not think, however, that a proposal for an elective system would meet with the approval either of the House or the country. Upper and Lower Canada had not found the elective system satisfactory.

In view of the experience of the United States, Sir Wilfrid did not think it would be wise to have the members of the Senate all elected by the Legislatures, but he said he was prepared to consider with the Opposition a plan whereby the Legislatures would be given the right to elect a proportion of the members of the second chamber. A reform of the Senate along these lines, he thought, would be more in keeping with our constitution than the plan proposed by the mover of the resolution.

Mr. McLean then withdrew his motion.

Arthur Meighen (Portage la Prairie) moved for a return including all documents and papers and information of every kind available touching on the methods and operations of trusts an combines in the United States.

He expressed the view that if these mergers were not checked they would become more powerful than Parliament.

Hon. Mackenzie King said that the Government had decided to appoint a special solicitor to assist complaining parties who seek to take action under the Combines Investigation Act. Much of the information was hard to get at. He had received word that the first order for an inquiry under the Combines' Act had been granted by Justice Cannon at Quebec for the investigation of the United Shoe Machine Co., an off-shoot of the American company of the same name. The enquiry would be proceeded with at once.

Citizens Are Happy.

Kingston, Feb. 28.—Pumping shore water was discontinued last night, repairs having been made to the valve in the intake pipe, the city getting good water again. The citizens are happy, as they do not take to boil d water.

BRIAND STEPS OUT.

Socialists Are Temporarily In Control In France.

Paris, Feb. 28.—The French Cabinet organized by M. Briand on Nov. 3rd last, resigned yesterday afternoon.

The abdication of the Briand Ministry leaves the Socialists in power, at least temporarily. Louis Malvy and Paul Meunier, leaders of the radicals, were jubilant at the success of their campaign against the Premier.

Aside from the political aspect of the situation, Briand's friends yesterday declared that there was a personal element in the surrender of the Premier. He has been the target not only of bitter oratorical attacks recently but within the last year two attempts have been made upon his life.

The Premier has been assailed from three sides: First and foremost, from the radical Socialists, who declared that Briand failed to carry out his radical pledges; secondly, from the wing antagonistic to the church, who charge him with failure in enforcing laws aimed at clerical organizations; and thirdly, from the labor element, who are angry at the harsh measures adopted by the Premier during the great railroad strike.

There is a great deal of speculation as to M. Briand's successor, five names being mentioned. Leading these is M. Poincarre, the others being M. Delcasse, M. Combes, M. Berteaux and M. Sarrien.

Powerful efforts are being exerted by President Fallieres to form a new ministry which will be able to unite the warring Republican factions as the chaotic conditions, which have existed for the past year, have given rise to much alarm.

The announcement of the Ministry's resignation was made yesterday, following the funeral of the late Gen. Brun, Minister of War in the outgoing Cabinet. It had been decided on Saturday that the Ministry should quit, but action was postponed until yesterday afternoon.

It is not thought possible that many, if any at all, of the last Cabinet, will have places in the new one. Announcement of the personnel of the next Ministry is expected some time this week.

The crisis may be of some duration as President Fallieres will hold conferences with the presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, who are his remaining advisers in such situations as the present. Both those officials are believed to have favorites in view for the Premiership.

Eve Wears Pajamas.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 28.—As a result of the efforts of Rev. J. A. McCuaig, a well-known purist, who recently made a tour through Albany's underworld, valuable oil paintings in a local saloon have been "done over" to conform with the rules of decorum and the mandates of the police. When the owner of the pictures was informed by officers Saturday that his paintings must either be "draped or removed," he hired an artist and put him to work. The result was startling. "Diana at the Bath," said to have been valued at $10,000, is no longer shocking. Diana herself has been clad in a bathing suit of brilliant hue, while her attendants wear suits of rainbow varieties. The man in the painting appears in a convict garb, wears a silk hat and smokes a pipe.

Another valuable work, "The Awakening of Adam," has been done over so that Eve wears a suit of blue pajamas and Adam a pair of overalls. Both have on boxing gloves.

"Call a Halt."

Washington, Feb. 28.—That the President and Congress shall "call a halt and take hands off" in the matter of the Mexican Revolution is the "demand" of certain residents of San Antonio, Texas. The demand reached the Senate yesterday in a petition bearing fifty signatures. The document was addressed to "the President of the United States Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives," and said in part: "There is not an honest, liberty-loving man knowing the cause of this revolution but who is heart and soul in sympathy with those revolutionists; we therefore demand that you call a halt and take hands off of same, and let old despot Diaz and the revolutionists fight it out."

Would Give Shorter Route.

Moncton, Feb. 28.—At a representative meeting of the Sackville, N.B., Board of Trade last Friday evening it was unanimously decided to favor the absorption of the New Brunswick and P.E.I. Railway by the Intercolonial. This branch road runs from Sackville to Cape Tormentine and is a good feeder for the Government road.

It is urged that a shortened service to Prince Edward Island could be maintained via Cape Tormentine, as the distance across the straits is only from seven to nine miles at this point. The Government steamers, it is claimed, would easily keep this route open in the winter.

Fielding Hung In Effigy.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—A effigy of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, hanging from some electric wires 25 feet above the ground, was the spectacle which greeted a number of Grand Trunk employes at the Point St. Charles yards, as they passed the corner of Knox and Hibernia streets, early yesterday morning on their way to work.

The effigy was draped in the Stars and Stripes, upon which was crudely painted in big black letters the name of the Finance Minister. The "body" was not "cut down" until 10 o'clock.

Garrison Mutinied.

Vienna, Feb. 28.—A news agency despatch from Constantinople reports that the Yildiz Kiosk garrison at the Turkish capital mutinied yesterday when ordered to Yemen, Arabia, to crush the native revolt. The despatch added that the mutineers, reinforced by a battery of artillery, were besieged in the palace barracks by loyal troops and that a fight was expected at any time. Grave fears are felt that the mutiny will extend to the entire Turkish army.

ALLEGE BREACH OF ACT

Men Say G.N.W. Was Breaking Alien Labor Law.

They Declare That the Places of the Twenty-Five Dismissed Telegraphers Are Being Filled by Men Brought In From American Points—Department at Ottawa Says It Is Unable to Do Anything.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Local officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union are up in arms against the Great North Western Telegraph Co. for alleged infringement of the alien labor law, and a thorough investigation of the methods employed by the company in importing men from the United States to replace those who were dismissed will, it is believed, be demanded by the Toronto men.

Two weeks ago 25 employes of the G. N. W. were served with notices of dismissal for taking part in organizing for higher wages, and of these six Toronto men and five Montreal men will leave the company's employ to-day. Twelve of the Montreal men were given two weeks' notice, but a week ago yesterday seven were reinstated.

To fill the vacancies thus created six men, it is alleged, have been brought over from Detroit and Buffalo to take the places of the Toronto men, and five from New York and Boston, to replace those dismissed in Montreal. The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, who have been championing the rights of the men, suspected that the G. N. W. were engaging these men in the States, and in so doing were violating the alien labor law.

A local official of the union complained to the superintendent of immigration at Ottawa, and drew attention to the fact that a telegrapher had been engaged in Detroit for employment in Toronto, to take the place of an employe dismissed by the Great North Western. The man's name was given to the Department with the additional information that he had been instructed to call at the G. N. W. office in Windsor for his transportation to Toronto.

"Ottawa, Feb. 24, 1911.

"Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt due course of your letter of the 21st inst. and to say in reply that the enforcement of the provisions of the alien labor law is left entirely to the local courts and aggrieved parties, and under the circumstances stated in your letter, I think it would be well for you to seek legal advice.

"I regret that I am unable to assist you in the matter.

"Your obedient servant,

"For superintendant of immigration."

The committee representing the men over the entire system will reassemble to-day, when it is expected the matter of taking action will be decided upon.

Passengers Escape Death.

Kingston, Feb. 28.—In a railway accident at inner diamond yesterday, 70 passengers had a miraculous escape. The Kingston & Pembroke express leaving the city at noon, was crossing the diamond, when a suburban train coming in from the junction over the Grand Trunk, ran into it. The engine crashed into the day coach of the Kingston & Pembroke train. The car turned over on its side and there was a panic, but luckily all the passengers were able to crawl out to safety. All were badly shaken up, some suffered scratches, but none were seriously injured.

The crew on the Kingston & Pembroke train claim the signal was up to give them right of way. One re[illegible] says the brakes on the suburban train engine failed to work. The engineer and fireman jumped in time to save themselves. The passengers in the G.T.R. coaches were badly jolted, but none injured. Several women fainted.

A short time after this accident, the Kingston & Pembroke engine smashed into the rig of John Duggan, a farmer of Pittsburg, at a crossing nearby. Duggan escaped, but his horse was killed.

Farmers Pleased, Says Leader.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Three prominent agriculturists—E. C. Drury of the Dominion Grange, J. B. Anderson of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, and T. A. Crerar of the Grain Growers' Co., Winnipeg—held a conference in the Walker House yesterday morning regarding reciprocity and Canadian farmers. These three gentlemen have been advocating reciprocity among the farmers of Ontario and the west and give the opinion that the feeling is almost unanimous for the proposed agreement. Mr. Drury has been addressing meetings of farmers in Peterboro and Prince Edward Counties twice a day for the past two weeks.

Cut His Baby's Throat.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Following a quarrel with his wife yesterday afternoon, Anton Scoscik killed his baby by cutting its throat with his razor. He then attacked his wife, and after severely wounding her, he cut his own throat, inflicting a probably fatal wound. The neighbors became aware of the tragedy when they saw Mrs. Scoscik run into the street streaming with blood and shrieking "My baby, my baby."

Fishermen Are Safe.

SEEKING A CAVE OF SILVER: STOCK COMPANY FORMED

Romantic Story Which Has for a Century Past Excited Residents in Section of Eastern Ontario—Search to be Made for Fabled Bonanza

KINGSTON, Feb. 27.— Not as attractive perhaps as Captain Kidd's treasure in tho Southern Seas, but possessing more interest to Eastern Ontario residents is the lost Meyer's cave of silver, located somewhere in the extreme rear of the county of Lennox and Addington.

Efforts are now being made to capitalize at $180,000, an expdoration company to search for the hidden wealth, as a result of a preliminary quest made by S. E. Scott and his cousin, M. W. Sills, of Napanee.

The story dates back about one hundred years ago, when Belleville was the tradng place for furs from the Indians. One Meyers was a storekeeper in Belleville, and become on very friendly terms with the Indians He had a son in poor health who spent four years trapping and hunting with them on the shores of Lake Missanaga.

While the Indians traded with Meyers, they from time to time produced specimens of solid silver, but would never tell where it came from. During the four years of young Meyers' stay with them he discovered the location.

Flame and smoke was noticed and rumbling sounds heard, and the Indians, being superstitious would not go near it, but Meyers explored and discovered a cave filled with the solid metal in great quantities. He broke a quantity of the metal off with a hatchet, about half a bag full, and started for Belleville. But the canoe was capsized and the metal was lost. He reached Belleville, but the Indian who reached Belleville died from pneumonia, and young Meyers burst a blood vessel and died in three days A minister, Frank VanTassel, remained until he died and took from him a description of the location of the cave Since that time, nearly one hundred years ago, search has been kept up for the cave.

Last fall, during the visit of a mind reader, to Napanee, S. E. Scott went to her and asked her if she was going to be successful in her quest for a mine She answered him "Yes." Inside of four weeks she said she would find the mine, which was only about three-quarters of a mile from where he was hunting for it. Later Scott, accompanied by his cousin, left for Missanaga lake, and did find a hatchet such as was used a century since, bearing the letter "M" rudely cut into it. Meyers said in his story he left his hatchet stuck in a spruce tree. As the place had been burned over some years ago and masses of stone and rock filled the hollow, they returned to Napanee secured a lease of the property, and took steps to form a jont stock company.

FIVE LOSE THEIR LIVES IN A FIRE

HAZELTON, Pa., Feb. 27.—Supposed to have been caused by the explosion of a lamp, fire durng the night burned two houses at Oneida, near here, occupied by Gabriel Gerotsky and Michael Slovak, Hungarians, and five members of the Gerotsky family lost their lives in the flames.

The dead are: Gabriel Gerotsky, 43 years old; Annie, 12 years; Mary 8 years; Michael, 4 years; Gabriel, 2 years. Mrs. Gerotsky and John, a crippled son, escaped.

The crippled boy was awakened from his sleep by the cracking of the flames. He and his mother went down stairs to investigate, but could see no fire and returned to the second floor to go back to bed. When they had returned to the top of the stairs the flames had eaten their way through to their home and shut off the sleeping members of the family, and they could not be reached. The Slovak family was awakened in time and escaped from their home in safety.

ical gentlemen, who, after citing a number of successful cases, says:

"Life is so interesting nowadays that young and old are tempted, even when confined by illness, to use their eyes for close vision every waking hour, thus permitting the eyes to consume far more than their share of energy.

"I have found depression, in conjunction with other methods of treatment, to be of great value, not only in my office practice, but at the bedside as well."

Only the long-confined invalid can appreciate the glow, the cheer and happiness that pervades the whole being when he is first wheeled in his invalid chair to the window, where he looks off at the sky, clouds and distant objects. This thrill of pleasure is continued, strength grows until the patient is able to take out-of-door exercise, which usually results in still further advancing health.

EVERY OFFICER WAS ARRESTED ON BOARD AN ATLANTIC LINER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Federal officers swept aboard a trans-Atlantic liner, when she made her pier this afternoon and arrested every man in authority from the captain down. All were charged with conspiracy to violate the United States immigration laws.

The steamship is the Athinai, of the Hellenic Trans-Atlantic Steamship Co whose general agent here also was placed under arrest. The Government charges that the company has been smuggling in aliens for more than a year, some of them disguised as members of the crew, some of them hidden about the ship in coal bunkers and elsewhere, until there was no danger of search.

Nikolas A. Galanos, the agent, was released under $20,000 bonds, and his confidential secretary in $15,000. Capt Gekas Kolouras was released in $10,000, as were his first officer, the chief engineer and Dr. Gerasimos Kiakovatos, the ship's surgeon. Three other officers were held in $10,000 bail each, and all the crew in $5,000 each. In all the Government required $195,000 bail Judge Chatfield set trial for March 1 The penalty for conspiracy is $10,000 and two years' imprisonment, either or both, and for violating section 8, of the immigration law $5,000 and two years, either, or both.

CITY TAX UPON THEATRES

Mr. John Griffin, lessee of the Carman Opera House, writes The Intelligencer from Toronto on the 24th of Feb. as follows:

The Editor of The Intelligencer.
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir: I notice by a recent advertisement in your paper that your City Council has passed a by law making the theatre license in the city of Belleville, $60.00 for 400 seats, and 25c. a seat for each seat after that Now you know that there is no opera house with a seating capacity so smal, as 400 seats. There is no other city in this country that charges anything like that for an opera house, and it is more than it is possible to pay. In Stratford the theatre license is $50.00 in Guelph, $50.00; in Toronto, $100.00 London, $50.00 and Ottawa, $50.00.

Hoping that you will call attention to this matter in your valuable paper I remain,

Yours truly,
JOHN GRIFFIN.

"MY BACK IS KILLING ME"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE

Backache means Congestion of the Kidneys. Dull ache in the back—sharp, shooting pains—headache and nervousness—mean that the Kidneys are overworked. The Bowels are constipated and the skin is inactive, so that the Kidneys are compelled to do the work of both bowels and skin in throwing off the waste of the body. The Kidneys thus become irritated and inflamed and backache results. The only possible way to relieve the congestion and cure the pain is to force the bowels and skin to do their share of the work.

"Fruit-a-tives", the great fruit medicine, is the best and most scientific Kidney Remedy in the world.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Pain in the Back and Kidney Trouble. 50c. box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. Dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

OPINIONS AND ATTITUDES ABOUT ANNEXATION

About annexation one opinion and two attitudes obtain in Canada. Nobody here wants it. Some publicist say it doesn't matter two straws whether the United States wants it or not. The rest of us say the attitude of the United States has everything to do with the question.

When Washington proposed negotiations to Ottawa there was no chorus of assent in Canada. We were content to go on in our own way, consolidating our nationhood, assimilating those who had come from beyond the Flag. Washington moved, and Ottawa moved accordingly; and now able men are fighting for something that please the people in the United States who desire to wean Canada from the Empire, far more than it praises anybody else.

Sir Edmund Walker said at Toronto that when the Americans disavowed the absorption idea as Secretary Knox did at Chicago, they had their tongues in their cheeks. Apparently Sir Edmund had not seen the speech made on the same occasion by Mr. J. J. Hill the railway magnate of the north-western states. I have read a verbatim report of it.

Mr. Hill, of course, disavowed the annexation idea; but showed his tongue in his cheek all the same. Annexation? Oh, dear, no. Prevention of Imperial Federation: Oh, dear yes. The Agreement is the only thing according to Mr. Hill, that will secure the United States the mastery of the trade between this continent and Great Britain. Let the present systems alone and such volumes of trade will roll along the north shore of Lake Superior that the United States will see the chief exports of this country in Canadian (which means Imperially Federated) hands.

You could not wish for a more explicit avowal of the desire to break Canada in two, before our brethren who do not as yet realize the splendor of the Empire into whose inheritance they have come, have time to partake of the British-Canadian Imperial spirit.

It is all very well to affect a pity for the loyalty of those who seriously apprehend this situation. But when ninety millions are playing against eight, and the commercial strength of component parts of an Empire is aimed at; it is time to be awake, to be jealous, and to fight for the channels of commerce that have made us what we are.—British News.

Don't Be Unreasonable

If You Neglect the Care of the Scalp You Should Not Expect Beautiful Hair.

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body.

In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to die and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in Newbro's Herpicide.

The dandruff germ cannot live on a head to which Herpicide is regularly applied. The germ dies. The hair ceases to fall. The terrible itching stops almost instantly.

That is what Newbro's Herpicide does. One dollar size bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Send 10c. in stamps for booklet and sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

THE RED YEAR

A Story of the Indian Mutiny

—By—

LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen

Thus Lawrence had scotched the snake, but like Wheeler at Cawnpore and many another in India at that time, he refused to kill it by disarming the native regiments under his command. Nevertheless they feared him. They dared not show their fangs in Lucknow. They stole away in companies and squadrons, glutting their predatory instincts by slaughter and pillage elsewhere before they headed for Delhi or joined one of the numerous pretenders who sprang into being in emulation of Nana Sahib. It was one of these rebel detachments that passed the four fugitives from Cawnpore on the outskirts of Bunnee. Scattered throughout the province they proved as merciless and terrible to wealthy natives as to the Europeans whom they met in flight along the main roads.

The chaos into which the whole country fell with such extraordinary swiftness is demonstrated by the varying treatment meted out to different people. Winifred and her uncle, under Malcolm's bold leadership, reached Lucknow with comparative ease. Poor little Sophy Christian, aged three, having lost her mother in the massacre of Sitapore, was taken off into the jungle by Sir Mountstuart Jackson, his sister Madeline, a young officer named Burnes, and Surgeon-Major Morton. They fell in with Captain and Mrs. Philip Orr and their child, refugees from Aurungabad, and the whole party experienced almost incredible sufferings during nine months. Mrs. Orr, her little girl and Miss Jackson did not escape from their final prison at Lucknow until the end of March, 1858. Sophy Christian, who was always asking pathetically "why mummie didn't come," died of the hardships she had to endure, while the men were shot in cold blood by the sepoys on November 16.

Yet in many instances the rebels either told their officers to go away or escorted them to the nearest European station, while the villagers, though usually hostile, sometimes treated the luckless sahib-log with genuine kindness and sympathy.

Mr. Mayne of course had his own house in the cantonment, which was situated north of the city, across the river Goomtee. Malcolm wished to see uncle and niece safely established in their bungalow before he reported himself at the Residency, but the older man thought they should all go straight to the Chief Commissioner and tell him what had happened at Cawnpore.

Threading the packed bazaar towards the Bailey Guard—that gate of the Residency which was destined to become for ever famous—they encountered Captain Gould Weston, the local Superintendent of Police, and his first words undeceived them as to the true position of affairs.

"You left Cawnpore last night!" he cried. "Then you were amazingly lucky. Wheeler has just telegraphed that he expects to be invested by the rebels to-day. Not that you will be much better off here in some respects, as we are all living in the Residency. I suppose you know your house has gone, Mayne?"

"Gone! Do you mean that it is destroyed?"

"Burnt to the ground. There is hardly a building left in the cantonment."

"But what were the troops doing? At any rate, you are not besieged here yet."

"We are on the verge of it. Unfortunately the chief won't bring himself to disarm the sepoys, and the city is drifting into a worse condition daily. Half of the native corps have bolted, and the rest are ripe for trouble at the first opportunity. The fires are the work of incendiaries. We have caught and hanged a few, but they are swarming everywhere."

"You say Wheeler has been in communication with you this morning," said the perplexed civilian. "Are you sure? It is true we escaped in the first instance from Bithoor, but Cawnpore was in flames last night and the Magazine in possession of the mutineers."

"Oh, yes. We know that. The one thing these black rascals don't understand is the importance of cutting the telegraph wires. Wheeler has thrown up an entrenchment in the middle of a maidan. I am afraid he is in a tight place, as he is asking for help which we cannot send. Well, good-by! Hope to see you at tiffin. Miss Mayne must make herself as comfortable as she can in the women's quarters, and pray, like the rest of us, that this storm may soon blow over."

He rode off, followed by an escort of mounted police. Malcolm, who had taken no part in the conversation, listened to Weston's words with a sinking heart. He had failed doubly, then in the mission entrusted to him by Colvin. Not only were his despatches lost, but he was mistaken in believing that the Cawnpore garrison was overpowered. He had turned back at a moment when he should have strained every nerve to reach his destination. That was intolerable. The memory of the hawk-nosed, steel-eyed officer who rode from Kurnaul to Meerut in twenty-four hours smote him like a whip. Would Hodson—the man who was prepared to cross the infernal regions if duty called—would he have quitted Cawnpore without making sure that Sir Hugh Wheeler was dead or a prisoner?

The answer to that unspoken question brought such a look of pain to Frank's face that Winifred, watching him from the carriage window, wondered what was wrong. She, too, had heard the policeman's statement and was greatly relieved by it. Why should her lover be so perturbed, she wondered? Was it not good news that the English in Cawnpore were at least endeavoring to hold Nana Sahib at bay? It was on the tip of her tongue to ask what sudden cloud had fallen on him when the carriage swung through a gateway and she found herself inside the Residency. The breathless greetings exchanged between herself and many of her friends among the ladies of the garrison drove from her mind the misery she had seen in Frank's stern-set features. But the thought recurred to her later and she spoke of it.

Now Malcolm had already visited Sir Henry Lawrence and told him the exact circumstances. The Chief Commissioner exonerated him from any blame and, as a temporary matter, appointed him an extra A.D.C. on his staff. But the sore rankled, and it was destined in due time to affect the young officer's fortunes in the most unexpected way.

Above all else he did not want Winifred to know that solicitude in her behalf had drawn him from the path of duty. So he fenced with her sympathetic inquiries, and she, womanlike, began to search for some shortcoming on her own part to account for her lover's gloom. Thus, not a rift, but an absence of full and complete understanding, existed between them, and each was conscious of it, though Malcolm alone knew its cause.

But that little cloud only darkened their own small world. Around them was the clash of arms and the din of preparation for the "fortnight's siege" which Lawrence thought the Residency might withstand if held resolutely In truth, there never was a fortification, with the exception of that four foot mud wall at Cawnpore, less cal involuntary target, the less chance is there of being hit. As soon as he reached the earth from the top of the wall he took to his heels and ran like a hare in the direction of some houses that stood near the Clock Tower.

He was fired at, of course, but missed, and the sepoys soon ceased their efforts to put a bullet through him because they fancied he was a deserter.

As soon as they saw his face they had no doubts whatever on that score Indeed, were it his unhappy lot to fall in with the British patrols already beginning to feel their way north from Bengal along the Grand Trunk Road he would assuredly have been hanged at sight on his mere appearance.

Chumru's answers to the questions showered on him were magnificently untrue. According to him the Residency was already a ruin and its precincts a shambles. The accursed Feringhis might hold out till the morning but he doubted it. Allah smite them!—that was why he chanced being shot by his brethren rather than be slain by mistake next day when the men of Oudh took vengeance on their oppressors. He could not get away earlier because he was a prisoner locked up by the huzoors, forsooth, for a trifling matter of a few rupees left behind by one of the white dogs who fell that day at Chinhut.

In brief, Chumru abused the English with such an air that he was regarded by the rebels as quite an acquisition They had not learned, as yet, that it was better to shoot a dozen belated friends than permit one spy to win his way through their lines.

Watching his opportunity, he slipped off into the bazaar. Now he was quite safe, being one among two hundred thousand. But time was passing; he wanted a horse, and might expect to find the canal bridge closely guarded.

Having a true Eastern sense of humor behind that saturnine visage of his, he hit on a plan of surmounting both difficulties with ease.

Singling out the first well-mounted and half-intoxicated native officer he met—though, to his credit be it said, he chose a Brahmin subadar of cavalry—he hailed him boldly.

HOW WEAK WOMEN

May Be Made Strong at Small Expense and no Risk.

There are hundreds of women in this vicinity, weak, thin, run-down, tired out and nervous. Such women need Vinol just as much as did Mrs. Jane Pepper, of 2307 Howard Street, San Francisco, Cal., who says:

"I have used Vinol for some time with particularly gratifying results. I was run-down, weak and debilitated, and my appetite was gone. After taking several bottles of Vinol I found my condition greatly improved, and do not hesitate to recommend Vinol to anyone similarly affected." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, but a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. J. S. McKeown.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—The market was steady at opening, with prices unchanged to ½d lower. The weakness in America was offset by a large decrease in local stocks here and smaller Russian shipments than expected. Following the opening, the market showed a hardening tendency, with some covering of shorts and lighter offerings. The strength in Buenos Ayres at the close on Saturday and less pressure to sell Argentine steamers, with a better general demand for cargoes, and firmer Australian offers, caused the advance.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Part of the responsibility for an advance in wheat to-day was blamed on the calendar. The rise followed covering by short sellers, who believe that March is an unfavorable month for them. Quite a rush of buying occurred, and the close was ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c higher than forty-eight hours before. Corn finished ⅛c to ¼c down; oats off ⅛c to ¼c to ⅝c, and provisions varying from 5c to 7½c dearer to 2½c decline.

Exporters.

Exporters were off in price from last Monday, on an average 20c per cwt., and in some instances 25c.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $6.90 to $6.10; but only six heifers, 1300 lbs. each, the best on the market, brought the latter price. Loads of good, $5.60 to $5.75, and one load, $5.87½; medium cattle, $5.30 to $5.45; common, $4.90 to $5.15; cows, $3.50 to $5.35; canners, $2.50 to $3; butcher bulls, $4.50 to $5.

Milkers.

There were few milkers and springers offered, and prices were unchanged at $40 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

A limited number of veal calves sold at $4 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The lamb trade was easier. Sheep, ewes, sold at $4.25 to $4.75; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $6 to $6.40.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.05; and $6.75 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 25 were 2400 cattle, 1080 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 400 calves. The supply on the market amounted to 975 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 1300 hogs and 125 calves.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being unchanged from a week ago. The attendance of buyers was fairly large, including some from Quebec; and, as they were all in want of some beef, the demand was good, and supplies of all grades were ample to fill requirements; consequently a fairly active trade was done.

Choice steers sold at 6¾c; good at 6¼c to 6½c; fairly good at 5¾c to 6c; fair at 5¼c to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 5c per pound. A few extra choice cows brought as high as 6c, and from that down to 3½c was paid for the commoner ones. Sales of extra choice bulls were made at 5¾c to 6c, and the lower grades at from 4c to 5¼c per pound.

The tone of the market for hogs was steady, and prices showed no change, as compared with those paid last Wednesday. The demand from packers was good, and supplies were ample, sales of selected lots being made at $7.50 to $7.65 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Owing to the continued small receipts of sheep and lambs, a stronger feeling has developed in the market, and prices have advanced. The demand is fairly good, and sales of sheep were made at 4½c to 5c, and lambs at 6¼c to 6½c per pound. The demand for calves was good, of which the offerings were small, and prices ruled high at from $4 to $15 each, as to size and quality.
